PAY IS RAISED.

Six Millions Go to Engineers.

More Than Fifteen Thousand Are Affected from Lakes to the Gulf.

Men Abandon Contention for an Eight-Hour Day on Railway Work.

Spirit of Compromise Prevails and Roads Concede Sight Test.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—After daily negotiations, which have lasted several weeks, western railroads today decided to give locomotive engineers increased wages aggregating between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000 annually. The increase will affect between 15,000 and 20,000 engineers on all railroads west of Chicago to the Pacific Coast, north to the Canadian border, and south to the Gulf of Mexico. The negotiations were carried on between a committee headed by Chief W. S. Stone of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and one of general managers.

APPLIES TO ALL CLASSES.

The advance will apply to all classes of engineers. On passenger locomotives the engineers will receive a 5-cent increase on a hundred-mile run. On freight engines the increase will range between 8 and 12 cents per 100 miles. In all the larger freight yards the switch engineers will receive additions of from 50 to 75 cents a day, with the assurance that they shall not be kept out more than twelve hours.

ABANDON EIGHT-HOUR DAY.

Apparently the spirit of compromise governed the negotiations, for the engineers have practically agreed to give up their contention for an eight-hour day—that is, between an eight-hour day, with respect to being credited with a run of 100 miles—have abandoned demands regarding pay for overtime and will not insist on their original demand with regard to sight competency of engineers. The switch engineers were refused an allowance of time and one-half for overtime in excess of two hours.

MARKS RAILWAY EPOCH.

This is the first time in railroad history that the demands of a labor organization have been considered by all railroads in a large territory. When the joint demand was first made the railroads refused to treat with the engineers as a whole, preferring to deal with them on each road. Chief Stone was firm, however, in his refusal to confer with the railroads except as a whole. The railroads finally agreed to appoint a committee, and the settlement would indicate that a new method of dealing with railroad delegations had been adopted. There are many details of the new wage schedule still to arrange, and the negotiations will last until next week.

RIPLEY ON CAR SHORTAGE.

Santa Fe Doing Everything Possible to Relieve Congested Conditions, Says Road's Head.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TOPEKA (Kan.) Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] President Ripley yesterday issued an exhaustive statement, regarding the car shortage, so far as it pertains to the Santa Fé.

He says the Santa Fé is doing everything possible to relieve the congested conditions. Since last January his company has ordered $4,000,000 worth of equipment, of which only about one-half has been delivered, owing to manufacturing plants being overcrowded with orders.

President Ripley says the best remedy for existing conditions is to let the railroads alone, and give them a chance to get their heads above the water.

"If the railroads are not hampered by restrictive legislation," says Ripley, "and if they can maintain their credit, relief will soon be in sight. But if confidence in railroad property as an investment is destroyed, and there is no way of raising more money, the conditions will grow worse instead of better."

"COPPER KING" SUED.

Epes Randolph Wants $300,000 from W. C. Greene for Eight Thousand Shares of Stock.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

EL PASO (Tex.) Jan. 12.—W. C. Greene, the Cananea copper king, has been sued in Cochise county, N. M., for $300,000 by Epes Randolph, president of the Gila Valley, Globe and Northern Railroad, and of the Cananea, Yaqui River and Pacific Railroad, for 8000 shares of stock of the Cananea Central Copper Company.

The other defendants are Lycurgnis Lindsay and the Cananea Central Copper Company.

OBITUARY.

J. L. Snelling.

NEWTON, (Mass.) Jan. 12.—J. L. Snelling, late United States appraiser of the port of Boston and for many years a well-known New York man, died at his home late last night, aged 42. In 1904 President Roosevelt appointed Mr. Snelling appraiser for the Port of Boston. Mr. Snelling resigned last year to engage in the cotton commission business.

Jacob Gruen.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 12.—Jacob Gruen, one of the oldest wine importers in the West, died at his home early today from apoplexy, aged 71 years.

NEW NEVADA SMELTER.

To Treat Ores of Cumberland Ely and Nevada Consolidated Companies.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Announcement was made today of the formation of a $10,000,000 smelting and mining company, which is controlled by the Cumberland Ely and the Nevada Consolidated Copper Companies. It is called the Steptoe Smelting and Mines Company.

The new smelting company will treat the ores of these two copper properties, located in Nevada, the stocks of which are largely owned by the Guggenheim Exploration Company. In this way the new smelting company becomes indirectly a subsidiary concern of the American Smelting and Refining Company.

ALL MONTANA IS SNOWBOUND.

WORST BLIZZARD IN TWENTY YEARS IS RAGING.

Coal Is Doled Out in Small Quantities—Stockmen Fear Cattle Are Dying on Ranges—Trains Are Stalled—Ground Is Covered With a Mass of Ice.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

HELENA (Mont.) Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Montana is experiencing the worst blizzard in twenty years, and the situation is becoming alarming.

In Great Falls today the Boston & Montana Smelters turned over to local dealers 400 tons mine run of coal, that were stored at the smelters, and public notice was given that it will be dispensed in small lots, but as the snow is drifted so badly in the streets, deliveries are very slow.

All mines are being run to their full capacity, but there is a shortage of cars.

The blizzard followed a Chinook that has softened the deep snow on the ground, and the ranges are covered with a mass like ice. The temperature all day has been at zero or below throughout Northern Montana, and tonight the mercury is still falling. It has reached 15 below in Helena.

Range conditions are especially bad in Northern Montana, the ground having been covered with snow since November, and local stockmen fear heavy losses in that section unless a Chinook should come within forty-eight hours.

Glasgow announces that there is not a freight train on the grade northeast of that place, and passenger trains are from twenty-four to fifty hours late.

North of Chinook and north of Glasgow in Canada the conditions are the worst in many years, and hundreds of antelope have been seen at those towns, having been driven out by bad weather.

SENDS INDIAN TO THE SENATE

KANSAS SELECTS FIRST ABORIGINAL TRIBESMAN.

Senator Charles Curtis Works His Way Up from Kaw Papoose, Vagrant Newsboy, Hack Driver and Lawyer to Enrollment Among Conscript Fathers of His Country.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Kansas is to have the distinction of being the first State to be represented in the United States Senate by an Indian, Charles Curtis, who has just been nominated by the Republican legislative caucus for Senator. He is an aboriginal American. He is one of the few remaining members of the Kaw tribe of Indians.

Curtis and his children received allotments when the Indian lands were parceled out by the government. He is a self-made man. In his youth he was in turn newsboy on the streets of Topeka, peanut "butcher," jockey and cab driver.

He gained a smattering of law by hard study while driving a hack and was admitted to the bar. He was elected County Attorney and later sent to Congress mainly through the vote of those who had been his patrons in his youthful business ventures. He will begin his six-year term on March 4.

He has been a member of the House of Representatives for fourteen consecutive years.

MUNICIPAL PLANT FAILS.

Logansport Pays One-third More Than Neighbors for Electric Service Not Half so Good.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LOGANSPORT (Ind.) Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The municipal ownership experiment here has been so disastrous it may require legislative investigation to bring the city out of its tangle.

The electric light plant established by the city in 1894 has now cost $204,000. The public does not mind this expenditure, but the service is wretched, employees indifferent and rates exorbitant.

Investigation in other cities where private enterprise operates electric systems shows that Logansport is paying at least one-third more for service that is not one-half as good.

Men who hold fat offices under municipal ownership are fighting every attempt to permit outside competition. Recently a responsible company was formed and desired to bid for service, but it was turned down although it agreed to furnish better service at about half the price citizens are now paying.

It is now proposed to take the matter to the Legislature and pray for relief.

ROOT IS VISITING.

Fisheries Question Is Mooted as the Reason of Unusual Demonstration.

Secretary Says It Clears Up Every Pending Question With Britain.

Wife and Daughter Accompany Statesman on His Amiable Mission.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OTTAWA (Ont.) Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Secretary of State Elihu Root, together with Mrs. and Miss Root, will arrive in Ottawa next Saturday, January 19, and until January 23 will be the guests at the Government House of the Earl and Countess Grey.

It is supposed here that Secretary Root comes empowered to treat for a final and amiable settlement of the fisheries question.

Officials here claim that the visit is only a social one, but it is alleged in many directions that Root and the Governor-General will at least informally discuss important international questions. The party will be tendered a dinner at the Government House, but other details are not arranged yet.

Secretary Root himself told a correspondent that his visit would be social, not official, but the correspondent gives reasons why he thinks that the visit will assist to a settlement of the various questions outstanding between the United States and Canada.

He says that if after the visit it is possible for Secretary Root and the Dominion to construct a treaty broad enough to withstand assaults from the existing different forces, the trip may result in forever removing the causes of ill feeling between the two countries and may, in Root's words, "clear up every pending controversy with England."

WANTS LAWSON FOR ORPHEUM.

MANAGER OFFERS HIM HIS OWN TERMS FOR "STUNT."

Says Boston's Irrepressible Financier Can Select His Own Topic for Ten-Minute Monologue and Ends With Pickwickian Suggestion to Give Price to Charity.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BOSTON, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Thomas W. Lawson received today an offer to go into vaudeville for sweet charity's sake. The offer comes from Manager Perry G. Williams of the Orpheum Theater. In a letter to Lawson Williams writes that he appreciates the fact that no financial offer he could make would influence Lawson, but proposes the following:

"If you will consent to give a ten-minute talk or monologue on the stage of the Orpheum on such topic or topics as you may select, each afternoon and evening for the week beginning Monday, January 21, or Monday, January 28, I will pay to any charity you may designate, such figure as we may mutually agree upon I will arrange so that you need not be away from your office during business hours and plan programme at your own convenience."

FORTY STARVE IN THE ARCTIC.

NINE WOMEN AND SIX CHILDREN ARE IN PARTY.

Revenue Cutter Rush Sails to Bring Relief to Sufferers at Yakataga. Secretary of Treasury Is Informed of Plight of These Northern Castaways.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—The Secretary of the Treasury has received from Sitka, Alaska, a copy of a telegram dated Juneau, January 10, from the commander of the revenue cutter Sitka, in which he says he has received a cablegram from Deputy Marshal Waddell at Catella, Alaska, to the effect that forty persons, including nine women and six children at Yakataga are short of provisions, and that some of them are sick. The telegram adds:

"Prompt assistance is necessary. Can you send revenue cutter to remove or take provisions. All are able to pay. Twenty-five tons of provision for Yakataga at Kayak Highlands, but no boats are available for winter service. I have notified Gov. Hogatt to take the matter up with the authorities at Washington."

In response Acting Secretary Edwards telegraphed Capt. Ainsworth of the Revenue Cutter Rush that unless other arrangements can be made to assist the people at Yakataga, he should proceed with his vessel. In response to this telegram the department, late today, received a telegram to the effect that the Rush had sailed.

ANGELENA PLEASES CRITICS.

She Takes Leading Role at Boston Song Recital and Makes Her Record as Songstress.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BOSTON, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The leading number on the programme of the public recital this afternoon given by the pupils of the New England Conservatory of Music was that given by Miss Gladys Richey of Los Angeles. She sang Handel's air, "He Was Despised" from the "Messiah," with much deep feeling and expression, her voice showing range, quality and excellent training. She scored a success, winning high praise from the critics present, who expressed strong confidence in her musical future.

RIOT LEADERS PAY BY DEATH.

DRAMATIC ENDING OF ORIZABA AGITATORS.

Are Placed on Smoldering Debris of Building They Had Caused to Be Wrecked, and Shot by Soldiers Amid Public Demonstration—Many of Strikers Return to Work.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CITY OF MEXICO, Jan. 12.—Late advices from the Orizaba strike district are to the effect that 5562 of the 7083 men who were out have returned to work. Swift punishment was inflicted upon the leaders in the late rioting. Just how many men were executed is not known, but seven of the ringleaders were shot today before hundreds of witnesses. The shooting of these leaders, among whom were Rafael Moreno, vice-president, and Manuel Juarez, secretary of the workingmen's organization, was dramatic. It occurred at 5:35 o'clock of the morning that the thousands of half-starved strikers determined to return to work.

The factory whistles were blowing and throngs of men were about to enter the open doors, when they saw a squad of soldiers leading the condemned men to the ruins of the stores that had been razed by the mob. Placing the men on the piles of smoldering rubbish, the soldiers stepped back and the volley that followed closed this dramatic chapter of the strike.

The throngs of dazed workmen who unwittingly witnessed the executions waited until the smoke cleared away and then entered the mill. Later a workman, who apparently had been drinking, came to the door and shouted "Death!"

Instantly he was fired on and killed by a squad of soldiers. All of the executed men were speedily buried.

Great excitement prevailed last night in Santa Rosa, Rio Blanco and Nogales when word was given out that all the houses in those settlements would be searched for stolen goods.

TERRORISTS FIGHT POLICE.

Conspirators Kill Four and Wound Three of Searching Party in St. Petersburg.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 12.—Desperate fighting between police and workmen occurred in the Okhta quarter of this city last night during a domiciliary search. When the police appeared five workmen who were in the building extinguished all lights and opened fire on the police. The latter responded and the fusillade continued for some time. The workmen finally retreated after killing two district inspectors and two policemen and wounding three policemen.

A quantity of firearms was discovered in the house.

It transpired later that the five men who fought the police were leaders of the revolutionary fighting faction.

The incident occurred during the investigation into the assassination of Gen. Pavloff. A detachment of twenty police surrounded the house and had just broken in the door when the revolutionists suddenly fired a volley at them, and during the confusion which followed, made a dash for the door and escaped, maintaining a running fire for some distance. Over a hundred arrests have been made in connection with the assassination of Gen. Pavloff. The capture of a clerk belonging to the engineer corps was considered to be so important that an entire company of infantry was detailed to make the arrest.

KING HEARS LECTURE.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—The appearance tonight of the Duke of Abruzzi before the Royal Geographical Society was attended by King Edward and other members of the royal family as a mark of Great Britain's consideration of the House of Savoy. The Duke's description of his ascents of unexplored snowy peaks in Central Africa brought enthusiastic demonstrations from the geographers.

BUYING CORNWALL TIN.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—The great tin centers of Cornwall are agitated over a report that an American syndicate is buying up the richest tin mines there. A representative of the syndicate, it is said, has been in Penzance for some weeks. The report has been confirmed.

AMERICAN LIFE ORGANIZES.

NEWARK (N. J.) Jan. 12.—The American Life Insurance Company was organized here today. The president of the new company is John E. Boone, Sr., of New York and the secretary, Francis E. Stevens of New York.

HILL GIVES $50,000.

MINNEAPOLIS (Minn.) Jan. 12.—J. J. Hill, president of the Great Northern, has given $50,000 to McAlester College, on condition that the productive endowment fund be raised to $200,000.

LOW BID RECEIVED ON PANAMA CANAL.

Knoxville and New York Contractors Agree to Dig Big Ditch for Less Than Seven Per Cent. on Estimated Cost—Only Four Bids Offered.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Proposals opened by the Canal Commission today for the entire construction of the Panama Canal were as low as had been expected by the experts on canal construction work.

For some time it has been known that several members of the commission believed 7 per cent. on the estimated cost of construction would be a fair remuneration for a contractor under the form prepared by the commission.

The lowest proposal, that of William J. Oliver of Knoxville, Tenn., and Anson M. Bangs of New York City, who offered to do the work for 6.75 per cent. on the estimated cost, is lower than had been expected.

Granting that the estimate of $140,000,000 for the construction of the canal, which has been frequently spoken of in Congress, is accurate, the remuneration of the Oliver-Bangs combination would be $9,450,000 in case it was to be awarded the contract. Much discussion has been caused by the great difference in the only four bids received, as they range from 6.75 to 28 per cent.

William J. Oliver and Anson M. Bangs have been in the contracting business for many years, and the statements they furnished with their proposal show that they have done much important work.

Oliver states that he has completed $18,100,000 worth of work in ten years, and now has $31,500,000 worth of work in progress. He gives his assets at $3,000,000.

Bangs gives his assets at $2,000,000, and states that he was the contractor for the Soo lock at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Delaware breakwater and Buffalo breakwater, the contract price for each of these being $2,500,000.

The other bids received were from George Pierce & Co., of Frankfort, Me., and New York City, who offered to do the work for 7.19 per cent., upon the estimated cost, the North American Dredging Company of Los Angeles, Cal., which offered to do the work for 28 per centum of the estimated cost, and the MacArthur-Gillespie Company of New Jersey, whose bid was 12.5 per centum.

The contracts provided that each bidder shall undertake the entire work of construction. No bar was offered to corporations associating in the undertaking, but they were required to be legally organized into a single body, with which the government can deal.

The commission did not limit to American contractors the right to put in bids. The actual work of constructing the canal is to begin sixty days after signing the contract, and the contractor will take over all employees on the Isthmus which the commission does not wish to retain. It is also provided that no American employé is to work more than eight hours.

There is no time limit for the completion of the canal. The percentage system of payment was adopted because this method is being employed increasingly by the most successful corporations in the country.

WILL SOON PROBE COAST LINES ALSO.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Although it has not been authoritatively stated, the probabilities are that the investigation into the Harriman system will be extended to Portland, San Francisco and Los Angeles. It already has been announced that an inquiry will be conducted at Seattle, to which city Commissioner Lane is now proceeding. Blank subpoenas are being prepared at the commission to be forwarded to the proper officials and filled out with the names of witnesses as fast as they are needed.

CONGRESS MAPS REFORM.

TENTATIVE PLAN IS PREPARED.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—A dispatch to the Tribune from Washington says: It developed yesterday that leading members of the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce have been preparing a tentative programme of railroad legislation for consideration by Congress at its next session. This programme contemplates further governmental supervision of common carriers of the country. It calls for:

An investigation by the two houses of Congress of the relations between organized labor and the railroads with especial reference to the number of accidents which occur annually.

Consideration of the question whether the government can supervise stock issues, such as those recently made by the St. Paul for $100,000,000, the Great Northern for $60,000,000 and as now proposed by the Pennsylvania for $200,000,000.

The establishment of a flat rate for railroad passenger service.

HARBOR A GRAFT.

San Diego Senator to Probe Into It.

Would Investigate Conditions at the Four Principal Coast Ports.

San Francisco Dockage Rates Declared to Be Highest in the World.

Sensational Disclosures May Follow Proposed Legislative Action.

BY B. FRANK GREAVES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Senator Wright of San Diego will introduce a concurrent resolution early next week, calling for an immediate investigation of the conditions prevailing at harbors of the State, at Eureka, San Francisco, San Pedro and San Diego; to recommend improvements that may be necessary and to plan for financing future permanent improvements.

The resolution calls for the appointment of five Senators and five Assemblymen to make the inquiry, under authority to send for persons and papers, and to issue subpoenas.

Conditions prevailing at the harbor of San Francisco, especially, have called for this action, which is in line with recommendations made by Gov. Gillett in his inaugural message.

It is alleged that the San Francisco harbor charges for dockage, and for all other accommodations for shipping are the most exorbitant of any in the world, and that commerce suffers thereby, as well as the interests of the State.

Just what may be the cause of the conditions existing at San Francisco is not intimated, but it is predicted that if the legislative investigation be made some sensational disclosures may be expected.

TO LENGTHEN LEASES.

Los Angeles real estate dealers are deeply interested in the fate of a bill that is to be introduced early next week by Assemblyman Pierce of that city, providing that ninety-nine-year leases may be made of real estate, thus repealing the present fifty-year limit.

Those who are supporting the measure maintain that it is progressive in its intent, and that it will be of great value in the development of downtown property especially. Little opposition to the proposed bill has developed as yet, and as some of the prominent realty dealers of the State favor it, there seems little likelihood of its failure of adoption.

BARBER'S COMMISSION.

Another bill that is to come up early is one providing for the resurrection of the barbers' commission, which was legislated out of existence after a short life that gave more or less prominence to "Corney" Pendleton of Los Angeles, a former State Senator. Under the proposed law, barbers would be compelled to pass an examination as to their skill. Its provision will be so strict, it is said, as to run out of business some of the hundreds of "lady barbers" of Los Angeles, many of whom are more gifted in the art of blandishment than in the use of razor and scissors.

WALTER LEEDS'S BILL.

Assemblyman Walter Leeds of Los Angeles will be sponsor for a bill appropriating $60,000 for a California exhibit at the Jamestown Exposition, to be opened April 26, at Norfolk, Va. The measure provides that the Governor shall appoint at once two commissioners to the exposition, one from the Northern and one from the Southern section of the State, each to receive $250 a month, and a secretary at $200 a month.

As the time is short in which to make preparations, and as exposition projects are in good favor, it is expected that immediate action will be taken.

The usual effort is to be made at this session to induce the Legislature to give the people an opportunity to vote on a constitutional amendment granting equal suffrage to women. Thomas C. Hayden of San Francisco is here working in the interest of the Equal Suffrage League of California, which is backing the bill.

BELL TO REMAIN?

Despite the decision of Judge West of Orange county, throwing out a large number of non-partisan ballots, it is the belief here that the votes cast for Senator C. W. Bell of the Thirty-sixth District, are involved to such an extent as to affect his seat in the upper house of the Legislature. However that may be, advices have been received that former Senator Hahn of Pasadena, who was defeated by Bell, will not make a contest, so that Bell will remain safely in his place.

The opinion still prevails that the Republican majority in the Senate will vote to admit Bell to their caucus, although the Caucus Committee reported that he is not entitled to admission. Bell has made so many friends among the Republicans that they are disposed to treat him with every consideration; but Bell is amply able to care for himself, in or out of caucus, and it probably makes little difference to him, admitted or excluded.

Gov. Gillett, after three days of strenuous work at the capitol, laid down the cares of office long enough to run down to San Francisco to visit his wife and young son, who are patients at the Lane Hospital, and who are reported to be progressing favorably toward recovery.

NO SALARIES YET.

A loud howl was raised today by the 500 attachés of the Senate and Assembly when they found that no provision had been made for paying their first week's salary, amounting in the aggregate to $14,000. The Legislature had adjourned for the week without making an appropriation for this important purpose. This was pretty tough on the army of pap-suckers, for the greater number of them had come here at great expense and were obliged to face two more lean days before they could draw down any of the State's money.

With but a few exceptions, none of this hungry mob has performed any service, as yet their appointments date from the opening day of the Legislature and they are to be paid for all that idle time, together with much more to come.

The complaint was most bitter among the horde of leeches from San Francisco who were forced to remain in Sacramento.

STENOGRAPHERS SCARCE.

Although there were hundreds of attachés in the city, Senators and Assemblymen who wanted stenographers to aid them with their correspondence were unable to find them, and were compelled to postpone important business, though the stenographers were paid for their holidays.

Barney Healey, Jr., of Los Angeles, who was dismissed from the Los Angeles fire department a few days ago, did not have to wait long to drop into another snap. Although the son of the Eighth Ward Councilman was declared to be a trouble-breeder among the firemen, he was considered good enough to work for the State at a much better salary, so he has been placed on the attachés roll of the Senate at $4 a day for the rather uncertain duties he will be called upon to perform, as a committee sergeant-at-arms.

PARDEE'S LAST TRICK.

Politicians awoke to the fact today that Gov. Pardee turned a clever trick on the eve of his departure from office that will prevent Gov. Gillett from making quite a number of more or less important appointments before the expiration of his term. Included in the appointments are those of two building and loan commissioners, attorney for the State Board of Health, and trustees of a number of State institutions.

In issuing the commissions for these places, Gov. Pardee dated them January 7, to extend for the statutory term of four years, which means that they will expire on January 7, 1909, which will be two days, at least after Gov. Gillett's successor shall have taken office. Thus the present Governor will have nothing to do with filling these offices unless, of course, vacancies should occur.

Whether Gov. Pardee had the calendar before him when he dated the commissions, or just happened to jump by accident entirely over the head of his successor, is a matter only of surmise, but there appears to have been a deal of grim humor in it, and something that sounds like a Pardee chuckle.

TOTEMITES IN SACRAMENTO.

FENNESSY AND HAY AMONG ADVANCE GUARD.

Some of Schemes to Be Fostered by State Labor Unions, Which Will Have Strong Lobby at Capital During Present Session—Legislature Not Cowed by Threats.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Union labor, in spite of its overwhelming defeat at the polls at the recent State election, will have a strong lobby at Sacramento during the present session in the interest of various measures aiming at a "closed shop" State.

The advance guard already is on the ground, and two of the greatest agitators of them all arrived today in the persons of "Red" Fennessy and Arthur Hay of the Typographical Union of Los Angeles. "Andy" F. Furuseth of the Sailors' Union of San Francisco was here already.

Hay and Fennessy spent the day principally among the local printers and fraternized particularly with the employés of the State Printing Office, which is dominated absolutely by the unions.

One of the first acts of organized labor will be to club the State into buying no goods of foreign or convict manufacture, and into demanding that the union label appear on all supplies purchased for the use of the Senate and Assembly, in conformity with a resolution introduced by Senator Marc Anthony of San Francisco.

The prospect is, however, that the Legislature will not be cowed by the threats of the totemites, mainly because the last election determined where the sympathies of the unions lie.

It is hardly to be expected that a Legislature overwhelmingly Republican will do much in the way of bowing to an aggregation that combined against Republican success at the polls, and which, even in alliance with the Democratic party, failed to carry the election.

But this does not diminish the arrogance of the unions. They are ready to leap into the fray and absolutely demand that the State do as they require, or suffer the "consequences," whatever the latter may be.

The conspicuously weak showing of the laborites at the polls has given greater courage to legislators, who once were bluffed into an awe of union power, and because of this courage they will resist the ridiculous orders of the Ruefs, Schmitzs, Hays, Fennessys and the rest of the gang.

It is evident from the expressions of many of the legislators that they do not intend to be bulldozed by this band of bluffers. They will point to the strong labor union support of Theodore Bell for Governor, and will ask the laborites how they can expect any subservience on the part of the political party they did their utmost to defeat.

Then the lawmakers will proceed to transact business on the merit of requests made upon it and will give no heed to the demands of the totemites.

CALIFORNIA LEGISLATURE

THIRTY-SEVENTH SESSION.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 12.—There was no session of the State Legislature today, both houses having taken an adjournment until Monday. Most of the members have left the city until that time.

Assemblyman N. C. Coghlan of San Francisco has prepared a concurrent resolution to present in the Assembly, relative to the exclusion of undesirable Asiatics. This means that the report shall be excluded if a resolution from this Legislature, presented to the representatives in Congress, will do it.

Assemblyman J. J. Burke has several bills he will introduce that, while not important, will make State laws of ordinances now in vogue in many cities. One is relative to dead animals in streets and vacant lots, making it a misdemeanor under the State Code. Another is prohibiting spitting on the sidewalks. A third bill provides for additional help in the State Board of Health office.

Lieut.-Gov. Porter said today that he would not name the Finance Committee of the Senate until later in the session. He says he has no names for that committee from which to make it up, and will carefully go through the list of membership before deciding whom he will place on this importnat committee.

Speaker R. L. Beardslee of the Assembly was asked what special legislation his district required and would ask.

"There is only one thing that will be asked," said the presiding officer of the Assembly. "We want good roads and want them badly. Not that our roads are worse than any others, but we want the best that can be had. I think that one or two roads from the northern to the southern boundary of the county, together with cross roads from east to west, should be built. Place these in road districts and have them built by the districts and kept in repair. I am for good roads first, last and all the time, and I think this will be what the delegation from my section wants."

Having adjourned Friday shortly before noon for a period of three days, the members of the legislative body in nearly every instance have left the city and are spending the time previous to getting down to work in looking over the surrounding country.

Chief Clerk Clio Lloyd of the Assembly is the authority for the statement that the number of bills introduced Monday will undoubtedly be greater in both the upper and lower houses than on any previous occasion. It is the opinion that the total number of bills to be presented Monday will hardly fall under the 200 mark, and may reach as high as 250 in the Assembly alone.

"At the last session bills were introduced on Fridays, while at this session, Monday having been chosen, the members will have several days in which to frame additional bills, should they so desire, and if I'm not misinformed, a great many will take advantage of this opportunity," said the Chief Clerk of the Assembly to a representative of the Associated Press, in speaking of the situation tonight.

Senator Sanford of Mendocino has prepared a resolution attacking President Roosevelt and denouncing Secretary Metcalf in regard to the part taken by them in connection with the segregation of Japanese school children in San Francisco.

It particularly denounces Metcalf's report on the situation and alludes to it as being biased and incorrect.

RAILROAD SUFFERS HEAVILY BY THE STORM.

Much of the Track Along a Fourteen-Mile Stretch Is Washed Out and County Road Is Also Impassable—Work Trains Not Able to Get Into the Vicinity.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SANTA BARBARA, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The storm raised havoc on the line of the Espee "coast line of a thousand wonders." The facts of the conditions of the railroad company, with the despoliation of fills and cuts, has made the company sit up and guess. First reports tell but in a meager manner the true conditions that exist. From Naples to Gaviota, for a distance of fourteen miles, the tracks are in a deplorable condition, and it will take many days to relieve the situation. The railroad situation is much worse than was reported heretofore, and it will be several weeks, perhaps months, before it can be placed in as good condition as before the storm.

It will require several days before even temporary repairs can be made, permitting trains to run at slow speed. The 400-foot fill which originally required many months to complete, at Tajaguas, twenty-four miles west of Santa Barbara, is washed out. For a distance of seventy feet the twenty-five-foot high fill has been taken away and washed into the sea, and it will require many days before this can be replaced.

The flood waters could not be carried off through the big stone culverts, and something had to give way. The fills went out. Nothing has been done to replace them up to this time, as it has been impossible to get a work train within miles of the break, and it is also impossible to get teams there.

There was a long fill, close to the county road, between the Refugio and Corral Cañons, and ninety feet of this was washed into the sea, taking the county road with it for the same distance.

This will require many weeks to replace. Even a temporary structure or fill will take several days after the construction crew succeeds in getting to it. Nearly every fill and cut between what is known as the Hazzard place and Baron's rancho is washed out or filled to such an extent that it is impassible even on foot. It is understood that the construction trains will reach Naples on the south, and Gaviota on the north tomorrow, leaving a distance of fourteen miles of road that has not been touched by the wrecking crews.

The county road which parallels the railroad tracks for most of the distance between Naples and Gaviota is in an impassable condition. Five bridges between Gaviota and Baron's, a distance of seven miles, have been washed out, and two bridges as far south as Naples are gone. The big bridge at Hazzard's crossing is out. Shorter fills and cuts are badly washed and even stone culverts have been displaced by the force of the flood.

RANCHERS LOSE HEAVILY.

Ranchers along the Coast as far north as Gaviota lost heavily by the late storm. Most of their houses and outbuildings were built in cañons, as a protection against the wind and many barns and sheds were washed away, carrying with them hogs, sheep, chickens and other poultry, and in some instances cows and horses.

Bruno Orella of the Refugio lost a lot of hogs and chickens. A. C. Ware, a Naples rancher, does not know what loss he sustained among his cattle and horses that were on the ranges. He says he saw a cow and a horse, besides many hogs and chickens, carried down the stream by his house. Out of six of his horses which were in the cañon he has only been able to locate one, but he believes the rest are on high ground. He says that along the beach at the mouth of the cañon he saw a dead horse, some cows and a number of hogs, but cannot estimate how many were carried out to sea.

Mr. Eddy, who leases a part of the Refugio Rancho, and who lives at the ranch house, deserted his home with his family and sought high ground during the height of the storm, but when he returned he found that his house had not been reached by the flood waters.

Others who lived in the cañon nearer the mouth left their homes, which were flooded. One of the barns at the Baron place, with twenty tons of hay, was carried into the sea. In another barn, where several horses were kept, it was only after great difficulty that some of the horses were taken out. Some were three feet in mud and slime. Two four-horse wagons were in a shed and are buried in mud.

BOSTON ENTERTAINS KAHN.

BOSTON, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Congressman Julius Kahn of California is to be one of the principal guests at the annual Lincoln Night banquet of the Middlesex Club here on February 12, at the Hotel Brunswick. Among the other guests and speakers will be Gov. Hughes of New York; Congressman Watson, Indiana, and William H. McKelvey of the Brooklyn Eagle. The largest gathering ever attending a Lincoln Night is expected.

PITH OF NEWS FROM THE MIDDLE WEST.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] At noon today all that remained of last night's snowfall was a slush churned ankle deep in the streets. From the minimum of 33 deg., the temperature advanced to 41 deg. in the afternoon. The entire Ohio Valley experienced a series of midwinter thunderstorms due to a current of warm air flowing northward from the Gulf region.

PUTS LID ON CHICAGO.

Following the filing of thirty petitions for writs of mandamus to compel Sunday closing of hotels and club bars within the loop district, fifteen petitions were filed today against Mayor Dunne and the theaters in Chicago. The petitions for writs of mandamus are the second strenuous effort being put forth to clamp a heavy lid on Chicago town.

SENDS MURDER JURY HOME.

Adopting a course unique in the history of criminal trials, Judge Kavanaugh today gave permission to the jury in the Knudson wife murder case to go to their homes over Sunday. It was stated by the attorneys in the case that this course was most unusual in a murder trial, but no objection was raised.

TO SIDETRACK DOLLIVER.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DES MOINES (Iowa) Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Senator Dolliver's reëlection to the United States Senate by the Legislature which convenes Monday was attacked from a new point today, and tonight an effort is being made by one of faction "standpatters" and the progressionists to nominate Gov. Cummins in caucus over Dolliver by ballot and thus relieve the progressionists from only voting against Dolliver, whom they have agreed to support.

The "stand-pat" element is split over a contest on the Federal appointments. Trouble commenced today when the Federal District Attorneyship for Northern Iowa was dragged into the Senatorial fight, and the followers of both Cady Chase and John M. Tobin are here to demand of Senator Dolliver his promise of support.

MILLIONAIRE IS DIVORCED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PITTSBURGH (Pa.) Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] William H. Donner, a millionaire steel man, announced today that he and his wife are now divorced, she having obtained a decree in Cleveland, O., on December 24 last. According to Donner, the divorce was granted on the grounds of "gross neglect of duty."

The couple have been separated for two years. At the time of the separation an agreement was entered into by which the father retained the absolute custody of his three children, the wife receiving a large sum of money, said to be $200,000. The suit was not contested and Mrs. Donner was the only witness to testify.

GOES OVER TO ROME.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

HAMILTON (O.) Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Rev. Frederick Lloyd, a widely known Episcopal clergyman, has left that church and will enter the Roman Catholic mission work in Chicago. He was recently appointed Episcopal Bishop of Oregon, but the appointment was withdrawn.

KANSAS CITY, Jan 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Representatives of the Universities of Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa and Wahington University of St. Louis met here today and formed an athetic association.

GIVE COCAINE TO NEWSBOYS.

Seattle Dives Make Youths Alkaloid Fiends.

Messenger Employer Teaches Six to Use Drug.

Chinese Highbinder Starts a Row in Oakland.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Startling disclosures of newsboys and messenger boys looking on and sharing in vice in saloons and houses in the restricted district of the city have been made within the past few days, following the arrest of C. Conley, manager of the Hurry Messenger Company, who is charged with teaching six of his boys the use of cocaine, and which made them confirmed users of the alkaloid.

The boys have been telling on one another, and when Chief of Police Wappenstein learned the boys were becoming opium and cocaine fiends and were sharing in vice, he issued an order prohibiting all newsboys and messenger boys under 18 years of age from entering any of these places. All messenger call boxes have been ordered out of houses in the restricted district.

ITALIAN IS ARRESTED.

CLAIMED ROYAL RELATIONSHIP.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

GREAT FALLS (Mont.) Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Dominic Remladi, an Italian, was arrested here on the suspicion that he is insane. He can scarcely speak any English, but, through interpreters, it was learned that he professed to be a cousin of King Emanuel, and that he was en route to his fatherland.

On his person was found a ticket to Naples, together with a sum of money. He told his auditors that he was going back to visit his uncle. Not developing any alarming symptoms, he was permitted to start on his journey today. The local Italian colony is unable to confirm or deny the report of his alleged relationship with the sovereign.

HIGHBINDERS' MELEE.

ONE CHINAMAN KILLED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

OAKLAND, Jan. 12.—One Chinese was killed and four wounded in a Highbinder outbreak in Chinatown last night. The trouble opened with the assassination of Lee Book Dong, a capitalist. Dong was shot while he was seated at the supper table in his home.

Two Chinese were admitted to the room where Dong was eating, and each fired one shot from a revolver and disappeared. Both bullets struck Dong. He died almost instantly. A short time later the fusillade commenced in the Chinese quarters. The killing of Dong seemed to have been the signal for a general battle. Before the shooting ceased four more Chinese had been shot and more or less seriously wounded.

"SQUAW MAN" MURDERED.

BODY CUT INTO PIECES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

DENVER, Jan. 12.—A dispatch from Lender, Wyo., says: George Terry, head of the Shoshone Indian Council, was murdered Thursday night as he came out of the Council Lodge on the Indian reservation. He was first knocked down with a war club, and his body was then cut to pieces with knives. The murder is supposed to be the outcome of a family feud. Suspicion points strongly to several Indians. Terry was a half-breed son of the formerly-famous Mormon bishop, Terry, of Utah. He was a squaw man, and had lived on the Shoshone reservation for more than twenty-five years.

CRIME BRIEFS.

Wronged Man Demented.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—James Dowdill, alias Sutton, who served nearly a month in San Quentin Prison on the positive identification by Former Coroner Leland that he was the man who robbed him and afterward was released on the confession of Siemsen and Louis Dabner that they committed the crime, was taken to the Emergency Hospital today acting in a queer manner, and believed to be insane. He will be examined for his sanity.

Shoots His Wife.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Harry Schnellberger, a saloon-keeper after a quarrel with his wife today in their home in Jersey City, shot and killed her. He then killed himself. The tragedy took place in the presence of Schnellberger's 11-year-old daughter, the oldest of six children.

Councilman Guilty.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 12.—William A. Martin, a member of the Common Council of this city, was found guilty today of soliciting a bribe in connection with a proposed franchise granting the Pittsburgh and Tube City Railroad an entrance to Pittsburgh. Martin was recommended to the extreme mercy of the court.

STEAMER DRIVES ASHORE.

SEATTLE, Jan. 12.—The steamer Transport was driven ashore at West Seattle today and a strong gale threatens to break her to pieces before assistance is available. Several tugs have made efforts but cannot reach the beached steamer. The deckhouse has already been demolished.

World Fair Rug Collection Brought to Los Angeles.

Many Los Angeles people who visited the World's Columbian Exposition at Chicago will remember the magnificent collection of antique rugs brought to this country, specially for the occasion. These gems of the Orient were owned by Hagop Effendi, representative of the Sultan of Turkey, and were said to be the most beautiful specimens of ingenuity and skill in weaving and color blending ever brought to America. It appears that shortly after the exposition, Effendi died and from that day till very recently the sale of these rugs has been prevented by litigation pending the compromise of Effendi's heirs. Through the efforts of Messrs. Louderback & Clark of this city these rugs have finally been released and brought to Los Angeles. News is current that they are to be offered for sale as soon as a suitable sale place can be secured. These are the real antique rugs of rarest quality and their arrival in Los Angeles will arouse interest among lovers of the antique.—[Adv.

FLASHES FROM WIRES.

The Boston grand jury yesterday reported no bill against Wilson H. Fairbanks, former Massachusetts commissioner to the Lewis and Clark Exposition at Portland, who was charged with forgery in connection with the accounts of his office.

Dr. T. B. Beatty, secretary of the Utah State Board of Health, in his annual report on health conditions in that State, recommends that legislation be passed to prevent the marriages of people mentally deficient and incapable of the burdens of the marriage state.

Against the opposition of the court, King Alfonso yesterday at Madrid authorized the opening of a Protestant chapel in connection with the palace, for the benefit of Princess Henry of Battenberg, mother of Queen Victoria, who is the King's guest, pending the confinement of the Queen.

It is stated that the government of Argentina has in contemplation the raising of the Washington Legation to the rank of an embassy. The United States has intimated that it is agreeable to the change. A special law will have to be passed here, authorizing the higher diplomatic rank.

Dr. Von Lecoq of the Berlin Ethnological Museum, who some time ago made discoveries of Buddhist antiquities in Northeast Turkestan, has arrived in Berlin. His most precious discovery, he says, consisted of fifteen chests filled with manuscripts in no fewer than ten languages. These with other articles dug out of sand are relics of a highly cultured and artistic people that once inhabited those regions.

The suit of George Crocker of San Francisco for the recovery of $20,000 paid to Dr. Doyen for treating Mrs. Crocker for cancer in 1904, was heard yesterday before the district tribunal of the Seine, in Paris. Crocker contends that the doctor exercised "veritable moral violence" in making him believe it was possible to cure his wife, and further Crocker claims that the results proved the inefficacy of the Doyen serum.

William T. Stead, in the course of his international peace programme, proposes an international pilgrimage of peace in which notables from over the world would take part, to start from the United States for The Hague by way of London, Paris and Rome, and to arrive at The Netherlands capital at the time the second peace conference meets there. Stead says he believes that such a pilgrimage would exercise the greatest moral influence ever produced.

SHRINERS HOLD THEIR REUNION.

MYSTICS OF NORTH AND SOUTH MEET AT FRESNO.

Motley H. Flint and George Filmer Head Temples from Los Angeles and San Francisco—More Than One Hundred Novitiates Are Initiated and Banquet Follows.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

FRESNO, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The first ceremonial session under the joint auspices of the Islam Temple of Northern California and the Al Malaikah of the southern district took place here this evening at the Barton Operahouse. It was virtually a reunion between the Mystic Shriners of San Francisco and Los Angeles, although contiguous representation was made at the meeting.

The temples were headed by Illustrious Potentate Motley H. Flint for Los Angeles and George Filmer of San Francisco.

During the parade through the business section of the city numerous runaways were prevented by bystanders who held horses along the line of march while the festive bombs were exploded.

Following the installation a banquet was held in the local skating rink, with covers for 400. The storm conditions existing at Santa Barbara, Ventura and Oxnard prevented Al Malaikah members from participating. Among the impressive ceremonies was the presentation of two massive gold keys by Mayor W. Parker Lyon, symbolizing an open sesame to the city.

COMPROMISES INSURANCE CASES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—The Department of State today received the following cablegram from Ambassador Francis at Vienna: "In accordance with instructions from the department, I actively coöperated with the committee representing the San Francisco policy holders by discreet unofficial intervention with the Minister for Foreign Affairs. A compromise agreement was reached last night and signed by the Austrian-Phoenix Insurance Company, which the latter recommends to the San Francisco claimants."

DISBAR'S MITCHELL'S PARTNER.

SALEM (Or.) Jan. 12.—The Supreme Court of Oregon today suspended Judge Albert H. Tanner from practice of the law for unprofessional conduct in swearing falsely of his relations with the late United States Senator John H. Mitchell, who was his law partner. Certain mitigating circumstances were taken into consideration by the Supreme Court in reaching this decision.

ARRESTS CHINESE TONG MAN.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—Detectives arrested at the Ferry this morning a Chinese, Ah Yue, who is supposed to be the leader of the Tong war that broke out in Oakland last night and the assassin of Lee Dook Dong. With him was a Chinese woman, Ah Gee, who is supposed to have been the cause of the shooting.

PHELAN HAS CLOSE CALL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Ex-Mayor James D. Phelan had a narrow escape in a mishap of his auto on Market street today. While speeding downtown his chauffeur swerved to avoid a team. The auto skidded across the car tracks in front of an Eddy-street car, and the motorman's promptitude in stopping saved the ex-Mayor's life, for the machine crashed into the front of the trolley car and was badly wrecked.

Several friends were with the ex-Mayor in his machine, and all were hurled forward by the violence of the collision, but none were injured.

The Western Pacific tried to stop the proceedings by a legal process after midnight, but that company's local attorney also represents the Northern Electric Company, so communication with the head offices in San Francisco had to be established. In the meantime, the electric road people are in possession.

TWO TRAINS COLLIDE.

OPEN SWITCH THE CAUSE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

AUBURN, Jan. 12.—A collision occurred on the Southern Pacific at the Auburn depot at 4 o'clock this afternoon the east-bound Overland Limited running into west-bound train No. 211, which was on a side track.

Brakemen had left a swith open in the yard near the depot where train No. 211 was standing. There were two engines on the Overland, and one on the freight and all were badly smashed up. The crews of all the engines miraculously escaped with a few scratches and bruises. None of the passengers on the Limited was injured.

BADLY BATTERED BONANZA.

CAPTAIN IS INJURED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—Battered and buffeted for days by tremendous seas, and with her captain confined to his bed from injuries received while battling with wind and waves, the bark Big Bonanza, which it was feared had foundered with all on board off the coast of Oregon, crept into this port this afternoon under her own sail. Capt. Cameron and his crew had a hard battle to save their ship after the vessel was cast adrift by the tug Samson. The Big Bonanza left here January 1 in ballast and in tow of the tug Samson for Astoria. Rough weather was experienced and in a terrific gale when near Cape Flattery January 6 the hawser parted, or was cut.

SON KILLED BY LIVE WIRE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN JOSE, Jan. 12.—Mrs. Anna M. Keane, mother of Mae Keane, the actress, today brought suit against all the local telephone and telegraph companies to recover $35,000 damages for the death of her son, Fred W. Keane, who was killed by a live wire in this city January 13 last.

SLOPE BRIEFS.

To Seek Appropriation.

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 12.—The special committee of the River Improvement and Drainage Association of California held a meeting in this city today. The Legislature will be asked for an appropriation of $40,000 to complete topographical surveys in the Sacramento Valley, and also to appropriate $25,000 for hydrographic work and $15,000 for the use of the Department of Agriculture in ascertaining the best method of distributing and using the waters of the State.

"The Snark" Is Launched.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—Jack London's boat, "The Snark," in which he plans to make a tour of the world, was launched today at Anderson's shipyard, near the Union Iron Works. The boat is a yawl thirty feet in length. London and his wife, and other members of the party who will accompany him on his voyage, witnessed the launching.

Coast Division Yet Blocked.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—Train service on the coast division of the Southern Pacific system is still completely blocked by the washouts. At the offices of the company, today, it was stated that no trains will be able to make the run through to Los Angeles before Tuesday next. The most serious break is at Soledad, where there is a washout twenty feet wide and 100 feet long.

May Probe Land Frauds.

PORTLAND, Jan. 12.—The sudden and unannounced transfer into California by a departmental order of Interior Department Inspector Thomas B. Neuhausen and a staff of six special agents of the General Land Office has caused a lively stir in land fraud circles, and the move is looked upon as an indication of the purpose of the administration to renew the investigation into land frauds with vigor.

Sound Steamer Doomed.

SEATTLE, Jan. 12.—The Sound steamer Alice Gertrude, owned by the Puget Sound Navigation Company, struck on the reef at the entrance to Clallam Bay at about 10 o'clock last night. She is lying 200 yards from the beach and the heavy swells are pounding her to pieces. Lines were shot ashore from the Lyal guns and the crew saved.

CAPITAL AND LABOR MEET.

Conference in Home of Mrs. Potter Palmer.

National Civic Federation Has Unique Session.

Seth Low and August Belmont Among Speakers.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The common cause of capital and labor, their inherent community of interest, was the thesis developed tonight by the National Civic Federation at the home of Mrs. Potter Palmer in the Lake Shore Drive.

The gathering, which was designed to promote a more disinterested and humane study of industrial problems throughout the West, is unique in the history of Chicago, where labor and capital have fought out in the past some of their bitterest and most relentless struggles for supremacy. That good may flow from this informal meeting of the captains of industry with the men who make up the rank and file of the vast industrial army was the hope expressed by all who attended the conference tonight.

Those who attended, hoping for the establishment of a western branch of the National Civic Federation, which may act as a peace-making body, found much to congratulate themselves upon in the tone of labor leaders and capitalists, who by their presence virtually pledged themselves to work for the promotion of harmony between the employer and the employed.

The conference was of men who, by their energy and superior sagacity, have accumulated vast fortunes; of the representatives of organized labor; of celebrated economists, of theorists, of philanthropists, and of those who, by disinterested effort, have bettered, in a practical way, the condition of workingmen in the mills and factories of America.

The setting of the conference of labor with its employers emphasized its importance. It was a setting of beauty, representative of no time or place, but expressive of the best impulses which have struggled to expression in part in all the ages—an impulse, absolutely democratic.

It was not with a sense of the fitness of things that Mrs. Palmer chose to hold this gathering in the famous gallery of the Palmer House. It was a tribute to the tact which their hostess employed that the meeting was absolutely without restraint.

Over 500 guests and delegates attended the meeting. It was presided over by Franklin McVeagh, and was attended by prominent business men and labor leaders from many parts of the country. The speakers were August Belmont and Seth Low of New York; W. S. Stone, grand master of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; Daniel J. Keefe, president of the International Longshoremen's Association, and W. S. Mahon, president of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railroad Employés.

Belmont took for his subject "The National Civic Federation," while Low spoke on "The Conciliation Department."

After giving several instances of the work of the conciliation department in preventing threatened strikes, Low said in part:

"It is the policy of the conciliation department to do its work privately. People often never know that the Federation has had a hand in settling disputes that are peaceably adjusted. We do our work in the profound belief that the American man, whether employer or workingman, desires to do the fair thing. We believe that if we can get fair-minded men together, and discuss a definite question of disagreement, in ninety-nine cases out of one hundred, both sides will find the middle path between the two extremes."

The typhoid epidemic is on the wane at Scranton, Pa., but the announcement is made that epidemics of diphtheria and scarlet fever are threatened. Twenty-three cases of the former and nineteen of the latter are reported there.

Every Possible Skin Eruption Cured In Marvelously Quick Time by the New Calcium Treatment.

SEND FOR FREE SAMPLE PACKAGE TODAY

Boils have been cured in 3 days, and some of the worst cases of skin diseases have been cured in a week, by the wonderful action of Stuart's Calcium Wafers. These wafers contain as their main ingredient the most thorough, quick and effective blood cleanser known, calcium sulphide.

Most treatments for the blood and for skin eruptions are miserably slow in their results, and besides, many of them are poisonous. Stuart's Calcium Wafers contain no poison or drug of any kind; they are absolutely harmless, and yet do work which cannot fail to surprise you. They are the most powerful blood purifier and skin clearer ever discovered, and they never derange the system.

No matter what you suffer from, pimples, blackheads, acne, red rash, spots, blotches, rash, tetter or any other skin eruption, you can get rid of them long before other treatments can even begin to show results.

Don't go around with a humiliating, disgusting mass of pimples and blackheads on your face. A face covered over with these disgusting things makes people turn away from you, and breeds failure in your life work. Stop it. Read what an Iowa man said when he woke up one morning and found he had a new face:

"By George, I never saw anything like it. There I've been for three years trying to get rid of pimples and blackheads, and guess I used everything under the sun. I used your Calcium Wafers for just seven days. This morning every blessed pimple is gone and I can't find a blackhead. I could write you a volume of thanks, I am so grateful to you."

You can depend upon this treatment being a never-failing cure.

Just send us your name and address in full, today, and we will send you a trial package of Stuart's Calcium Wafers, free to test. After you have tried the sample and been convinced that all we say is true, you will go to your nearest druggist and get a 50c box and be cured of your facial trouble. They are in tablet form, and no trouble whatever to take. You go about your work as usual, and there you are—cured and happy.

PHELAN HAS CLOSE CALL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Ex-Mayor James D. Phelan had a narrow escape in a mishap of his auto on Market street today. While speeding downtown his chauffeur swerved to avoid a team. The auto skidded across the car tracks in front of an Eddy-street car, and the motorman's promptitude in stopping saved the ex-Mayor's life, for the machine crashed into the front of the trolley car and was badly wrecked.

Several friends were with the ex-Mayor in his machine, and all were hurled forward by the violence of the collision, but none were injured.

roads. The Western Pacific tried to stop the proceedings by a legal process after midnight, but that company's local attorney also represents the Northern Electric Company, so communication with the head offices in San Francisco had to be established. In the meantime, the electric road people are in possession.

TWO TRAINS COLLIDE.

OPEN SWITCH THE CAUSE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

AUBURN, Jan. 12.—A collision occurred on the Southern Pacific at the Auburn depot at 4 o'clock this afternoon the east-bound Overland Limited running into west-bound train No. 211, which was on a side track.

Brakemen had left a swith open in the yard near the depot where train No. 211 was standing. There were two engines on the Overland, and one on the freight and all were badly smashed up. The crews of all the engines miraculously escaped with a few scratches and bruises. None of the passengers on the Limited was injured.

BADLY BATTERED BONANZA.

CAPTAIN IS INJURED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—Battered and buffeted for days by tremendous seas, and with her captain confined to his bed from injuries received while battling with wind and waves, the bark Big Bonanza, which it was feared had foundered with all on board off the coast of Oregon, crept into this port this afternoon under her own sail. Capt. Cameron and his crew had a hard battle to save their ship after the vessel was cast adrift by the tug Samson. The Big Bonanza left here January 1 in ballast and in tow of the tug Samson for Astoria. Rough weather was experienced and in a terrific gale when near Cape Flattery January 6 the hawser parted, or was cut.

JAPANESE STEAMER IN.

FUKIN MARU BRINGS LOAD.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—The Japanese steamer Fukin Maru, the first Japanese freighter to enter into competition with the German, British and American tramps between the Orient and the Pacific Coast, arrived in this port today with a cargo of sulphur and logs from Japan. The Fukin Maru is said to be the forerunner of a line of freighters from Japan.

MOTHER WANTS DAMAGE.

SON KILLED BY LIVE WIRE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN JOSE, Jan. 12.—Mrs. Anna M. Keane, mother of Mae Keane, the actress, today brought suit against all the local telephone and telegraph companies to recover $35,000 damages for the death of her son, Fred W. Keane, who was killed by a live wire in this city January 13 last.

SLOPE BRIEFS.

To Seek Appropriation.

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 12.—The special committee of the River Improvement and Drainage Association of California held a meeting in this city today. The Legislature will be asked for an appropriation of $40,000 to complete topographical surveys in the Sacramento Valley, and also to appropriate $25,000 for hydrographic work and $15,000 for the use of the Department of Agriculture in ascertaining the best method of distributing and using the waters of the State.

"The Snark" Is Launched.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—Jack London's boat, "The Snark," in which he plans to make a tour of the world, was launched today at Anderson's shipyard, near the Union Iron Works. The boat is a yawl thirty feet in length. London and his wife, and other members of the party who will accompany him on his voyage, witnessed the launching.

Coast Division Yet Blocked.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—Train service on the coast division of the Southern Pacific system is still completely blocked by the washouts. At the offices of the company, today, it was stated that no trains will be able to make the run through to Los Angeles before Tuesday next. The most serious break is at Soledad, where there is a washout twenty feet wide and 100 feet long.

May Probe Land Frauds.

PORTLAND, Jan. 12.—The sudden and unannounced transfer into California by a departmental order of Interior Department Inspector Thomas B. Neuhausen and a staff of six special agents of the General Land Office has caused a lively stir in land fraud circles, and the move is looked upon as an indication of the purpose of the administration to renew the investigation into land frauds with vigor.

Sound Steamer Doomed.

SEATTLE, Jan. 12.—The Sound steamer Alice Gertrude, owned by the Puget Sound Navigation Company, struck on the reef at the entrance to Clallam Bay at about 10 o'clock last night. She is lying 200 yards from the beach and the heavy swells are pounding her to pieces. Lines were shot ashore from the Lyal guns and the crew saved.

PRESIDENT URGES FEDERAL CONTROL.

Believes the Imperial Valley Should Be in the Reclamation Service.

In Message to Congress on Colorado River's Break He Scores California Development Company, and Says Government Should Acquire Rights and Build Irrigation Works—Valley Opposes Plan.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

IN HIS MESSAGE to Congress on the Colorado River-Imperial Valley water difficulty the President, after a lengthy review of the situation, recommends:

(1.) That, as the only practicable course, the Southern Pacific continue to close the break and restore the river to its channel, and the government later take charge, make the protective works permanent, and provide for their maintenance, the question of monetary remuneration to the railroad to be considered later.

(2.) That the Reclamation Service be authorized to take steps at once for the construction of an irrigation project for the valley, the United States to acquire the rights of the California Development Company and its subsidiary corporations in this country and Mexico upon terms to protect both the government and the water users; that the United States should obtain, by convention with Mexico, the rights to carry water through that country.

In summing up the causes leading to the present trouble the President scores the California Development Company, declares that the enterprise and the spirit of its promoters were visionary, its resources not properly applied, and the making of the unprotected first cut in the river on Mexican soil criminal negligence.

He says if the break is not closed before the coming spring flood it appears highly probable that all the property values, farms and towns will be wiped out, and ultimately the town of Yuma, the great railroad bridge and the costly government works at Laguna Dam will be sacrificed. Seven hundred thousand acres, fertile as the Nile Valley, would be left a desert. "Now or never," is the purport of the message.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—The President today sent to the Senate a message urging some action by Congress toward remedying the situation caused by the break in the Colorado River, four miles below the international boundary line in Mexico, and which threatens the property interests in the Imperial Valley of California.

The President's message contains a long review of the situation, and says that prompt action must be taken, otherwise the conditions will become so extreme as to be impracticable of remedy. Probably with an expenditure of $2,000,000, he says, the river can be restored to its former channel and held there indefinitely. He says that at present there appears to be only one agent equal to the task of controlling the river, namely, the Southern Pacific Railroad. The question of what, if any, should be paid to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company for work done since the break of November 4, is one for future consideration, he declares. He says: "The Reclamation Service should be authorized to take steps at once for the construction of an irrigation project, under the terms of the reclamation act, for the lands in the Imperial Valley and in the lower Colorado River Valley."

TEXT OF THE MESSAGE.

The message says:

"The Governor of the State of California and individuals and communities in Southern California have made urgent appeals to me to take steps to save the lands and settlements in the sink or depression known as the Imperial Valley or Salton Sink region from threatened destruction from the overflow of the Colorado River.

"The situation appears so serious and urgent that I now refer the matter to Congress for its consideration, together with my recommendations upon the subject.

"Briefly stated, the conditions are these:

"The Imperial Valley, so called, in San Diego county, Cal., includes a large tract of country below sea level. Southeast of the valley and considerably above its level is the Colorado River, which flows on a broad, slightly elevated plane, upon which the river pursues a tortuous course, finally entering the Gulf of California. The lands in the Imperial Valley are 200 feet or more below the level of Colorado River. Down as far as the border they are protected from inundation by low-lying hills. South of the boundary in the republic of Mexico, the hills cease abruptly and only the broad low mud banks of the river protect the valley from being converted into an inland sea or lake. In order to get any water to this tract of fertile land, or on the other hand to protect it from too much water, works of supply or of protection must be built in Mexico, even though they may lap the river in the United States. The United States can neither aid nor protect the interests of its citizens without going upon foreign soil.

"Nature has through many centuries protected this great depression from overflows, but the restless river has annually threatened to break through the banks. Only a little human aid was needed to cause it to do so. This condition has been long known and through many years schemes have been discussed either to convert the Salton Sink area into a lake or to irrigate the desert lands below sea level by making a cut in Mexico through the west bank of the Colorado River. It was also well understood that if the cut in the bank was not carefully guarded the river would quickly get beyond control. Finally, after many trials, the California Development Company actively undertook the work. To insure the safety of Imperial Valley, the head of the canal on the river was first placed on United States territory, near where the river was bounded by hills. The canal then swung southwest and west away from the river through Mexican territory to connect with the natural depressions leading to the valley and back into the United States. The organizers of this company, in order to carry on the work in Mexico, acting under Mexican laws, caused to be created a subsidiary company.

"The money thus obtained from settlers was not used in permanent development, but apparently disappeared, either in profits to the principal promoters or in the numerous subsidiary companies which to a certain extent fed upon the parent company or served to obscure its operations. The history of those deals is so complicated that it would require careful research extending through many months to unravel the various ways by which the money and securities have disappeared. In brief, it is sufficient to state that the valuable considerations which were received from water rights were obviously not used in providing necessary and permanent works for furnishing water to the settlers. Concessions were granted to this company by the Mexican government and provision was made for the employment of a Mexican engineer to be appointed by the Mexican government to see that the project was properly carried out. The dangerous character of the attempt was thus recognized in this concession.

EXTRAVAGANT CLAIMS.

"The California Development Company began its work by making representations to possible settlers of the great profits to be derived by them by the taking up of this land. The claims were not only extravagant, but in many cases it appears that wilful misrepresentations were made. Many of the operations of this company tended to mislead uninformed settlers. At first the success of the company was great and it disposed of water rights at prices sufficiently large to obtain fair revenue, either in cash or in securities of value.

"The whole enterprise and the spirit of those promoting it as well as of the numerous smaller speculators attracted to the subsidiary offer were of the most visionary character. Actual investments have been small compared to the estimates of wealth which seemed possible of realization. The company entered upon its construction work with large plans, but with inadequate capital. All of its structures for the control and distribution of water were temporary in character, being built of wood and of the smallest possible dimensions. Through the efforts thus made a large amount of land was brought under cultivation and at one time it was reported that over 100,000 acres were being more or less irrigated.

CRIMINAL NEGLIGENCE.

"The first heading of the canal of the California Development Company was made in the United States immediately north of the Mexican border. It was found after a time that the heading on the American side of the line did not give a grade to furnish sufficient flow of water and after headings had been opened at other points without successful results, a cut in the river bank was made four miles farther down in Mexican territory. This gave the water a shorter and steeper course toward the valley. The making of this cut in a bank composed of light soil above a depression such as this, without controlling devices, was criminal negligence. This short cut on Mexican soil was made in the fall of 1904. It was gradually eroded by the passage of the water, and in the spring of 1905 the floods of the Colorado River entering the artificial cut rapidly widened and deepened it until the entire flow of the river was turned west down the relatively steep slope into the Imperial Valley, and thence into what is known as the Salton Sink, or Salton Sea."

"After the mischief became apparent strenuous efforts were made by the California Development Company to close the break, but without success. Finally, the Southern Pacific, finding its tracks imperiled and traffic seriously interfered with, advanced money to the California Development Company, receiving as security a majority of the shares of the company, and thus took charge of the situation.

"By means of the facilities available to the Southern Pacific, the break in the west bank of the Colorado River was closed on November 4, 1906. A month later, however, a sudden rise in the river undermined the poorly constructed levees immediately south of the former break, and the water again resumed its course into the Salton Sea.

"NOW OR NEVER."

"The results have been highly alarming, as it appears that if the waters are not checked it will cut a very deep channel, which, progressing upstream, will result in conditions such that the water cannot be reverted by gravity into the canals that are built along the Imperial Valley. If the break is not closed before the coming spring flood of 1907, it appears highly probable that all of the property values created in this valley will be wiped out, including farms and towns. Ultimately, the channel will be deepened in the main stream itself up to and beyond the town of Yuma, destroying the homes and farms there, the great railroad bridge, and the government works at Laguna dam.

"It is impossible to estimate how many people have settled in the valley, the figures varying from six thousand to ten thousand. It is also difficult to ascertain how much money has actually been expended in real improvement. Town lots have been laid off, sold at auction, and several hundred buildings erected in the various small settlements scattered throughout the tract. Some crops have been raised and under favorable conditions the output in the near future will be large.

"The actual amount of tangible wealth or securities possessed by these settlers today upon which money can be raised is believed to be very small. Nearly all individual property has been expended in securing water rights from the California Development Company. It is evident that the people have slender resources to fall back upon, and in view of that, are practically helpless. The California Development Company is also unable to meet the exigency.

"The complications which have arisen from the transfer of the property and the involved relations of the California Development Company, with its numerous subsidiary companies, are such that the United States would not be justified in having any dealings with this company until the complications are removed, and the government has a full understanding of every phase of the situation.

"It has been stated that the California Development Company has not the financial strength to repair the break and to restore the bank of the Colorado River to such permanent condition that a similar occurrence cannot happen. It is further understood that the Southern Pacific Railway Company, having expended $2,000,000 or more for the protection of its interests, declines to furnish more money to the California Development Company to save the Imperial Valley beyond controlling the present break in the river bank. The ownership of the property in Imperial Valley, both farmers and townspeople, together with the Southern Pacific company, and the California Development Company, have combined to call upon the government to assist the California Development Company to the extent of erecting permanent works to insure protection in the future.

"If the river is not put back and permanently maintained in its naturel bed the progressive back-cutting in the course of a year or two will extend up stream to Yuma, and finally to the Laguna dam, now being built by the government, thus wiping out millions of dollars of property belonging to the government and to the citizens. Continuing further, it will deprive all the valley lands along the Colorado River of the possibility of obtaining a new supply of water by gravity canals.

"The great Yuma brige will go out, and approximately 700,000 acres of land as fertile as the Nile Valley will be left in a desert condition. What this means may be understood when we remember that the entire producing area of Southern California is about 250,000 acres. A most conservative estimate for full development must place the gross product from this land at not less than $100 per acre. If the break in the Colorado is not permanently controlled, the financial loss to the United States will be great. The entire irrigable area which will be submerged or deprived of water in the Imperial Valley and along the Colorado River is capable of adding to the permanent population of Arizona and California at least 350,000 people, and probably 500,000. Much of the land will be worth from $500 to $1500 an acre, or a total of from $350,000,000 to $700,000,000.

"The point to be especially emphasized is that prompt action must be taken, otherwise the situation may be so extreme as to be impracticable of remedy. The history of the past attempts to close the break in the river has shown that each time, through delay, the work has cost double or treble what it would have had prompt action been taken. It is probable now that with an expenditure of $2,000,000 the river can be restored to its former channel and held there indefinitely, but if this action is not taken immediately, several times this sum will be required to restore it, and possibly it cannot be restored unless enormous sums are expended.

ESPEE ONLY CAN DO IT.

"At the present moment there appears to be only one agency equal to the task of controlling the river, namely, the Southern Pacific Company, with its transportation facilities, its equipment and control of the California Development Company and subsidiary companies. The need of railroad facilities and equipment and the international complications are such that the officers of the United States, even with unlimited funds, could not carry on the work with the celerity required. It is only the fact that the officers of the Southern Pacific, acting also as officers of the California Development Company, have been able to apply all its resources for transportation, motive power and the operation of the road that has made it possible to cope with the situation to the extent that has already been accomplished. The Southern Pacific Company is now reported to be working strenuously to fill the break through which the Colorado River is flowing westward to the Salton Sea, and is repairing levees to keep out the high water due next March. Further construction is necessary, and all necessary temporary work must be replaced by permanent structures. It is estimated that for this additional work $2,000,000 should be available. The question as to what sum, if any, should be paid to the Southern Pacific for work done since November 4, 1906, is one for future consideration; for work done prior to that date no claim can be admitted.

"But one practicable course is now open for consideration. The Southern Pacific Company must continue its work to close the break and restore the river to its proper channel. The United States can then take charge, making the protective works permanent and providing for their maintenance.

It is not believed that a free gift of this money should be made, as by its investment the stability of property of great value will be secured and the increase in land values throughout the Imperial Valley will be sufficient to justify the provision that this money should be returned to the government.

"The Reclamation Service should be authorized to take steps at once for the construction of an irrigation project under the terms of the Reclamation Act for the lands in the Imperial Valley, and in the lower Colorado River Valley. The service should be in position to proceed actively with the organization of the project and the construction of works as soon as the condition in regard to the protection of the valley against overflow will justify expenditures for this purpose.

"To accomplish this, the United States should acquire the rights of the California Development Company and its subsidiary corporations in the United States and Mexico upon such reasonable terms as shall protect the interests of the government and of water users. The United States should obtain by convention with Mexico the right to carry water through that country upon reasonable conditions.

"Most of the land in the Imperial Valley has been entered under the terms of the Desert Land Act of the homestead laws, and title has not passed out of the United States.

"The construction work required would be: The main canal, some sixty miles in length from Laguna dam into the Imperial Valley; the repair and partial reconstruction of the present distribution system in the valley, and its extension to other lands, mainly diversion dams and distribution systems in the Colorado River Valley, and the provision for supplementing the natural flow of the river by means of storage reservoirs as may be necessary. This would provide for the complete irrigation of 400,000 acres in the Imperial Valley and for 400,000 acres additional in the United States in the valley of the Colorado in Arizona and California.

"The reclamation fund now available has been allotted for projects under construction, and the anticipated additions to the fund for the next few years will be needed to complete these projects. It will therefore be impossible to construct the reclamation project in the Imperial Valley with the funds now in hand, and it will be necessary for Congress to make specific appropriation for this work if it so desires to undertake it.

"Such appropriation will be so expended for a project carried out under all the provisions of the Reclamation Act, requiring the return to the reclamation fund of the cost of the construction and maintenance of the irrigation works, and there should be the further requirement that the cost of the protective works and their maintenance be repaid.

"The interests of the government in this matter are so great in the protection of its own property, particularly of the public lands, that Congress is justified in taking prompt and effective measures toward the relief of the present situation. No steps, however, should be taken except with a broad comprehension of the magnitude of the work and with the belief that within the next ten years the work and development will be carried out to their full proportions.

"The plan in general is to enter upon a broad, comprehensive scheme of development for all the irrigable lands upon the Colorado River, with needed storage at the headquarters, so that none of the water of this great river which can be put to beneficial use will be allowed to waste. The Imperial Valley will never have a safe and adequate supply of water until the main canal extends from the Laguna dam. As each end of this dam is connected with rock bluffs it provides a permanent heading founded on rock for the diversion of the waters. Any works built below this point would not be safe from destruction by floods and cannot be depended upon for a permanent and reliable supply of water to the valley.

"If Congress does not give authority and make adequate provision to take up this work in the way suggested, it must be inferred that it acquiesces in the abandonment of the work at Laguna, and of all future attempts to utilize the valuable public domain in this part of the country."

Senator Flint talked with the President and Secretary of State today regarding the matter, and said that he would shortly introduce a bill to carry the President's recommendations into effect.

NOT IN FAVOR.

VALLEY FOR HOME CONTROL.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

IMPERIAL, Jan. 12.—The message of the President recommending that the government acquire the rights of the California Development Company and take the Imperial Valley into the Reclamation Service meets with the approval of but a small portion of the people of the valley. Various commercial bodies in the valley have repeatedly passed resolutions against government control.

Whatever mismanagement there may have been in the early days of California Development Company, the fact is there are more than one hundred thousand acres actually under cultivation, with ample water supply.

CURED OF PILES BY PYRAMID PILE CURE

If You Suffer, You Can Be Cured. Costs Nothing to Try.

If you think that you must be operated upon to be cured of piles, you are wrong. Thousands of cases of piles of excruciating severity—worse, no doubt, than yours, have been cured painlessly, quickly and permanently, while the patient has been at his work without the loss of time necessitated by an operation. In fact, many a sufferer has not been able to reach his work or even move across the room until after using the home remedy prepared by the Pyramid Drug Co.

No More Piles! One Box Cured—Only 50 Cts!

No More Piles! One Box Cured—Only 50c

Such was the condition of an Indiana business man, as shown in a recent letter:

"Received your sample of Pile Cure and have given it a fair trial. I can recommend you highly in this vicinity. Have used your sample and one box and it has effected a complete cure. It has been worth $100 to me.

Thanking you for the sample and the cure, I will recommend you to everybody. Yours respectfully, Julius Mayer, Dealer in Feathers, Ginsing and Hides, Bedford, Ind."

The Pyramid Pile Cure can be used at home in the privacy of your own room. There is enough strength in each little suppository to drive out infection, while at the same time it melts away into the deadened tissues of the rectum, heals up the fissures, relieves the inflammation, starts the circulation of the hemorrhoidal veins, diminishes the congestion and brings the organs back to their normal condition.

We want to prove to every sufferer from piles that the Pyramid Pile Cure will cure. This treatment is prepared exclusively by the Pyramid Drug Co., which is sufficient evidence of its genuineness. However, we do not ask you to depend upon the reliability of our name or the bona fide testimonials of the hundreds of cured piles sufferers. Send us your name and address for a free trial package. Use it according to directions. The relief you will get will justify your going at once to the druggists for a 50-cent box. All druggists sell the Pyramid Pile Cure, just like the sample. Accept no substitute. Pyramid Drug Co., 76 Pyramid Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

THE WHITE SCOURG
Neglected Colds MAY CAUSE Consump

Mrs. Addie Harding Mrs. Mary Meyer Mrs. Frances Wilson

MRS. ADDIE HARDING, 810 Court street, Syracuse, N. Y., writes:

"I have been a user for Peruna for the last twelve years and can truthfully say that there is no better medicine on earth.

"With me it is a sure preventive for colds and many other ills. In my home can always be found a bottle of Peruna. Two or three times a year I am troubled with my throat.

"A Sure Preventive"

"I always had to have the services of my physician two or three times in each case.

"Although a user of Peruna, I never thought of taking it for my throat until about two years ago.

"I tried Peruna to check it, and to my great delight I was not troubled with the smothered and choked feeling and never have since.

"I can check it every time with Peruna. I certainly would not be without Peruna one minute."

The fight against consumption is becoming a national problem.

Everywhere we hear of sanitariums established at the expense of the State for the treatment of the vast army of consumptives.

The open air treatment, fresh air and sunlight are recognized by the medical profession generally as being the greatest necessities in the treatment of consumption in all of its stages.

Dr. Hartman has for many years advocated the fresh air treatment for consumption. At the same time he has recognized Peruna as a useful palliative for the many distressing symptoms which accompany the white plague.

Mrs. Mary Meyer, Thompson avenue, near Shell Road, Winfield, L. I., N. Y., writes:

"I have been annoyed with a cough for years.

"Often it was so bad that I could not sleep half the night. Many people thought I had consumption.

"Consumption Was Feared"

"A woman recommended Peruna to me two years ago. I began to take Peruna and now I am perfectly free from a cough.

"I am glad to say that Peruna cured me entirely. I take Peruna occasionally when I do not feel well and I also give it to my children.

"Peruna is the best medicine for coughs and colds. I have told many people how much Peruna has helped me."

Peruna tends to lessen the cough, decreases the expectoration, strengthens the patient, increases the appetite and in many cases procures sound, refreshing sleep.

But the value of Peruna in the treatment of a case of consumption is not so great as it is in the prevention of consumption.

Since it is well known that consumption begins with a common cold or catarrh, any medicine that can be relied upon to relieve these must be regarded as a preventive of consumption.

Thousands of cases of incipient consumption, or chronic coughs, or settled colds, have reported Peruna as being a safe and reliable remedy for these ailments.

Mrs. Frances Wils Clinton, Mass., writes:

"Had you seen me illness and now, yo that I take delight in of Peruna.

SAVED FROM THE KNIFE

Miss Coulburn, of East Market, Dorchester County, Maryland, had what was supposed to be a large tumor caused by Kidney trouble. After a consultation of several physicians an operation was decided upon. Meantime she began to take and was cured by

WARNER'S SAFE CURE

A TRIAL BOTTLE OF THE WORLD'S GREATEST KIDNEY CURE SENT ABSOLUTELY FREE TO EVERY READER OF THE TIMES WHO SUFFERS FROM KIDNEY, LIVER, BLADDER OR BLOOD DISEASE.

MISS COULBOURN.

She writes of this wonderful cure: "I thought that it was my duty to let you know what your wonderful Safe Cure has done for me, as there may be somebody suffering as I was. I had a tumor, and my doctor told me that I would have to go to Cambridge Hospital to be operated on. He gave me a permit to the hospital at Cambridge. The doctor examined me, and he said it was too dangerous a place to tackle in the warm season of the year. He would wait until the last of October, and he would send to Baltimore after the doctors to come down and assist him about cutting the tumor out. It was about 5 inches long, on a very dangerous artery. Returning from Cambridge I stopped at a store and bought a bottle of Warner's Safe Cure and commenced taking it according to directions, and before I had used that bottle the tumor was nearly gone, and I got another bottle and took half of that, and I was finally cured when the last of August came without being operated on. If you wish to use my name you are perfectly welcome to do so. I am known in Cambridge and in Dorchester and several other counties. I reside near Cabin Creek.—Lillian F. Coulbourn, East Market, R. F. D. No. 1, Md."

Does your back ache? Are you obliged to pass your water frequently and with much irritation? Are you nervous? Do you get dizzy easily? If so, your kidneys and bladder are affected, and you should attend to curing them at once and thus prevent most serious complications and fatal results. You should take Warner's Safe Cure. It is pleasant and will set your kidneys and urinary organs right. These once right, health and long life are yours. Myriads have had wonderful cures, and many gladly testify by letters what Warner's Safe Cure has done for them in curing and preventing all forms of kidney and bladder troubles, female weakness, Bright's disease and all diseased conditions of the liver and blood.

CURES KIDNEY DISEASE

When the kidneys are diseased the uric acid is not carrid off, and this causes Gout, Lumbago, Rheumatism of the Joints, Rheumatism of the Muscles, Rheumatism of the Heart, Rheumatism everywhere.

In Bright's Disease the bowels are often constipated and the liver torpid. Warner's Safe Pills quickly relieve this condition, and no ill after-effect is experienced.

WARNER'S SAFE CURE is put up in two sizes and is sold by all druggists, or direct, at 50 CENTS AND $1.00 A BOTTLE. Refuse substitutes containing harmful drugs which injure the system.

Trial Bottle FREE. To convince every sufferer from diseases of the kidneys, liver, bladder and blood that WARNER'S SAFE CURE will cure them, a trial bottle will be sent, ABSOLUTELY FREE, postpaid, to any one who will write WARNER'S SAFE CURE CO., Rochester, N. Y., and mention having seen this liberal offer in THE TIMES. The genuineness of this offer is fully guaranteed. Our doctors will also send medical booklet containing descriptions of symptoms and treatment of each disease and many convincing testimonials free to every one.

SAN PEDRO AND OAKLAND BAYS ARE RECOMMENDED.

Expert Disappoints Chairman of Rivers and Harbors Committee by Reporting Favorably on Projects to Improve Coast Commercial Prospects.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Californians were pleased today to hear that instead of Col. Huer giving California's waterway improvement projects a black eye with Chairman Burton of the Rivers and Harbors Committee, as rumored yesterday, Huer, in fact, indorsed various projects, including the improvement of San Pedro and Oakland harbors.

This is the latest rumor today. According to today's rumor Burton was so disappointed because Huer disagreed with him and favored California improvements that he expressed deep sorrow at consulting him and wanted to call another engineer who will oppose the California projects.

Monterey harbor will not be improved at present as the engineers reported that the commerce of the port will not justify the expense which would be entailed.

Is a Gold Mine For Investment

The choicest spot in the whole southwest. Platted in large lots and improved in the best and most artistic manner. Any place on Vermont is safe to buy but this is a locality selected by me when I had the choice of the entire section. You could not buy raw acreage away back from the electric line now at the price proportionately for which I sell these highly improved lots.

There's No Home Like a Big Home

And it Costs no More at Athen Heights

When you buy at Athen Heights you get the worth of your money. When you sell at Athen Heights you double your money. Many resales have recently been made at large profits. It is the highest plateau on Vermont avenue. It is aristocratic in style of platting. No other lots so high and well drained. They are all villa lots ranging from 50x169 to 100x169, and have wide alleys. The streets are graded and oiled and when the weather permits will be lined with shade trees. There are cement walks and curbs. Purest water is piped to every lot. When you buy a lot you have no improvements to pay for. The restrictions are moderate. You can buy there now at a lower price than you ever can again. If you want a home secure one in the most favored spot in the southwest. If you want to invest a little money in straight cash or pay for your lot by the month, I will give you terms easier than anyone else or a liberal discount for all cash.

I Will Run Free Excursions All Day Sunday and Every Day Next Week

Come in up to 2 o'clock and get free tickets. You are not obliged to buy. Just see Athen Heights. Tell your friends about it. You may be sure you will be doing them a genuine favor.

Eastman's Tooth Powder, 25c Size 11c

This week at both "Owl" stores we will sell Eastman's tooth powder, regular 25c size, for 11c. No deliveries or telephone orders filled. This preparation is one of the finest tooth powders on the market. It is delightfully flavored, thoroughly antiseptic. It cleans the teeth perfectly and acts healthfully upon the gums and the membrane of the mouth. This is a very unusual price concession even at "The Owl" stores. Don't fail to take advantage of it—but remember that you will have to come to the store personally in order to secure this remarkable special.

Last week "The Owl" offered several extra strong specials. Owing to the continued storm, many people, who wished to do so were were unable to take advantage of them. In order that no one may be disappointed, "The Owl" repeats four of these specials. On sale this week only, at both "Owl" stores.

Goodrich Hot Water Bottles 3 qt. size 75c, Worth $1.10

Here is an opportunity to buy a standard make, thoroughly reliable hot water bottle at a very substantial reduction. This Goodrich bottle comes in white rubber in the much wanted 3-quart size. It is well worth $1.10. This week you can get one at either "Owl" store for 75c—a most welcome special at this season when a hot water bottle is most often in use. Several other standard makes of hot water bottles at very reasonable prices. Buy your rubber goods at "The Owl."

Benzoin & Almond Lotion, 20c size 13c

This is Eastman's Benzoin and Almond Lotion—a delightful skin preparation. It comes in a special 20c size, which we will place on sale at both "Owl" stores this week for 13c. As with the tooth powder, no deliveries will be made or telephone orders filled on this special. You must come to one of the "Owl" stores to secure it. Eastman's Lotion is a splendid preparation for the toilet table—fine for use after shaving, soothing to the skin. It is a standard face lotion, exceedingly beneficial to the complexion.

Thermalite Bags

An Improvement on the Hot Water Bottle

2-qt. $1.33, Regularly $2.00

3-qt. $1.98, Regularly $3.00

Here is a special that you will want to take advantage of. Better buy one of these Thermalite Bags and lay it away until you need it. They have never been sold in Los Angeles before at these prices, which are genuine reductions in an article that should be known and used by every family. The Thermalite Bag stores and imparts heat. Greatly superior to the hot water bottle. Just boil the bag before using—its contents become liquid and in so doing accumulate heat. As the bag cools its contents solidify, imparting an even temperature for three or four hours longer than the same weight of water. The longer you boil the bag, the longer it retains the heat. Thermalite bags are indispensable in the sick room. Ask us to show them to you. These prices are for this week only.

TOM HAYS DIES AT OCEAN PARK.

LIFE FILLED WITH TROUBLE ENDS PAINLESSLY.

Deceased Was Formerly the Most Prominent Man in Riverside County, but Lost His Standing When the Orange Growers' National Bank Was Obliged to Close Its Doors.

Tom Hays (Howard Thomas Hays) died yesterday morning at his home in Ocean Park. The end came painlessly after a comparatively brief illness, the seriousness of which was realized only last Monday. His death was due to a complication of diseases, the immediate cause being a hardening of the muscles of the heart. At his bedside when he breathed his last were his faithful wife and daughter—the wife who has stood zealously by him through his troubles. A number of warm personal friends of the family, his attorney and his physician were also there, for it was known long before his heart stopped beating that the case was hopeless.

Everybody at all familiar with current events in Southern California during the past two years, knows who Tom Hays was and to the hundreds of persons who knew him intimately, few ever referred to him as Howard Thomas Hays. Hundreds of persons in this part of California have reason to never forget him, some of them because of service which he had rendered to them, and some because of losses which they sustained at his hands. Aged only 39, Tom Hays had had opportunities which come to few men and had he seen fit to improve them and devote his undisputed brilliancy along certain lines in the right direction, he might have been a power for good in the community.

Going to Riverside in 1891 Hays displayed such business ability that he was offered the position of cashier of the Orange Growers' Bank, then a State bank. He accepted the offer and for years was the most prominent figure in financial affairs of Riverside county. While acting as right-of-way agent for the Salt Lake Railroad he was charged with having charged the railroad company a higher price for property than the price he had paid for it, the matter involving about $8000, which amount with interest the railroad company recovered from him in a civil suit in the Federal Court. He was obliged to retire from his position as cashier of the Riverside bank and two months later a warrant was issued for his arrest on the charge of having devoted the funds of the bank to his own uses. A bitter fight in the State and Federal courts followed. The prosecutions were not successful and Hays was finally freed.

He left Riverside while the cases were pending against him and for a time resided in Los Angeles. Subsequently he purchased a home in Ocean Park and had occupied it to the time of his death. It is said that he was succesful in several important real estate deals and that he had made sufficient money to leave his widow and daughter in comparatively good circumstances.

The funeral arrangements have not been made. Mrs. Hays is awaiting a telegram from relatives in Pennsylvania. It is probable that the remains will be taken to that State for burial, but that will depend upon the wishes of the aged mother of the deceased, who resides there.

REFUSED AID AT HOSPITAL.

VICTIM OF ROBBER'S CLUB IS TURNED AWAY.

Holden's Jaw Fractured by Highwayman but City's Surgeons Won't Treat Injury Because He Applies More Than Twelve Hours After It Is Received.

After a highway robber had fractured his jaw and relieved him of his last cent, M. Holden of the Lynch House, No. 1448½ San Fernando street, was turned away from the Receiving Hospital, to which he applied for medical treatment last night. Holden is without means and said that he knew no one in Los Angeles.

As the man was proceeding towards his home about 8:30 o'clock Friday evening he was attacked near a vacant lot, a block south of his lodgings. A robber stepped from behind a tree and struck him across the face with a loaded club. About midnight Holden recovered consciousness and found that his pocketbook, containing $6.50, and all of his effects had been taken.

In a dazed condition he went to his room and fell in a faint upon the bed. Late yesterday afternoon he was able to go to the Central Station and report his loss.

After Detective Sergeant Moffett had received Holden's report, he asked whether the latter had secured surgical treatment for the injured jaw. Holden replied in the negative, and the officer sent him to the Receiving Hospital. He was refused admittance because he had been injured more than twelve hours before he applied for assistance.

Several cases of this kind have been called to the attention of the police recently.

WELSH-AMERICAN SOCIETY.

The Welsh-American Society of Los Angeles met last night and elected a committee to take charge of the celebration that will be held on St. David's Day, March 1, 1907. The committee includes: Dr. J. W. Jones, chairman; W. P. Williams, secretary; R. G. Roberts, treasurer; H. J. Pugh, J. Morris, Hugh Roberts, H. C. Pugh and R. J. Pritchard. The celebration will consist of a banquet and concert. The banquet will be Welsh in all of its appointments, and the ladies will appear in Welsh costumes. There are about 400 members of the Welsh-American Society in Los Angeles.

O'NEILL, NOT NEILL!

James O'Neill in "Monte Cristo" and "The Voice of the Mighty," will be at the Mason Theater next week. Many people are confounding James O'Neill with James Neill, who owned a stock company on the Pacific Coast some seasons ago. James O'Neill created the role of "Monte Cristo" twenty-six years ago, and his name has become associated with this play. James O'Neill has been a favorite for over a quarter of a century, and comes to Los Angeles for his farewell appearance in "Monte Cristo" and a presentation of his new play "The Voice of the Mighty."

CAR STRIKES WAGON.

An inbound Glendale Inter-Urban car struck a wagon driven by Frank D. Cloupet of No. 124 South Henderson street last night, severely injuring the driver and demolishing the wagon. Cloupet said that the car's headlight was not burning, and that the coach was going at full speed when the collision occurred, at Lake Shore road and Sunset boulevard. Cloupet was removed to the Receiving Hospital, where it was found that he had sustained a two-inch cut on the top of his head and severe bruises. Friends assisted him to his home later.

PREPARING CLASS PLAY.

The students of the senior A class of the Los Angeles High School are busy preparing their class play, which [illegible] as a part of the graduating exercises of the class at the [illegible] Theater in February. The play selected is "Janice Meredith."

TRIES TO SAVE HAT.

An unidentified Japanese leaped from the rear entryway of a Los Angeles railway car at Fifth street and Ruth avenue last night in an effort to save his hat, and sustained severe concussion of the brain. He was sent to the Receiving Hospital.

FOR FAMINE SUFFERERS.

A union meeting of the churches of Hollywood will be held this evening in the Hollywood Methodist Church, in behalf of the famine sufferers of China. The speakers will be Rev. E. P. Ryland, Rev. H. A. Newell, Dr. William Walker and Rev. John Hay.

Doctors Admit

That They Can do Nothing More For Your Stomach Than Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Are Doing Every Day.

COSTS NOTHING TO TRY.

According to the expert analysis of government authorities in the United States and Great Britain, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain the exact elements provided by nature for digesting food in the healthy stomach.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have saved sufferers from stomach disorders millions of dollars by giving them, in one small 50-cent package, more relief than countless treatments by physicians would bring about at $3.00 per visit.

Perhaps you are afflicted with dyspepsia—or some kindred disease arising from a disordered digestion. It may be headaches, heartburn, palpitation, liver trouble, insomnia, nervous debility. They all have their beginning in a stomach which does not secrete the juices or grind the food which is taken into it.

If so, we urge you to send for a free trial package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. It will cost you nothing and surely will bring us no gain unless you find, after using it, that you are benefited and feel that you need a full-sized package.

There is absolutely no danger in using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Nothing is contained in them that has not been subjected to the closest scrutiny by the government officials.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest your food without demanding a careful diet. One grain of these Tablets has power to digest 3000 grains of ordinary food. You can be sure therefore that no matter what your conditions, these little tablets taken after each meal will shortly restore your stomach to its normal condition and render it capable of doing its work unassisted.

We withhold the names of hundreds who have written us voluntarily expressing their gratitude to this simple substitute for nature.

Send for trial package today. F. A. Stuart Co., 70 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

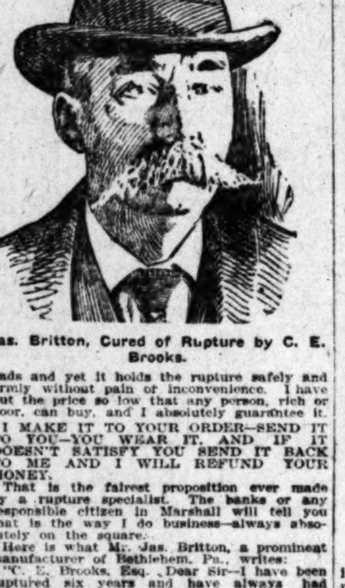
Rupture

New Scientific Appliance, Always a Perfect Fit—Adjustable to Any Size Person—Easy, Comfortable, Never Slips, No Obnoxious Springs or Pads—Costs Less Than Many Common Trusses—Made for Men, Women or Children.

Sent on Trial

I have invented a rupture appliance that I can safely say, by 30 years' experience in the rupture business, is the only one that will absolutely hold the rupture and never slip and yet is light, cool, comfortable, conforms to every movement of the body without chafing or hurting and costs less than many ordinary trusses. There are no springs or hard, lumpy pads and yet it holds the rupture safely and firmly without pain of inconvenience. I have put the price so low that any person, rich or poor, can buy, and I absolutely guarantee it.



Jas. Britton, Cured of Rupture by C. E. Brooks.

I MAKE IT TO YOUR ORDER—SEND IT TO YOU—YOU WEAR IT, AND IF IT DOESN'T SATISFY YOU SEND IT BACK TO ME AND I WILL REFUND YOUR MONEY.

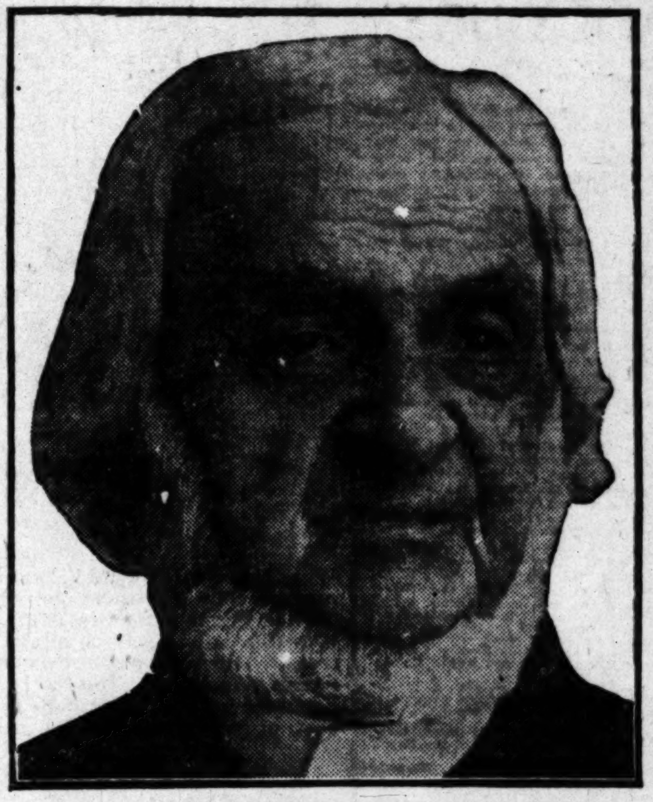
That is the fairest proposition ever made by a rupture specialist. The banks or any responsible citizen in Marshall will tell you that is the way I do business—always absolutely on the square.

Here is what Mr. Jas. Britton, a prominent manufacturer of Bethlehem, Pa., writes:

"C. E. Brooks, Esq. Dear Sir—I have been ruptured six years and have always had trouble with it till I got your appliance. It is very easy to wear, fits neat and snug, and is not in the way at any time, day or night. In fact, at times I did not know I had it on. It just adapted itself to the shape of the body and clung to the spot no matter what position I was in. It would be a veritable God-send to the unfortunate who suffer from rupture, if all could procure the Brooks Rupture Appliance and wear it. They certainly would never regret it. My rupture is all healed up and nothing ever did it but your appliance. Jas. Britton."

If you have tried most everything else, come to me. Where others fail is where I have my greatest success. Write me today and I will send you my book on Rupture and Its Cure, showing my appliance and giving you prices and names of people who have tried it and been cured. It is instant relief when all others fail. Remember, I use no salves, no harness, no lies. Just a straight business deal at a reasonable price. C. E. BROOKS, 3343 Brooks Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

Prominent Clergyman Restored to Vigor



REV. A. H. LONG, 84 YEARS OLD.

The Rev. Dr. A. H. Long a prominent and independent clergyman, who is called the venerable Church of God minister, of Mount Joy, Penn., is 84 years of age, and says DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKEY, the Great Renewer of Youth, cured him of nervous debility, congestion of the brain, grip and severe attacks of vertigo and restored him to health and vigor.

"During the past forty years of my life I have suffered much from nervous debility, congestion of the brain, la grippe, nervous prostration and numerous severe attacks of vertigo. In consequence of this my system became very much dilapidated. Some time since I resolved that I would give your medicine a fair trial. Now I am perfectly well, strong and vigorous. I am in the eighty-fourth year of my age, and my purpose is to keep your medicine always on hand as a restorative tonic. A. H. LONG, Mount Joy, Pa., Sept. 17, '06.

Rev. Dr. Long has preached 6000 sermons, written out in full 2000 sermons, baptized 549 professing believers, married 114 couples, officiated at 500 funerals, preached at 75 different camp meetings and revised the Apostles' Creed.

Many prominent clergymen, doctors of medicine and temperance workers, who, like Dr. Long, have been benefited by this great medicine, extol its virtues.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

is an absolutely pure, gentle and invigorating stimulant and tonic. It builds up the nerve tissues, tones up the heart, gives power to the brain, strength and elasticity to the muscles and richness to the blood. It brings into action all the vital forces, it makes digestion perfect, and enables you to get from the food you eat the nourishment it contains. It is invaluable for overworked men, delicate women and sickly children. It strengthens the system, is a promoter of good health and longevity, makes the old young and keeps the young strong. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is a form of food already digested, and is recognized as a family medicine everywhere. This is a guarantee.

Sold by all druggists, grocers and dealers or direct, in sealed bottles only; never in bulk. Price $1. Insist on the genuine and see that the "Old Chemist" trade-mark is on the label. Beware of refilled bottles and spurious malt whiskey substitutes offered for sale by unreliable dealers. They are positively harmful and will not cure. Illustrated medical booklet and doctor's advice free. Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y.

VICTORY EXPECTED IN NEW CAPITALS.

Democrats Must Phalanx of Socialists Who Demand Reforms Steadily Re-

[ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

URG, Jan. 12.—The campaign is in full swing. limited to registered voting to the election law, held without regard to publication of the reg-

Democrats and other radicals for the first time are now able to present their platforms to voters. Social Democratic orators have marked success in St. Petersburg and Moscow, and the victory of this party in the two capitals is regarded as certain. Politicians, however, are able to predict but little about the composition of the next Parliament, except that there will be a strong and compact group of extreme radicals, social revolutionists, toilers, etc. These are pledged to obstructive tactics, which threaten to wreck the plans of the Constitutional Democrats for constructive legislation before locking horns with the administration on a responsible ministry.

When this takes place, according to the reiterated declaration of Premier Stolypin, Parliament will at once be dissolved and a revision of the election laws will be undertaken before a third body is summoned.

The coalition of the Constitutional Democrats and the Moderate Social Democrats have reached decisions on questions of principle, but it is hung up on the subject of seats. The Constitutional Democrats of St. Petersburg propose to retain four seats, giving one to the Socialists and one to the workmen. The Socialists, however, insist upon two seats.

INVESTIGATING BAILEY.

Probe Is Plied Throughout Entire Session—"Antis" Claim the Victory So Far.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

AUSTIN, (Tex.) Jan. 12.—The suggested Bailey investigation consumed the entire session of the Texas Legislature today and bids fair to continue well into Monday without any vote being secured.

The anti-Bailey people claim a victory up to now and assert that they will make even better gains. The basis of this prediction is that their opponents have ignored their original defense and are now offering a substitute proposition to have a special committee determine whether an investigation should be held.

Today's session was given over to a discussion for the proposed investigation and when an adjournment was had late in the evening but one side of the controversy had been heard. Representative Duncan of Smith county, the leader of the anti-Bailey forces, was the only speaker. The contentions of the friends of Bailey will be presented Monday.

"PERSONAL" REUNITES FAMILY.

After Thirty-two Years Son Finds Eloping Mother Lapped in Southern Luxury.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A strange story involving all the elements of romance is that of Thomas C. May, who arrived today on his way home in Navasota, Tex., from a visit to his mother in San José, Costa Rica, until a few months ago he did not know his mother lived. Thirty-two years ago his mother, Mrs. Jessie May, a dashing and beautiful young widow, with her three children, stopped with her father, Maj. Coleman Robinson, known all along the Pacific Coast as one of the most popular hotel men.

Louis Bartress, whose father was of noble blood, the ruler of Guatemala, came to the hotel. Mrs. May and the Central American eloped. Several months ago there appeared in a San Francisco paper a personal asking information about the children of Jessie May. The notice was signed "Mrs. John Baggs." It fell into May's hands and led to the reunion of mother and son. The mother is now surrounded with wealth in San José, Costa Rica.

WHITE HELP SCARCE.

Duarte Fruit Exchange Has to Hire Japanese Help for the Packing of Oranges.

DUARTE, Jan. 12.—The Fruit Exchange here is experiencing a great deal of trouble in securing white help for packing oranges. The company has been driven to hiring Japanese. Their work in orange packing is not as satisfactory as white labor. The crop has been coming in rather slowly for the past week until yesterday and today when it has been very active. The difficulty already confronting the exchange is the scarcity of cars to take care of the shipments. Most of the crop will be placed on the market in February and March and it is feared that the car shortage then will be even more alarming than it is now. The crop is going to be quite large, a better yield than most figured on, and the war on the pests will reduce the washing process about 25 per cent.

BRADBURY STRIKES WATER.

John Bradbury has struck a fine flow of water on his Duarte ranch. From the bottom of the 100-foot shaft the drill has been sent down 380 feet, making a total depth of 480 feet, and the water now in the well stands within eighty feet of the curb. The hole will be sent down deeper and an artesian well is among the strong probabilities.

GOOSE FINDS GOLD MINE.

Farmer Finds Her Craw Full of Nuggets and Then Discovers Rich Placer Beds.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NORFOLK (Neb.) Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Peter Bussey, a well-known farmer residing a few miles west of here, has discovered what experts believe to be rich gold and copper deposits on his farm as the result of finding a number of valuable nuggets of gold in the craw of a goose which he killed a few weeks ago.

Bussey was at a loss to know how the nuggets of gold came to get in the fowl's craw. The goose was accustomed to feed in and about a creek that ran through his farm and a friend suggested to him that the goose may have picked the gold up there. He made an investigation and discovered gold nuggets in and near the creek, and on a later examination of the ground by an expert resulted in the discovery of rich gold and copper deposits.

MARLBOROUGH CONFERENCE.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—Something approaching a family conference relative to the affairs of the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough was held at Sunderland House today. The Belmonts are already there and Reginald Vanderbilt and other members of the family are to join the party tonight. This meeting undoubtedly concerns the domestic differences of the Marlboroughs, which appear to be rapidly approaching the point when a separation will be announced.

SLACK GIRTH, ARM BROKEN.

PASADENA HIGH SCHOOL GIRL HAS BAD TUMBLE.

Horse Which She Is Riding Becomes Frightened and Throws Her. She Falls on the Arm, Which Snaps Under the Strain—Close of Sessions of Farmers' Institute.

Office of The Times, No. 28 S. Raymond Ave.

PASADENA, Jan. 12.—Miss Virginia Bond of South Orange Grove avenue, a pupil of the Pasadena High School, had an accident while out riding yesterday afternoon as the result of which she is now confined to her home with a broken arm. It is not thought that she suffered any internal injuries, and no serious consequences are anticipated, but she will be confined to her home for some days to come.

Miss Bond, in company with a party of friends, was riding horseback on South Orange Grove avenue yesterday afternoon, when the girth of her saddle became loosened. The animal, a high-strung one, became frightened and started to jump about, and the saddle turned completely around. Miss Bond was thrown heavily to the ground, and, in an attempt to save herself, she put out her hand. She thus fell with full force upon her arm, which snapped under the pressure.

The victim of the accident was at once removed to her home, and a physician was summoned, who set the broken bone. Though the fracture is a bad one, it is believed that Miss Bond escaped fortunately, as she might have been seriously hurt by her fall. She was resting comfortably at a late hour last night, and the physicians hope that the broken bone will knit cleanly and readily.

INSTITUTE A SUCCESS.

The Los Angeles County Farmers' Institute, held under the direction of he University of California, came to close last evening, after a successful neeting covering two full days. A arge amount of work was crowded into he short space of time during which he institute was in session, and those n attendance derived much benefit rom the addresses which they listened o.

Two sessions a day were held both riday and Saturday, and authorities n agricultural topics of national fame vere on the list of speakers. Problems f interest to California agriculturists vere discussed at length, and some exellent and instructive papers were ead. Every phase of fruit and aboriulture was expounded, and those who ttended the institute with the desire o learn were more than satisfied with he results which came to them in exhange for the time spent.

The burning question of roads hrough Southern California was not verlooked, and C. A. Day of this paer read an interesting paper on the ubject. Mr. Day has made a careful tudy of the road question, and was ble to speak with authority on the bject.

The papers were all of a practical ature, and dealt with the problems hich confront the farmer in everyay life. The purely scientific side of ie question, was touched upon but ghtly, the aim being to give informaon of practical working value.

Those in attendance at the institute ere most enthusiastic and paid strict tention to all of the discussions. The ly complaint heard was the fact at it was not possible to continue e sessions for a longer time, the neral feeling being that the farmers ould profit greatly by a more comete explanation of the point taken .

BURNS ANNIVERSARY.

The Robert Burns Society of Pasana will hold a banquet at Hotel aryland on Friday, January 25, to lebrate the one hundred and fortyghth anniversary of the birth of the eat Scottish bard. Arrangements ve been made for a delightful eveng among those who have been inted Joaquin Miller, and Rev. Robert Burdette.

The Robert Burns Society is made of Pasadenans of Scottish descent o hold a mutual regard for their ustrious countrymen. The social nctions which the members of the ciety hold from time to time are ghly appreciated and the banquet at e Maryland, which is the most amious undertaking yet made by them, being looked forward to with much asure.

LAST TRIBUTE TO BOYNTON.

With simple yet impressive ceremoes the remains of Frank P. Boynn were laid in their last resting place Mountain View Cemetery yesterday ternoon in the presence of a host of rrowing friends and admirers. The neral sermon was preached by Rev. bert J. Burdette and touching were e references which he made to the st life and career of Mr. Boynton.

Mr. Boynton held a warm place in the arts of Pasadenans and the funeral as made an occasion of almost pub mourning. Prominent bankers and siness men left their places of busis in order to do honor to the dead. e long funeral cortege which accomnied the body to the grave was made of the most prominent men of the y, directors of the Board of Trade, which Mr. Boynton served as both sident and secretary, acting as pallarers or riding in carriages in the ocession. Seldom has the death of citizen made such a deep impression n the community and seldom has mourning been so spontaneous.

rs. K. L. Tiernan, the aged woman was seriously burned by fire Friday morning, is resting comfortably at the Pasadena Hospital where she was taken for treatment immediately after the accident, and hopes are now entertained for her recovery. The unfortunate woman was so badly burned that at first it was thought that she could not survive her injuries and her death was considered to be only a matter of hours. After having been administered opiates she became more comfortable, however, and her case took a more favorable turn.

Dr. Medici de Biron, who sustained three fractured ribs in a runaway accident several days ago, is now able to be about again and announces that he is as sound as ever. The plucky doctor denies that he was dangerously hurt and insists that he is well as anybody now, though he may be somewhat sore in the neighborhood of the broken ribs.

January 22 is the date set for the appearance of the officers of the Raab Creamery Company in answer to the charge of selling milk to Pasadena consumers in dirty bottles and on that date the case will be given an airing before Justice McDonald. The case is rather involved legally and the health officer and the sanitary inspector have run against several snags in attempting to prosecute. They believe that they are on the right track now, however, and that they will be able to bring the guilty person or persons to the bar of justice.

SOCIAL NOTES.

SAN DIMAS BANK OFFICERS.

SAN DIMAS, Jan. 12.—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Bank of San Dimas was held today, when the following officers and directors were elected: W. A. Johnstone, president; D. C. Teague, vice-president; J. B. Roberts, cashier; C. E. Walker, Arthur Bowring and E. O. Thompson.

A report was presented showing the deposits amounted to $130,000. A dividend of 6 per cent. was declared.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL

Few People Know How Useful It Is in Preserving Health and Beauty.

Costs Nothing To Try.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables.

Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form, or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat. I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but 25 cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

FREE DELIVERY DOESN'T SUIT.

OCEAN PARKERS DO NOT WANT POSTOFFICE MERGED.

Idea of Consolidation of the Office With Those of Santa Monica and Venice, With One of the Three the Main "Event" and the Other Two for Substations Is Displeasing.

OCEAN PARK, Jan. 12.—Among other things, the Community League has placed the mark of its disapproval of the attempt to secure the free delivery of mail for the Ocean Park postoffice, at least, so long as present conditions obtain. The feeling prevails that if the matter of free delivery were pushed here at this time it would result in the consolidation of the Santa Monica, Ocean Park and Venice postoffices, with one as the main" event," and the other two as sub-stations. Not one of the three is willing to surrender either name or individuality.

A committee on city and county consolidation has been named to take up with the Los Angeles commission the matter of the consolidation of Ocean Park and contiguous territory with Los Angeles. This committee consists of C. N. Brundage, M. R. King, C. J. Noyes, J. P. Stanwood and C. P. Dodge. The appointment of this committee was decided upon at a meeting held here recently, when addresses on the subject of annexation were delivered by speakers representing the Los Angeles commission.

A new committee was named for the purpose of looking after municipal affairs. One of its duties will be to endeavor to circumvent the plans of schemers who are suspected of being malicious. This committee consists of A. E. Meigs, J. P. Stanwood, W. H. Anderson, C. J. Noyes, R. W. Armstrong, M. R. King and the president of the league.

MYRICK IMPROVES.

The condition of J. Myrick, Jr., ("Cy,") who has been seriously ill at his beach home on Fraser avenue, is improving. His ailment is inflammatory rheumatism, and although he will perhaps not be able to sit up for a number of days, the prospects for his recovery grow brighter from day to day.

TIE-UP FOR BULKHEAD?

An odd technicality has tied up the projected bulkhead improvement south of Center street on Short Line Beach. Operating under the provisions of the Vrooman Act, the City Trustees let the contract for about $15,000 worth of bulkhead and jetty work. The design of this was to protect the ocean front property from the inroads of the extreme high tides and winter storms. The bulkhead was to be about a third of a mile in length, with several short, low jetties extending into the ocean for the purpose of changing the knawing currents. The contractor has raised the point that he cannot go ahead with the work for the reason that a portion of the jetties is on State land, over which the city has no jurisdiction. This oeffnsive portion is small, consisting of only the few feet between mean and high tide. City Trustee Force Parker is of the opinion that since the law gives the municipality authority to protect its ocean frontage, the small item of the work extending over State lands would not invalidate the legality of the work, especially since none of the property owners who have the expense to meet are making any objection. By some who have looked into the matter the opinion is expressed that the contractor is seeking this small hole through which to crawl out of a contract that he is not anxious to carry out.

DECORATIVE WALL PAPERS

WE WANT to call your special attention to the facilities of this establishment for the proper execution of artistic interior decoration of the modern home. The foremost wall paper manufacturers of America, England, France and Germany are represented at their best in the exclusive papers shown at the "California." We have some exceedingly handsome, decorative effects that are quite new. The Mohawk Grape Design in tones of brown on a gold ground when used as upper wall in conjunction with a lower wall of Spanish leather, is very effective for the dining room. Cordova leather effects used mostly with caps or crowns, produce a very artistic hall, dining room or den.

We also show some elegant friezes, hand brushed effects, in dull tones of blue and brown. Suitable for living room, library or hall.

Our decorative department is in the hands of artists of ripe experience, who are prepared to furnish special designs for the decoration of any room or rooms, showing the color schemes and proper position of furnishings.

POLITICIANS ARE EXCITED.

CITY TRUSTEE PROPOSES CUT IN SALARIES.

Think Officials Get Too Much Cash. Would Have One Man for Treasurer and Tax Collector—Opponents Want to Raise Stipends and Will Make Determined Fight.

SANTA ANA, Jan. 12.—At an executive meeting last night City Trustee A. C. Tiede proposed that a very substantial cut be made in the salary of city officers for the next four years and that the offices of Treasurer and Tax Collector be combined. The announcement that the board will consider the cuts at its next meeting has created considerable interest in municipal circles. A determined fight will be made to defeat the measure and substitute one raising the salaries of several officers.

LOS ANGELES PURCHASERS.

That two Los Angeles firms are to subdivide and sell in small lots about 500 acres in the Kraemer tract, between Anaheim and Yorba, was made known yesterday by the filing of two contracts with the County Recorder. Jacob Stern agrees to sell thirty acres to the Golden State Realty Company and 467.28 acres to E. L. Kornfeld, and the contracts are such that it is certain that the two purchases will be sold off in lots running from one to twenty acres. It is very likely that the two parties to whom Mr. Stern gives agreement are working together, as the two papers are in the same form, the terms the same and the attest by the same notary.

INDIAN DRAWS KNIFE.

José Juan Oliveras, an aged Indian, attacked Dale McCarthy with a knife at San Juan Capistrano last Thursday afternoon. The Indian was drunk and had created a disturbance in McCarthy's store. McCarthy put him out and the Indian drew a knife and attempted to slash McCarthy, but was prevented by bystanders.

STORM EXPECTED.

A slight shower of rain fell at 7 o'clock tonight and there are prospects of a heavy storm. During the two days of clear weather ranchers along the Santa Ana River put in their time strengthening dikes. A gang of men has been at work on a weak bank of the Santiago Creek near McPherson.

READY FOR POLO.

Players Will Gather Wednesday at Riverside for a Tourney of Four Days.

RIVERSIDE, Jan. 12.—Polo teams from Santa Barbara, Los Angeles, Santa Monica and Riverside will meet on the grounds of the Riverside Polo Club at Chemawa Park Wednesday afternoon for a four days' polo tournament, in competition for the F. J. Mackey cup. The trophy is a handsome one, and was offered by Mr. Mackey, himself an enthusiastic poloist, on the occasion of his last visit to Riverside from London, two years ago. The conditions are that it is to be competed for every year, and that the play is to be on the grounds of the Riverside club.

The Los Angeles team will be represented by R. G. Bundrem, Tom Weiss, Harry Weiss and B. Weiss. Santa Barbara will send four of its crack players, with E. L. Boeseke as captain. The Santa Monica team will comprise M. Redwayne, W. E. Pedley, F. D. Hudson and S. F. Nave, and the Riverside team will comprise W. L. Roberts, M. E. Flowers, Robert Lee Bettner and Harry G. Pattee. The Santa Monica team is made up of Riverside players who spend their summers in Santa Monica and are members of that team.

Match games will be played on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons, with mixed games on Friday and the finals on Saturday. For a time it was feared that the rains would make it impossible for the Santa Barbara players to come down with their ponies, but the railroads give assurance that all trains will be running from the Channel City by Monday. The grounds are in fine condition for the tourney.

Tea will be served at the clubhouse every afternoon by some of Riverside's social leaders. Mrs. Robert Lee Bettner and Mrs. James Bettner will serve tea on Wednesday, Mrs. Martin Chase on Thursday, Mrs. M. E. Flowers and Miss West on Friday and Mrs. S. F. Nave on Saturday.

RIVERSIDE RUSTLINGS.

Fire which started at 2 o'clock this morning partially destroyed the East Side grocery, owned by H. L. Thomas. The entire second story was burned, but the lower part of the store building was uninjured, except by the damage done by the water. The building was insured.

A number of Riverside orange growers have incorporated as the Oasis Orange Company, with a capital stock of $81,000, fully subscribed. The directors are E. A. Chase, Frank F. Chase, Harry B. Chase, H. R. Greene, F. T. Morrison, P. E. Kingman and W. W. Wilson.

The tangled partnership accounts involved in the suit of A. W. Boggs against W. W. Wilcox and E. H. Rose in the Superior Court will be turned over to a referee. In an order handed down by Judge Densmore yesterday he stated that he would issue an order for a referee, who would look into the partnership accounts from June 10, 1902, and make an accounting of all contracts secured by any of the parties within these dates. Included in the contracts are those for the construction of the Glenwood Hotel, Indian schools at Truxton Cañon, Fort Apache, Fort Mojave and Fort Moqui, and the Salt River Valley cement mill.

At the annual meeting of the directors of the National Bank of Riverside A. A. Adair was elected president; H. A. Westbrook, vice-president; W. W. Phelps, cashier; J. B. Neel, assistant cashier, and W. A. Bonynge, C. C. Chapman, George D. Cunningham, W. H. Davis, J. N. Hagins, Harry H. Hammond, J. B. Neel, W. L. Peters, W. H. FREE, "THE STORY OF THE HOUSE BEAUTIFUL"

A New Booklet Telling all About the Interesting and Important Things in Connection with Beautifying the Outside Appearance of a Home.

Wonderful Effects Produced by Color Blending

A wonderful book printed in many beautiful colors sent absolutely free to readers of The Times. It is one of the most magnificent books dealing with artistic exterior decoration.

A book that is resplendent with the many colors of the rainbow, all blended together so as to form a continuity of brightness and beauty.

The book is printed on an extra quality of paper, which brings out the wonderful high lights of the pictures and makes them look like real oil paintings. Never in the history of color paintings. Never in the history of color painting has so magnificent a publication been placed before the American people. It is the purpose of the publishers not to sell this book, but to send it absolutely free of cost to interested readers of The Times.

This booklet is so interestingly written and the illustrations are so magnificently real as to afford many hours' entertainment and pleasure for the entire family.

The ink from which the illustrations have been printed was especially made and especially matched to correspond with the colors which they are made to represent. On account of the expense in manufacturing this book, only a small edition has been printed, so we would advise you to write immediately in order to receive one.

In addition to the magnificent illustrations to be found in the book there is much valuable information in regard to exterior house painting and decoration. Full and complete instructions are given for selecting colors for house painting and decoration.

This book is issued by one of the largest paint manufacturing concerns in the United States, the Mound City Paint and Color Company. It is printed for the purpose of bringing to the attention of the American people the many advantages to be derived from using their unexcelled house paint, which, on account of its excellence and lasting quality, they have named, "The Horse Shoe Brand."

Don't fail to send for this book immediately. Send your name and address to the Mound City Paint and Color Company, 819-21 North Sixth Street, St. Louis, Mo., and receive absolutely free of cost this book. It will tell you of the "Story of the House Beautiful."

SUNDAY-SCHOOL PARTY.

Gathering at Corona Results in the Organization of a District Association.

CORONA, Jan. 12.—At the Methodist church yesterday afternoon and evening was held the first meeting of the Southern California Sunday-school tour party. Hugh Gibson, general secretary of the Southern California Sunday-school Association, called the meeting to order and conducted a Round Table in the afternoon session. Mrs. H. S. Gordon, superintendent of the home department, spoke of her work. Miss Menie Brockway, superintendent of the primary department, gave demonstrations of her methods, the children present taking an active part.

In the evening John Brower sang several numbers. Miss Brockway spoke on "When," referring to when the child is most susceptible.

Hugh Gibson followed with an address on Sunday-school work.

The outcome of the gathering was the organization of the Corona District Sunday-school Association, with Mrs. Frank Thompson, president; Dr. A. M. Stafford, vice-president; T. C. Jameson, secretary and treasurer.

Mrs. W. C. Barth is superintendent of the primary department; Mrs. William Sargent is head of the home department; Mrs. E. M. Cook, of temperance work; Dr. Robert Todd is in charge of the teachers' training department, and Dr. A. M. Stafford, superintendent of class work department.

CIRCLE CITY CURVES.

The new officers of the Corona Home Telephone and Telegraph Company are W. J. Pentelow, president; R. F. Billings, vice-president; O. A. Huxsaw, secretary and manager; treasurer not yet elected.

Harry N. Sweet has sold his five-room brick cottage with furnishings and a 50x150-foot lot on West Seventh street to A. Provensal, for a price said to be about $2000.

Manager Frank Alden is making extensive improvements in the operahouse, including new scenery, furnishings and decorations.

If not now completed, plans are well under way with the Santa Fé to allow stop-over privileges in Corona on Kite-shaped Track excursions.

H. L. Rollins and family returned Thursday from Tampico, Mexico, where Mr. Rollins had worked as surveyor for the Mexican Central Railroad.

ORANGE TOWN NOTES.

ORANGE, Jan. 12.—The J.A.G. Club was entertained last evening at the home of Mrs. Wallace Whitmore on East Maple avenue.

Mrs. Carney of Denver is the guest of Miss Mabel Mead of West Palmyra avenue. Mrs. Carney expects to join her husband in Goldfield soon.

City Trustees Armors and Toothacher went to Los Angeles Friday to interview the Pacific Electric people in regard to moving their car tracks to the center of the streets.

Charlie Christensen left for San Juan this afternoon, he having a situation there.

The following fire boys, Ed Cope, Frank Leonard, Henry Porter, Charlie Helm, Phil Truby, Bert Reeves, H. Moberly, Ray Godwin, Logan Jackson and Ivan Kurtz left this afternoon for San Diego and Tia Juana, expecting to return on Monday. The boys had passes of the Santa Fé given to them by that company for recently putting out a fire in a loaded box car.

In spite of the rainy weather, thirteen cars of oranges have been shipped from the Santa Fé depot in Orange during the last week.

The freshmen of the high school defeated the grammar school team in the first baseball game of the season here yesterday afternoon by a score of 12 to 2.

DON'T IMAGINE

That because you have suffered for a long time from a weak stomach there is no cure for you. You haven't tried the right medicine, that's all. Thousands of sufferers during the past 53 years voluntarily testified that cured them after all else had failed. You should therefore try it at once. It always cures Poor Appetite, Sour Risings, Nausea, Cramps, Indigestion, Chills, Colds, or Female Ills. We guarantee it Absolutely Pure.

SUNDBERG AT WHITTIER.

Former Consul to Bagdad Examines Eyes of State School Boys—Gathering Statistics.

WHITTIER, Jan. 12.—Dr. John C. Sundberg, former United States Consul to Bagdad, is at the Whittier State School, gathering data for a work on physical, intellectual and moral education. Dr. Sundberg, it is said, has for thirty years been gathering statistics concerning the effect of eye strain on the moral nature of children. While at the State School he has examined the eyes of all the cadets and furnished free prescriptions and advice to the lads as to the best means of overcoming any defects of vision.

H. R. Soxman, an old soldier, died at his home here on Wednesday evening. The funeral service will be held on Saturday at White's undertaking chapel, after which the body will be sent to the former home of the family, Lawrence, Kan.

The case of the city against W. J. and Arthur Trueblood for alleged violation of the liquor ordinance of this place, has been settled out of court, and was yesterday dismissed on motion of City Attorney M. T. Owens. Attorney Owens stated that the case was a weak one, and that conviction would be highly improbable.

Eralsey Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Morris, is very ill with appendicitis and peritonitis.

Friday evening the Edison Electric Company tendered a banquet to the men in its employ. A. E. Selig, general manager of the company, presided as toastmaster, and many jolly post prandial speeches were given.

Coronado's climate is the best.

PASTOR SCHEMES TO DRAW.

El Monte Preacher Offers a Cash Prize for Boy's Best Essay in Church.

EL MONTE, Jan. 12.—The pastor of the Methodist Church has prepared a spiritual bill of fare for Sunday calculated to appeal to the curiously inclined, so that not only the staid old church member, but also those who are in the habit of "doing their Sunday reading at home" will want to be present.

"Why Shall a Boy Go to Church?" is to be the subject of several essays, and every boy attending the church is eligible to write. The one writing the most satisfactory contribution and reading it in the most approved style is to receive a cash prize of $1.

The youngsters are taking hold of the project with enthusiasm, and the pastor's innovation promises well.

MONTE MENTIONINGS.

In the appointment of C. E. Gidley as road overseer of this district by Supervisor Manning, the public seems generally satisfied.

Judge Thompson of Ventura has invested in a forty-acre tract in the Rancho La Puenta, paying $10,000 for the property. The ranch will be set to English walnuts, a tract being reserved for alfalfa.

The Pacific Electric camp has been moved into town and a large force of men are now at work in erecting the west river bridge, the east bridge now being complete.

WILL YOU LET ME PROVE IT?

IF YOU HAVE ANY KIDNEY, BLADDER, OR URIC ACID DISEASE (NO MATTER HOW SERIOUS,) I WILL SEND YOU POST PAID A FREE TRIAL TREATMENT WHICH I BELIEVE WILL RELIEVE YOU AND PERHAPS PERMANENTLY. I WILL ALSO SEND YOU NEEDED ADVICE AND A 2-CENT POSTAGE STAMP TO REPLACE THE ONE NEEDED IN WRITING TO ME.

Absolutely Without Any Charge Whatsoever.

I know that I have perfected the one remedy that enjoys the reputation of working remarkable cures in Kidney, Bladder, Uric Acid and Urinary diseases. I want every suffering man and woman to know this FACT, consequently I say, PUT ME TO THE TEST and make me prove it. All you need do is to write me describing your trouble. I will then send you sufficient medicine to prove that I have a WONDERFUL REMEDY. I will send you a book of PROOF and a good United States 2-cent stamp to make good what it cost you in answering this notice. I will also at any time give you my best advice, all of which I send you ABSOLUTELY FREE.

Remember, there is no expense to you, and neither does this offer entail any obligation on your part. If I was only moderately successful I wonder how long it would take to bankrupt me in carrying out the provisions of the above offer. Not long, I warrant you, though I am by no means a poor man.

My remedy used as directed POSITIVELY WILL NOT HARM the most delicate person in the world, and my records show it HAS CURED CASES when all other tried treatments had failed.

You ask why it will restore your health when everything else you have used has failed? I will tell you my conclusions:

When there is any disease of the Kidneys or Bladder, there is always a leakage of vitality from the system, either through the urine or by absorption of poisonous matter, or both. The vitality thus lost is absolutely necessary to the support of the cell structure of the kidneys, and to the keeping clean of the bladder. Most any good kidney or bladder remedy will restore to the blood and fluids some of this necessary vital element, but not enough to give these vital organs a sufficient chance to gather themselves for the complete overthrow of the disease. My treatment DOES THIS. At least it has in hundreds, yes thousands of cases, so why should it not for you?

My treatment gives back the necessary vitality, it helps to restore healthy tissues, it cleans and heals the kidneys and bladder. It expels the poisons which may be rotting the kidneys. It stupefies and casts out germ life. Just try it and let it CONVINCE YOU, as I think it will. It will prove that all the pains, aches and misery you are suffering are entirely and absolutely UNNECESSARY.

Not every neglected or wrongly treated case leads to premature death, but death often occurs, therefore you should bear in mind that by taking my treatment now, this element of danger is greatly reduced. Therefore, to escape your present suffering and what may become an incurable disease, write me telling all about your case. Address DR. D. A. WILLIAMS, No. 71 P. O. Block, East Hampton, Conn.

(I presume no sufferer cares for the free stamp, but it is my pride to PROVE I have an ACTUAL health restorer at not one penny of expense to the sufferer.)

Weather Conditions.—Another moderate disturbance has moved down from the Northwest, and this morning overlies a strip of country extending from Oregon southeastward to the Texas Panhandle. The western storm area has moved to the lower lakes. A moderate high area now occupies the Northern States west of the Mississippi River, while a second high area is moving to sea off the Atlantic coast. The lake storm has caused general precipitation in the Mississippi, Ohio and Tennessee valleys, the lake region and New England, while the western disturbance has caused snow in the Pacific Northwest, Utah and Montana. Fair weather prevails on the South Pacific Slope, with frost reported in exposed places in Southern California. The position of the western storm is not favorable for a continuation of fair weather in Los Angeles, and a return of rainy conditions may occur tonight or Sunday.

Forecasts.—Local forecast for Los Angeles and vicinity: Partly cloudy tonight; Sunday, cloudy, probably with occasional rain; wind becoming southerly.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

The rumor that the apple market was weak is without foundation. The principal fruit jobbers at the market were seen yesterday, and all were of the opinion that the report was absurd and must have been circulated age, and thought there might be possibilities of buying at lower prices if reports were printed of an oversupply in storage. A local morning paper printed such a report. A prominent apple dealer stated that there never has been enough first grade apples on the market to last through the season, which usually runs well into July. Second grade apples are always in steady demand until the end of the season. Apples will be scarce before the season is over, and Bellefleurs will be cleaned up by March 1. Apples and oranges are practically the only fruit on the market at this season.

Butter had a trifle weaker undertone yesterday. The Butter Board of Trade is expected to place prices on the exchange basis the coming week.

Eggs were unchanged. Delayed shipments of eggs and butter came in yesterday and swelled the receipts. Prices on eggs are steady, in as much as receipts have been light during the stormy weather.

Sales on 'Change yesterday were: Ten hacks of large pecans; 200 egg cases; 5 sacks of white sweet potatoes.

Wisconsin Rurale potatoes are firmer, at 1.85@1.90. Minnesota Early Rose are now quoted at 1.85@1.90. Salinas potatoes have advanced to 2.10@2.25. Highlands bring 1.90@2.00.

Peas are firmer, at 3@7. Some frosted peas are on the market, but bring lower prices. Beans are scarce.

Fish and lobsters were scarce. Game is light.

The receipts of produce as reported for yesterday's exchange were as follows: Eggs, 249 cases; butter, 46,606 lbs.; cheese, local, none; potatoes, 3410 sacks; onions, none; beans, none; sweet potatoes, 60 sacks.

Prices Current.

EGGS—Candied, fresh California ranch, 33; eastern storage, selected, 28; northern candled, 30.

BUTTER—Fancy local butter, 2-lb. sq., 70; Lucerne butter, 70; valley creamery, 70; fancy Coast creamery, 65@67½; choice Coast creamery, 62½@65; cooking butter, 22@24.

CHEESE—Cal. Anchor, 17; Cal. Y. A., 18; fresh, 17; eastern daisies, 17@18; Longhorns, 18@18½; N. Y. twins, 17; singles, 17@19; northern, local, 17; Oregon brick cheese, 17; hand, 15; Dom. Swiss, 20; Imp., 28@29; Limburger, 18; cheddars, 16@16½.

BEANS—Pinks, No. 1, 2.60; Pinks, No. 2, 1.90; Lady Washington, No. 1, 2.90@3.00; small white, No. 1, 3.25@3.35; small white, No. 2, 3.00@3.25; black eyes, 4.50@5.00; Limas, No. 1, 5.00; Garvanzas, 4.25@4.50; American lentils, 9@10 lb.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

SHARES AND MONEY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—There was a continuance today of the recovery in stocks from the weakness caused by the Pennsylvania plan for new capital issues which was already in evidence before the market closed yesterday. Pennsylvania was not fully abreast of the front rank in the recovery, in spite of its severe decline yesterday. There was a calmer feeling, however, recurred in previous speculative favorites, especially with the Harriman Pacifics, St. Paul, Northwestern and Reading. There was a residue of uncovered shorts as a consequence of a fall in prices, as occurred yesterday and the necessities of these in a rising market accentuated the recovery. There were unconfirmed rumors in connection with the strength of the Harriman Pacific of extended testimony to be offered by the Interstate Commerce Commission by the principal witness to be called, which might cause a more favorable impression on the public mind toward the corporations. The bank statement showed the expected gain in cash which practically all accrued to the advantage of the surplus, as the loan account decreased, although by a small amount. The day's report of sub-treasury operations also showed a gain by the banks of $2,724,000 which did not figure in the bank statement. Discounts rose again in London. There was some profit-taking in the late dealings, but the gains were well maintained. Total sales of bonds par value $994,000.

NEVADA STOCK LIST.

[Exclusive service to The Times by the Los Angeles Stock Brokerage Company, ground floor, Citizens' National Bank Building.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—The week closed with a booming market, with all the brokers on the San Francisco floor working like mad to fill their orders. The settlement of the Goldfield strike has been made on a sufficiently permanent basis to warrant the opinion that a recurrence of the same trouble is very unlikely. Those who sold their stocks before the strike was declared to have been settled, have been jumping over each other in their anxiety to get the securities back again, and as a result, the market is decidedly bullish. The bulls are in their element, and prices are looking up.

The era of good luck has even extended to the L. M. Sullivan Trust Company people, as a wire from Goldfield received today reports that all attachments are released from all of their different properties, and their controlling interests in various mines. This will undoubtedly clear off their obligations, and leave a good margin for themselves, and, of course, to a great extent, restore the stocks of this company to public favor.

The sensational advances of the week have been, Mohawk, which advanced from an opening on Monday at $14.00 to the price of $18.50 bid Thursday morning; Red Top, which advanced from $3.25 to $4.50, and Jumbo from $3.50 to $4.50; Goldfield Mining and Laguna, the two other merger stocks advanced about 50 points each, and showed great strength at the close. The $50,000,000 Consolidated Mines Corporation touched the $11.00 mark, and in spite of the sharp decline, due to profit-taking, will undoubtedly in the near future, under the present conditions, soar very high. The best informed people in Nevada and San Francisco expect to see this stock touch $25.00 a share before summer. Hardly ever before in the history of mining has a merger been formed of such high-class properties, and almost anything within reason may be expected as a result. Among the balance of the Goldfields, Booth, St. Ives, and Silver Pick advanced very sharply. The most remarkable advance of the week, however, was in Combination Fraction, which from $3.55 on Monday, advanced to $6.50, almost double its price. As naturally occurs in a market of this nature, the great strength of the leading stocks has had a wonderful stimulating effect on the minor issues, and advances of from 5 to 20 points are recorded in almost every Goldfield stock. Tonopah, Bullfrog and Manhattan district stocks all shared in the rise and show considerable strength.

The Joseph Ball Copper Company

OWN 640 ACRES OF PATENTED GROUND and
9 MINERAL CLAIMS ADDITIONAL.
A TOTAL OF 820 ACRES.

Property located near Glendale, Oregon. At a depth of only 25 feet, there has been disclosed a FOUR-FOOT VEIN OF COPPER GLANCE THAT AVERAGES 40 PER CENT. COPPER, besides carrying gold and silver values. From this vein the Company will ship a carload (15 tons) of ore every other day and will net at least $3000 per car. Only 100,000 shares of treasury stock will be sold and this stock will then be listed on the Los Angeles and San Francisco stock exchanges. As soon as three miles of wagon road to the property can be completed and it is expected that the Company will be on a dividend paying basis within 90 days from that time. In addition to this rich vein, the croppings of which have been traced for over a thousand feet, there are other first-class prospects and it may be deemed advisable to develop them either through subsidiary companies or leases, in which will retain control. This is beyond doubt the best Copper Stock on the Market. Full reports, ore samples, etc., at our office. The balance of the second allotment of 25,000 shares at 35 cents per share will soon be sold. Write for prospectus. Wire your reservations at our expense.

ORE SHIPMENTS WILL BEGIN

Home Telephone and Telegraph Company

OF SPOKANE

First Mortgage of 5 Per Cent. Sinking Fund 30 Year Gold Bonds

Secured by deed of trust to the Title Insurance & Trust Co., of Los Angeles. Dated May 15, 1906. Interest May 15 and November 15. Due May 15, 1936.

These bonds are a first lien on the entire property of the company now building a modern telephone system in Spokane. Public sentiment strongly supports the installation of independent telephone systems in Oregon and Washington. Contracts already received indicate that all estimates of earnings will be exceeded. We were also the underwriters of the bonds of the Home Telephone Companies of Portland and Puget Sound, which are now off the market. As indicating the enthusiastic public support given these independent companies, in Portland the original contract was for 5000 phones, and already 12,000 subscribers have been secured, far exceeding all expectations. The same support is being given the Independent Company at Spokane, and we very strongly recommend the purchase of these securities.

We Offer a Limited Amount of the bonds of the Home Telephone & Telegraph Company of Spokane, subject to prior sale and advance,

At Par with 50 per cent. Stock Bonus

during the construction only. There is every indication that the invariable profit accruing to the early buyers of Home Telephone Securities elsewhere will be duplicated in the Northwest Independent Companies. Special booklet on application.

STOCK CALL LIGHT, ASSOCIATED LEADS.

SATURDAY again was a dull day on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange, especially during the call on the general securities. The demand for stocks was light, and bidding, as a consequence, was slow.

Associated Oil was the best trader, twenty shares changing hands at 47.00@47.50. Bidding opened at 45.00 and was advanced slowly, reaching high at 47.50. The stock was held at 50.00 and was offered down to 47.50, the stock closing at 47.00 bid and 47.50 asked. There was considerable bidding for futures of various kinds, the most interest being shown for calls at thirty days, 47.00@48.00 with the stock offered at 50.00@48.75. Calls at sixty days were held at 53.50@53.00, but no bid was made for them. Trading was brisk in thirty-day options at about 48 and 50. Puts, at thirty days, were held at 40.00, but no bid was made for them, and no sales were made.

Interest is still fairly strong for Rice Ranch Oil on future trading. The cash bid, however, fell 11 points, the stock closing at 1.30@1.50. Bidding for futures ranged from 1.35 to 1.40 buyer sixty, with no stock offered. Buyer thirty contracts were offered down from 1.60 to 1.50. Bids for calls at thirty days reached high at 1.45, while for the sixty-day variety as high as 1.70 was offered. No trading of any kind was carried on.

The only other trader was Central Oil, 500 shares of which changed hands at 1.15. Little demand for the stock was apparent and the close found the quotation 3½ points lower on the bid and 1⅛ on the holding price as compared with the preceding day. The close was at 1.12½@1.15. Buyer thirtys were offered at 1.16, no bidding for futures was heard.

Union Oil shows a slight improvement, closing with a ¼-point rise at 201.75@205.50. No trading was recorded. Bidding for large blocks of the stock was fairly strong, 200.00 being offered for lots of 100 shares. Odd lots were offered at 205.00 and were bid to 202.50. Calls at sixty days were wanted at 210.00.

Mexican Petroleum closed without a quotation. Olinda Land and Oil shows a loss of 1 point, closing at 16 bid and 21 asked. Globe shows a decline of ½ point to 13 bid, and 14½ asked. Continental was again bid to 16¾, and was offered down from 20 to 19, closing at those quotations. Columbia was wanted at 40 bid, but none was offered at any price.

A live bid was made for Union Provident Oil, ranging from 195 to 196, but no stock was offered. United Petroleum was offered at 360, ½ point below Friday's low offering, and closed at that with 350 bid, a drop of 3 points on the bid as compared with that of the previous day. Three shares were offered at 365@363 with 350 the best bid for the odd lot. No activity was shown by the other oil stocks.

Bidding for the first mortgage bonds of the Home Telephone Company was strong, but no sales resulted, the bond closing with 1-8 gained on the bid, at 91½. The offering remained firm at 91 3-4, Friday's holding price. Bonds of the Pacific Light and Power Company were offered at 98 3-4, but the bid did not rise above 98. The bid on Associated Oil bonds remains at 90, none being offered. Others were quiet and steady.

Home Savings shows the only improvement among the banking securities, advancing from 131.75 to 133. A lot of three shares at 103. Merchants' Trust lost 1 point to 95, bid none offered. First National Bank was offered at 423.

Miscellaneous stocks were quiet. Home common shows a rise of ½ point to 28.50 bid, while the offering was put down at 29.50. The preferred stock was bid to 65.25 and was offered down as low as 65.75, but later this offering was withdrawn. Santa Monica Home was bid to 12 again, and closed with Friday's offering at 14.87½. The best bidding among the miscellaneous stocks was for 1000 shares of Sun Drug Company, the bid reaching 3 points above the par of $1. None was offered. No action was noticed among the other securities.

ON THE MINING CALL.

Business on the mining call was confined to two securities, Johnnie Consolidated being the principal one. Fully 35,000 shares of the stock were bought during the call. Most of the trading was done by one broker, who has been operating extensively in the security ever since it has been listed. The prices ranged from 19 to 21 cash and reached 21 1-4 buyer thirty days, although of the entire total sold scarcely 5000 shares were under time conditions, and no buyer's options were traded in. Bidding opened with 15 offered, and 20 asked. High bid was reached at 21 and lo woffering was at 19. The stock closed at 20@21. Bidding for buyer thirty contracts were in demand at 20@21½ and were held at 20 at the opening and advanced with the rapid buying to 22 at the close. A bid of 20 was made for 5000 shares at thirty days call while the stock was held at 22 under these conditions. No large blocks changed hands.

Gold Coin was the only other trader, 1000 shares selling at 2. The stock closed at 26 bid and 30 asked. Little attention was paid to Clark Copper, which closed at 50@59. Furnace Creek rose to 2.75 bid, none offered. Furnace Valley was bid to 48 and was offered at 55 cash and at 60 buyer sixty days. No change was made in the quotations ruling California Hills and no trading of any kind is reported in this security. Cyrus Noble was bid to 12 and offered from 18 to 16. Some bidding was carried on for futures in Nevada Searchlight, but no sales were made.

The demand for Quartette was exceedingly strong, although the bidder was wanting a lot of but ten shares, offering as high as 17 for a lot. The bid on the board lot of 100 shares continues strong at 13. None was offered. Hecla Consolidated Mines, which was held at $5, recently was offered to $2.75, but no bid was made.

ONE YEAR'S RECORD IN LOCAL STOCKS.

THE annual report of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange has been issued, and compared with that of last year shows an encouraging increase in the business transacted.

In total cash valuation, the oil stocks are the leaders for the year 1906, transactions in them involving $1,396,211.96. The number of shares sold was 2,232,208. Associated Oil is the leader in the total number of shares sold, 1,630,238 shares having changed hands for $739,805.50. Union Oil is next in money value, as transactions in that security involved $228,686.25 for 1183 shares. This is a better showing than that made by the Associated stock, as each share sold on the average of about $192.50. The increase in value of the Union stock is also shown well by comparison with 1905, when sales amounted to 1285 shares with a valuation of $141,275. Mexican Petroleum is next in importance, with 173,333 shares sold for $187,312.86, which, compared with the record for 1905, shows a good increase in value, as 36,000 shares sold then for $25,200. Central Oil is down with a large total of 116,773 shares, having a value of $125,361.60. The figures for 1905 are 35,000 shares at $33,950. Olinda Land Company is the next big one, with 224,550 shares for $28,721.60. This stock was not listed in 1905. The smallest number of shares of any one stock sold during 1906 was 10 of the United Petroleum for $2770.

MISCELLANEOUS SECURITIES.

The miscellaneous securities present the next largest total—$287,613.86, divided among 55,410 shares of stock. The leader is Home Telephone preferred stock, 2310 shares of which changed hands for a sum of $145,936. For the same stock in 1905 the figures presented are 1350 shares for $89,450. Riverside Home Telephone is next with a large total of $66,166.62, representing the purchase price of 1305 shares of stock. No comparison can be made with last year. The third large total is that made by the U. S. Long Distance, 511 shares of which were sold on the local exchange for $29,297. In 1905 the same stock sold to the extent of 380 shares for $21,560.

THE BONDS.

The value of the bonds sold during 1906 exceeds the bank total of transactions. The total amount of money involved in the purchase of bonds being $268,718.75 for 371 certificates. The largest trading was carried on in Riverside Home Telephone and Telegraph Company's paper, a total of $70,701.25 being invested for 158 bonds. The first mortgage bonds of the Los Angeles Home Telephone Company are next in line with a total of 55 bonds and a valuation of $51,443.75. Transactions in the same paper in 1905 were much larger, 201 bonds changing hands, involving a total of $194,440. During 1906, 40 bonds of the Pacific Light and Power Company sold for $40,015. In 1905 the total was larger, 75 bonds being traded in with a valuation of $76,125. The first refunding bonds of the local Home company sold to the extent of 35, for $29,535. These were not on the market in 1905. Associate Oil bonds reached a total of $21,846.25 for the small number of 24. In 1905 80 were sold, with a valuation of $72,000.

BANK STOCKS.

Bank stocks are last on the list in amount of money involved, with a total of $123,197 for 800 shares. During 1905, 549 shares changed hands for $85,726. Following is the record of bank stocks selling during 1906:

American National, 195, $22,707.50; Broadway Bank and Trust Company, 10, $1550; First National, 71, $31,144; German American Savings, 74, $23,738; Merchants Trust Company, 180, $17,910; Mercantile Trust and Savings, 40, $2660; National Bank of California, 10, $3000; State Bank and Trust Company, 220, $20,487.50. Total shares sold, 800; total amount, $123,197.

MINING STOCKS.

Among the mining stocks, business has been fairly brisk during 1906, shares to a total of 4,106,340 being traded in, having a total value of $912,275.24. No comparison can be made with 1905 as the report for that year does not mention the mining stocks.

Johnnie Consolidated has been the leader through the past year, having been traded in to the extent of 1,129,250 shares, which are down in the report with a valuation of $207,943.75. Furnace Creek copper transactions amounted to 38,050 shares, having a value of $139,793, Nevada Sarchlight was a strong trader during the earlier part of 1906, 713,500 shares changing hands at a valuation of $79,775.37. Recently Clark Copper was traded in strongly, 122,756 shares having been passed back and forth on the floor for a sum of $91,585. Hecla Consolidated Mines was a good trader early in the year, 58,050 shares going in at $56,519.50. Other mining stocks also were dealt in extensively.

RECAPITULATION.

The following table, recapitulating the amount of business done on the floor of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange during 1906, shows that $2,988,016.81 have passed through the books for 6,394,758 shares, and bonds of the various companies listed, divided as follows:

	No.	Value.

CHANGE NEWS AND GOSSIP.

Inquiry into the cause for the strong bidding for Sun Drug Company on the floor of the Stock Exchange, Saturday, brings out the fact that M. S. Gregory, a former member of the exchange, and a well-known broker in the city, has been an extensive purchaser of the security during the last two weeks. Mr. Gregory admitted that he had obtained control of practically all the unissued stock on the market, having purchased fully 22,000 shares within the last two weeks at prices ranging from par to $1.03⅝. He has been purchasing for a client, and now has all but 1000 shares of outstanding stock under cover. The reason for this extensive purchase, Mr. Gregory said, was an increase in dividend from 8 to 9 per cent. This increase was declared at the meeting of the board of directors December 28, 1906. At that time J. J. Judson, formerly of Salt Lake, where he is well known as a successful wholesale drug man, was admitted into the directorate of the company, and has since been buying the stock. Mr. Judson will take an active interest in the affairs of the company. There are 74,000 shares of the stock still unissued in the treasury, for which a price of 1.15 a share has been offered, and been refused. The book value of the stock is $1.32, and an invoice, completed January 11, shows a substantial increase since then. The company have been carrying over a sinking fund of $18,000 yearly to decrease their indebtedness, and has been paying an 8 per cent. dividend regularly for several years.

The extensive buying of Johnnie Consolidated, Saturday, does more to confirm the rumor that a syndicate is attempting to gain control of the company as was told in Saturday's Times. Further information, gleaned from the local brokers, has it that an option of $25,000 has been put up on 51 per cent. of the controlled stock of the company.

The continual drop in Associated Oil stock, in the face of the news of the increase in dividend in February, gives considerable color to the mere whisper of a rumor that has been bruited about to the effect that the company is intending to pass their dividend instead of increasing it. Many brokers and investors cannot otherwise answer the question put to them in the face of the steady decline of the security.

TWO MEN BADLY INJURED.

Laborers Struck by Falling Tree Near Newhall—One's Back Broken, Other's Legs Crushed.

A telephone message from Newhall at 12:30 o'clock this morning informed the police of a serious accident which had happened there last evening, in which two men were terribly injured. The victims are laborers, and while working near Newhall, cutting wood, a large tree fell on them, pinning them to the ground. When other laborers got them out it was found that one of the men had sustained a broken back, and that the others' legs were crushed. The injured men were placed on a south-bound train and started for this city. The message to the police asked that preparations be made to receive them early this morning at the Receiving Hospital. An effort was made to induce the County Hospital authorities to care for the men, but they were refused admission to that institution. The names of the men were not given in the message received at the Police Station.

DIES FROM HEART FAILURE.

B. F. Longwell, 62 years old, was found dead in an outbuilding at the rear of his home, No. 207 West Fifty-sixth street, last night. A deputy coroner investigated the case and reported that Longwell died from heart failure. Longwell was an Ontario rancher for some years. His remains were sent to Sharp & Son's morgue.

DETECTIVE ESCAPES FIRE.

Bringing Prisoner from Portland When Explosion Sets Cars in Blaze. Blum in City Jail.

Detective Charles Jones and Nathan Blum, alias N. Jacobs, escaped being burned to death in a train fire at Junction City, Or., Thursday night. The officer was bringing the prisoner to Los Angeles from Portland. They arrived in this city last night and Jacobs is locked up in the City Jail.

For several years Blum has been securing money by dishonest means, the officers say. Recently he represented himself as a United States Secret Service agent to a ticket broker at No. 211 South Spring street, the police say, and passed a check for $50 by forging the name of Leo Youngworth, the United States Marshal.

From Los Angeles the officers state that Blum went to Bakersfield and secured $100 more on Youngworth's name. Again in Seattle he is said to have secured more money. He was arrested in Portland on the charge of impersonating a United States officer.

On Thursday night an oil-supply tank exploded and the engine and train soon caught fire. Jones and his prisoner were awakened about the same time and ran from the car. For over an hour Jones and Blum were forced to stand about in abbreviated costume.

LOOTS CASH REGISTER.

After Four Successful Expeditions to Cafeteria Hamby Is Caught—Alleges Hunger Was Cause.

While in the act of looting the cash register in Helen Mosher's cafeteria at No. 244 South Hill street about 9 o'clock last night, Fay Hamby was captured by a waiter. Hamby confessed that he had looted the restaurant four times within the past two months. He was taken in custody by two detectives and locked up in the City Jail. He claims that hunger led him to commit the crime.

Several weeks ago the police were told that a robber had broken into the restaurant, had taken a small amount of cash from the register and had also eaten a large amount of food. The police made an investigation, but could not secure any clew. Within a few days a similar burglary was reported.

Believing that the burglaries were being committed by an inexperienced criminal, a watch was placed, but then no further attempts were made. The officers began to suspect one of the employés, but after shadowing the man for a short time they learned that they were mistaken. Soon a third burglary was committed.

New detectives were detailed on the case and the police determined to make a strong effort to capture the burglar. On each occasion it was noted that the robber had broken into the cafeteria by prying up a side window, and in each instance he had stolen a quantity of food.

An unusual rush of business caused the employés of the cafeteria to stay later than was their custom last night. While they were in the rear part of the restaurant, they were attracted by the creaking of a window in the front part. One of the waiters opened a door and saw a man at work at the cash register.

Telling the other employés what he had seen, the four men made a rush for the burglar. Hamby attempted to escape, but the attack was too sudden for him. He made no resistance and waited quietly for the officers' arrival.

Hamby told the officers that he had formerly worked for William Gibson, a tamale-wagon keeper, at Seventh and Spring streets, as a dish wiper. Hamby stated that he left home about a year ago and had "beaten" his way on trains about the country. He claimed that hunger, as much as a desire to gain money, led him to commit the burglary.

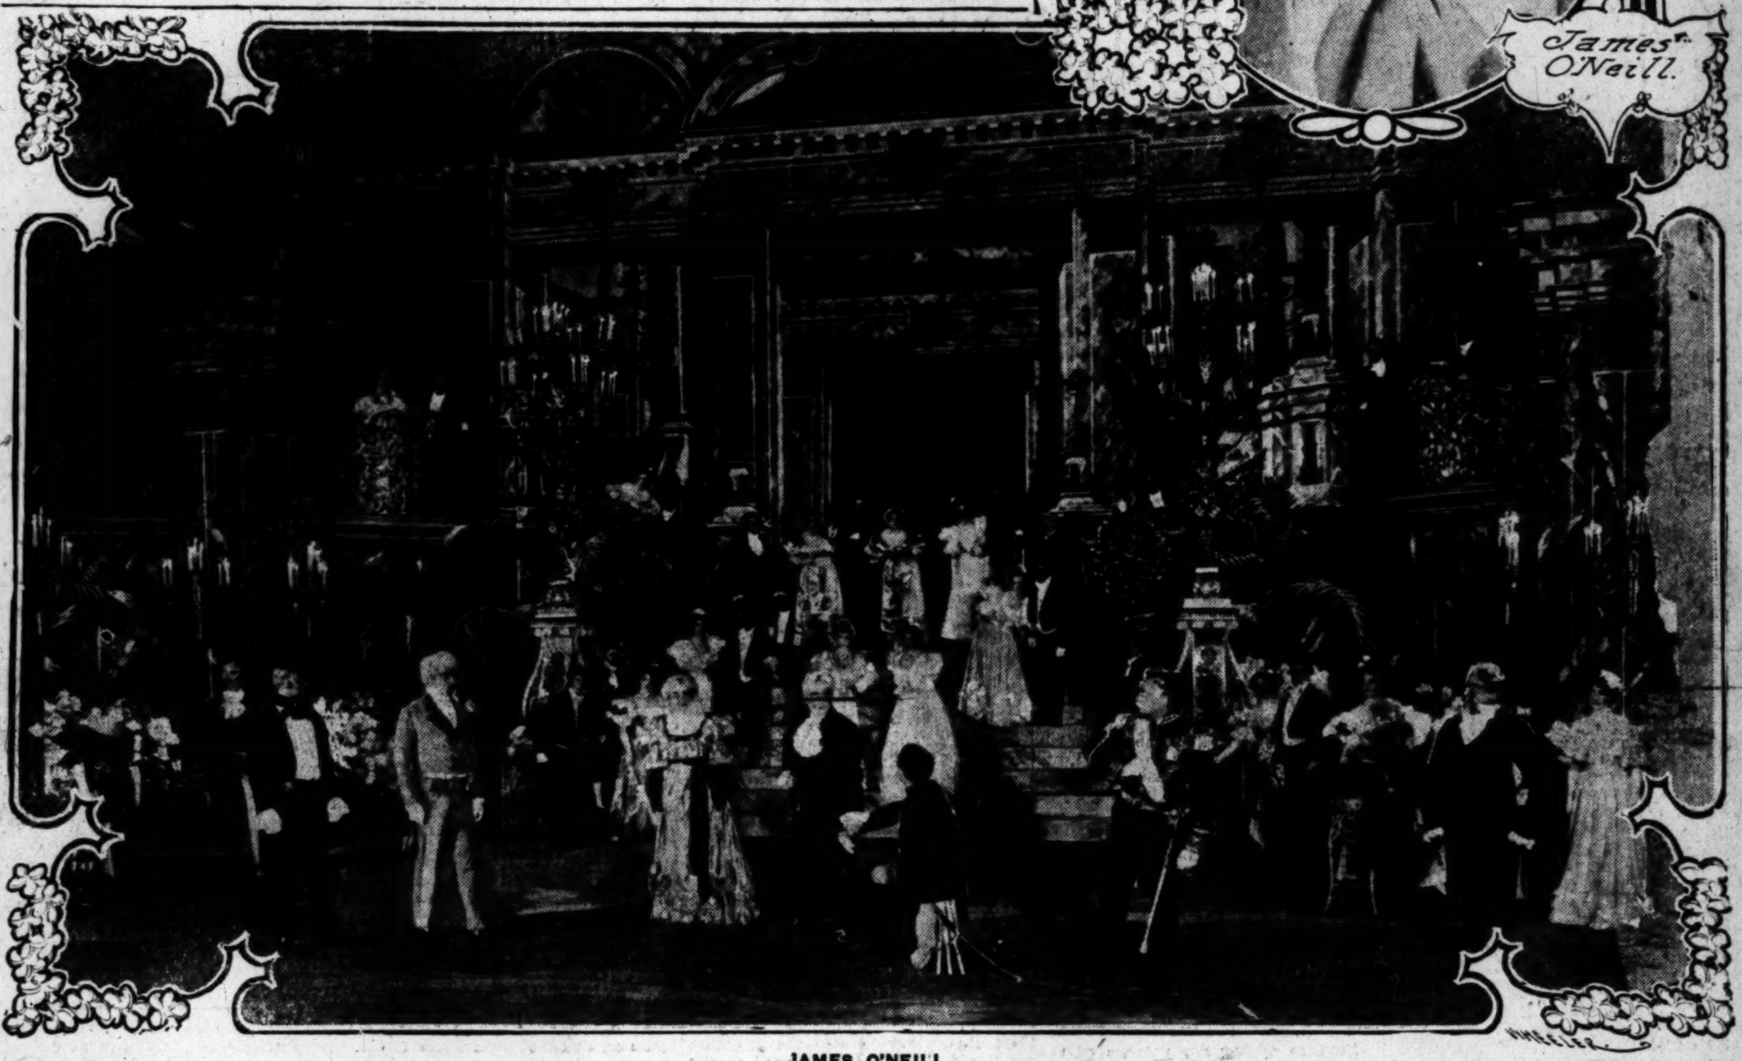
The Drama—Players, Playhouses, Gossip of the Stage.

James O'Neill.



JAMES O'NEILL.

Depicted above are Mr. O'Neill in his famous part of Monte Cristo, and the ballroom scene in the revival of the play of that name. For many years [illegible] ime of O'Neill has been identified with standard productions on the American stage, and his resumption of the famous Dumas role will vividly recall youthful memories in the mind of many a middle-aged theater patron. During the present week Los Angeles will have an opportunity of judging Mr. O'Neill's newest play, which is woven about the personality of John the Baptist.

TOPICS OF THE STAGE.

AS THE TIMES ventured to prophesy several months ago, Mr. Berry has seen fit to follow his dramatic stock with musical repertoire, and in due time will announce a summer company at the Auditorium.

Mr. Ferris's contract will expire about the middle of April, and Mr. Berry is making arrangements to follow the present engagement immediately with a musical company.

High class musical repertoire, including the standard light operas and clean, witty musical comedies of the present, will be the vehicles.

Mr. Berry says he hasn't any special principals in mind yet, but will be enabled to get some excellent ones when the time comes.

It seems at present that Mr. Fischer and Mrs. Hotchkiss will never get together on a plan of working conciliation, so that for the immediate future, at least, the Auditorium is the only place available for such a company.

Mr. Berry says that his aggregation will be fair to look upon and vocally capable and that his show will be clean and clever.

It's a mighty task today to sift cleverness from stupidity and art from vulgarity, in the run of musical stuff as we have had it, but the manager of the "theater beautiful" has the best wishes of the community.

THE LOCAL WEEK.

Mr. O'Neill's first play here, which he will present at the Mason on Monday and Tuesday nights, will be "The Voice of the Mighty," dramatic narrative woven about John the Baptist. Mr. O'Neill impersonates the central character. The scenes of the play show the rude man of the wilderness, the meeting with King Herod, the temptation by Herodias, and the tragic finale.

Wednesday and Thursday evenings Mr. O'Neill will repeat his famous Monte Cristo, which he has played more than 5000 times. Good scenery and an acceptable supporting company have been promised.

"Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall" will be offered by the Burbank Stock Company today.

The dramatization has been made from the popular novel of Charles Major, and Paul Kester, who put the book in dramatic form, is accredited with a good piece of work. Mary Van Buren will be seen as Dorothy, and William Desmond will play Sir John Manners.

The box office promises a "pretentious presentation."

"The Dictator" will be seen again on the Belasco stage during the week commencing tomorrow night.

The story, by Richard Harding Davis, concerns the experiences of Brook Travers, a young New York clubman, who with his valet is suddenly obliged to leave Gotham for South America on account of a supposed assault on an impertinent and overcharging cab-driver. Travers lands in the midst of the weekly South American "revolution," but he buys the revolting army and sets himself up as dictator.

Lewis Stone will play Brook Travers, George Barnum will be seen as the valet and Dick Vivian will be the wireless telegraph operator. Margaret Langham will flit through the piece as a vengeful señorita.

"The Holy City" will continue at the Auditorium during the coming week, postponing for seven days the revival of "The Cowboy and the Lady," with Mr. Ferris in the Nat Goodwin role.

The Orpheum bill for the week is headed by May Edouin and Fred Edwards, who appear in a sketch of their own construction. One of its features is Miss Edouin's "Laughing Song," in which she has scored success in the East.

The other newcomer is Emilia Rose, shapely maid, who offers a new act of combined juggling, acrobatics and balancing. She also presents a pair of clever trained dogs.

The remainder of the bill is made up of the road show, reviewed at length in the daily issue of The Times.

Sanford B. Ricaby's "William H. West Minstrels," who were at the Grand just a year ago, will return today for a week's engagement. The company is said to be first-class.

"The Gambler's Sweetheart," melodrama fashioned after the most approved conventions of the sensation-play, will do the week's spellbinding at the People's Theater.

Dramagraphs.

Chicago is soon to see "The Jungle." There's retribution for you!

Mrs. Carter-Paine began rehearsals of "Cleo" last Wednesday, and will give the premiere on January 21.

Felix Weingartner has just created somewhat of a surprise by the publication of a new book, in which he advocates the changes in the orchestration of Beethoven suggested by Wagner.

The latest recruits to the Independent forces are Joseph and W. W. Jefferson, sons of the late Joseph Jefferson, who are now appearing in anti-syndicate houses, as also is Mary Mannering.

Mascagni has signed a contract with the director of the Scala, in Milan, to compose a new opera, which is to be given at that theater in 1908. The book is to be written by Luigi Illica.

George W. Chadwick's tone poem, "Cleopatra," which was recently played by the Boston Symphony Orchestra in Boston, is included in the list of new compositions to be performed at the Philharmonic concerts in London in the spring.

Philip Hale, dramatic critic of the Boston Herald, has tried "George Washington, Jr.," by the standard of Aristophanes's comedies, and concludes that the Cohan show isn't half bad.

Bernard Shaw is interesting because he is original, that is to say, because he is a person to himself. He is amusing because he has an inexhaustible store of intellectual fun; he is annoying because on the whole he is unintelligible, says the London Morning Post.

London had seventy-three operatic performances last summer. Fifty-three were given in the season just closed, and these are to be followed by twenty-eight performances of German operas in February. The favorites during the latest season were "Madame Butterfly" and "Carmen," which had, respectively, ten and nine performances.

The Roman public think they have discovered another Mascagni in the person of a young composer named Virgilio. His new opera, "Jana," which he began six years ago, when only seventeen, does in some points resemble "Cavalleria Rusticana." It has two acts, with an intermezzo; the scene lies in Sardinia, and the libretto is based on a vendetta. The composer was helped considerably to success by his prima donna, Emma Cavelli, who has achieved the wonderful feat of reviving Leoncavallo's half-dead "Zaza."

Max Schillings, whose new opera, "Moloch," attracted some attention at its recent premiere, is one of the most prominent of the younger German composers. A native of one of the Rhine provinces, where he was born in 1868, he received his musical education in Munich, and has since resided there. His second opera, "Der Pfeifertag," had a run in Berlin four years ago. He is best known to Americans as the composer of a musical setting of Ernst von Wildenbruch's "Hexenlied,' which has been sung here with much success by David Bispham. His works reveal a marked Wagnerian tendency.

In the early part of December, in going from Bayreuth to Karlsruhe to be present at the production of her son's opera, "Bruder Lustig," Cosima Wagner fell seriously ill at Schloss Langenburg, in Wurtemburg, where she had been invited to stay by Prince Hohenlohe-Langenburg. Her illness consisted of serious attacks of heart-failure followed by continued suspension of consciousness. Her condition, although alarming, was not such as to cause her friends to give up hope of her recovery. According to the last dispatches received, her life is in no immedtiae danger; in fact, some slight amelioration of her condition is perceptible. In accordance with her own desire, she was removed last week to Bayreuth.

The death is announced in London of Mr. Hamilton Aidé, who was long a prominent member of theatrical and literary society in England, and achieved considerable success as a dramatist. He was the author of "Phillip," in which Henry Irving made one of his successes in the early seventies. He wrote also "A Nine Days' Wonder," in which John Hare made a great hit as Mr. Vavasour, and in 1890, he provided George Alexander with "Dr. Bill," an adaptation from the French, which enjoyed much popularity both in England and this cuontry. His "Incognito," which he wrote for Mr. and Mrs. Beerbohm Tree in their Haymarket days failed to please. He was the author of many poems, ballads, and novels.

William Gillette is as industrious as the plays he has written. While he may act only twenty weeks out of a possible fifty-two in a year, he is ceaselessly concocting and writing plays wherever he may be, on land or sea. And the plays he has written and produces for himself he subsequently rents to others in assorted lots, and these old plays give annual employment to an average of 1000 people weekly—that is, in the stock companies and popular-price traveling organizations. There are at least five companies doing his "Sherlock Holmes," while those classics, "Held by the Enemy" and "Secret Service," have never stopped running and never will. These, together with "Too Much Johnson," "Because She Loved Him So," "The Private Secretary," "All the Comforts of Home" and other of his farces, each new season swell the number employed through his pen.

Loudon G. Charlton announced on Monday that Cesar Thomson, the Belgian violinist, has been compelled to indefinitely postpone the American tour which he was to make this year. This unexpected change of plan was made necessary by an injury which the violinist recently sustained. About a fortnight ago, Mr. Charlton received the following cablegram: "Strained arm. Doctor imposes no playing next four weeks. Letter follows.—Cesar Thomson." It was hoped that the injury was not of a sufficiently serious character as to cause the tour to be abandoned, but a letter received this week brought word that the violinist would not be able to use it for several months at least. With great reluctancy, therefore, Mr. Charlton was compelled to cancel the long list of dates which had been booked. It is possible that the violinist will be able to pay America a visit next fall.

There has been a terrific pen and ink battle in the London Press between Henry Arthur Jones and Mr. Beerbohm Tree. The latter appears to have disapproved very strongly of some of the impolite remarks concerning actor-managers, which Mr. Jones made to American audiences. He even hinted that some of Mr. Jones's utterances were nonsensical. Mr. Jones was furious, and belabored Mr. Tree in a column of the Daily Telegraph. Mr. Tree had not much difficulty in showing that Mr. Jones had been guilty of exaggerations in some of his statements, but Mr. Jones not only had the best case, but was the abler controversialist of the two. But, if the plain truth must be told, the correspondence does not reflect an amazing amount of credit on either of them.

FLORENCE STONE.

Miss Stone is histrionically charming as Mary Magdalene, central figure of the current play at the Auditorium. The accompanying new photograph shows her in the part. Notwithstanding the literary crudities of "The Holy City," it has made an impression upon a certain class of theatergoers, and is to be repeated during the coming week.

The Musical World.

MUSIC AND MUSICIANS.

For the first time on the Pacific Coast, Tschaikowsky's fourth symphony, in F minor, is to be presented here on Friday. Owing to the length of the work, the orchestra will not use a soloist at this concert.

All musicians of education and intelligence develop, sooner or later, a real hobby. During his summer of invalidism, Mr. Hamilton nurtured his hobby with assiduous care, developed it insistently, and now is bringing it to full fruition.

JOHN B. POULIN.

The second concert of the Ellis Club will be given at Simpson Auditorium next Tuesday evening. The first concert of the present year was perhaps the most brilliant in the club's long history, and its success was due in great part to the magnificent direction of Conductor J. B. Poulin. For the coming recital, Mr. Poulin has in preparation several novelties.

The artistic curiosity of our symphonic director is bent strongly toward Russian music, and especially toward the melodies and themes of the giant Tschaikowsky. As Mr. Behymer relates, in his current press matter, this symphony was dedicated to the composer's staunch friend, a wealthy widow, who forwarded him each year the neat sum of 6000 rubles, in order that he might spend his time toward creative profit.

Tschaikowsky himself considered this symphony his mightiest work. It is in four comprehensive movements, yet so strangely are the themes interwoven that the listener is left much in doubt as to the real meaning of the whole. A melancholy opening is followed by yet another grave movement; the third theme is capricious and mysterious, and the finale is the picture of a rustic holiday.

The programme will open with an overture by Goldmark, given two seasons ago in this city. The closing number of the first part will be Arthur Foote's suite in E major.

Ellis Club.

Next Tuesday evenings's concert of the Ellis Club will be diversified by the music of a quintette of wind instruments, played by a number of well-known musicians. The division is as follows: flute, William H. Mead; clarinet, M. Kozlowski; oboe, Robert Messinger; bassoon, M. F. Mason; French horn, E. B. Smith. The five will offer two movements from a Beethoven quintette, the Andante from Rubinstein's quintette, Op. 55, and a Lefebvre suite.

The club will sing Bullard's "Sword of Ferrara," Kirchl's "Elfin Calls in the Woods," Nevin's "The Rosary," the chorus of bishops and priests from "L'Africaine," Spicker's "Moonlit Night," Behnitt's "Ossian," Bullard's "A Winter Song," and two new compositions by Henry Edmond Earle, of this city.

Miss Steeb's Concert.

Olga Steeb's concert will take place on Friday evening, at Gamut Hall, at which time the talented young pianist will be heard in a brilliant programme of master works.

A feature will be a piano duet between Miss Steeb and Herr Thilo Becker.

Mme. Schumann-Heink's Recitals.

Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, without doubt the most famous contralto in the world, will appear in two recitals in Los Angeles week after next.

Although her concerts were originally slated for the Mason Operahouse, dramatic dates have filled up the week there, and she will appear, instead, at Simpson Auditorium.

Moore Continues.

Director Moore has been retained for the Eastlake Park concerts during the coming year. This is an artistic good fortune, for unlike most bandmasters who cater to the regular out-of-door trade, Moore plays really good music and strives for legitimate effects.

His programme this afternoon will include Strauss's "Southern Roses" waltz, Gounod's "Philemon and Baucis," Schubert's "Serenade,' two of Moszkowski's Spanish dances, the overture to "Semiramide" and Tabani's "Russian Fantasie."

Vessella's Programme.

Marco Vessella has arranged two good programmes for his band at Long Beach today. The afternoon list will include a selection from "Tannhauser," the overture to "Orpheus," "Lieti Signor" from "Les Huguenots," and the "Pagliacci" fantasie. In the evening music of religious character will occupy the entire programme, featuring the seldom-heard "Passion of Christ," by Lorenozo Perosi, the famous priest composer.

Wilczek to Remain.

Franz Wilczek, the Australian violinist, who came here several months ago, has decided to make the city his permanent home. The improved condition of Mrs. Wilczek's health has much to do with his decision.

Bowery Grand Opera.

There is a phase of grand opera in New York this season which has, perhaps, been overlooked by the general public. In next month's issue of Appleton's Magazine, "Grand Opera on the Bowery" will introduce to the vast majority of opera-goers a unique development of its chosen pastime. Here are some excerpts from the article:

You patrons of grand opera who know the Metropolitan Operahouse and regard it as the Mecca of music, go down the Bowery to the People's Theater some Monday evening during the season of the Royal Italian Grand Opera Company and prepare to be astonished.

Down there, in contrast to the Metropolitan Operahouse, the audience comes early, although the opera begins late. It is not a popular practice to go to your seat after the opera has begun, as you will learn once you are inside.

This crowd that blocks the lobby is a refutation of the charge that the poor do not appreciate nor want grand opera. Mostly they are Italians, men, women and children, unmistakably from the confines of "Little Italy;" although here and there is a sprinkling of the other races that go to make up the East Side. In this "come early" crowd no niceties of dress are observed. They are bound for the gallery and dress does not count there.

Next to appear are patrons of the opera from a little higher strata in prosperity. These are, if one may guess from appearances, the Italian barbers, small merchants, and fruit vendors. Usually they have with them their wives or sweethearts, and bright and dazzling, from an East Side point of view, is their garb. They purchase the cheaper balcony seats, but do not secure them in advance. And now the ticket speculators "get busy," for this is one phase of opera night not peculiar to the Metropolitan Operahouse.

Meanwhile, boys have been dashing around selling librettos of the opera, and it is remarkable to see how many of these are purchased by the patrons. Evidently it is not going to be so ignorant an audience, after all.

This impression is heightened when the late comers begin to put in an appearance. They constitute the better class of the audience, the society element, so to speak.

Naturally, there are some particulars in the staging of the operas that would bear improvement; but this is no fault of Impresarios D'Amato and Ferrara, nor yet of Muschiette, the stage director. With but limited financial resources it is impracticable to give the weekly operas an elaborate setting of scenery or costumes. With the principals, the costumes leave nothing to be desired; but as for the chorus, its costumes are furnished by a costumer who evidently does not consider fit a matter of moment. Then as for the scenery, some ludicrous anachrohisms are perpetrated, as well as some absurdities. The People's Theater is the home of a Jewish stock company which suspends on opera nights, and its scenery and properties are utilized. So it is that Carmen comes tripping from the cigarette factory—so labeled on a sheet of cardboard—while the front of the "factory," which bears startling resemblance to a mosque, is inscribed with signs in Hebraic characters and has in addition an advertising placard inviting readers to "Deal at Bernstein's Clothing Emporium."

The venture was not a financial success from the start. The initiative was taken in the winter of 1904, with a quota of sixty-seven artists, the opera company trying conclusions for one week in Portland, Me. Result: loss, $1800.

However, D'Amato and Ferrara were impressed with the belief that once they could gain the confidence of the people, patronage was assured, and, as a result, arrangements were made last winter for a series of Sunday night operas in the Academy of Music. "Faust" was the first of the series given, and results surpassed the rosiest anticipations.

To convey an idea of the work accomplished by the operatic organization, it may be well to give a partial list of the operas which have been produced. This includes "Aida," "Carmen," "Faust," Lucia di Lammermoor," "Rigoletto," "La Traviata," "Il Trovatore," "Cavalleria Rusticana," "I Pagliacci," and "La Forza del Destino," the last an opera rarely produced in America. Since the beginning of the Royal Italian Opera Company there have been four sopranos, three tenors, four baritones and two bassos, all of them having been entirely satisfying to the patrons of the operas.

By the time the opera is well under way, the skeptic is convinced that, after all, these people love high class music for music's sake and that perhaps they know as much or even a little more about its correct rendition than some of those uptown opera-goers who pride themselves upon their culture. At least it is evident that this popular-priced audience will not put up with anything but good music.

The principals of the Royal Italian Grand Opera Company are well known in the operatic world. All of them, in fact, with the exception of some comparative beginners who occasionally are given some minor role, have gained at least secondary fame in the royal operahouses in Italy and with operatic organizations in this country.

Some Recent Work by Mrs. Wendt.

One of the blessings of the artist is that his fairest dreams have such a good chance of becoming fair realities. Like Du Murier's Peter Ibbetson—who, you will remember, was a good deal of an artist and once worshiped the wonderful Venus of the Louvre on bended knees—the painters of pictures and the hewers of statues have learned to "dream true." Their truth is beauty.

The rest of us, we who have not found the supreme gift of self-expression, have our dreams, too, and our love for the artist springs from the fact that he helps us to realize them. Who is my favorite artist? Why, the man who paints or chisels as I dream, of course. But my dreams change from day to day—and this is why I have so many favorite artists. One contents me today, another takes my thought tomorrow.

I strolled into the workshop of Julia Bracken Wendt, on Sichel street, the other day, and while she kept busily on with curved tools and supple fingers, magically converting a flat lump of dead clay into a living portrait in low relief, I poked about and asked questions. For 'tis even thus, alas! that a critic must try to find out how an artist has earned to dream true. He never really does find out, by the way, and this is why his quest is so ideally interesting.

Mrs. Wendt is an enthusiast. "Whoever aims at doing a thing supremely well, and does not remain content with anything below perfection, is an artist," she declared earnestly. "Art is the very keystone of the structure of life, for the artisan as well as the so-called artist. All work that is rightly done is artistically done. The humblest task may be so fittingly performed that it must be accounted beautiful."

The gospel of work, then, is also the gospel of art! Has the critic come to the end of his quest at last? Perhaps—and perhaps not.

"The world's idea of a sculptor," Mrs. Wendt continued, "is a man who models colossal statues for the high granite pedestals of public parks and museums. Why"—and her eyes kindled—"the sculptor's real business in the world lies quite as much in the modeling of serviceable and beautiful door knobs and other articles of daily use.

"My work has sometimes been criticised because it is often unconventional and out of the beaten track. But what is the use of being an artist at all if you are going to do exactly what everybody else has done before you? The true artist ought to be—nay, must be—a man of original thought. Michael Angelo and Rodin were not afraid of the unconventional. If they had been—but let us not linger over such a pathetic hypothesis."

Among the many things done by Mrs. Wendt since she came to Los Angeles, I noted an excellent portrait, in low relief, of René de Quelin, the well-known artist in stained glass. It is still in the unfinished state of a quick sketch, but it has most subtly caught the poetic character of Mr. De Quelin's fine head.

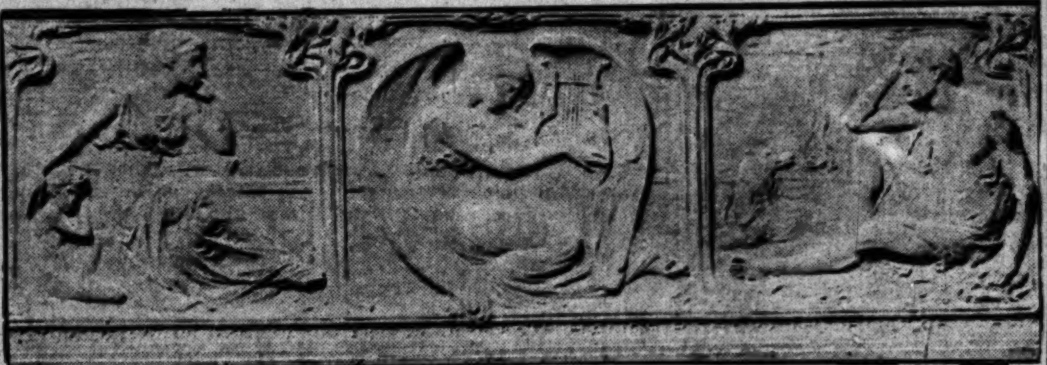
Another interesting sketch is a small clay model for a study to be called "Life and Death." The figures typifying both Life and Death are winged, Death carrying the scythe. The lines of the figures are exceedingly beautiful and rhythmical, so disposed that one can hardly tell Life from Death. The sculptor thus embodies, with a fine felicity, a great spiritual truth.

Mrs. Wendt has made a number of very beautiful mortuary urns. Among the most successful of these is an urn resting on the heads of three figures, Faith, Hope and Charity, who stand with clasped hands and with upraised wings whose curled points meet. This is fine and impressive from every point of view.

She has also recently modeled a crouching nude female figure, bent in long graceful lines over an abalone shell. This was intended for a small drinking fountain. The shell has been discarded, however, as not being quite in harmony, and something else will be substituted.

The panel which we reproduce has been cast in bronze, and now gives added distinction to a very charming room in a Louisville home. The central piece of the triglyph contains the spirit of Memory playing upon her harp, while the shepherd to the right and the home-keeping mother to the left sit and listen with yearning eyes. The child, who has just been told some wonder tale, looks with wide, far-away eyes into Fairyland. The dog gazes wistfully into the face of his abstracted master, as if painfully trying to divine and follow his thoughts. The sentiment of this well-conceived and well-executed panel is true and wholesome. The lines of the seated figures give the composition both grace and dignity.

Early in February, Mrs. Wendt will go to Chicago to execute a few very important commissions. It is to be hoped that her stay will not be a long one, as Los Angeles can ill afford to spare an artist of such noble talent.



FIRESIDE MEMORIES, BY JULIA BRACKEN WENDT.

This bronze panel, from the chisel of one of the foremost women sculptors in America, has been placed over the fireplace of a beautiful house in Louisville, Ky. Mrs. Wendt, who has recently made Los Angeles her home, will go to Chicago next month to execute a number of important commissions.

Our Bungalows.

Florence Williams has an interesting article, "The Southern California Bungalow—a Local Problem of Housing," in the International Studio for January.

The bungalow of Southern California is an adaptation of the adobe ranch-house, of the time of Spanish occupation of the Southwest, she writes.

The Spanish colonist found neither timber nor stone for his home, but everywhere could be had the blue-black adobe. So he built his house of the earth, low, of necessity, long and narrow, because the span of the roof was controlled by the length of such timbers as he could procure. It was arranged in three or four wings, forming the traditional Mediterranean courtyard, while providing shelter against marauding Indians.

Adobe has long since gone out of use, and the old ranch-house is fallen into decay; but the "bungalow," very new and thoroughly modern, has come to take its place.

The laws of the style are strongly defined; but its limitations are its graces, offering a broad working ground for the architect's skill and originality, and a most satisfactory answer to the Californian's ambition—to bring into his daily life the most of ease, quiet beauty and out-of-doors, to be at one in spirit with his country. The old long, low, quiet lines are retained, and the three or four-sided courtyard, with large, simply planned rooms opening into it.

Wood has superseded the sun-baked bricks, and introduced a charming rustic quality, which has become one of the main characteristics of the style. The exterior is incased with shakes or shingles, which are oiled or left the natural color; unplaned lumber is used; dressed stone is disapproved, the granite boulders, that abound in the waterways of California, or soft colored lava-bricks, being preferred. In the best houses, the actual construction is the decoration; the picturesque eaves and heavy ceiling beams are no sham.

Often the interior finish is entirely of wood, the originality being shown in its simple lines. The doors, with their latches, such stained glass as is consistent, the casement windows, the electric lamps, and all the appurtenances of each house are designed expressly for it. The simple furniture is often made by the same workmen who built the house, for Old World fashions look ill at ease in these large, airy rooms, which, nevertheless, have all the wealth of color that rich wood browns, greens, yellows and red will give.

This exclusive use of wood sometimes results in a suggestion of the Swiss farmhouse, and, again, as in the picturesque kitchen entrance to the home of C. S. Greene, the architect, a Japanese influence is strongly seen.

The first of those interesting homes to be built was Mrs. A. Bandini's in Pasadena. The house follows closely the old form, except that it is wood. This is especially appropriate, as the Bandinis are one of the old Spanish families of the State. The living-rooms are across the back of the courtyard, the chambers of the men of the household are in the left wing, those of the women in the right. The verandas are the hallways and the "patio," the center of the daily life. What could be more delightful than this on a summer moonlight night, when rich Spanish voices mingle with tinkling mandolins!

But of all these bungalows, Arthur J. Eddy's, in Pasadena, is the truest to tradition, she continues. Its white cement walls have all the semblance of the adobe. The red tile roof, the wide sunny courtyard, indeed all its lines speak of the old time and the Southland, with the added charm and comfort given by the thoughtful handling of a student and artist of today. For Mr. Eddy planned and designed his own house, even to the details of the furniture and metal work.

The oldest California bungalow is not yet six years of age, but the obvious fitness of the style to the land, the climate and the domestic needs, its easy unconventionality, its beauty without ornament, born of its restrictions and its usefulness, establish it as a sincere and original form of cottage architecture. There is nothing ostentatious, nothing that cries aloud of wealth, yet the bungalow gives to the man of small means all the necessities and comforts that a mansion-house could give, and to the richer man of pure quiet taste a home upon which to lavish all that his judgment will permit. It thus constitutes the solution of an interesting American problem in housing, in a manner at once artistic and democratic.

ART NOTES.

Robert Wagner's promised exhibition of paintings, figures and landscapes, will open at Steckel's tomorrow.

William Wendt will send from fifteen to twenty of his recent landscapes to a Chicago gallery early in March. He will give an informal exhibition in his studio before they are shipped away. Definite announcement will appear in this column.

Joseph Greenbaum is working some of last summer's Catalina sketches into pictures. Mr. Greenbaum sold two pictures, "Sunshine" and "Close of Day," during the past week.

The sad news arrives that William Swift Daniell was taken ill at New Orleans, and that he has been compelled to return to Los Angeles. He will arrive today.

The late rains have not deterred the artists from painting, some of them dauntlessly sallying forth to get cloud and rain effects. Hanson Puthuff has done some unusually good rain effects in oils, and C. P. Neilson has done the same in water colors.

There are twenty-nine pictures shown in the January exhibition of the Painters' Club, No. 313 Broadway. All are by painters of Southern California.

PAYS TO BE A STAYER.

A Chicago Lawyer's Experience in Connection With a Call to New York.

A Chicago lawyer whose income is one of the largest that is received by any lawyer in the country was once near disqualifying himself for receiving that income, writes John Weed, in the Workers Magazine. His experience teaches a lesson that every worker may learn with profit. There are many other experiences like it in the world of work, but many of the men who have them don't know how to utilize them.

It was when this lawyer was the junior partner in a well-known firm that his experience befell him. A big New York firm which was the eastern correspondent of the Chicago firm sent one of its junior partners to Chicago upon business. The New York man saw the young Chicago lawyer at work and admired the way in which he attacked his job. Finally he said to him:

"There is just the place for you in New York. Get your courage up. Leave the place you have made for yourself here and come with me to New York that you may make a lot more money and get higher in your profession."

Things in the office had not gone exactly as the Chicago man would have liked. There had been several disagreements and some friction that had injured his self-esteem. He listened to the tempter and he had all but made up his mind to go, when the senior partner, a lawyer now dead, went to him and seeing that he was troubled got the whole story from him.

ADVISED TO STAY IN CHICAGO.

"One of the wisest of the proverbs is, the old man said to the young man, that one which teaches that the rolling stone never gathers a superfluity of moss. You are doing well here. You will do better. You may do even better in New York, but in New York you will have to live over to a certain extent those years that you have lived here. My advice to you is to stay where you are."

The young lawyer took the advice. He worked on. He began to think less of his sensitiveness and more of the work that was there to do, and he found that he did his work so much better that nobody affronted him or annoyed him or worried him in any way.

In telling the story himself he has often said:

"My advice to young men who feel that everything is not going just as they want it to where they are is to stick it out a little while longer. 'The longest lane has its turning.' 'It is darkest just before dawn.' Those are two sayings that have a great deal of foundation in fact, or they never would have attained the popularity that they have won. 'It always looks better from a distance.' What looks better? Anything. I repeat that my advice is not Horace Greeley's to 'go west and grow up with the country,' but in most cases to stay where you are and there improve not every hour, but every minute."

COME BACK TO OLD JOBS.

Any worker who has been a worker in any field for any length of time easily can call to mind several men who have lost ground in moving. In many cases these men return to the jobs that they left. They simply have wasted the time in the interim between leaving and coming back.

One of the best things that the worker can remember is that happiness is not a matter of geography. Happiness is something that is carried inside. It does not come from scenery or people. The environment may help or mar happiness, but it cannot destroy happiness nor can it create it. Many workers think that if they only were in some other city they would do better. Sometimes they are right, although most of the men that move would, it would seem, have been better satisfied had they stayed where they were. This applies, of course, only to those workers who have been in a town long enough, as the saying is, to strike roots into the soil. There are some workers that are veritable fly-by-nights, that live in scores of towns and have a home in none of them, and that are natural wanderers, afflicted with what the Germans call wanderlust. But when the list of successful workers is being compiled there is not much time merry-go-rounds. It is has stayed in one veloped himself and has the advantage stone. Any worker with extending farther back knows this.

Saturday from 6 o'clock to members of the younger social set in compliment to Miss Louise McFarland and Leo Chandler, the men of the bridal party assisting Mrs. Miner in receiving her guests. The same afternoon Mrs. John C. McCoy of No. 17 Barnard Park held the second of her informal at-homes, a series of Dixie Land songs and stories forming the charming motive of entertainment. The recherche musicale given by Miss Lizzie Lewis of Mohawk street, when Mrs. Jones-Simmons was the honorée and the charming entertainer, was another prominent entertainment of the week's end.

MISS MARY B. McCARTHY, a Los Angeles girl who is extensively entertained in the East.

—o—

Mrs. Miner's Reception.

Mrs. Randolph Miner's reception to a hundred young maids and bachelors yesterday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock was an unusual and charming departure in the fashion of doing honor to engaged members of the social set. Miss Louise McFarland and Leo Chandler, whose wedding has been set for next month, were the honorés of the afternoon, and assisted the hostess in receiving. Instead of a long line of pretty unbonneted women assistants, the men of the bridal party helped to do the honors, including Kingsley Macomber, Jefferson Chandler, Russell Taylor, Harry Van Dyke, Ed Robertson, Kay Crawford, Sam Bonsall and Carlton Burke.

The handsome home was brightened with cut flowers artistically arranged throughout the spacious apartments.

—o—

Cathedral Wedding.

A pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Vibiana's Cathedral last Wednesday morning when Miss Julia McMahon and Frank Rogers were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed by Mgr. Harnett and was followed by a nuptial mass. The bride was becomingly gowned in white crepe and Irish lace, her veil of filmy tulle being fastened with orange blossoms. She carried a white prayer book. Miss Katie Finn was maid of honor and J. Kubilus acted as best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Rogers will be at home to their host of friends in the city at their residence, No. 957 Normandie avenue, after February 1.

—o—

Miss McCarthy Honored.

Miss Mary Barry McCarthy, who has been traveling in the East several months, is at present the guest of her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Chamberlin of Atlanta, Ga. Miss McCarthy spent two months in New York, visiting friends, and during her attendance at the New York Horse Show was charmingly entertained by well-known hostesses of the metropolis. Mrs. Chamberlin went up to New York to meet her, and en route to Atlanta the ladies stopped for a short visit in Washington, D. C. They visited there at the Navy Yard and were the guests for a few days of Lieutenant-Commander and Mrs. A. L. Norton of Washington. Miss McCarthy has been widely entertained while in the East, and the Atlanta Constitution of recent date prints a complimentary notice of her arrival. Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlin will give a brilliant reception in her honor before the close of her visit. The Chamberlins visited at the McCarthy home on Elden avenue about a year ago and made many friends during their stay. Mr. Chamberlin is a wealthy dry goods merchant of Atlanta and his wife is famed for her beauty throughout the Southern States.

—o—

Actress Entertained.

A piquant brunette beauty, Miss Jessie Izett, who is playing in Los Angeles in the Isabel Irving company, has been informally entertained at several affairs since her arrival, given by her friends, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Isgrigg.

—o—

South Gate Card Club.

The first entertainment of the year given by the South Gate Card Club will be held at the Masonic Temple, Main and Thirty-third streets, tomorrow evening. The new president, Mrs. E. W. Riggle, will preside, and the hostesses for the evening are Mrs. Ella Mitchell and Mrs. Charles Tipton. Before proceeding with whist a short programme will be rendered.

—o—

For Miss Laage.

Mrs. Grace H. Mathewson gave a box party at the Burbank in honor of Miss Laage, talented German pianist. Guests receiving with Mrs. Mathewson were Miss Theodora Baxter, Miss Dollie Leitch, Miss Anna Strickland and Edwin Leitch. Refreshments were served at the Indian Grill.

—o—

Hollywood Card Party.

A beautiful Hollywood function of Friday afternoon was the card party given by Mrs. E. L. Bogardus of Western avenue and Sunset boulevard. A number of handsome prizes were awarded the fortunate contestants, the scores being kept on cards with dainty hand-painted Japanese scenes adorning them. The home was artistically decked with violets and pink and white roses in the drawing-rooms, while the dining-room was aflame with brilliant poinsettias.

Among the guests were Mmes. A. G. Bartlett, Seward Cole, Charles J. George, Alexander Barrett, R. C. Hall, R. P. McJohnston, J. W. Morgan, E. J. Wilbur, W. A. Avery, W. R. Blackburn, L. D. Campbell, L. R. Conklin, D. J. Eastman, E. W. Elliott, Gilmer, Alan Gardner, S. W. Garretson, Herndon, Chester Hoag, R. Russell, Bobbs, Charles H. Lippincott, C. Hanchett, Edwin Palmer, I. W. Pollock, W. Squires, C. E. Toberman, C. W. Walker, S. T. Weir, Morey, H. J. Whitley, E. G. Waldron, M. C. Hayes, S. W. Stith, Van Ness, Hoar, M. C. Nason, and Misses Ware, Mary McCrellan, Pearl Herndon, Bobbs, Winstanley, Bridges, Vincentia Hall and Jessie Morgan.

Y.W.C.A. Function.

White and gold, the association colors, formed the motif of decoration at one of the prettiest social affairs ever given by the Young Women's Christian Association. White roses and dewy hyacinths in golden bowls and baskets decked the festal board about which sat 120 bright-faced, alert young women, members of the five clubs connected with the entire organization. These were the Adelphian, the Business Woman's Club, the Hermosa Club, the Indoor Outdoor Club, and the young Victorias.

Mrs. Frank A. Dewey, president of the association, presided, and when the second course was reached an enormous salad was placed before her, formed of bright tissue paper lettuce leaves.

"We are entering upon a new year and a most strenuous year," said Mrs. Dewey, as she prepared to mix the salad. "To make a success of it, we as club members have a tremendous responsibility, and to help us may the ingredients of this salad be well mixed with our lives. Let us have perseverance, and with it much of the oil of kindness, mix it with a spice of wit, and put in great quantities of the salt of love." At the conclusion of this speech two bright lettuce leaves were laid upon each girl's plate, and she read from them good resolutions for the new year.

The toasts that were given included "Our first home," by Miss Margaret Henderson, who gave a telling and jolly little sketch of the trials and tribulations, and the merry happenings of the first humble beginning of the association in Los Angeles, the association which now stands as the largest in the world. Miss Lilla Vance talked about "Our Club Members," and toasted them in royal fashion. "Our Club Stunts," by Miss Maud Oyler was excedingly entertaining, and then Miss Tatham gave the cap sheaf to the evening by talking to the members about the new home they are soon to have and the methods by which the greatly desired building is to be erected. One by one the attractive features were pictured, and mention was made of the gymnasium.

"Gymnasium, gymnasium,
That's what we're in for,
That's what we yell for,
Indoor Outdoor.
Gym club, gym club,
Y.W.C.A.
Hurray."

This astonishing and vociferous yell from the Indoor Outdoor Club fairly woke the echoes, and the evening was finished with jollity and social good fellowship.

Dixie Songs and Stories.

Charming in its conception was the informal entertainment given by Mrs. John C. McCoy at her home, No. 17 Barnard Park, yesterday afternoon, being the second of a series of at homes held by this delightful hostess. The songs and stories of Dixie land formed the special phase of entertainment for the afternoon. Mrs. W. S. Bartlett, always an inimitable raconteur, told stories illustrative of child life in the South which were both ap-

Forerunners of Spring

Cheney Bros.' Foulards

It's a wise woman who chooses her summer gown from the first spring arrivals. She finds complete assortments; the very prettiest patterns; absolute newness and crispy freshness in all that's shown her. Particular dressers will take readily to these new silk styles. Designs and colorings are so entirely different from those of past seasons, and every yard of this silk is guaranteed spot proof, shower proof—nothing short of grease can spot it. That's worth remembering when you are out to buy your summer frock. Everybody knows how the Cheney silks wear—knows there's no wear-out to them. See the new styles early.

Imperial Taffetas 85c yard

Spring styles in fancy soft taffetas—a grade that we guarantee will not split or crack or cut. Novelty checks, stripes, hairlines and little blocks; white grounds with all the wanted colors for spring gowns or waists. 85c yard.

New Waisting Silks

Plaids and fancy stripes expressly for waists will be shown tomorrow in a multitude of pretty designs. Every color combination, including a splendid showing of white and black plaids and stripes. Up from $1.00.

New Wash Goods

Tomorrow you can get a fair idea of what Fashion has to offer in tub goods for spring wear; and, our word for it, you'll not be disappointed.

Novelty Ginghams 12½c

New weaves and designs in the prettiest colorings imaginable. Odd looking plaids and checks, with jacquard figures. These will be pretty for any style gown. And they wash. Yard, 12½c.

Fancy White Swisses 30c

New designs for waists and gowns in plaids, dots, squares and small embroidered figures. Fine sheer qualities at 30c yard and on up to 75c.

Japanese Crepes 18c

A just-arrived line of fancy Jap crepes in attractive floral, figure or landscape designs, drawn in the characteristic Japanese style. These expressly for kimonos, negligees and other house garments. 18c.

12½c Outing 10c Yd

100 pieces heavy, warm outing flannel are listed to go this week at a reduced price—a price that you'll not be slow about taking advantage of. Stripes, checks and plain colors of every wanted shade. Regular 12½c quality at, yard, 10c.

Appreciation

We appreciate the fact that ladies of this city are finding our CORSETS both perfect in fit and satisfaction, and the dressmakers and suitmakers (as well as physicians) are endorsing them. To those who have not given our corsets a test, we invite you to inspect them at your earliest opportunity. Every pair is custom-made and filled with genuine whalebone. Expert fitters are constantly in attendance and will see that you get the proper model.

Our Lingerie is exceptional in value and style, and needs but to be seen to be appreciated. Always ready to display our goods, whether you purchase or not, at pealing and humorous, containing true pictures of the old plantation days when the little pickaninnies made life interesting for the small white child of the South.

Mrs. Harriet S. Wright pictured the beauties and responsibilities of the old southern gentlewoman with rare acumen and appreciation, while Mrs. C. Q. Stanton's readings of the little classics of Thomas Nelson Page, from "In Old Virginia," brought tears and laughter to every true Southerner. Miss Bess Welch added the one needed touch to the programme, giving sweet echoes of long ago in the old southern melodies she sang. The special guests for the afternoon were: Mrs. Joseph Bartlett of San Francisco, who is the house guest of Mrs. W. S. Bartlett, Mrs. Stirling Price Broughton of St. Joseph, Mo., who is the guest of Mrs. Powell of this city; Mrs. Victor E. Shaw, formerly of San Diego, and Mrs. C. T. Overton of San Francisco. Other unbonneted ladies were Mrs. Frank E. Walsh and Miss Margaret Goetz.

Wilshire Five Hundred.

The Wilshire Five Hundred Club was entertained last Thursday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Leachman Jones at their home in Westmoreland Place. The first prize for clever play was won by Mrs. William Orcutt, the first prize for the men being awarded to W. L. Stewart. The members of this club are: Mr. and Mrs. Martin E. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Shepherd, Mr. and Mrs. William Orcutt, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Searbourne, Mr. and Mrs. Ed C. Hennessey, Mr. and Mrs. William W. Ramsey, and Mr. and Mrs. William L. Stewart. Mrs. Shepherd will be the next to entertain this card club at her residence on West Sixth street.

For Mrs. Hersey.

Mrs. Frank Thomas and Mrs. Edward D. Silent entertained Friday with a buffet luncheon and whist party at the residence of Mrs. Silent on Severance street, in honor of Mrs. Ralph Hersey of San José, who is visiting in Los Angeles and in Hollywood.

Mrs. Coate's Luncheon.

Mrs. Harry R. Coate gave a luncheon last Thursday at the Jonathan Club in honor of the Worthy Grand District Deputy Inspector, O.E.S., Mrs. Ella I. Mitchell, and the worthy matron of Southgate Chapter, O.E.S. It was a violet luncheon, large bouquets of violets and ferns forming the centerpiece, with place cards in violet decorated with beautiful Grecian heads. The invited guests were: Mmes. George A. Hart, Motley Flint, Willis Mead, John C. Cribb and Mary Skellman; toasts being responded to by the worthy grand matron, Mrs. Anna Dudderra, Mrs. Ella I. Mitchell and Mrs. Addie F. Dunn.

Society Art.

A number of society women interested in the study of art have arranged for a series of lectures to be given by Mrs. Eleanor Bingham of Chicago during her month's visit to the Coast. The first will be given at the residence of Mrs. Joseph Banning next Tuesday morning and will deal with Japanese art and the Japanese people. The second of the series will be given at the residence of Mrs. Dwight Whiting, the same set being also scheduled by the ladies of the Maryland Hotel for the immediate future.

Mrs. Hughes Entertains.

Violets and white hyacinths in low bowls breathed their exquisite fragrance over the luncheon board, and were a delight to the eye at the charming affair given by Mrs. West Hughes, Friday, in honor of Miss Margaret Lee, who is soon to marry Roy Koster, and Miss Edith Herron, one of the season's debutantes. Covers were laid for twelve, places being marked with gold monogram cards which are characteristic of Mrs. Hughes's distinctive affairs. The guests were Misses Margaret Lee, Mary Lee, Edith Herron, Susie Carpenter, Anne Patton, Mary Hubbell, Helen Newlin, Helen Chaffee, Louise McFarland, Workman and Murietta.

MRS. E. W. RIGGLE,
the new president of the South Gate Card Club.

Honors Mrs. Jones-Simmons.

Exceedingly charming though simple in appointment, was the musicale given yesterday afternoon by Miss Lizzie Lewis at her attractive home on Mohawk street, at which, Mrs. Jones-Simmons was the honoré.

Roses in varying shades graced the different rooms, in combination, with ferns, and other soft greens, while scarlet geraniums, and fetching bows of satin ribbon of the same hue, brightened the cosy dining-room.

The musical programme given was most artistic, the guest of honor, who is the possessor of a splendid contralto voice, delighting the guests with her music. She is a pupil of Shakespeare, and the caressing velvety tones of her voice, are surpassingly sweet and satisfying to the ear. She sang "Hindu Chant," (Bemberg,) and "The Lord is Mindful of His Own," from the oratorio of "St. Paul." Arthur Forte's "Wearing a'wa Jean" was a dainty bit, full of poetry. Brahm's Cradle Song, "Annie Laurie," and "Oh That We Two Were Maying," (Nevin,) were other delightful numbers given by Mrs. Jones-Simmons. Miss Grace Hilgen, a bright young miss, gave most excellent piano number in fine style.

Richard L. Phister, a young tenor, and a pupil of Mrs. Jones-Simmons, sang "Arioso," from "Il Pagliaca," and "La Nina Conzone," (Tosti.) His voice has beautiful and clear tonal quality, and he uses it artistically..

In receiving and entertaining, Miss Lewis was assisted by her aunt, Mrs. William M. Lewis, and by the Misses Agnes Bethune and Lucille Leovy.

Those who accepted invitations to this charming afternoon, were: Mmes. Adna R. Chaffee, Hancock Banning, West Hughes, William D. Woolwine, Thomas Lee Woolwine, Albert M. Stephens, Dwight Whiting, Rufus H. Herron, Henry Albers, Jarvis, William M. Lewis, W. H. Johnston, A. B. Barrett, Robert D. Clark, Donald Frick, Alexander T. Patton, Charles J. Seago, Jefferson Paul Chandler, J. A. Anderson, J. D. Bethune, W. C. Reed, A. J. Chandler, Sheldon Borden, E. W. Britt, Lewis Williams, O. H. Churchill, Fry, Charles Greene, Dan Murphy, Rosalie Breeden, and Misses Lucille Chandler, Sara Goodrich, Helen Chaffee, Huston Bishop, Katherine Thompson, Edith Herron, Marion and Gertrude Churchill, Bethune, Agnes Bethune, Grace Hilgen, Lucille Leovy, Dickinson and Helen Parcells.

MRS. MICHAEL J. CONNELL, who will act as patroness at the next Assembly dance.

Mrs. Jones-Simmons is a Californian, and recently from San Francisco. She is a most gracious and charming woman, tall and handsome, her stately beauty crowned by a halo of snowy hair. Young and fresh looking, as she is, her hair of silvery hue, adds an air of distinction. She will be an addition to local musical and social circles.

Spanish Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Walter Hainsworth of West Seattle entertained with a Spanish dinner at Casa Verdugo, Glendale, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. V. Price Brown and family of Brand boulevard.

Parsonage Wedding.

A charming little wedding took place last Thursday morning at the parsonage of the Pico Heights Congregational Church, when a lovely native daughter, well known in Los Angeles, Miss Gertrude Schafer, and Walter L. Smith, favorably known in the business circles of the city for the past fifteen years, were quietly married, Rev. J. M. Schaefle, the pastor of the church, officiating.

The rooms had been beautifully garnished with carnations and smilax, and the youthful bride made a charming picture, gowned in golden brown broadcloth, with picture hat of the same shade, trimmed with ostrich feathers. Her sister, Miss Bertha Schafer, acted as bridesmaid, and the best man was Mr. Smith's brother, Thomas E. Smith.

The ceremony was performed at 10 o'clock in the morning, the young people leaving on the afternoon train for San Diego, where they will remain for several days, and then proceed to Old Mexico, where they will spend their honeymoon going from place to place of interest. They will be at home upon their return in their own residence, already complete and ready for occupancy, at No. 1243 New Hampshire street.

Wedded in Arkansas.

Last Thursday, Miss Helen Sachs of Jonesboro, Ark., and M. C. Harris of this city were married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Sachs, Rabbi Sessluer officiating. Only the immediate family were present. After the ceremony a sumptuous repast was served, and during the evening the newly-married couple held a reception to their many friends.

Although the marriage took place in Arkansas, there was quite a California flavor attached to it, as the reception room was decorated with several hundred California calla lilies. The calla scheme of decoration was used throughout, even to the ices, which were moulded into the calla's graceful shape.

Mr. Harris is a railroad man of this city, and expects to bring his bride to Los Angeles in time for the reception to be given in their honor by the groom's mother, Mrs. J. L. Harris, at her residence, No. 820 Grand View avenue, next Sunday, from 3 to 5 o'clock.

The couple will spend their honeymoon en route to California, stopping a few days in Kansas City and at Cañon Diablo, Ariz.

For Miss Brady.

Miss Katherine Brady, whose marriage to Francis W. Fogwell is announced for January 23, was the complimented guest at a linen shower Friday afternoon tendered by Mrs. Paul Hancock at her residence, No. 2626 Vermont avenue.

The pretty home had been transformed into a rosy bower, with pink roses and delicate asparagus ferns decking the parlors and library, the same color motifs prevailing in the dining-room, where refreshments were served. A canopy of living green sheltered the dining table, and from it depended many numbers of tiny pink hearts and airy cupids. In the center of the table, resting upon a fern-bordered mirror, was a tall vase of pink carnations.

MRS. CLIFF RANSON CURTIS, of Portland, a charming guest in the city, who is receiving much social attention.

Guessing contests occupied the early part of the afternoon, the scores being kept on double heart-shaped cards bearing the monograms of the engaged couple. A hand-painted china plate was awarded as first prize. At the conclusion of the games Miss Brady was presented with a tiny trunk, daintily decorated and containing exquisite bits of linen. The invited guests were: Mmes. E. R. Mennell, T. C. Mennell, Robert Heffner, Wilbur Keim, Clarence Jones, Stewart Roseberry, Guy Halderman, James Hill, Augusto Dunlap, George Turner, and Misses Anna Bannister, Clara Parmalee, Sarah Miller, Ruth Brown, Frances Thompson, Edith Holder, Belle Hart, Beatrice Rone, Martha Dickinson, Bertha Hill, Lillian Murdock, Mary Cook, Lucile Zander, Lulu Cliff, Blanche Gulberson and Seviers.

Engagement Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Tomaseck of No. 818 East Forty-eighth street announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary, to Charles Sickas, the marriage to take place February 21.

Glee Club Entertainment.

The Girls' Glee Club of the Polytechnic High School is planning a masquerade, to be given January 17, in honor of the Boys' Glee Club, at Burford Hall, at No. 218 West Sixteenth street. A fortune teller and a dance will furnish the features of merry-making, the affair to be graced by the presence of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Francis. Members of the Girls' Glee Club are: Misses Mary Adamson, Marie Clark, Helen Black, Hazel Ludwick, Ruth Miller, Edith Foster, Grace Austin, Alberta Newman, Mabel Langford, Julia Koebig, Elvira Crawford, Lilian Moss, Louise Tag, Tessie Tag, Marguerite Cake, Rose Levy, Marguerite Cushing, Lucy Powell, Clara McClure, Charlotte Summers, Gwendolyn Black, Lois Sessions and Alice Addix.

Mrs. Mathuss's Guests.

Mrs. Z. D. Mathuss is entertaining rarely interesting guests from Des Moines, Iowa, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Edwards, who are prominent in Des Moines social, intellectual and business circles, and who have been extensive travelers. They will be the house guests of Mrs. Mathuss for several weeks.

Cumnock Girl.

A winsome young miss, who is doing effective work in character impersonations at various social affairs in this city and in Pasadena, Miss Maud E. Roberts, entertained a party delightfully yesterday afternoon with parlor readings at No. 6195 Pasadena avenue. "Miss Philury's Transfiguration" was repeatedly encored, the humor and the pathos being deliciously blended in the presentation of the quaint character of Miss Philury. Miss Roberts is a Cumnock girl, one of last year's graduates.

NOTES AND PERSONALS.

Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Kiefer have moved into their new home, No. 2214 West Twentieth street, where Mrs. Kiefer will be at home the first Wednesday of each month. The Averill Club will meet with Mrs. E. A. Clampitt of No. 1622 Rockwood street next Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. A. Morton Smith, Mrs. Clifton P. Weaver and Miss Weaver of No. 1830 Normandie street will be at home informally on Mondays until May.

Mrs. Percy H. Clark and daughter, Miss Florence Clark, will leave Saturday for New York, where Mrs. Clark will place her daughter in school.

OUT-OF-TOWN SOCIETY

Pasadena.

NEVER has a week in Pasadena been more crowded with social functions than the one just past, and despite the inclemency of the weather each smart affair brought together a large representation from the Four Hundred. The first noteworthy function of the week was the reception given Tuesday by Mrs. William Stanton and daughter, Miss Hannah Nevin, at their handsome home, "Grace Hill," in honor of house guests, Mrs. William Nevin and Miss Davidson. Pink carnations, violets and asparagus plumosus decorated the reception room; palms, rice plant and Duchess roses were used in the drawing room, and the color scheme in the dining-room was carried out in pink carnations and wood ferns. Mrs. A. W. Armstrong and Miss Thomas presided in the dining-room the first hour and were relieved by Mrs. Floyd Macy and Mrs. H. Page Warden. Misses Marion McGilvray, Miss Marion Armstrong and Miss Edith Rowland also assisted. There were more than one hundred present between 4 and 6 o'clock.

Mrs. James Craig and the Misses Craig gave the [illegible] week Wednesday at the [illegible] Clubhouse, four [illegible] having been extended [illegible] people of Los Angeles [illegible] The affair was [illegible] Eleanor Merrill of [illegible] of Volney Craig, and [illegible] home of his mother [illegible] floral decoration was [illegible] jonquills, narcissus, [illegible] wood ferns being used [illegible] profusion. THE "ARNOLD" KNIT DIAPERS.
Elastic and yielding, very absorbent, washes easily. This garment is so shaped that it fits the body snugly at the waist and is large, roomy and baggy at the seat, where irritations, eruptions and inflammations generally exist. The fabric is very soft and fine, making this a common-sense diaper. The "Arnold" inside squares are used with these. Sizes 18, 20, 22 and 24 square inches.

Long Beach.

MONDAY afternoon, when the weather man was doing his best to spoil the opening social of Ebell, fifty of the members gathered at the clubhouse between showers and enjoyed a delightful afternoon. The musical programme was curtailed because of the absence of some. Mrs. J. J. Penny contributed the literary part of the entertainment by an account of her recent trip to Honolulu. The programme concluded, a jolly luncheon was served, under direction of Mrs. J. M. Edgar.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Buffum entertained Sunday evening with a birthday party in honor of their father, E. S Buffum of Tulon, Ill., in celebration of his sixty-fourth birthday, and which was a pleasant family reunion.

A pretty home wedding, charming in its simplicity, was celebrated Sunday evening at the home of the bride's mother, when Miss Octavia Hingley became the bride of Oliver Porter Simpson. The ceremony was conducted by Rev. H. B. Weaver, an old friend of the family. Following a brief reception, Mr. and Mrs. Simpson left for a two months' trip to Boston and the East.

W. W. Williams of Des Moines is the guest of his daughter, Mrs. L. G. Stone.

Mrs. E. G. Putnam entertained Thursday evening at her home on Elm avenue in honor of Prof. and Mrs. Woody, visiting friends from the East. An enjoyable musical and literary programme was followed by refreshments.

In honor of Miss Epperson, who leaves soon for Denver, where she is to be married, Mrs. M. J. Robinson entertained forty young ladies of the J.O.C. Thursday evening.

Mrs. Washington Miller of Des Moines, Iowa, entertained at luncheon Thursday afternoon at the Wilsonia.

Mrs. D. W. C. Merriam was hostess Friday at a 1 o'clock dinner. Her guests were all Chicago friends or those who had traveled with her, and a feature of the afternoon was the narrative of amusing experiences they had encountered.

Miss Irma Bean of Santa Barbara was the guest of her sister, Mrs. Maxwell Swain, this week, and several social affairs were given in her honor.

Mrs. Albert S. Stevens entertained the Rathbone Sisters' Thimble Club Friday afternoon at her home on Atlantic avenue. The affair was marked by an unusually good attendance and a delightful informality.

The ladies of the Eastern Star are at work planning details for their second annual colonial ball, which will be given at the Auditorium on Washington's birthday.

Hon. Francis Colton and daughters of Washington, D. C., were the guests this week of the son and brother, George R. Colton, of this city.

Mrs. N. M. Wormley on Thursday evening gave an informal social musicale for a number of guests.

Miss Edith Joy, home from Berkeley, entertained, Thursday, at a 1 o'clock luncheon at the home of her parents. Pretty effects in blue and gold, the University of California colors, were used in the dainty appointments.

Mrs. R. S. Oakford gave a delightful dinner party, Tuesday evening, to a small party of friends. Covers were laid for eight.

Sunday evening, at the home of the bride on Cedera avenue, Rev. J. Lewis Smith united in marriage Mrs. Louise Thompson and Charles Cornwell, a happy pair who believe in the axiom that it is never too late to wed, the groom being 77 and the bride 65 years of age. A dozen relatives and friends were present.

Mrs. Will A. Betts on Wednesday afternoon entertained the T.I.O. Club at the Methodist parsonage.

—o—

La Habra.

AT THE last meeting of the Woman's Mutual Improvement Club a very interesting programme was given, which included the following numbers: "The Future of La Habra," Mrs. H. M. Cusick; "A New Year's Story," Mrs. Milton Keeler; reading, Mrs. R. Hodson; musical numbers, Mmes. T. L. and R. M. Jackson.

Mrs. H. M. Little very charmingly entertained the Ladies' Aid Society last week. After a session at which the needles were plied industriously on sewing for the church work, a dainty afternoon tea was served.

W. T. Salvin and wife have moved to Los Angeles, having sold their pretty ranch home here.

Mrs. Harry Burns has been visiting her parents in Los Angeles.

—o—

Whittier.

ANNOUNCEMENT is made of the approaching marriage of Miss Carrie E. French, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. French, to Joshua Hadlay. Both young people were until very recently of this place, but are now residents of Lindsay. The wedding will take place in the Lindsay Baptist church, on the evening of January 23.

Friday evening the Edison company gave its annual banquet at Hotel Greenleaf, covers being laid for about thirty guests. The list of toasts, proposed by Toastmaster A. L. Selig, included the following: "The District," Paul J. Denninger; "The City of Whittier," Mayor J. H. Wilkins; "The Station," B. F. Pearson; "The Mater," S. M. Kennedy; "The Cash Box," W. L. Percy; "The Board of Trade," President C. E. Tebbetts; "The Ledger," R. H. Ballard; "The Men," C. C. Fitts; "The Mains," J. M. Barkley; "The Press," B. F. Arnold, and Will A. Smith.

Preston Osborn was host at a jolly dinner given Saturday evening, the event being in honor of several fair Stanford students who were spending their holiday vacation here. The handsome dining-room decorations were all in the Stanford crimson, poinsettias adding their brilliant color to the dainty table setting as did tiny pennants and flags of the same gorgeous hue.

Miss Zella Beans, a charming Oskaloosa, Iowa, girl, is here, the guest of her school friend, Miss Edna Thornburg, of North Washington avenue.

W. Nicholl and family, of Wellington, Colo., have come to Whittier, expecting to make this their home.

Rivera.

RIVERA Lodge of Foresters held an open meeting Saturday night, a programme, refreshments and social time filling in a jolly evening.

The Presbyterian church ladies have made arrangements for a concert in aid of their work, the DeLano Guitar Club of Los Angeles being the attraction. The entertainment was to have been given on January 11, but because of the rains, has been scheduled for January 18.

The Century Club held its regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening at the Contemporary Clubhouse. Mrs. George S. Biggin made the highest score in the game of whist, having twenty-four points to her credit at the conclusion of the game. Refreshments were served by Misses Bronner, Boening, Raines and Johnson, and Messrs. Sering and Damico. The latter part of the evening was spent in dancing.

The regular meeting of the Crafton Women's Club was held Thursday afternoon with Miss Nellie Farquhar. After parliamentary drill the ladies enjoyed a delicious luncheon provided by the hostess.

J. J. Naughton entertained with a very delightful musicale Sunday evening at his home on Central avenue in compliment to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. Naughton, who recently arrived from Chicago to spend the winter. After the programme refreshments were served.

The Household Economics Section of the Contemporary Club, of which Mrs. J. A. Walton is chairman, met Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. F. W. Wood, president of the Pleasant Hour Club of Colton, read a paper on the "Evolution of the Home." Following the paper there was a discussion on the enforcement of the pure-food law.

Mrs. E. P. Whitney entertained a small company of ladies Friday afternoon with a five hundred party. Mrs. Clarence Shaw captured the first prize, a hand-made handkerchief, while the second prize, a hand-painted calendar, went to Mrs. F. C. Beecher. There were sixteen guests.

The Dorothy Club met with Mrs. Charles Nelson Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Virgil Barker read the story, "Out in the Snow," after which there was a discussion of current events. The club will meet in two weeks with Mrs. J. C. Ford.

The young ladies of Mrs. R. A. Covington's Sunday-school class of the Methodist Episcopal Church gave a very enjoyable calendar social in the Sunday-school room of the church Friday evening. Each month was represented by a young lady in her dress or adornment. Those representing the months were Emma Toll, Alice Grant, Ruby Roberts, Hazel Roberts, Lochie Darby, Cecil Sherman, Bird Toll, Grace Butler, Mrs. Covington, Miss Vineyard and Susie Sherman. Two gypsies in little tents told fortunes; there were games and refreshments were served.

The Standard Bearers of the First Methodist Episcopal Church met Wednesday evening and enjoyed a little supper in the church. Short speeches relative to the past work of the society and of its work for 1907 were made by the president, Miss Esther Durham, Miss Nina J. Leonard, Miss Oma Burns and Miss Georgia Bonnell. The calendar system, in which each member represents, either a month, a week or a day, was adopted for the year.

Mrs. J. D. Davis, vice-grand of the Rebekah Lodge, entertained a number of the lodge members with an informal afternoon at her home on Eureka street Thursday afternoon. Refreshments were served.

William Cummings and family have returned from a visit to Antelope Valley. They were snowed out.

Old-Time Penalty for Genius.

No great genius, certainly no great inventor, ever lived who was not supposed to be a little queer by some of his fellow men.

Three hundred years before Stephenson perfected his locomotive, says the Rosary Magazine, a Frenchman, Salomon de Caus, was immured in the living tomb of the Bicetre for having allowed his mind to outstrip the age in which he lived. Marion de Lorme, in a letter dated Paris, 1641, tells of a visit to this institution.

"We were crossing the court," she writes, "and I, more dead than alive with the fright, kept close to my companion's side, when a frightful face appeared behind some immense bars, and a hoarse voice exclaimed: 'I am not mad! I have made a discovery that would enrich the country that adopted it.'

"What has he discovered?" asked our guide.

"'Oh!' answered the keeper, shrugging his shoulders, 'something trifling enough; you should never guess it; it is the use of the steam of boiling water.'"

Women Prefer Pull to Push.

An observer who stands near the swinging doors of a big store in the shopping district will observe an interesting little incident that is repeated again and again until the frequency of its occurrence furnishes basis for a general deduction. Nine women out of ten pull the doors open, where choice is offered, while the same proportion of men push their way through.

Now, why do women do one thing by preference or instinct, and men the other?

Is it because women are used to answering the doorbell, and, therefore, to opening their own street doors from the inside, while some one usually lets them in when they return to the house? Is man, on the other hand, more consciously familiar with the latch key side of his street door than with the other, and, therefore, with pushing the barrier open?

Is the matter one of strength, coupled with avoirdupois, the man finding that he helps himself by throwing his bulk against the door, while woman's lesser weight is not equally effectual? Is it a question of clothes, the women seeking to protect their dainty garments by standing back, a precaution which men, more serviceably clad, do not feel it necessary to observe? Or is the difference psychological, with a social implication that man has learned that he must push in order to succeed, while experience has taught a woman the value of a pull?"

HAVE POLITICS FOR DINNER.

Official Hopes Foreshadowed in Banquet Hall.

The President Highly Honors Speaker Cannon.

Empire Gowns and Irish Point Lace in Fashion.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The second week of the new year opened and closed auspiciously, albeit the two largest events were of a distinctly political nature. Indeed, from now until the departure of possible Presidential candidates from the city, following the adjournment of Congress on March 4, the ebb and flow of political hopes and Congressional happenings will be foreshadowed or reflected in the drawing-room, or rather in the dining-room of the popular official hostess.

President and Mrs. Roosevelt started the political dinner fad by entertaining in honor of Speaker Cannon and Miss Cannon, the occasion having the more significance because never before had a President so honored a Speaker of the House of Representatives. A nice question of social precedence also loomed up in this connection. Speakers from time immemorial having contended that they outranked Cabinet officers or members of the Federal Supreme Court. No authoritative decision has ever been rendered in the matter, but society is now inclined to the belief that the President's recent courtesy to Speaker Cannon will go far toward establishing the latter's claim to precedence over the Cabinet and Supreme Court.

Following the example of their chiefs, Vice-President and Mrs. Fairbanks gave a reception to the Senate on Wednesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Everybody, all the little Everybodies, and even a few ugly ducklings were among the invited. The result was such a show of hospitality as has not been seen in Washington for many a day. The house, a stately graystone building facing Farragut Square, was brilliantly lighted and decorated for the occasion. For two hours or more a living stream flowed up the grand stairway, at the head of which stood the host, ready to greet each guest by name and then present him or her to Mrs. Fairbanks. The latter, who has but recently recovered from an attack of grip, looked very handsome in an American-made gown of light material, trimmed with rare lace and few furbelows. Mr. and Mrs. Fairbanks were the picture of health and vigor, far too young looking to bear the honor of grandparenthood, which has recently come to them.

Here, there and everywhere among the guests were Mrs. Timmons, the Vice-President's daughter, and his daughters-in-law, Mmes. Warren and Frederick W. Fairbanks, who came for the holidays and remained over for the reception. In the dining-room, where a light collation was served, presided several Senators' ladies, chosen without reference to their husband's political creed.

Not to be outdone at their own game, Senator and Mrs. Foraker are planning an evening reception for a date in the near future, when every one with the ghost of an acquaintance with Ohio's popular Senator and his still more popular wife is expected to cross the threshold of their home.

Secretary and Mrs. Taft will be next in line for a big affair on the same lines as that given by them last year in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth and the rest of the Philippine party.

Secretary and Mrs. Shaw will mark their retirement from the Cabinet circle by a function in honor of the Iowans in and out of Congress; the Cannons will invite tout le monde to meet the Illinoisians, and, incidentally, every one present will be given a first-class opportunity to note how well the daughter of the house discharges her duties as an official hostess. Thus again will "coming events cast their shadows before."

While these large affairs are good from a social standpoint, personal preference is still given to little dinners made up of eight or ten guests, for these afford a chance for real conversation, which is not possible at more formal functions. Bridge or music usually follows these dinners, and longer sleeves are growing in favor as an adjunct to the slightly decollete dresses adopted for these occasions by the ladies. Scarfs of radium silk or mousseline de soie are also worn and invariably contrast in color with the gown.

Speaking of clothes reminds me of the marked revival of the empire style, which, with innumerable variations, has been seen at every smart affair this season. Artificial flowers and an occasional bunch of wonderfully made fruit are running their little course as the favored decoration of a really handsome gown. With a costume so decorated, milady of the hour uses the corresponding perfume—violet water with violets, rose water with roses and so on ad infinitum.

From the number of Irish point lace gowns seen at a recent reception at the White House, it appears that the leaders in Washington society are generously coöperating with Lady Aberdeen, wife of the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, in her efforts to spread the vogue in Irish lace, and thus aid the Irish working girls. Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Fairbanks each have a robe of beautiful design, and the latter has also a miniature set of appliances for making the lace, which she received as a gift from Lady Aberdeen at the time others in her circle received a similar present. Explaining the various contrivances makes an entertaining way of passing the time on official days "at home."

To be thought modish by the younger set one must boast an afternoon or evening frock copied from an old master. The portraits of Gainsborough, Reynolds and Sir Peter Lely, which so long have been the recognized inspiration for fancy ball costumes, are now being studied for modes for gowns to be worn on more prosaic occasions. Of those who have adopted this fad, Miss Evelyn Walsh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh of Colorado and Washington, is perhaps the most zealous. Having sought inspiration from Gainesborough, Miss Walsh affects his style in almost everything she wears, with a result that is maddening to her less artistic mates.

One of the prettiest affairs of the week was the luncheon given on Friday by the German Ambassador and Baroness von Sternberg. Covers were laid for fifteen guests, the list including Representative and Mrs. Longworth, and the latter's cousin, Miss Corinne Robinson, a recent visitor at the White House; Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt and Miss Eddy of New York, Mrs. Corcoran Thom, Miss Warder and Henry Adams, son of the historian, Mr. Higgins of the British Embassy, and Count Hatzfeld, Herr von Radowitz and Prince zu Lynar of the host's embassy.

Mrs. Russel Alger, wife of the retiring Senator from Michigan, is an almost daily hostess since the arrival of her house guests, Mrs. Garret A. Hobart, Sr., and her own two daughters, Mrs. Bailey of Harrisburg and Mrs. Pike of Chicago. To the luncheon on Saturday, which was especially in honor of Mrs. Hobart, the following ladies were invited: Baroness von Sternberg, formerly Miss Langham of Kentucky and New York; Mrs. Hale of Maine; Mrs. Foraker of Ohio; Mrs. Dryden and Miss Kean of New Jersey; Mrs. Burrows of the hostess's State; Mrs. Gillespie of the army and navy set; Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh, Mrs. Charles E. Foster, Mrs. Mann, Mrs. Butler, Mrs. Anderson, Miss Thompson, Mrs. Bailey and Mrs. Pike.

Hon. and Mrs. James R. Garfield, the former soon to be Secretary of the Interior, have issued invitations to a dinner, January 17, to meet Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Brown, the guests going later to the reception at the White House, to be given in honor of the judiciary.

Mr. Brown, as secretary to President Garfield, and Mrs. Brown, as "Molly" Garfield, are well remembered in Washington by the circle that was just budding a quarter of a century ago. Most of these now have homes of their own in the city and are planning most delightful ways of welcoming their returning friends of former days. While here, Mr. and Mrs. Brown will be the house guests of the latter's brother, the Commissioner of Corporations for the Department of Commerce and Labor.

Miss Marjorie Ide, daughter of the former Governor-General of the Philippines, has proved such a popular guest that she has been urged to continue the round of visits she has been making since coming East for the marriage of her sister to the Hon. Bourke Cockran of New York, and will probably remain at the capital until the Cockrans return from their wedding trip abroad, in April. As an assistant at afternoon teas and receptions, Miss Ide is most charming, and is eagerly sought after by the frequent hostess. She was "on duty" Saturday afternoon, when Mrs. Albert Key, wife of the President's naval aide, welcomed several hundred guests to her new home on I street. The house, which was formerly the home of Gen. and Mrs. Benet, has dignified, old-fashioned rooms, with high ceilings and light woodwork. Here the richly carved teakwood furniture, purchased by Commander and Mrs. Key during their recent stay in Japan, is shown to advantage, and reminds old Washingtonians of the really wonderful specimens of the same kind of furniture which adorned the home of former Senator and Mrs. Stewart of Nevada, and which, with the elegance of its other furnishings, led to the place being called "Stewart Castle."

Mrs. C. Ewald Grunsky was hostess at another beautiful tea of the week, when her daughter, Miss Kate Grunsky, was formally presented to society. The house was elaborately decorated with yellow blossoms, emblematic of the débutante's native State, California, from which came also the receiving party, Mrs. Frank P. Flint, Mrs. Daniskin, Miss Pansy Perkins, Misses Madge and Gladys James (whose father, Judge Nathaniel James, was formerly of St. Louis,) Miss Ethel Whitney and Miss Jean Peddler. Residents of nearly every State in the Union called during the afternoon on this latest bud, who, like young Lochinvar, came out from the West.

Mrs. Victor Metcalf was guest of honor at a largely attended tea given on Friday by Mrs. Southerland, wife of Commander Southerland, U.S.N. The affair was arranged as a welcome to Mrs. Metcalf, who recently became an adopted member of the navy set through her husband's elevation to the Secretaryship of the Navy.

California was represented on the week's visiting list by Miss Edna Dickens, Mr. and Mrs. Friandlick, Miss N. M. Ruddock, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Saunders, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Hesson and E. V. Clark of San Francisco, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. McShaul and C. M. Carlon of Oakland, Messrs. H. H. Hall, Fred Starr and Henry Rharel of Los Angeles.

GRACE PORTER HOPKINS.

UNIQUE SOUTHERN SCHOOL.

Will Provide Children With Both Book and Industrial Education in Georgia.

It is the opinion of those who have made child labor legislation a study and who are now watching the effects of the law which prohibits children under 14 working in factories in Georgia after January 1, 1907, that the ultimate result will be the production of finer grades of cotton fabrics in the Georgia factories instead of the cheapest kind, as has been the rule.

The first step toward this goal is the Columbia Secondary Industrial School, which has just begun its initial term. It was founded under the leadership of G. Gunby Jordan of Columbus. The real cause of the founding of the school was to meet an emergency for which the State has not provided.

It is a well-recognized fact that the present school facilities are overtaxed. When the thousands of children under 14 years of age are shut out of the factories and present themselves at the schools few can be accommodated. This will be especially true in Columbus, one of the most rapidly growing cities of the State.

Mr. Jordan saw this emergency and, securing assistance of enthusiasts in the child labor legislation movement, he organized the school. Here all children who present themselves will receive both a book and industrial education.

When completed there will be eight buildings on the campus of the school, each devoted to one of Columbus' several industrial activities. The buildings will be grouped in a quadrangle, with the main building in the center. Devoted entirely to the study of cotton mill machinery, the textile building will receive the most attention from those back of the institution. Here the sons of the present cotton mill operatives will learn to be skilled weavers of both plain and colored goods of the finest qualities.

Four years' training in this building will give students sufficient training to command within a short time after they reënter the mills wages as good as their fathers are now drawing.

Things Women Never Do.

Yesterday we were asked if we ever saw a bald-headed woman. We answered "No," we never did nor did we ever see a woman waltzing around town in her shirt sleeves with a cigar in her teeth and running into every joint she saw. We have never seen a woman go a fishing with a bottle in her pocket, sit on the damp ground all day and come home drunk at night. Nor have we ever seen a woman yank off her coat and say she could lick any man in town.—[Soldier (Kan.) Clipper.

A NEW INDUSTRY.

A College Man Hires Out as an Escort and Thus Earns a Good Income.

A more agreeable way of earning a living, if one were so inclined, scarcely could be imagined than that pursued by a young Philadelphia man, writes F. J. Byrne, in the Chicago Tribune. He had had the advantatges of a good preparatory school training, and although he had gone no further than his sophomore year in one of the large colleges of the East, was well equipped, so far as gentlemanly training and a cultured manner were concerned, to enter the battle of life. Circumstances forced him to leave school and provide for himself after he had pursued the course for two years. He always had a liberal allowance and like many other young men had spent it in having a good time. When occasion arose to earn his own living he felt disinclined to give up the free and easy life to which he was accustomed for the economical existence of a bank clerk, a position which was offered to him, and during the month or so in which he was at leisure to look over his prospects the happy thought occurred to him of placing his experience and manners at the disposal of the women who wished to shop, go to the theater, and be seen in public places where the escort of a man would be desirable, for a consideration.

He broached the subject to a few friends, and in reply to their natural objections that it looked like selling his good breeding, politeness, etc., for money, referred them to the numberless rules of success given to salesmen, clerks, etc., that they always should be courteous, polite, attentive, and decently dressed, and argued that since he had the requisite amount of good clothes there was no valid reason why he should not avail himself of any talents or gifts he had to make a living. Much against their advice he began systematically to drum up trade in the new field he had discovered. He wrote to all the married and young unmarried women he knew, stating politely but clearly his intentions and assuring them that he would be glad to act as their escort, not in the nature of a servant but as a companion, on any little business or pleasure trips that they might wish to make during the day or evening. He also stated that his fee for such service was $5 for an afternoon and a like sum for the evening. He received many answers. He also received appointments some of them out of curiosity and some from a real desire to avail themselves of the service.

Things went smoothly from the first, and he steadily pursued his efforts further, sending out a certain number of letters each day to women whose names he took from the blue book. He also received many names from his clients. Most of them, of course, were women of good position, who were glad to avail themselves of the presence of a decent, well-dressed young man to accompany them to various public functions and occasionally to afternoon affairs. His method of operating was tactful. If occasion arose for spending money, such as buying flowers or lunching and in some cases dinner, and theater tickets or cabs, he always insisted on paying. There was no more demand for money on the woman's part than there would have been had she been in the company of a male friend of her own social set. The expenditures, however, were mentally kept account of and incorporated in the bill which was later sent under a personal cover to the lady who had been escorted.

In a short time the young man was besieged for dates, especially by the suburban dwellers, who realized the advantage of his company at a dinner in town and later his escort to the train. He kept a regular appointment book and applications for dates were accepted or refused according to the business already in hand.

Mr. Cassatt Was Married.

The late A. J. Cassatt, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, was walking toward his handsome home in Philadelphia with a friend when the latter said, surveying the mansion: "That's a very fine place you have there, Mr. Cassatt," "Yes," replied Mr. Cassatt, with doubtful appreciation, "but I would rather live in the country." "Then why don't you?" Mr. Cassatt looked at his friend very soberly and asked: "Aren't you married?" Then the two grinned in unison and the subject was dropped. Mr. Cassatt's great hobby was horses. For some fifteen years, after 1881, he was prominent in turf circles and until recent years he bred successfully high-class running horses. Of late he had turned more especially to hackneys. The Cassatt breeding farm, Chesterbrook, located in Chester Valley, was one of the best known in the country.

JANUARY SALE OF LINENS

The Greatest Value Gathering of Linens in the History of The Broa Department Store---and That's Saying Much

It's a challenge sale, a demonstration of leadership, a great, broad opportunity to buy linens that means much to every one, no matter whether you want a single cloth or want to outfit the whole house.

Restaurants, hotel keepers and large users will find the occasion one of tremendous importance to them in a saving way. A comparison test will prove the superiority of the values.

The unusual quantities in which the Broadway buys linens regularly, the unusual care which we take in their selection are well known facts among importers and dealers. The magnitude of our transactions brings us values regularly that are exceptionally important. Now for this sale we've bought in even larger quantities, and we've made prices reach the very depths of lowness.

These prices on linens are in the face of an advance of about 20 per cent. in the linen market. We bought early; we're giving you the benefit of even less than old prices.

WOMAN TURNS A WAIF RIVER, LAWSUIT COMES IN ITS WAKE.

Erratic Water Vagrant from Eaton's Canyon Worries the Ranchmen, Railroad and County.

HAVE you a home for a poor little homeless river? It's a sort of orphan river—a waif—going from ranch to ranch in the Santa Anita Valley looking for a bed to rest in, and sometimes it becomes a big river, that no ordinary bed can hold.

The railroad drives the homeless river to the ranchers, and the ranchers drive it from one to another, and finally some ranchman drives it back to the railroad—and the railroad has just driven it back on the county road.

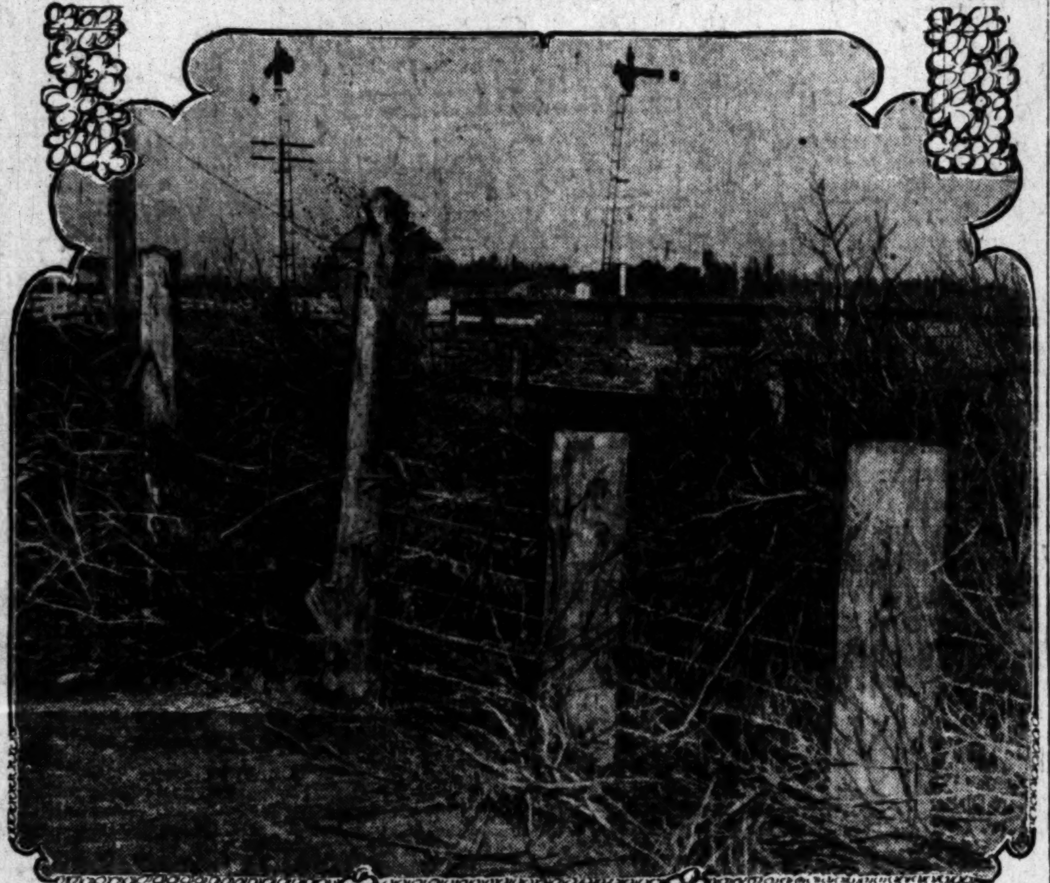
One of the chief actors of the river drama is a maiden who declines excitedly to have any strange river waif coming to her place to stay.

So the poor little river waif has been shown the road once more and told to pack and be off. And where, oh, where can it go?

This is a true story and not a fanciful tale. And it is tragic and bitter—not humorous. It couldn't possibly happen anywhere but in Southern California—the land of eccentric rivers.

The whole thing is about to result in a big lawsuit; this will involve all the ranchmen, the maiden lady and the Southern Pacific Railroad.

It has been brought to the fighting point because somebody ungallantly forced the river upon the ranch of the maiden lady this year and she shooed it back on the railroad. All the overland trains were held up and traffic shut down with a bang. It took a gang of over 100 men to dig out the road from under the river.



Scenes from the life of the poor little orphan river; Miss Annie Adams, the maiden lady who turned the river back on the railroad; also the picture of the mighty barrier of wire and chaparral she erected to drive it away from her ranch.

The little river that makes so much trouble lives somewhere in the fastness of Eaton's Cañon during the summer months. In the rainy season it always comes prowling out for a wild outing.

Not having a respectable bed like other rivers, it comes bursting down from the mountains and goes wherever any one will let it go.

When the rains began this year, it stole trustfully—undiscouraged by its previous disappointments—down from the mountains.

It sneaked on a pleasant-looking ranch in the valley. And the farmer found it there—as it covered about half his ranch—and rushed out with shovels and teams and turned it back on some one else's ranch.

And the ranchman who owns this second ranch on which it was driven came out in a rage and shook his fist, bellowing, "Here, come and take back your old river. It can't stay on my place." And he said other things.

The owner of the first ranch bellowed back, "It ain't my river; keep it yourself." He also had warm words about the stream.

Rebuffed by dams and dikes on the different ranches, the little river finally turned on the Southern Pacific Railroad. It played havoc with the road along that portion of the track just before you get to the village of Savannah.

As the same thing had happened before, the railroad was ready for the little wandering river this year. Just where the flood was due to strike the track, the engineers had constructed a large culvert, fortified with stone and flanked by big protection works calculated to make even a much stronger river behave.

WOMAN MAKES BARRIER.

But one thing they hadn't calculated upon—the maiden lady. Railroads can conquer rivers—even runaway rivers—much more easily than infuriated maiden ladies.

When they built the dike and let the river—hungry for their track—going tearing baffled underneath the rails, they worked havoc with the ranch of Miss Annie Adams.

The whole winter flood went whooping joyously through her farm of thirty-six acres, turning it into a lake. To have left it there would have meant the eventual ruin of her ranch.

Instead of sitting idly by, she energetically rushed out and hired a force of men and strong teams; then she went to work on the river.

Brush was cut in huge wagonloads from the willows. Chaparral was mowed and hauled, and all was thrown along her fence line to make a dam against the river.

She sent for carpenters and had constructed a heavy rough board fence like the wainscoting of a room along the entire front of her ranch. The only way for the river to get on Miss Adams's ranch was to jump the fence.

Any one familiar with the eccentricities can guess readily enough what happened then.

That fine and elegant new culvert of the railroad company lasted about a minute.

In the course of a few hours after the completion of Miss Adams's dam the culvert was so choked up with sand that a gopher couldn't have burrowed under it.

GOES TO THE RAILROAD.

While Miss Adams looked out of her front windows with satirical satisfaction, the sand ran down the river and choked the bridge until the culvert seemed practically flat on the ground, so quickly had the river built up the ground under it.

The river was in a tearing hurry and had to go somewhere. It went galloping down the railroad track and stopped all the trains.

Commercial men and tourists tied up at El Monte station two miles away, fumed and swore and hired teams to drive them to San Gabriel. They didn't understand it was just the little waif river being turned away from another door.

Gangs of men were rushed out from the city on work trains, and they fell upon the poor little abused river once more.

This time they built big dikes of dirt and sand bags and turned the river aside; but they did not seek to turn it back on the ranch of Miss Adams. They turned it down the track.

They said to the river: "Here, no one seems to want you down on that ranch; no one seems to want you on any ranch. But you can't stay on our tracks; we don't want you either. We will just turn you down this road; No. 23; skiddoo. We don't care where you go; but go."

It went. It rippled forlornly down the side of the high embanked track trying to find a hole through the sandbag dike—but nothing doing.

COUNTY ROAD FOUND.

Then it came to a long, hard, fascinating-looking strip of road leading through the middle of the little town of Savannah. It turned down this road with a little gurgle of joy.

And the things that it did to that county road is enough to make the County Supervisors weep in anguish.

It was a beautiful oiled road—smooth and flat and even. The river gouged out chuckholes as deep as a well. It made ruts in which you could drydock a ship. It ruined several hundred dollars' worth of highway in less time than it takes to write it.

It may have intended to go calling on some one in Savannah. But it changed its mind and suddenly went prowling off through a fine ranch owned by a syndicate; turned this ranch into one of the Great Lakes, and meandered on until it fell with a shout of joy into the San Gabriel, which runs at the edges of El Monte.

Oh, the wail that went up!

Such a fuss was raised that the Supervisors did not dare turn the river off the county road as they first intended.

THREATS AND BIG SUIT.

Then these threats were made:

The syndicate threatened to sue the railroad and also the maiden for having turned the river down upon it.

It has actually sued her to make her take the river back upon her place.

The syndicate yelled for the county to turn it back upon the railroad and so take it off them, threatening to sue if the county didn't. The railroad and the maiden were one in threatening to sue if the county did.

A big lawsuit has actually been begun, in which everybody seems to be suing every one whose name he can remember.

It is so tangled, however, that the Supervisors have suggested a compromise; they want the ranch men and the railroad to agree as to where the river should run.

To effect the compromise a committee was appointed to arbitrate. It consisted of the County Surveyor, the railroad engineer and another surveyor appointed by these two.

WOULD SEND IT UP HILL.

They agreed on what would be a suitable route, but when it was announced a roar echoed from the ranchmen.

"What, run the river over my ranch? Well, I guess not; run it over my neighbor's ranch," was the gist of the roar that went up.

When it was pointed out that the river had to run over somebody's

GIRL DASHES TO RESCUE.

Great Grand-daughter Rushes Into Smoke to Save Aged Woman.

Pretty Ruth Platt, 14 years old, did not hesitate a moment to dash into the parlor of her home at No. 327 Buena Vista street, which was filled with smoke and flame yesterday afternoon, to save her great grandmother, Mrs. L. Dury, 76 years old, from possible death in a fire caused by the upsetting of an oil heater.

Mrs. Dury was seated in an easy chair, and while rocking back and forth it caught under the ornamental stove and upset it. In a moment the flames leaped up almost to the ceiling. The rocking chair in which Mrs. Dury was seated caught fire; a sewing machine, grand piano and other furniture burst into flame, and for a moment the old lady was surrounded by crackling flames and a dense smoke.

Ruth was next door, but heard the terrified cry of her great grandmother, saw the smoke pouring from the window and rushed to the rescue. She dashed into the room just in time to see through the smoke her father, John C. Platt, for twenty-one years a searcher of records at the Courthouse, carry his grandmother through the smoke to safety. Mr. Platt was burned about the hands, but the great grandmother escaped.

The fire engine from Aliso street stuck in the mud above the County Jail and Mrs. F. Bardon, of No. 325 Buena Vista street, put out the fire with a garden hose.

IN MALE ATTIRE WOMAN RAVES.

SCARES THE NEIGHBORS AND POLICE ARE CALLED.

Her Husband Comes Here, Presumably to Investigate the Open Charges Made in Circular Letters by Marks of Minneapolis Against Bedient, West Pico Street Preacher.

Her mind unbalanced by worry over family affairs of her husband, Mrs. Thompson, wife of George E. Thompson of No. 2825 West Pico street, became violent yesterday morning. Neighbors were frightened when the woman appeared on the street in male attire, gesticulating wildly. The police were called. C. H. Smith, who lives next door, notified them of the strange actions of the woman. He declared Mrs. Thompson had entered his rooms. Nothing had been taken.

Thompson and his wife arrived from Minneapolis about a week ago. He says he is a car builder by trade, but has not yet secured work here. He was away yesterday morning when his wife became insane.

Prostrated by the excitement occasioned by her wild outbreak yesterday morning, Mrs. Thompson lay moaning on her bed. She kept repeating over and over the following strange statement.

"They've taken my money; they've got everything I had. Yes, yes, they've taken all, and now I have nothing. I'm cold, and can't buy coal because my money's all gone. They've got it all."

The husband explained that his wife was once well to do, and stated that she is constantly worrying over family affairs. She is a refined, middle-aged woman. Her face shows traces of pain. She was shivering from cold yesterday. A single gas jet in the room was the only means of warmth afforded. The couple live in one room of a large two-story house. The owner, C. H. Smith, notified them yesterday that they will have to move. Thompson says he has no money.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson are members of a church organized by Rev. John A. Bedient, and which meets at his home on Jasmine street every Sunday morning. Thompson, according to his own statement, is here to investigate charges made against Bedient by J. M. Marks of Minneapolis. Both Marks and Thompson were members of Bedient's church in Minneapolis.

Hundreds of circular letters in which Bedient is charged with being in league with the powers of darkness, and to be possessed of the evil one, have been sent broadcast by Marks. Thompson admits having read many of these strange missives in the original manuscript. He denies that he has been sent here by Marks, but says he will soon have something startling to tell the Pico Heights preacher, whose home life has been assailed.

While her husband told of his connection with Marks and Bedient, the wife eyed him curiously, and once sat up in bed and began a tirade against the preacher, which was promptly stopped by a word from Thompson.

"I'm not ready to give out anything yet," Thompson said, in explanation of his action. "It wouldn't do to let things become known just now, as it would spoil everything. The newspapers will hear some startling things soon enough. I must wait until I prove what has been said about Rev. Mr. Bedient.

"I went to his church last Sunday. I had only been here a few days then. I am going again tomorrow, and expect to know more then than I do now. Mind you, I am not making any charges against him. I was a member of his church in Minneapolis, and I'm a member of his church here. I may have some interesting news for the people of Los Angeles if I stay here much longer.

"This I will say, though. Mr. Marks is not insane. In spite of what Rev. Bedient has said, I know that Marks is a sane man. I won't say at this time what I think of his charges. Read those circulars. They speak the truth."

DEVELOPING A NEW WORLD.

Los Angeles Company Gets a Small Empire.

Will Build Town and Start Factories Here.

Fleet of Steamers to Queen Charlotte Island.

"We hope to fix it so that there will never be danger of a coal famine in Los Angeles again."

Benjamin F. Graham, president of the Graham Steamship, Coal and Lumber Company, shivered slightly in his office in the Douglas building yesterday as he made the assertion. Unfortunately for Los Angeles the company, which has "coal to burn," has not yet organized its proposed fleet of carriers between San Pedro and Queen Charlotte Island, where the new coal mines of the company are being now developed.

"Before next winter we expect to have a fleet of steamers running regularly between Graham Island, which is the northernmost of the Queen Charlotte group, and San Pedro. We will not wait to build the boats, but will charter some to start with. We have arranged to begin work on the island within sixty days."

The company is a new organization which is backed with Los Angeles capital in a great measure. It is capitalized at $5,000,000, with headquarters in this city. The officers and principal stockholders include B. F. Graham, president; Charles M. Shannon, vice-president; W. J. Doran, secretary-treasurer, and Epes Randolph, W. P. Lett of Riverside, J. E. Suits of Douglass and Henry Strine of San Diego, directors.

The company owns in fee simple 150,000 acres of timber lands on Graham Island, besides extensive coal deposits and a large tract of land believed to contain valuable oil possibilities. The oil field has not been properly investigated yet.

PLANS FOR DEVELOPMENT.

The officers of the company assert that they are proceeding along carefully-laid plans for the development of their enterprise, which includes the building of a town in the interior of Graham Island, the erection of factories in Los Angeles and San Francisco, of big sawmills on the island, the working of their coal mines, development of the oil field and the shipment direct to San Pedro of millions of feet of spruce lumber.

It is the expectation that the importation of this immense quantity of lumber will have a measurable effect in the lumber market and may be a factor in holding in check the kite-like prices of the alleged lumber trust. With free wharfage facilities at San Pedro the company will be at least partly independent of the railroad tax, which at present is as much to bring lumber from San Pedro to Los Angeles—twenty-two miles—as to bring it to San Pedro from the North.

In the center of Graham Island is a great lake big enough to hold the entire United States navy with room to spare. This lake is reached from the sea by a deep-water fiord from the north. Once in the lake it is like a new land, a wonderful country of mountains and forests, clear vistas up beautiful valleys, meadow lands and waterfalls.

The climate, too, is a strange one for that latitude. Off the southern coast of Alaska, 500 miles north of Vancouver, one would suppose that the winters would partake of the icy kind, but Mr. Graham asserted yesterday that the winters are very mild with hardly any snow or ice.

"The full force of the Japanese current strikes the westward side of the island and brings with it perennial spring," said Mr. Graham.

GREAT ENTERPRISE.

Work will commence upon the northeast shore of the lake some time in March for the building of the village for the workmen and their families. The first building to go up will be a sawmill with a capacity of about 30,000 feet of lumber a day. This lumber will be used to build the homes for the men, storehouses and big sawmills for the company and a wharf for the steamers to dock at.

Mr. Graham stated yesterday that over 1,000,000,000 feet of the finest spruce lumber had been located and this will be fed to the great sawmills as fast as they can be erected.

For Los Angeles it is proposed to build a great box factory to be supplied directly from the forests of Queen Charlotte Island. Another factory will be built in San Francisco. These two factories will help to supply the great orchard districts of the central and southern parts of the State.

Yet these are only side issues for the company, the officers of which believe that the development of the raw materials of the island will take up the greatest part of their energy for a long time to come.

Among this raw material are millions of feet of railroad ties and telegraph poles. The ties will in a large measure be used on the southern division and extensions of the Southern Pacific.

PRESIDENT DIAZ MAY COME.

Possibility That Mexican Ruler Will Attend Imperial Council Nobles of Mystic Shrine.

Fred A. Hines, one of the Imperial officers of the Mystic Shrine, will leave tomorrow to meet the Imperial Potentate's train at San Antonio, Texas. They will proceed from there to the City of Mexico to institute a shrine in that city. President Diaz and other high officials of Mexico will be candidates, and it is hoped that the President of that country may become so interested in the order as to be induced to visit here in the spring.

This institution in Mexico will be an important event in the order, owing to the fact that President Diaz will be the first ruler of any nation to become a Shriner.

LECTURE ON GOOD ROADS.

The Chamber of Commerce has arranged for a stereopticon lecture on good roads and road building to be delivered in the assembly room of the chamber Friday evening, January 18, by Samuel C. Lancaster, consulting engineer of the good roads department of the United States Department of Agriculture.

WIRES GO DOWN INTO CONDUITS.

HOME TELEPHONE COMPANY TO EXTEND DISTRICT.

Besides Placing Lines Underground in Downtown Area, Company Will Undertake Miles of Conduit Building in Southwest—More Than 7000 New 'Phones.

Extensive conduit building is mapped out for various Los Angeles streets during the ensuing year; and most active in this line will be the Home Telephone Company. By the close of the year just begun this company will have several miles of conduits added to its present system.

The city ordinances provide that each year there shall be added two miles of streets to the area in which all telegraph and telephone and electric service wires must be placed in conduits underneath the street surface.

Last year, by fortunate circumstance, the district added by the City Council was territory in which the Home company had already placed its conduits. This year nearly all of the territory added to the district is so situated that the Home company will have to construct conduits. The district includes Fifth street, from Main street to Central avenue; Fifth street, from Hill to Olive streets; Grand avenue, Flower and Hope streets, from Sixth to Ninth street.

Besides this work, which is compulsory, the Home Telephone Company has undertaken on its own initiative the placing of long stretches of conduit in the western part of the city.

It is now putting underground its wires on Adams street, from Hoover street to Western avenue; and other work in that part of the city will include the placing of conduits on Pico street, from Hoover to Arlington; on Western, from Adams to Pico street; and a long-distance on West Washington street. The work will require an outlay of many thousands of dollars, and is all to be accomplished during the present year.

This is done mainly for the increasing of efficiency of service from the lines to center in the new telephone station, now under construction on West Adams street, near Western avenue. This is a one-story concrete structure, fireproof.

Within the past year the Home company has increased its telephone service in Los Angeles, Hollywood, South Pasadena and Huntington Park by 7000 'phones—more than nineteen new telephones a day. The company now has in commission more than 27,000 telephones in Los Angeles and the immediately contiguous territory mentioned above.

In order to properly care for this rapid increase in business, and to provide much needed general office room, the company is now erecting a three-story and basement structure on South Olive street, between Seventh and Eighth streets. This building will be completed within three months, and will then be made the general and central office. The building is 90x145 feet, of pressed brick and terra cotta trimmings. The cost of building and plant will amount to fully $300,000.

When the move is made to the new building, the structure on Hill street, between Second and Third, in which the company began its business a little over three years ago, will be used as the manual station, and there will still be required a large force of employés at this point.

THE STREET MAKERS.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

> "Had you seen these roads before they were made,
> You would hold up your hands and bless General Wade!"

Recently a few venturesome spirits proposed that Los Angeles next undertake holding a great world's fair. The proposition did not seem to meet the approval of many leading citizens:

The popular impression from lessons of the Philadelphia, Chicago, St. Louis and Portland fairs is that the fair business is a sort of volcanic work, stupendous, irregular, extravagant and for the most part impermanent.

At enormous expense of money and labor the United States, assisted by other nations, brought into matchless existence the great exposition at Chicago.

The astounding display of productions from all the known peoples of earth, the multitude of superb buildings which elicited such eloquent admiration, all made an instructive institution, forever memorable, august in its beauty and its wonders. But the shining white city was not built as any lasting improvement. It was only an ephemeral glory. Today no impressive monument for all that achievement remains, hardly a trace of its utility can be found in Chicago; and among her own people it is a question whether the renowned show brought even transient, much less lasting, benefit to the city. Los Angeles ought not to be drawn into the worry, work, waste and confusion of the fair business; and at present surely she needs no advertisement. Exaggerated reports of her excellence have gone out to all the civilized world. Her reputation abroad is so brilliant and alluring that it would be almost impossible for any mere earthly city to measure up to the fond expectation of strangers who journey to it.

I saw yesterday an aged woman and her daughter alight from a street car on Grand avenue. The motorman had stopped the car so that the exit was full twenty feet from the raised footpath crossing. The women stepped into the slough of mud and water three inches deep, and waded to the sidewalk. They were tourists. The mother seemed much distressed, and the young lady very angry. I heard her exclaim: "What a shame and outrage! Oh, the irony and the folly of it; we left beautiful old Washington city to come and spend the winter in the paradise of sunshine and flowers. Mother, I am afraid you will be sick. Oh, my shoes and my skirts!"

On every hand the one and all engaging topic of conversation, comment and raillery is the deplorable condition of the streets. If not paralyzed, business in every direction is much embarrassed. Thousands of automobiles are in the garages, carriages all housed, bicycles stored away, many delivery and freight wagons standing idle in the sheds. The streets are very near impassable. The discomfort, inconvenience, hindrance, unhealthfulness nastiness, ugliness, all making living harder and more expensive.

Does some apologist who imagines that to talk the truth out plain and loud will injure the sale of lots suggest that the present condition is unusual and all owing to the unprecedented rain, for which we must be grateful? He must be reminded of the fact that our streets are always in the mud and water state, or in the dust state, or, by spells, the sticky paste state when the dust has been sprinkled down. During the summer months there is on many of the streets two or three inches of dust. The dust covers and fills everything—houses, trees, plants, flowers. It fills the atmosphere, gets into the houses, ruins clothes, carpets, pictures and books. It even spoils our strawberries—those we buy in the market we must first brush off with a dust broom and then rinse through three waters. Each one of us breathes or swallows or has rubbed into him about four ounces of dust a week, and it is not clean, cosmic dust; it is the dirtiest dirt that could be compounded of corrupt things.

No wonder the catarrh, pneumonia, ophthalmia, nervous prostration, sore throats and ugly temper do too much distress the people.

The old Romans gave to the English the word street, from via strata, and street means the paved road. The Romans believed in wide, smooth, clean, lasting paved roads as necessities.

If you recall your visits to London, Paris, Vienna and Berlin. You will note that one of the chiefest characteristics which you remember is the fine, clean streets.

And do you remember what Washington city was before Boss Shepherd's day and work? With all its avenues and circles and magnificent buildings, it was a muddy, dusty, disagreeable town.

In March, 1865, in an immense crowd of people before the Capitol I stood nearly knee deep in mud to listen to Lincoln's last inaugural address.

Shepherd paved Washington, and his work will command the praise of his countrymen for generations to come. His work began the great change which transformed the town of which the people were ashamed into a beautiful city, fit to be the pride and delight of all Americans.

In the poetic description of the Holy City, Revelation tells us "its streets are of pure gold, transparent as glass." You cannot have a Heaven without paved streets.

The importance of well-graded, drained, paved, clean streets may not be exaggerated.

A hundred economic, commercial, sanitary, aesthetic, secular and sacred considerations attest that importance.

Los Angeles is almost incomparable in her situation for a splendid metropolis. Her climate is perhaps as nearly perfect as can be found on earth. She has an empire of land and water mighty in resources. Thousands of fields of fertile land and hundreds of hills, curious natural oil reservoirs within themselves, encircle her. Countless mines, rich in metals and jewels, are among her treasures; vast and accessible forests of timber; great quarries of every kind of stone and building material; the grain, the grasses, delicious fruits and beautiful flowers; the snow-capped mountains standing close by on beneficent guard; Owens River laughing and shouting for joy on its way down to bless the city; the character of the citizens—now about a quarter of a million in number—a peculiar people, ambitious, strong, sane and educated; the wonderful progress already made in building the city—all these things and all these people declare that Los Angeles is now and is to be hereafter the queen city of the Pacific Coast. She has confidently opened her gates for a million people, and they will all be here soon—probably inside the next ten years.

And yet, with all her beauty and wealth, Los Angeles has to wear rubber boots and carefully lift her skirts knee high whenever she ventures out to take a street car or goes two squares to a reception. Is not it a shame that she should have to ruin her dainty gowns and imperil her health wading over her shoe tops in filthy mud of the streets, which day and night are a scolding reproach to all the people?

I come to plead that The Times will graciously move for another noble enterprise, for a chartered band of 100 men and women—fifty of each—called, say, "the street makers' army," or by some name which may indicate that the sole and exclusive purpose of the organization is to make the streets of our city such as they should be.

I would not advocate or permit any other object or interest whatever. Let others look after the roads of the State and county, but let this new society be pledged and consecrated only to make Los Angeles the best paved city in the world. We can do it. We have the auspicious conditions, we have the material at hand and all facilities. We have the men and women of brains, energy and enthusiasm to devise ways and means and execute the work. The enterprise would command the cordial support of the people.

The work when accomplished would mean immeasurably more, would result permanently in far more good and glory to Los Angeles than a whole dozen "greatest fairs of the world."

NERVOUS WITH MEN.

As the door banged shut, came a mincing little man with spectacles and in a dressing jacket. In one hand he bore a scrumptious Easter bonnet with a long ostrich feather plume—Billie!

The girls hushed their laughter and stole away. They could not longer talk their talk.

"Will you come over?" called one of the girls.

"Well, I just will," said Billie, like an overly effusive girl.

"You will excuse me if I keep right on working," said Billie as he ushered The Times man into his back room. "You see, I am getting ready for my Easter opening."

To tell the truth, the talk rather dragged at first. Billie was conscious of it himself.

"The truth is," he said, "I always feel more or less under restraint when I am talking to a man. If you were only a girl, we would be talking about all kinds of things."

"To me?" he said with a little shrill note of surprise. "Oh, dear, yes."

Billie paused an instant while he deftly caught the end of a long white plume and made it fast to the edge of the felt. "Oh, dear, yes; we talk just like girls. You know, things we wouldn't like to say before a man.

"Love!"

Billie paused to quickly thread a needle and said reproachfully: "Oh, no; just pals. The girls come in every afternoon to see me. They say, 'I'm going down to Bill's,' and everyone understands."

He got up and shook lint off his clothes and picked up a long piece of black velvet, pinned over a welt and snipped down the welt with a pair of shiny little scissors.

"I'm just feminine in my nature—that's all," he said resignedly. "I always did walk and talk like a girl. And I never did like to do boys' things.

"Do you know, when I go to see my cousins in the city, it's funny. When I go in the boys always come and shake hands with me and talk a little while and then go out to their games and leave me with the girls. It seems to be the commonly accepted thing."

CAN COOK ANYTHING.

One of the funniest things about Billie Dodson is his mothering of a gang of young college boys who are down near El Monte with a surveyor's gang helping to build the Huntington trolley line.

"They are real nice boys," he says. "I have them in here every night. You know it keeps them out of the pool rooms. Yes, they come in here and I make chocolate for them and we play the piano.

"Cook? Of course I can cook. My dear fellow, I tell you I can do anything on earth that a woman can do. I can cook any dish ever manufactured. I can sew anything; I can make any kind of dress; I can embroider anything. Here—wait—"

Billie went tripping out of the room and came back with two exquisite lunch cloths draped over his arm.

A PERFECT DREAM.

"You think they are pretty? Why, thank you," he said, pleased.

He says he will never go back to the stage in spite of his success.

"I had enough of the life," he said. Suddenly he brightened; his eyes danced with animation. "You should have seen some of the gowns that I made for myself on the stage. There was one embroidered all down the front."

He dropped his needle and exclaimed fervently, "Honestly, that was a perfect DREAM!"

And Billie's eyes grew vacant and he had to give himself a little shake to get back to earth again—from thinking of his wonderful gown.

The odd thing about Billie Dodson is that he lacks the offensive and wholesome suggestion that usually lingers about an effeminate man. He is more like a kind-hearted, sensible, cheery woman.

He was married to an actress who wearied of quiet El Monte and went away.

He has a younger brother whom he supports and sends to school, and who voluntarily chooses to live with him rather than his own father. He thinks Billie is the best brother that ever lived.

The delicate, tasty little milliner has the respect of every man in the town.

A break in the fuel famine and the householders' pocketbooks are now simultaneously in sight.

The fact that there has been a very heavy snowstorm in Seattle proves that it does not always rain there.

Reed Smoot has proved that he never had but one wife. This is more than some of the other Senators can prove.

A few more shipments of ore amounting to $7,000,000, and Southern Nevada will not only be on the map, but all over it.

A Boston girl has made her début in society at a cost of $25,000. In the meantime 16,000,000 poeple are starving in China.

Between trying to keep out of the penitentiary and running the Legislature, Abe Ruef must be almost the busiest man in California.

The Legislature has begun to show signs of positive genius. It has given one man two jobs neither of which have any duties attached to them.

Just to show the way things change there is now nothing so much talked about as copper, and yet nobody is saying a word about F. Aug. Heinze.

Ladies and gentlemen: The California State Legislature will now give an exhibition of the State Treasury imitating the actions of a snowball in hell.

The people might perhaps be willing to pay members of the Legislature for doing nothing if they didn't demand so blamed much help to do it.

The old negro who "drove" Gen. Andrew Jackson is dead. It is unnecessary to state that most of those who were driven by the general are also dead.

Mr. Carnegie says a man should never separate himself from his wealth until after he is dead. But doesn't he have to do so then whether he wants to or not?

Hill and Harriman have reached a compromise. Now, if they would both reach a compromise with the public we could see no reason why everybody shouldn't be happy.

The fact that a man in Wisconsin committed suicide rather than pay taxes only serves to again carry out the old saying that there's nothing sure but death and taxes.

Doubtless when Mr. Bryan comes to Los Angeles he will be told by Mayor Harper that the easiest way for a Democrat to be elected to an office is to run against two Republicans.

United States Senator Sam Pile of Seattle has received a fee of half a million dollars for conducting a lawsuit, and he has never been seriously accused of being a lawyer, either.

The Standard Oil crowd's organization of a billion-dollar copper trust is perhaps merely a move on their part to show that they haven't got so much money that they don't know what to do with it.

Word should at once be sent to Congressman "Red" Hayes and Julius Kahn, at Washington, that six Japanese under the lead of a soldier of that country in full uniform, have invaded New Mexico.

Simply because the Japs are establishing newspapers, banks and commercial houses in the Philippines, and are rapidly colonizing the islands with their own people, some Americans are growing uneasy. Pshaw!

It is said that the means by which Mr. Guggenheim accomplished his election to the United States Senate is open to suspicion. The suspicion is based on the ground that he is a millionaire and not a statesman.

The Cherokee Indians are praying for relief from lawyers. It will do them no good. The whole world has been praying for the same thing for thousands of years, and is no better off now than it was in the first place.

Boards of Health throughout the country are hereby notified to immediately get busy in the distribution of disinfectants. The Thaw trial is about to begin, and the smell will permeate the entire area between the two oceans.

The acoustics in Red Men's Hall at Sacramento being inadequate we may now expect to learn that "an additional list" of employés has been appointed, whose duties it shall be to carry the Speaker's voice to the members in the rear seats.

The Western Federation of Miners has served notice on certain citizens of the United States that they will not be allowed to own and operate mining properties in Nevada. These poor gentlemen will now wonder why the Constitution is still regarded as being effective and in force.

Senator Flint reports that the canal zone is healthy and therefore there is nothing to prevent American labor from digging the big ditch. There is nothing to prevent it except that the American labor aforesaid is needed right here by Jim Hill and E. H. Harriman to build railroads.

NOW FOR BETTER ROADS!

Never was it more distressingly apparent or more solemnly impressive than today—the need of better and more permanent roads in Southern California, of roads that will be good after six weeks of rain or six months of drouth; hard, durable, scientifically-built, dustless, rutless roads, agreeable to wagons or automobiles, bicycles or pedestrians, comforting to those who daily use them and attractive to tourists from the wide world over.

A gentleman just returned to Los Angeles from a tour of the British Isles says that the roads in those lands made him blush to think of his home country. The best road he found was between Carlisle, in England, and Glasgow, in Scotland, a distance of ninety-six miles—a perfect boulevard, he says, over which he happily rolled his bicycle in twelve hours. This grand highway is in perfect condition at all seasons of the year, and it is such highways as this that we most assuredly should insist on having in Southern California.

A recent issue of a Chicago newspaper spoke of the thousands of automobiles shipped from that city by tourists going to other parts for the winter in order to enjoy their favorite recreation. It was stated that most of these motor cars were billed to Los Angeles, and all of them would have been "but for the execrable roads in Southern California." On account of these bad roads, it was explained, a large number of autoists went to Florida to spin on its beach tracks.

We of Southern California must admit the verity of this Chicago impeachment. Our roads, as a rule, are truly "execrable." The word fits the case. Los Angeles streets are bad enough, but the rural roads are worse. This city spends half a million dollars a year on its street department—half a million of public funds, to say nothing of the immense private assessments for paving, etc.—and at the end of the year we have almost nothing to show for it. The situation goes from bad to worse. In spite of all professions of reform, more money was wasted under Superintendent Hanley than under Werdin. In the expenditure of county funds the road-fund leak is even greater. Millions are thrown away by the counties of Southern California on bungling and unscientific roadmaking.

The Times observes that throughout this end of the State the people are becoming aroused on this topic. There is no need of reiterating the fact that no one thing would conduce more effectively to the development and prosperity of the smaller cities than the betterment of our highways. The need is the application of this idea to our county and municipal action. The way to have better roads is not to talk about them, but to have them. Would it not be possible, gentlemen, to start the ball rolling for the advantage of all by some sort of coöperative action?

The Times would like to see a practical joining of hands by the counties and cities lying along these foothills to work out some plan for a system of magnificent highways, stretching down to the sea and into the valleys, making travel between Los Angeles and Redlands or from Ocean Park to Riverside a delight. Some beginning has been made by small associations. We have "El Camino Real"—a trail. The demand, however, is for a system of permanent highways, with rock bottoms, and the economic and scientific expenditure of county road funds. The Times hopes that the agitation for this great public betterment will continue, and that it will win "the name of action."

Gentlemen, let us forget politics and self-seeking and petty rivalries, and get together in a strong pull for a scheme of sensible and creditable system of county and intercounty roads, as well as a construction of city streets that will not need reconstruction every year. The worst scandal of our whole public service in Southern California is the shameful squandering of millions on our highways. Let us wake up—put an end to it—get roads for our money—make of Southern California a motorist's and horseman's Paradise! Why not?

The effort to rehabilitate San Francisco goes bravely on. Mayor Schmitz has just appointed Tveitmoe, Cornelius and a lot of other red-mouthed anarchists to the fattest and the best-paying graft offices in the town. People who like to enjoy themselves by hoping against hope would now do well to take up residences in San Francisco without further delay.

The contributions to the mortality list of this country during the past year include the trolleys to a very considerable extent. More than 1000 persons were killed on electric railways, while the enormous number of 47,000 were injured. Still, it's safer to ride than to walk and take the chances of being run over.

ANDREW THE WIND-JAMMER.

Under the laws and the Constitution of the United States and the Great Charter and imperial statutes of the British empire, the money, the goods and chattels that Andrew Carnegie has are his own. He can do as he pleases with them—soak his gold away or throw it into the sea, freeze onto his goods and chattels or give them to the first beggar he meets on either the King's highway or the turnpikes of America.

The trouble with "the Laird of Skibo" is not that he has so much, but that he talks so much about it. Nor, even at that, would it be so exasperating if he were consistent in his talk. But the fact is that it has become quite impossible to pick up a newspaper, any more, a magazine or any other sort of publication without finding something in it that Andrew Carnegie has to say about wealth and its disposition. And he wobbles. He says one thing and then he says another that is quite to the contrary. But, worst of all, he doesn't do what he himself says ought to be done.

It is not so long ago that the world was ringing the changes on Carnegie's statement that it is a disgrace for any man to die rich. Now he says that a man should stick to what he has while the breath is in him. First it was that he should give everything away. Now it's hold on to it till the undertaker calls with the hearse.

It is much to be feared that Andrew is a wind-jammer, pure and simple. He is eternally preaching ethics. He has repeatedly stated that great wealth is a misfortune, a burden and a hoodoo, driving happiness from the soul and laughter from the lips. "It is impossible to be rich and have a good time," says Andrew. In the meantime no one appears to be having a better time than he. When he went out of the active management of his great steel works he announced that he would go broke just as soon as he could find the most respectable and useful way by which he could do so. Last week he came out under his own name in the Review of Reviews and says that he will not give up his fortune until he dies, and then he trusts to see it taxed away—or partly so—by some laws that are yet to be made.

Mr. Carnegie speaks hopefully and even longingly of the day to come "when the man will stand above the dollar." It is a very fine theory and a good line of preaching. But why doesn't he live up to it? The public has a right to put this question to him, because he invites it by his everlasting homilies. As far as Mr. Carnegie is personally concerned there is one man that he can put above the dollar without the slightest delay, and that's himself. But is he doing it? Or does he intend to do it? If not, then why is he talking about it? In other words, why doesn't he put up or shut up?

What Mr. Carnegie gives to build public libraries, with his name on them, and what he gives to pensions and hero funds, also with his name on them, doesn't even make a dint in his vast fortune. There are a thousand and one better ways that he could do more good with his money than he is now doing, anyway. For instance, in a certain portion of China today there are women and children who are trying to live by plucking grass roots and cooking the leaves of trees. Let the Laird of Skibo go there and feed the poor, starving heathen. Then when he talks again the world will be inclined to listen to him without a feeling of pain.

THE KNIFE AND THE DRUG BOTTLE.

The deplorable death of Archbishop George Montgomery in the prime of his usefulness in such a profession as his brings to mind for the hundredth time the subject of the use of the knife in cases of appendicitis. This disease is not new among the ills that men are heir to, but its specific cause and nature partake of a new discovery. When this discovery was first made, doctors with scarcely an exception, if an exception at all, were of the opinion that the only remedy was through a surgical operation by which the vermiform appendix was removed. It was contended by the physicians that this appurtenance of the human body was a useless one, a survival of an unfittest faculty, according to the evolution theory. It had been of use in more primitive stages of human existence, a use undiscoverable and no longer existing. Therefore, its removal worked no injury to the human system and was a guarantee against the recurrence of the disease.

Further knowledge concerning this organ of the body and this disease has wrought a radical reformation of view. Some of the most studious and thoughtful among the doctors have come to contend that the use of the vermiform appendix has not passed away. They have discovered that it secretes an oily substance, which is of great importance in the digestion of our food, particularly the removal of the waste from the human system, and that its excision is harmful. It is a pretty well established fact, and a grain of fact is worth a ton of theory, that in instances where the vermiform appendix has been removed from the body the person operated on has seldom lived any long period of years. Still another discovery is that appendicitis can be cured without resort to the knife. There has been built up through experience in dealing with this disease a system of medical treatment in which the use of drugs is of a minimum quantity and nursing is a maximum quantity. In some instances, hot applications immediately above the parts affected on the abdomen of the patient are generally efficacious in doing away with the ailment. In other instances the very opposite treatment has resulted in quite as happy results.

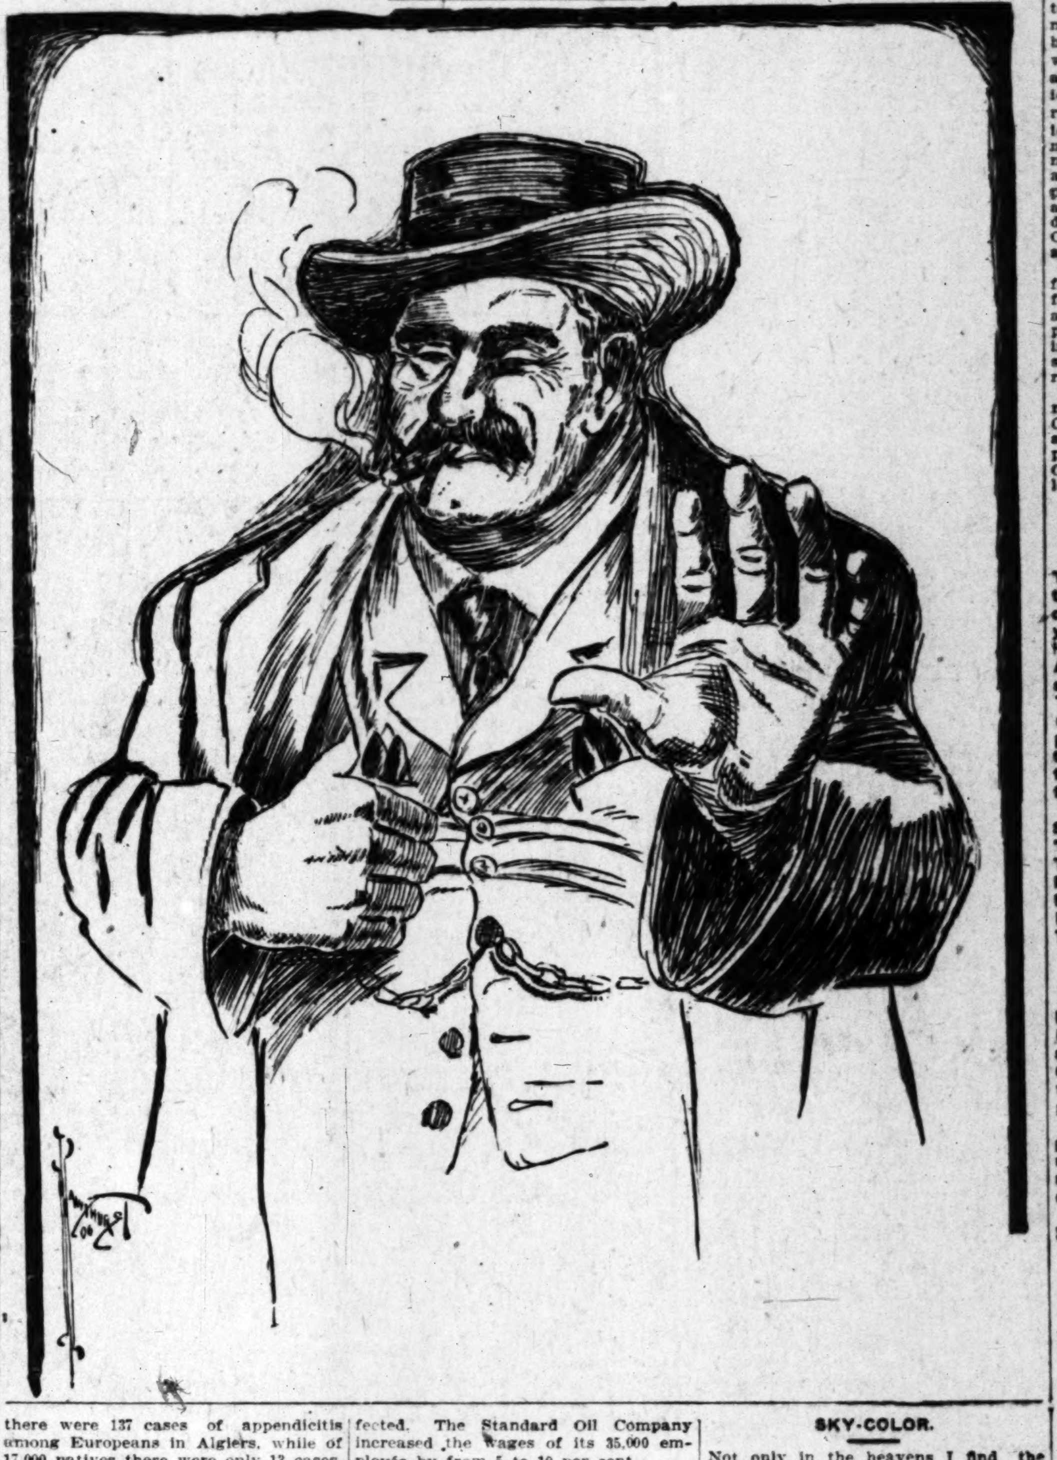
A physician whose practice is confined exclusively to the treatment of patients in the French army, one Dr. Chauvel, has recently published instructive statistics upon this important subject. He sets up the contention that in 99 per cent. of the cases treated by this nursing process the patients have recovered. In 1902 he observed the treatment of 668 patients suffering from appendicitis in the military hospitals of France. Of this number, 188 were subjected to a surgical operation, and 480 were treated in the other way. Twenty-three of those subjected to surgery died and in the other cases there resulted but three deaths. Note the difference in the number of cases in each way: by surgical operation, 188, 23 deaths; by medical treatment, chiefly nursing, 480 cases, 3 deaths. Dr. Chauvel caused further investigation to be made, and compared the figures obtained from the experience of French army surgeons in Paris and in Algiers. The case of death among natives was found to be two to one as compared with those of French origin. In a period of five years, out of 14,000 men, there were 137 cases of appendicitis among Europeans in Algiers, while of 17,000 natives there were only 13 cases. This great difference is due, according to the French doctor, to the food used by the two peoples. The Arabs are noted for sobriety, and they are almost exclusively vegetarians, and even of vegetables their eating is moderate. If they eat meat at all, they cook it to shreds. Among Arabs leading an ordinary life, according to the customs of their country, this disease is almost unknown.

We have here some instructive facts. In the first place, the cause of the disease, as observant doctors have for long contended, is the use of more food than is either necessary or wholesome for sustaining human life. The next fact is that a surgical operation is more than unnecessary. More patients by far are recovered by the nursing treatment than by surgical operations. The vermiform appendix is a useful organ of the human body, and its removal is harmful.

The conscientiousness which prevails so generally in the medical profession is seen in the great revolution which has taken place in practice. When the homeopathic school first made its appearance among us an attempt was made by the old school to laugh it out of existence. It was ridiculed as administering aqua pura and bread pills instead of medicine. As a matter of fact, this school has wrought an important revolution in practice. The advanced doctor of the present day is as distrustful as the most skeptical layman as to the efficacy of drugs. He uses them in the minimum of cases, and in minimum quantities. He has learned one fact tending to establish his profession on the basis of an exact science. He knows that nursing and the maintenance of hope and courage in the mind and heart of sick persons are far more efficacious than all the compounds ever concocted and decocted out of the whole materia medica of the day.

Because of the general conscientiousness and humane qualities of the average doctor existing time out of mind there is every reason to hope that recourse will be had less and less frequently to surgical operations in cases of appendicitis.

HAWXHURST'S TYPES NO. 8—
"THE SACRAMENTO POLITICIAN."



PROTECTION'S BENEFITS TO LABOR.

Every wage-earner in the country should protect the policy of protection for what it has done and is doing for him. Wages are very much higher than they were ten years ago, and work is far more plentiful for all, in spite of the fact that the army of workers is hundreds of thousands larger, while hours of labor are shorter.

The secretary of the Railroad General Managers' Association says the railroad employés will receive this year fully $100,000,000 more in wages than they received ten years ago. That is a gain of over 100 per cent. in ten years. Street and elevated railroad workers are faring similarly.

The next largest increase has fallen to metal workers. "Bradstreet's" estimates that in the Pittsburgh district alone the annual pay roll exceeds $350,000,000, an increase of $100,000,000 in only two years.

As another instance of protection's benefits to labor, take the textile workers of Rhode Island and Massachusetts. Their wages are now the highest in the history of the industry, while, at the same time, the mill companies are paying the largest dividends ever paid in recent years.

The United States Steel Corporation at Christmas increased the pay of its 70,000 laborers 10 cents a day. Among the railroads, the Pennsylvania's wages increase will amount to $12,000,000 a year for the 185,000 men affected. The Standard Oil Company increased the wages of its 35,000 employés by from 5 to 10 per cent.

The census of 1900 put the annual wages disbursement by American manufacturers at $2,339,923,615. Assuming that the average wage increase since then has been 10 per cent., and that is a low estimate, it follows, without reckoning the hundreds of thousands of additional men now at work, that the yearly increased wages disbursement represents nearly $234,000,000. In other words, the same number of men are earning $234,000,000 a year more. That, in itself, is all the indorsement that the policy of protection needs.

THE PURE FOOD LAW.

The Times has been consistently an earnest advocate for a Federal law governing the manufacture and sale of foods and drugs. There is no doubt that the adulterations of food and the chemicals used in the preserving of food products have been unfair to the public and dangerous, too. The adulteration has been unfair, at least, even when not dangerous, because it lowered the quality of the goods offered and there was no possibility of the public knowing how much deterioration had been produced by this mingling of different products. The use of poisonous chemicals was a much more serious matter, and undoubtedly has tended to the undermining of the health of the people and the multiplying of diseases. The enactment in question was decidedly in the right direction, and it should be enforced with the full power of the government.

But there is another side to the question. This new law will work a radical change in the method of preparing a great many brands of food with which the market has been stocked. Dealers, both wholesale and retail, are loaded up with the old packages and there can be little further injury done by giving a fair opportunity to work these off. The case of the retail merchant is particularly interesting. He is generally a person of but moderate means. There is perhaps no class in the whole community whose work is so assiduous and whose gains are proportionately smaller than the retail grocer and the retail druggist. Of course a limit should be set to the time given in which to dispose of these packages put up in the old way. Unfortunately, there are manufacturers ready to take advantage of every opportunity, however unfair their action may be, to make gains for themselves at the expense of others. Unless some proper limit is put to the period during which the law shall be applied with more or less leniency, some of these dishonest manufacturers would take advantage of the situation and keep putting out their brands under the old packages and with the former adulteration in the food.

It is not the manufacturer that is considered here, nor so much the wholesale merchant of large means, upon whom the losses will not fall with such severity. It is the great army of retail merchants all over the country whose hours of labor day by day extend from before sunrise, when the first early risers among the housekeepers have to rush out for a bottle of milk or a loaf of bread before the breakfast table can be furnished, to the hour when the last household in the neighborhood is closed for the night. These retailers in many instances know no cessation from labor for sixteen hours a day, and Sunday is to many of them the same as Saturday or Monday. Their time not only is involved in their business, but unlike laborers or people earning salaries, they have invested from a thousand to several thousand dollars, and really their profits often are less than the wages of a day laborer whose hours of toil are limited to perhaps eight or nine hours.

SKY-COLOR.

Not only in the heavens I find the heaven-blue,
For over all the gladsome earth is felt that fairy hue.
My joyous eyes discover a presence everywhere,
An intervening friendliness—the spirit of the air.
It shines along the grasses, and glimmers from the ground,
It winds with yonder path afar o'er field and vale and mound;
But best of all I love it when cool and pure it gleams
In little rain-left reservoirs and newly-brimming streams.
Ah, then it has a freshness, a young bewitching grace
Like to the blush of morning-love in thy reveal-ed face;
And where the clouds deep-mirrored in beauty come and go,
I gaze as into thoughts that move serene and still below—
Thy thoughts, that waited long,
through winter's barren dreams,
To dazzle me in springtime when all heaven is in the streams.

RUBY ARCHER.

THE MENACE.

When I remember, Love, that but for thee
My homeless spirit still would wander lone,
Alien in this inhospitable zone
Upon the globe of Time, when rapturously
I touch the gleaming jewel of unity—
Whose dual rays are thy soul and my own—
Then do I tremble lest the masked unknown
Brigand of Death snatch thee away from me.

All other perils we can brave together,
Challenging them to part us. But beyond
The shifting boundaries of the realm of breath
Are many dangers and uncertain weather.
Nothing can rend our Nature-woven bond
Save the inexorable caprice of Death.

The Auto Went Around.

Senator Flinn, the Republican leader of Pittsburgh, smilingly denied the other day that he was a victim of automobile heart, the new disease.

"Here, though, is an automobile story just as good for you," said Senator Flinn to the reporter who was questioning him.

"A man in Altoona, the owner of a very fine forty horse-power limousine motor car, failed last month, and while his affairs were being settled up the car disappeared. As soon as everything had been adjusted, though, the car reappeared in the Altoona man's garage again.

"This angered one of the creditors, and the first time he saw the bankrupt he took him bitterly to task.

"'A nice bankrupt,' he said. 'How does it happen, if you're a bankrupt, that you still have that automobile?'

"'Well, you see,' said the other, smiling, 'I went through the bankruptcy court, but the automobile went round.'"—[Minneapolis Journal.

not an official as a street in Los Angeles, it is in to arise and explain why anything to keep the for the past year. No Southern California is holes as First street and Broadway, and on Spring street that the San Gabriel Cañon bicles.

this city is worse fake. During the storm, a few men have swept all the an as a skating rink at trifling expense, but not a sweeper was in sight. The rain supplied unlimited water for flushing, but instead of taking advantage of the opportunity, the street department laid off all the sweepers lest they should wet their feet.

For stupid incompetence, the street department of Los Angeles has no equal on earth. The gas and lighting companies break up the pavement at will and never repair the damage, and the asphalt is full of holes and trenches that make navigation of main thoroughfares dangerous to anything with springs. The sand and gravel washed down from the hills never is cleaned off, but remains in a gritty slime to wear the asphalt under the grinding wheels of wagons.

There is a fine opportunity for the new administration to distinguish itself by actually taking decent care of the expensively-paved streets, which have been permitted to go to ruin.

The Evils of Prosperity.

If this confounded wave of prosperity doesn't subside pretty soon, we will all go broke. The salaried and fixed-income crowd is hard hit already by the high prices the other fellows are putting on everything they have to sell, but that was to be expected and doesn't count. The paradox is that the expansion of business is stopping business because everybody has so much to do that he can't do anything. There is so much freight to be hauled that the railroads are blockaded and cannot move even the normal number of trains, and the more goods a factory has to ship, the worse off it is.

A manufacturer in the Northwest takes orders for a tremendous quantity of his product, increases his plant and his working force and turns out the goods, only to find that the railroad cannot handle them. If he does not deliver the goods to the purchaser, he must shut down the works, discharge his hands and look out for the breakers of bankruptcy. So he sues Jim Hill for damages, and Hill pleads that it isn't his fault that he can't get locomotives or cars enough to move all the freight offered.

Civilization, or what the world has been calling civilization for a century or so, has been piling up all sorts of contraptions that folks did not need when they did not have them, and has been swelling up with pride of possession. "See what a wonderful lot of things we have invented and own!" exclaim the progressive people of the twentieth century. But we don't own the improvements and conveniences of civilization; they own us. We have invented what we call "transportation" and substituted it for legs, and the monster has us all at its mercy. If it has a fit of the sulks or slips a cog, we are in imminent danger of freezing and starving to death because we have so stretched the distance between ourselves and the necessaries of life that our legs are not long enough to cover the ground.

In our superhuman cleverness we have transmuted superfluities into essentials, luxuries into fundamental necessaries of life, and a disarrangement of the complicated machine we have constructed may be as disastrous to us as the blundering hoof of a cow to a colony of ants.

If the devil is endowed with the sense of humor, he must be chuckling at the spectacle of a world doubled up with stomach ache from a surfeit of prosperity brought about by the inventions he inspired.

The arbitration farce between the United Railways and its employés is now under advisement and the suffering public is entirely indifferent as to how it is decided. The real want is more cars, and that soon. Citizens indorse as true every word Attorney Johnson said to the arbitration board. Among other things he said: "Passengers are herded like sheep in closed cars. The cars blow up, they blow out, they break down, they break away. Nobody knows where they are going or whence they came. Passengers fight for the privilege of riding home as their ancestors fought in the primitive jungle. Women are crushed, children are run over, men are killed. The company in four years has reduced the number of its cars by 112 in order to make a $1,000,000 a month from the city they pretend to serve."

Lower Market street is a sight. It is practically impassable for teams and pedestrians because an individual named Burrell got a contract to put a sewer in and he tore up everything with no conception of time or the eternal fitness of things. The Promotion Committee is at its wit's ends trying to appease prospective settlers and it plans now to have airships carry strangers blindfolded from the ferry to Van Ness avenue.

The Chicago Record-Herald finds fault with us because in refusing to educationally assimilate the Jap we are endangering a yearly trade of fifty millions. Chicago never can rise higher than a porky view of our spiritual firmness in sacrificing everything to principle even in the face of Togo and a 22,000-ton battleship on the ways. We point with alarm to the 1000 Japs a month coming in via Hawaii and with pride to the 1,000,000 Europeans yearly passing through Castle Garden. It was grateful news from Peru that she wanted immigrants and like Sam we feel like answering the ad. by sending our surplus Japs with a few thousand riotous Greeks thrown in for ballast.

A quiet bit of inside journalistic gossip is that former Congressman Livernash, who created such a rumpus in Denver by assaulting everybody in the News, is to take charge of the Bulletin immediately under Managing Editor Fremont Older. The Bulletin is in the penny field with a vengeance and after dropping its expensive Sunday edition it will depend on Livernash to insert a probe in the Schmitz-Ruef government, which so unkindly threw him overboard.

The literary colony in this neck of the woods is uncertain whether to be angry with Gertrude Atherton or to praise her for profanely scorning a business proposition. Some of the writers are aghast at any one refusing the attentions of a publisher and others who are more affluent do not approve of Gertrude's sending the presumptuous man to the devil in her second best Californiese when it would have been more correct to send him to the dwelling place of his satanic majesty. They believe, however, that what California loses in reputation for refinement she gains in reputation for force.

PUBLIC SERVICE.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

Skeptical about the remarkable mortality of cats and dogs shown by the demand from the animal contractor, the Finance Committee has started an investigation to discover why the city pays one contractor $500 a month for what others are said to be willing to pay a bonus for performing.

Two new names have been suggested for the Library Board, and the City Hall is a-tremble lest the Friday Morning Club shall take another flyer in local politics.

The arguments in the suit of Gerrity against O'Sheehan closed yesterday and Judge James took under advisement one of the most curious cases that has been in court for some time. Both men are bricklayers and were fast friends, but money matters separated them.

Milton K. Young and ex-Judge Gross have retired from the election contest, and Dr. Booth may follow their example.

Bert Stohl was arrested by the Humane Society and arraigned in the Police Court yesterday on the charge of not supporting his children. He pleaded guilty. His wife died several years ago and since then the children have been cared for by a kind-hearted, but very poor woman.

A negro newsboy was sent to the Detention Home yesterday for robbing a Long Beach man.

AT THE CITY HALL.

NOISOME DEMAND STIRS COUNCIL.

REMARKABLE DEATH RATE IN ANIMAL KINGDOM.

One Contractor Paid Big Sums for Work Others Seek to Perform Gratis—Finance Committee Thinks It Detects Odor of Graft—City Pays for 1000 Dogs and Cats.

The Council Finance Committee started an investigation yesterday morning of the dead animal contract. Half an hour later a deputy from the health office sprayed the committee room with formalin.

For the month of December the city paid to Rohrer & Tainter $500. Another fertilizer company is said to be willing to pay the city $1000 for the exclusive privilege of doing the work that Rohrer & Tainter are performing.

In executive session the Finance Committee and the City Auditor examined closely the contract and the demand of the contractors. They were disagreeably surprised to learn that the contractors gathered in last month 1093 dead cats and dogs. During the last three months the returns at the dead animal morgue have exceeded the number of licenses issued by the city; yet no one has complained of a dearth of cats and dogs anywhere in the residence districts.

December appears to have been a fatal month for household pets. In November the total collections amounted to but 326, less than one-third that of December. Presumably an epidemic is raging that has escaped the health office.

Dr. Powers's assistants have been very kind to the contractors, kindness of the grade that means real money. Under the contract Rohrer & Tainter are required to remove condemned meat from wherever it is found by the health inspectors and dispose of it. During December more than 10,000 pounds were condemned by the inspectors; but in each instance they ordered the butcher to deliver the meat to the dead animal contractor inside six hours. Rohrer & Tainter received 50 cents per hundred pounds for meat delivered free at their factory, converted it into fertilizer and sold the product at trust prices.

Members of the Finance Committee are skeptical about the number of dogs and cats collected, also about the horses. For December the contractors report 191 dead horses removed at 50 cents a head. At the same time fertilizer companies are paying from $2.50 to $4 a head for horses. There is a discrepancy here that the Finance Committee does not appreciate.

The dead animal contract was made a year and a half ago. Hoffman was the original contractor, but he transferred it to the fertilizer company. A member of the Finance Committee said yesterday that at the time the award was made another company offered to pay $1000 for the exclusive privilege of removing the dead and condemned animals and the condemned meat.

In the number of animals collected, according to the reports of the contractors, there are some remarkable variations. For December a year ago, 299 dogs and cats are reported, for December, 1906, this number has increased to 1093. Three times as many dogs and cats were collected in January, 1906, as in December, 1905.

In looking over the contract the Finance Committee discovered what appears to them to be a saving clause. One section stipulates that the city shall have power to cancel the contract any time it so desires. It does not expire until July, 1908.

The Finance Committee has sent a polite note to the dead animal contractors asking them to call and explain. On the result of this "explanation" will depend whether the Council cancels the contract and readvertises.

Apparently the new Council has an opportunity to save the city $500 a month on this one contract.

PETTICOAT POLITICS.

LIBRARY BOARD STRAWS.

Politics is manifesting itself in Public Library affairs. Wise ones about the Mayor's office said yesterday that the Chief Executive has reached a decision on his appointments for two vacancies on the Library Board. The names suggested are former Assistant City Attorney Herbert Goudge and former Library Commissioner Fisher.

These appointments would indicate that the Friday Morning Club is a factor in the present administration. Both the men suggested are warm friends of former Librarian Miss Jones.

But there is another faction prominent in political circles that does not approve this slate. At their head is Attorney Dockweiler, a member of the present Library Board. Mr. Dockweiler's term expires in February. He is said to be willing to retire from the board, provided his successor will stand by "Don Carlos;" but he does not care to make a place for either Goudge or Fisher.

During the last library squabble Councilman Smith said that he had a positive assurance from Dockweiler that he would retire from the board at the expiration of his term, that he would not accept a reappointment. But the political situation has changed materially since that time. Mr. Dockweiler supported Harper in the Mayoralty campaign, and Harper has given some of Dockweiler's friends assurance that Dockweiler can succeed himself if he so desires.

More wire pulling is occasioned by the appointment of two members of the Library Board than has been attempted over the selection of two Water Commissioners.

GETS A LEMON.

STREET MACHINE TANGLE.

Charles Alexander, one time garbage contractor, received a lemon yesterday from the Board of Public Works. Alexander is agent for the St. Louis Street Flushing Machine Company. He secured last week a favorable report from the street department for his machines. Yesterday the Board of Public Works was expected to sign a contract for the machines.

But yesterday morning Secretary Ferris received a certified copy of a decision in the United States Court of Missouri to the effect that the St. Louis machine is an infringement on a patent held by the American Street Flushing Machine Company.

In addition to the cost of freight on the machines, Alexander is out something like $50 for "personal expenses." The flushing machines have received the approval of the Board of Public Works, and it will probably buy some of the American make.

Alexander said yesterday that the St. Louis Company has sold several hundred of the machines to eastern cities. He thinks that the case has already been compromised, and that the city can buy the flushers now here without purchasing a lawsuit.

FAVORS GOLD LACE.

UNDEMOCRATIC DEMOCRATS.

Jacksonian Democrats are not wholly satisfied with the first week of the Harper administration. Scorning the Democratic simplicity that pervaded the City Hall during the Snyder regimes the newcomers are asking the Council for permission to admit gold lace and ebony finish to the executive chambers.

Mayor Harper expressed a desire Thursday for a colored porter to sit in his outside office and receive visitors. He stipulated that the attendant shall wear uniform.

Inspector Edwards of the Department of Public Works is inclined to favor the proposal, provided the porter shall pose for the Board of Public Works as well as for the Mayor. The Council may create the position tomorrow.

This policy does not sit well on the shell-bark Democracy from the Sixth and Seventh wards. These think the new administration is misled by the pride of place and lure of gilt uniforms.

A. G. Mitchell, a two-story Georgia darkey, has already applied for the place that is to be. Mitchell is more than seven feet tall, and claims to be a nephew of the one-time pugilist, Peter Jackson. When Mitchell is on his knees and the Mayor is on his toes they are about of an equal height.

PARTY LINES DRAWN.

COUNCIL PATRONAGE.

Non-Partisan members of the Council are planning for a test of strength at tomorrow's session over the appointment of police surgeons. Five Republicans voted at the caucus for the two-surgeon system at the police station. The Non-Partisans think that they have won one over and that they now have votes enough to repeal the ordinance providing for the duplicate system.

Dr. S. J. Quint will probably be the surgeon-in-chief in case the ordinance proposed by the Non-Partisans is adopted; otherwise, he will share the place with Dr. Garrett.

AT THE COURTHOUSE.

QUARREL OVER FLAG'S STARS.

BUT REAL ESTATE DEAL ALSO MAKES TROUBLE.

Pat Gerrity and Tim O'Sheehan, Once Chums, Fighting Each Other in Court—Former Claims Interest in Certain Lots, Which Latter Denies—Judge James as Peacemaker.

Pat Gerrity and Tim O'Sheehan don't speak any more, and merely gaze stonily at each other over the dinner table at the home of Pat's mother, where Tim has boarded since he came to Los Angeles.

The two old chums couldn't agree as to how many stars there are in the American flag, but there are other causes of difference that lent strength to the quarrel. For three days Judge James has been trying to adjudicate these differences.

Both Pat and Tim were bricklayers, and always made good wages, but within the last year or two their wages became so big that the future promised to land the two in the class of the landed aristocracy. While Pat was a little bit timorous about speculating, Tim dumped his savings into real estate, and enjoyed his evenings smoking a pipe with Pat, and counting up prospective profits.

According to the testimony given before Judge James, Tim O'Sheehan bought a lot on Moneta avenue, and was anxious to get two more. Pat stated that Tim came to him and told him that if he could only raise $600, they would buy the lots together. Pat went to his brother-in-law and persuaded him to mortgage his place and let him have the $600. Then, he said, he handed the money over to his friend Tim, and the two lots were purchased, title being taken in O'Sheehan's name.

Up to that time all had been lovely between the two friends, but one night at the supper table, Tim precipitated a quarrel by reflecting on this country. He said that if he had remained in Ireland he could have made as much money as he had made here. Pat championed America, and some hot words ensued. The American flag was alluded to, and immediately the original dispute was sidetracked, while the two men disputed as to how many stars decorated the emblem.

The next morning old Mrs. Gerrity wondered what was the matter with Pat, and her star boarder, Tim O'Sheehan. Neither would speak to the other, and they scowled so that the mother thought it wise to keep quiet. But presently some reference was made to the venture in real estate, and Pat gasped when Tim intimated that he would soon return the former's loan of $600, and be done with him.

A loan! Pat didn't know anything about a loan, but he did know that he owned a $600 interest in lots on Moneta avenue. When Tim merely shrugged his shoulders, Pat began suit in the courts to have straightened out this and other transactions. As a matter of fact, the action before Judge James is only one of a series that is setting two old friends by the ears, and which threatens to rupture their friendship for all time.

Tim claimed in court that, though he did ask Pat for the $600, he didn't put that money into the lots, but, not wanting to be short of cash, kept it by him, having used all his own loose capital, in paying for the real estate. He maintained that the money was given to him by Pat as a loan and was not even to bear interest. Tim showed his earnestness by making a tender of the $600 in open court, but Pat, his mother, and others of the Gerrity contingent turned up their noses contemptuously.

The case is now before Judge James, who will have to decide whether Pat Gerrity persuaded his relative to mortgage property just for the pleasure of making a loan to a friend, without any interest or profit; or whether Pat is a partner in the real estate deal to the extent of $600.

YOUNG WITHDRAWS.

FROM JUDGESHIP CONTEST.

Judge West yesterday reaffirmed his decision regarding the double circling of ballots at the last election. This means that a large proportion of the Non-Partisan vote and the votes cast for the Independence League ticket are of non-effect, and in the event of a complete recount of the county's vote, some important changes might occur.

When the decision was rendered, an adjournment was asked for by the contestants until 11:30 o'clock. When court reconvened, Milton K. Young withdrew from the contest. He thanked the court and members of the Republican and the Independence League for their kindness and consideration, but stated that neither his time or his pocketbook would permit of his carrying the matter any further. Mr. Young evinced deep feeling. As he intimated that several firms of attorneys had volunteered their services in the event of his determining to carry on the fight, and as it was understood that the National Democratic Committee had donated a certain sum for the purpose, the exact reason for his withdrawal was not apparent, since Mr. Young again stated his claim that he believed that he had won one of the judgeships.

When the recount began it was the understanding that a number of Republicans had marked their ticket and then had jumped over to the adjoining column to do special honor to Milton Young, by marking him for judge. That was one of the strongest contentions, but as far as the count went, only one ticket of that kind loomed up.

Judge Gross is also out of the fight, and Attorney Lemar Harris, appearing for Dr. Booth, asked that the matter be continued until Tuesday, when it will be decided whether the contest for Coroner will be continued.

COURTHOUSE NOTES.

BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS.

SANCHEZ FAMILY. The Sanchez family was before Judge Smith on habeas corpus proceedings yesterday. The father, mother and two girls are accused of having stolen two bolts of silk from Blackstone's. Their attorney claimed that though the property was found in their possession, no evidence had been adduced before the committing magistrate to indicate that any one of them had stolen it. He stated that to receive stolen property is not to be guilty of grand larceny—the charge against the defendants. Judge Smith held that the question was one for the jury, and ordered the defendants remanded.

PLEADS GUILTY. William Findlay pleaded guilty to stealing a bicycle belonging to Eugene Bobb and was sent to jail for four months.

DESERTION. Beulah R. Holloway was granted a divorce from Bert H. Holloway on the ground of desertion. The parties were married at Tucson, Ariz., in 1903 and then came to this city. Holloway was employed by the Wells-Fargo Company, but failed to support his wife and deserted her in 1904.

ATTORNEY'S FEE. Attorney W. C. Batcheller is suing Henry F. Whittier to recover a big fee. He alleges that in April, 1902, he and the defendant agreed to divide the proceeds of a suit in which real estate was at issue. In October, 1906, the suit ended with Whittier the gainer, it is alleged, by $976.50 in cash and a piece of property worth $26,000. He has refused, it is said, to give half to the attorney.

TO DISINCORPORATE. The Masonic Temple Association of Los Angeles has petitioned the court for permission to disincorporate. The association was formed with a capital stock of $50,000. All debts are paid and the association is absolutely free of all claims.

WANTS DAMAGES. The Colegrove Water Company is suing the city of Hollywood to recover $10,000 as damages. The plaintiff owns the water system at Hollywood, which is valued at $20,000. It is alleged that the company was forbidden to lay pipes along Gower street, and that eleven workmen were threatened with arrest. At an expense of $4000 the water company, it is claimed, had to obtain a right of way over private property.

HONOLULU TRIP SURE.

The Chamber of Commerce Honolulu excursion is progressing finely. Enough signatures have been received to guarantee the chartering of the ship. As soon as the chart and profile of the ship arrives from Seattle, which has been detained on account of washouts, the chamber will continue booking passengers. The idea is to swell the number to 250 at least.

THE INFERIOR COURTS.

WON'T SUPPORT HIS CHILDREN.

BERT STOHL PLEADS GUILTY TO THIS CHARGE.

Arrested by Humane Society and Arraigned in Police Court—Newsboy Sent to Detention Home—Pool Ball Thief Sentenced—McGrath Is Fined for Slapping With Steak.

The Humane Society found Bert Stohl yesterday and arraigned him in the Police Court. Witnesses say that the man has used his earnings for whisky, while Mrs. Loretta Muratt of No. 839 East Twenty-ninth street has supported his motherless children by hard work.

Three years ago Stohl's wife died, and he immediately, it is said, left his children, the eldest of whom is now 8 years old, the next 6, and the youngest not yet 4. Mrs. Muratt took care of the little ones. She had hard work to make both ends meet for herself alone, and it was much harder with this motherless family to provide for.

Stohl worked when he pleased, but is said to have spent much of his time in enjoying the opportunities for pleasure afforded by saloons, when a man has money in his pockets. Two or three times he visited the Muratt home, and got a glimpse of his children. At such times he would tell the woman that he intended to pay her for boarding his children, but he never did so, it is alleged.

Yesterday in the Police Court Stohl pleaded guilty to not supporting his family. More testimony as to his habits is wanted by the society, and Stohl will again be brought into court on Monday. He is now in jail for lack of $200 bail.

Recently Mrs. Muratt had to place the children in charitable institutions, because she was unable longer to bear the burden of their support.

Boy Pickpocket Confesses.

George Hoyt, a negro newsboy, and one of a number who have confessed to being industrious pickpockets, with peculiar methods, was sent to the Detention Home yesterday.

The police say that this boy and the others in custody worked under the direction of a man who acted in the role of a latter-day Fagin. The robbery of William Kitchen was the crime which led to the arrest of the youthful gang.

Hoyt said, in the Police Court yesterday, that it was the custom of himself and his associates to cry their papers and to use their wares as a "stall." They would approach a man and crowd closely about him. One of the gang would stuff a paper in his pocket, and at the same time extract whatever of value the pocket contained. This is the way they robbed Kitchen.

The police are hunting for the adult criminal who "fenced" their plunder.

Must Face Jury.

Marie Marselle, who is charged with keeping a disorderly house, will face a jury in the Police Court this week. Her place is No. 310 Jackson street. J. Benda, who said he became drunk there, was arrested yesterday and fined $3. He complained against the place for selling beer without a license.

Bessie 'Phones Judge.

Bessie Sawyer 'phoned Justice Frederickson that she wasn't able to come to court yesterday morning, and so her case was postponed. Bessie is a colored woman, whom the police term a thief. She will be tried for vagrancy.

Steals Pool Balls.

Juan Barbossa, who was caught by a patrolman, after running away from a Sonoratown pool hall, got twenty days on the chain gang yesterday. Barbossa had watched a pool game until the players adjourned to the bar for a drink. Then he took the ivory balls and vanished. An officer found him trying to sell his plunder.

Shouter Silenced.

John Callahan, who sells a Socialist paper, was arrested by a patrolman for shouting on South Main street yesterday. He was released on $10 bail, and will be tried before a jury on January 25. His arrest came as a consequence of the crusade against newsboy nuisances.

Slaps With Steak, Fined.

For striking Bessie Flouse in the face with a beefsteak on December 28, Mike McGrath, a chef in a downtown restaurant, paid a $20 fine in the Police Court yesterday. The man was tried and convicted of battery some time ago.

Pleads for His Prisoner.

The spectacle of an officer pleading for a thief is rare, but it was seen in Justice Rose's court yesterday, when Detective Thomas Ziegler pleaded for William Reynolds. The criminal had stolen a watch, but there were extenuating circumstances. Reynolds had lived in Los Angeles a long time, and had always born a good reputation. The police think it was not because of criminal instinct that the prisoner erred. Justice Rose gave Reynolds a ninety days' sentence, suspended during good behavior.

Stopping Nuisances.

Ten careless express wagon drivers and a half-dozen leather-lunged newsboys were fined small amounts in the Police Court yesterday.

GOOD MAN CALLED HOME.

Once Prominent Oil Operator and Antagonist of Standard Oil Monopoly, Dies in This City.

John Gould Williams died at his home in this city on Tuesday, January 8, after a long-continued illness. He was born at Merton, Wis., April 22, 1850, and all the early years of his business career were spent in the oil regions of Pennsylvania, New York and West Virginia. At one time he was among the largest oil producers of the East, and it is said of him that he lost two fortunes through his refusal to bow to the dictation of the Standard Oil Company.

In 1900 he removed to Los Angeles from Parkersburg, W. Va., in broken health and embarked in the real estate business. He was a faithful member of Temple Baptist church at the time of his death, with which denomination he has been connected all his life. A man of the strictest integrity, he endeared himself to all who formed his acquaintance, and further won his way to their affections by the sweetness of his voice as a singer of gospel songs.

His widow and two sons survive him. The latter are Charles E., aged 20 years, and Andrew N., aged 13.

ESPERANTO PROGRESSING.

The Esperanto movement is making great strides, both locally and generally. The Esperanto Society of Los Angeles, which has been devoting the first part of its regular Monday night meetings to the beginners, has found it necessary to appoint a special evening for this purpose. The first of these meetings was held last evening. The regular meetings of the society are held on Monday evenings. The society has permanent headquarters at 102 Blanchard Building, No. 232 South Hill street, where all meetings are held. "Study Circles" in Esperanto have been formed in various parts of the city, which hold regular weekly meetings. Magazines are taking up Esperanto.

GROCERS' NATIONAL MEETING.

The National Retail Grocers' Association will meet in Dallas, Tex., January 22, 23 and 24. J. F. Paulding of this city, secretary of the Retail Merchants' Exchange of Southern California, leaves on Friday of this week for Dallas, as a representative of the grocers of this part of the State. During the convention Mr. Paulding will present a paper on the subject of "Manufacturers Establishing Retail Prices on Their Products."

LIBERAL CLUB'S ELECTION.

At the annual election of officers of the Liberal Club the following named were chosen for the ensuing year: President, Ezra Crossman; secretary, Mrs. Elizabeth Blackiston; treasurer, Albert W. Shie; librarian, Walter Collins; lecture bureau, C. A. Whitney, H. H. Hutchison, Walter Collins; directorate, William C. Owen, Mrs. R. E. Kent, William Potts, Walter Collins, Franklin H. Heald, Ezra Crossman and Mrs. E. P. Freemott.

CHINESE TO BE DEPORTED.

United States Commissioner Van Dyke yesterday morning ordered the four Chinamen, Quong Way, Fong Foo Lee, Pow Gong and Lee Sip Ming, arrested early Friday morning as they were leaving a Santa Ana street car, deported to China. It was impossible to make out a case against Lou Quong Shue, the Chinese merchant who accompanied the Chinamen from Santa Ana to this city, and he was discharged after being held as a witness.

January Economic Possibilities

The "Something Doing" store does nothing half way. January is recognized here as the month of mercantile house cleaning—and every department is making radical reductions for a quick out-moving of all odd lots and broken lines.

In addition to the bargains thus occasioned, there are reduced prices on fresh new merchandise priced in a way to swell the sales of the month to a new record. Take any of these for illustration.

NEW PROJECTS FOR MEXICO.

Los Angeles Man Secures Steamship Concession.

Ambitious Fruit Enterprise of San Franciscans.

Would Supply the Coast With Mexican Bananas.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 4.—Among the Los Angeles men who have seemed to bask under the smiles of success in Mexico is W. L. Vail of this city. In connection with some of his associates he has just obtained a concession from the government of Salvador for the establishment of a new steamship line between that Central American republic and the Mexican port of Salina Cruz, Pacific terminal of the Tehuantepec route. Within twelve months probably six boats will be in operation for passenger and freight traffic. The company to handle this new line will be backed by English capital, and the capitalization will be about $10,000,000 silver. The new line will carry mail from Salvador and vice versa, and Mr. Vail expects, through his associate Mr. Adams, to make the same mail arrangement with the governments of Nicaragua and Honduras effective also in this country. Recently the Pacific Mail line, holding the contract for carrying the Mexican mails, objected to entering the port of Salina Cruz because of insufficient facilities for landing, a difficulty since then abated. This refusal may lose them the contract for the carrying of the mail, that contract going to the new company. Shippers along the western coast of Central American countries have many times protested because of their inability to ship cargoes as direct as they wished. This additional facility will, therefore, be very welcome to them if carried through with the Mexican government. The passenger service by the new line will be, so Mr. Vail claims, better than furnished by the Pacific Mail or the Kosmos line which handles the coastwise trade between Panama and Salina Cruz.

FRUIT GROWING.

I have hitherto mentioned the fruit growing proposition of the Mexican Tropical Fruit Company. But a few more items concerning this California enterprise may be of interest. It is generally believed that fruit growers on the Pacific Coast, and especially those of California, are awaiting the completion of the Mexican Central to Manzanillo, and the opening of the Tehuantepec Railway on the 14th of this month, in order to ship their precious but perishable product by the short route instead of using the transcontinental railroads in the United States. But if the calculations entertained by T. E. Langley materialize, the above-named fruit company, of which he is general manger, will be able to ship tropical fruits, such as bananas and cocoanuts, to San Francico as a friendly offset to California oranges and citrus fruits, entering Mexico through the ports of Manzanillo and Salina Cruz.

The Mexican Tropical Fruit Company, a California concern, is very ambitious and has plenty of substantial ground upon which to build its ambition. Twenty years ago the United Fruit Company, operating from New Orleans, commenced their importation of fruits into the American market. Today they have about eighty vessels in that trade with Central America, and occasionally with Mexico; last year their net profits were twenty million dollars. The opening of the Tehuantepec route will probably have the effect of deflecting to this country some of the vast orders for tropical fruits placed in Costa Rica and other portions of Central America by the United Fruit Company. But their supply of Mexican fruits necessarily will be from the state of Veracruz and the eastern portion of this republic. The vast fruit trade along the Pacific will naturally accrue to the Mexican Tropical Fruit Company and kindred concerns that build up a business along the Pacific Coast. In other words, what the United Fruit Company has done to develop Costa Rica in relation to the American market will be done for Western Mexico by this California concern of which Mr. Langley is general manager.

When it is remembered that twenty-five years ago no California fruit was sent into the rest of the United States and that last year thirty thousand cars of oranges went eastward, when it is further remembered that thirty years ago the first bananas were brought from Central America to the United States, and that now the United Fruit Company has built up such an enormous business and that rival companies are trying to enter the field to supply England and Germany with Mexican and Central American fruits, the possibilities of this Pacific enterprise can be appreciated somewhat.

Mr. Langley was in the city yesterday on business in connection with his company. He says they have planted out one thousand acres at their place, which is in the vicinity of a little town called Las Peñas, in the state of Jalisco. They put out four hundred plants to the acre, making four thousand plants in all. They expect at the first crop fifty bunches of bananas to the acre, or half a million on the one thousand acres already under development. The New Orleans concern buys this luscious fruit in Costa Rica at 25 cents gold a bunch and sells it in New York at $3, but pays $1.25 a bunch freightage. Mr. Langley's company proposes to put on two steamers to start with this year and their cost of transportation to the average American markets will be probably 40 or 50 cents gold a bunch less than the United Fruit Company pays. They could, therefore, sell for $2 or $2.25 gold per bunch, and make a handsome profit. Bananas are one of the most profitable and easily raised of all tropical fruits. In Mexico they are gathered every day in the year and are always in season, and therefore a banana plantation is like an interest-bearing note, constantly productive. Bananas will produce fruit in nine months from the planting of roots or suckers. The cost of cultivation is less than in Central America. Furthermore, San Francisco and all the Pacific States, and in fact all the territory west of Kansas City, can be more easily reached from the site settled by the Mexican Tropical Fruit Company than from the Costa Rica connections of the New Orleans concern.

Las Peñas is a town of about 2000 people, located on a large embaying gulf or roadstead of the Pacific. It lies between the ports of Manzanillo and Salina Cruz. Nature seems to have formed at Las Peñas, which stands at the head of Banderas Bay, one of the best natural harbors on the Pacific. It is about fifteen miles in depth and some twelve miles in width and with a great profundity of water. There is a line of islands partly closing the entrance, but leaving an entry of two or three miles in width. High hills on both the extremities of the bay protect the same, as do the islands near the entrance. As a result while the chubaseos, or Pacific winds, work great havoc to shipping, even at the neighboring ports of San Blas and Manzanillo, all the passing ships can find perfect shelter in Banderas Bay.

This ambitious project of this California concern bids fair to astonish the world, even more than the phenomenal success attained by the United Fruit Company, especially after the completion of the Mexican Central to Manzanillo, and the formal influx of traffic across the Tehauntepec.

PERSONAL.

Miss Grace Wishaar, an artist of San Francisco, arrived in Mexico City yesterday to copy the famous painting of the Count of Monterey, which is in the National Museum. Miss Wishaar was sent by the Southern Pacific Railroad, and her copy of the portrait will be hung in the lobby of Hotel Monterey, in Monterey, Cal., which is owned by the Southern Pacific. The Southern Pacific Company also has two photographers in Mexico taking views of choice bits of scenery and ruins of buildings, the photographs to be used in advertising.

United States Ambassador Thompson just told me he would go to the Isthmus of Tehuantepec on the twelfth of this month, on invitation of Sir Weetman Pearson, to witness the inauguration of the rehabilitated Isthmian Railway and the two terminal ports of Coatzacoalcos and Salina Cruz, to be opened to the world on the 14th instant. President Diaz and a limited number of guests will also be on hand for that occasion. Mr. Thompson, who has the knack of doing things just right, is going down in his own private car, which recently arrived from the Pullman shops, one of the handsomest that ever entered Mexico. He has kindly consented to have as his car-guests the members of the Diplomatic Corps, nine in number. Upon his return from Tehuantepec, the Ambassador contemplates a flying trip to Chicago and New York and, of course, Washington. He will go to the United States to accompany Mrs. Thompson back to this capital and they may return to Mexico via Cuba.

LA SUERAE DEL SENOR VAIL.

CONCESION PARA LOS VAPORES DE SU LINEA.

Lt Industria Frutera de la Costa Mexicana—Ambicion de la Nueva Compania San Franciscana Como Antes Ambiciono La United Fruit Company de Nueva Orleans.

MEXICO, Enero 4 de 1907.—Entre los hombres procedentes de Los Angeles sobre quienes la suerte sonrie en este pais es el Sr. W. L. Vail, de esta capital. En combinacion con algunos socios ha obtenido una concesion del gobierno de Salvador para establecer una linea de vapores entre aquella entidad federativa centro-americana y el puerto mexicano de Salina Cruz, término Pacifico del Ferrocarril Tehuantepecano. En doce meses probablemente habran seis buques dedicados al trafico de pasajeros y de fletes. La compania operadora de la nueva linea es inglesa, y su capital sera de diez millones en plata. Llevaran los buques la correspondencia al Salvador y a Mexico, probablemete, y el socio del Sr. Vail, el Sr. Adams, esta haciendo el mismo arregló con los gobiernos de Nicaragua y Honduras. Los vapores del Pacific Mail recientemente rehusaron entrar al puerto de Salina Cruz, por razon de falta de facilidades en el manejo de la carga y descarga; de manera que no cargaran mas con la correspondencia, si no se obvia esa dificultad. En dado caso no es dificil que el gobierno mexicano celebre con la nueva linea un contrato para cargar correspondencia postal. Dice el Sr. Vail que por los vapores de su linea habra un servicio superior al de la Mala Pacifica y de la linea Kosmos.

La apertura de la ruta de Tehuantepec el dia catorce del mes en curso, lo mismo que la construccion del ferrocarril al puerto de Manzanillo, abriran puertas para la exportacion de las frutas de la costa mexicana del Pacifico, y la importacion al pais de las frutas californianas. La Mexican Tropical Fruit Company, una compañia californiana espera contribuir perceptiblemente a la industria frutera de aquella costa mexicana. Esa compañia, cuyo gerente general es el Sr. T. E. Langley, espera exportar a San Francisco platanos y otros frutos tropicales, mientras que California mande a México por los puertos de Manzanillo y Salina Cruz sus naranjas. Ambiciona la compañia como antes ambiciono la United Fruit Company de Nueva Orleans. Hace viente años que la de Nueva Orleans comenzo la importacion de frutas de Centro America a los mercados americans. Hoy tienen ochenta vapores y de vez en cuando vienen a México para llevar fruta, y sus ganancias netas en el año proximo pasado subian a veinte millones de pesos en oro. No es dificil que al abrirse la ruta de Tehuantepec los vapores de la compañia de Nueva Orleans visiten mas frecuentemente los puertos del Golfo de México en busca de frutos tropicales; necesariamente su surtido sera del estado costeño de Vera Cruz y la parte oriental de la republica. Naturalmente el trafico en las frutas de la costa Pacifica atañe a la Mexican Tropical Fruit Company y otras compañias explotadoras de aquella region. De manera que orto tanto haran en las costa del Pacifico de este pais lo que ha hecho la United Fruit Company en Costa Rica. Recuérdese que hace viente y cinco años la Alta California no despachaba al resto de los Estados Unidos ninguna fruta y en el año pasado hubo treinta mil carros de esa mercancia. Recuérdese tambien que hace treinta años que los primeros platanos de la America Central entraron a los Estados Unidos y desde esa fecha la United Fruit Company ha demostrado enormemente y ya hay sindicatos rivales que desean surtir a la Inglaterra y Alemania con frutas tropicales, no solo de la America Central sino tambien de los Estados Unidos. Asi se obtiene una idea de las posibilidades de la compañia californiana que proyecta explotar la costa occidental de Mexico. Dice el Sr. Langley que plantaron ya mil "acres" cerca de la poblacion de Las Peñas, en el estado de Jalisco. Asignan a cada acre 400 plantas, o sean 400,000 a la hacienda. Anticipan cosechar cincuenta racimos de platanos al "acre" o sean 500,000 a la parte de su hacienda ya cultivable. La United Fruit Company compra la fruta en Costa Rica a razon de veinte cinco centavos oro, y lo vende en Nueva York hasta $3 oro, pero paga $1.25 de flete por racimo. Dice Mr. Langley que su compañia propone comenzar con dos vapores propios en el año actual, y ahorrara en fletes de cuarenta a cincuenta centavos oro por racimo. Podra, pues, venderlos por dos pesos oro y aun tener huena ganancia. Los platanos arrojan ganancia muy positiva y dan poco trabajo en su cultivo. En este pais se cosechan todo el año, por consiguiente un platanal es siempre productivo, como es un pagaré. Produce frutas en nueve meses después de plantados, y cuesta menos cultivarlos en Mexico que en Costa Rica. Ademas, es mas accesible California a la costa Pacifica de México que a Costa Rica. Las Peñas es una poblacion de dos mil habitantes, situada en una bahia grande del Pacifico, entre los puertos de Manzanillo y Salina Cruz. Parece que la misma Madre Naturaleza ha construido un puerto lo mas natural y bueno en frente de la poblacion, sirviéndose de la Bahia Banderas. Tiene de longitud quince millas y de anchura doce, y el agua es profunda. Hay a la entrada unas islas, pero la entrada para los buques es de dos o tres millas. Colinas altas protejan cada extremo de la bahia, y asi los chubascos o vientos mayores del Pacifico no alcanzan perturbar la bahia, y los buques que no han podido refugiarse en los puertos de San Blas y Manzanillo encuentran proteccion perfecta en Las Peñas.

El dia doce de este mes, el Embajador Thompson ira al Istmo de Tehuantepec, invitado por Sir Weetman Pearson para presenciar la inauguracion de la via abierta al mundo el dia catorce del actual. Van también el Presidente Diaz y algunos otros invitados. Mr. Thompson es un hombre de modales afables y muy practicos, y él hara el viaje en su propio coche particular, que vino ultimamete de Chicago. Es uno de los carros mas hermosos hasta ahora hechos per la Compañia Pullman. Lo ocuparan nueve miembros del cuerpo diplomatico. Cuando regresa, el Embajador Thompson propone ir a Chicago, Nueve York y Washington, para volver con su señora. Regresaran a Mexico por via de Cuba.

Times' New Year's Annual.

The Midwinter Number of The Times has had an unprecedented sale; more copies have been mailed away by enterprising Los Angeles citizens than ever before. It is a great missionary to send friends, and a thousand personal letters could not give them as much concise information about this great land of ours. It will aid the whole country if business men will send a copy to their customers and correspondents. Real estate dealers can help themselves in no better way than by supplying clients living at a distance with one of these great papers. Anybody, anywhere, will surely be delighted to receive a copy of these "Land of Sunshine" publications. Mail orders promptly filled.

NEWS OF THE MINES—Review of the Week's Diggings in the Southw

LOCATION LAW.

Ex-Senator William M. Stewart of Nevada, maintains by citation of statutes and by argument that there is no need for further legislation to stop monopoly of mineral lands or to limit the number of claims that a prospector may locate and hold. Mr. Stewart cites Section 2320 of the Revised Statutes, which declares that "No location of a mining claim shall be made until the discovery of a vein or lode within the limits of the vein located." The mining law of Nevada provides that location may be made by defining the boundaries of the claim with substantial posts or stones, "one at each corner and one at the center of each side line," and by posting the proper notice.

The locator does not have ninety days in which to define his boundaries. There is no location until the boundaries are defined. Within ninety days after location, the locator must sink a discovery shaft to the depth of at least ten feet, or deeper if necessary to show a lode deposit of mineral in place. A cross-cut or tunnel which cuts the lode at a depth of ten feet, or an open cut equivalent to a shaft four feet by six by ten feet deep, is equivalent to a discovery shaft.

Mr. Stewart points out that discovery is the source of title to a mining claim, without which no location can be made, and that the discovery must be something more than the finding of valuable mineral. It must be a vein or lode of rock in place bearing valuable mineral and enclosed in the country rock. It cannot be a mere suggestion or hope of finding a vein. The whole country cannot be located as a claim merely because valuable mineral can be found all over the surface. The vein must have boundaries that can be defined.

"The staking out of a large number of claims without the discovery of a vein on each of them," says Senator Stewart, "is the same in principle as locating homesteads by dummy locators, which is a penitentiary offense. The criminal law of the United States is ample for the punishment of fictitious entries of homesteads or fictitious locations of mining claims.

"Where no person is at work exploring a mining claim, and no vein has been discovered thereon, the right of a citizen to enter upon and explore it is perfect, and it is made the duty of officers of the United States to prosecute at the expense of the United States all persons guilty of depriving citizens of a right conferred by the law of Congress. Excessive location by one or more locators is thoroughly guarded against by the statutes of the United States, and of Nevada, which deny to any person the right to locate a claim within its limits. The time for marking a claim cannot be reduced (as advocated by proponents of additional mining legislation,) because the law already requires it as the first act of location after discovery."

Senator Stewart's exposition of mining law is undoubtedly correct. He was one of the framers of the law, he is a lawyer and a miner. It appears that not only is there no warrant in law for the common practice of putting up location monuments and claiming numerous 1500-foot areas of unexplored ground, but it is actually a criminal offense to prevent a citizen from exploring and properly locating such claims. The "claim hog" is not only a hog, he is liable to prosecution, and it is the duty of Federal officers to arrest and prosecute him.

A location monument from which a claim may be swung to cover subsequent discoveries, is not a legal location and does not hold any ground for ninety days or any other period. "Extension" claims, without actual discovery of mineral veins in place, are invalid, and a prospector may be prosecuted for pretending to locate them, and preventing others from exploring them. The man who makes a discovery on such ground and locates it properly is not a "jumper," although it is customary to treat him as such.

As Senator Stewart argues, what is needed is not more law but enforcement of the law as it stands against the claim hog and the corporations professing to hold large groups of claims upon which no vein has been actually discovered. If the law is invoked and enforced, persons now monopolizing mineral lands by fake locations will share the fate that has recently befallen fraudulent grabbers of timber and agricultural lands.

FOREST RESERVES.

Land in Del Norte Withdrawn from Entry in Response to Petition of Miners.

A few months ago the miners of Del Norte county formed a mining district, and in order to protect the many mining claims in the district, at the suggestion of State Mineralogist Aubury, a petition was framed by the miners, indorsed by Mr. Aubury and forwarded to Hon. Gifford Pinchot, with the recommendation that the lands embraced in the district, amounting to 155,580 acres, be added to the Klamath Forest Reserve. The Acting Commissioner of the General Land Office has announced the withdrawal from entry of all the lands in the Del Norte mining district, which it was recommended should be withdrawn, lying in Del Norte county and adjoining the Klamath Forest Reserve on the west and the Oregon border on the north. These lands will be inspected by government agents as soon as conditions will permit, and undoubtedly they will be added to the Klamath Forest Reserve.

This action on the part of the miners in this State is without precedent, and it shows that the miners of California are awakening to the fact that their only safety against the assaults of the timber grabbers lies in their protection by the United States Forest Service.

As long ago as 1902 the State Mineralogist advocated that the miners should use their best efforts towards securing permanent forest reserves, not only against the illegal acts of the timber grabbers, but for the further protection of water powers and timber for mining purposes. In connection with the Sacramento Valley Association, Mr. Aubury petitioned the President to withdraw from entry all unoccupied government timber lands in Northern California, and on October 14, 1902, the President withdrew over 6,000,000 acres of land, pending investigation for forest reserve purposes. Since that time many additions were made to the reserves, and new ones were created, until at the present time nearly 20,000,000 of acres of timber lands are embraced in forest reserves in California. At the outset many of the miners were antagonistic to the creation of the reserves. This feeling was created by agents of the timber speculators among miners and stock men, but at the present time the miners of the State are in hearty accord with the forest reserve policy, and this has been demonstrated by the petition made by the miners of the Del Norte Mining District.

The Golden Rod, located in Searchlight, owned by Los Angeles and Portland capital, is under the management of E. G. Locke, mining engineer, who has let a contract for sinking the shaft 100 feet, giving a total depth of 140 feet.

IN SOUTHERN ARIZONA.

REORGANIZATION OF THE TWIN BUTTES COMPANY.

Strike of Engineers at Helvetia Was a Small Affair and a Failure. Greene Interested in Chiricahua and Johnson Districts—Active Operations in Sonora Camps.

TUCSON, Jan. 10.—The annual meeting of the Twin Buttes Mining and Smelting Company was held here on Wednesday. Much interest attached to the meeting owing to reports to the effect that changes would likely be made in the board of directors and possibly in the management.

Three new members were added to the board of directors, which is as follows: Mayor D. S. Rose, E. P. Hackett, Robert Nunnemacher, W. Julius Frank and Samuel D. Adler, all of Milwaukee; W. A. Barber of Waldo, Wis.; Edward T. Davis and Felix Isman of Philadelphia, and John A. Baxter of Tucson. The new directors are Felix Isman, Julius Frank and Samuel D. Adler. They succeeded Dr. William Earles, Dr. J. B. Mill and S. M. Berger, all of Milwaukee.

There is a probability that the board of directors will shortly engage a mining engineer to take charge of the work at the mines owing to the proportions it is now assuming. The Twin Buttes company has invested a half million dollars in its mines and railroad.

What was reported to be a strike of serious proportions, in which there was bloodshed, at the mines of the Helvetia Mining Company, turned out to be a little labor difficulty of comparatively small proportions. The strike was caused by the hoisting engineers quitting work because they thought they were not receiving enough pay. They get $4 per day and demanded $5. When this was refused they quit work. Manager Close of the Helvetia company immediately sent to Tucson and secured new engineers. One of the new engineers was held up at the Isle Royale shaft at night by masked men and compelled to quit work. The other new engineers became frightened and also quit working temporarily, necessitating a cessation of operations. Manager Close then asked for police protection, stating that he feared the Mexican miners who were idle might become drunk and cause difficulty. Three officers were sent to Helvetia from the Sheriff's office and remained in the camp two days until the strike was settled by the engineers giving in to the company.

The Helvetia company has just received a new engine for its narrow-gauge road. The camp has a railroad line all of its own, notwithstanding the fact that it is fifteen miles from any other railroad. The camp railroad transports ore from the different shafts to the smelter. The Isle Royale shaft, which has reached a depth of 1200 feet, is two miles from the smelter. The locomotive was hauled from Vails, which is the Helvetia shipping point on the Southern Pacific, to the camp on specially constructed wagons. Thirty horses were required to make the pull.

S. R. Kaufman, B. L. Kaufman, W. G. Rice and James Chenoweth of Michigan have been in Tucson all week, and the object of their visit here is said to be to complete a deal by which they will take over a property in the Chiracahua Mountains which they will work on a large scale. Thomas F. Cole, who put through the merger of the Cananea Central and the Greene Consolidated companies into the Greene Cananea Company, is said to be interested with the Michigan mining men.

The first sulphides have been struck in the Copper Chief shaft on the property of the Arizona and Michigan Development Company at the 168-foot level in Johnson Camp. The Copper Chief shaft is double compartment.

With the completion of the grading for the new railroad to Johnnie Camp on the announcement of the opening of the Benson smelter this spring, the outlook is very bright for the district.

A reorganization of the Peabody Mine Company in the district has taken place. The name of the company has been changed to the Bonanza Bell Copper Company, and R. Allen Lewis of Phoenix has been named as president, while Walter Erick will be the manager. It is said that in this new deal Col. W. C. Greene and associates are interested. The new company will take possession of the property within sixty days and will immediately begin sinking a new compartment shaft. From this mine it is expected to ship 100 tons of ore each day as soon as the new railroad to the camp gets into operation.

That his camp will soon be one of the liveliest in Santa Cruz county is the statement of Judd O. Lewis, who is the manager of the Three R group of mines near Patagonia, recently purchased by Col. W. C. Greene from R. R. Richardson.

Placer-mining operations will again be resumed in the Oro Blanco district in the southern part of Pima county, as the recent rains have given an abundance of water for placer work.

Superintendent S. Ben Smith, who has charge of the properties of the Tarasca Mining Company near Torres, Sonora, has just made a trip to El Paso, where he completed a contract with the El Paso Reduction Works for the shipment monthly of twenty tons of concentrates, which will go from 500 to 1000 ounces in silver. In addition to the concentrates the company will ship monthly forty tons of high-grade ore, which will run over 100 ounces silver and fifty tons of second-grade ore which is expected to yield from fifty to 100 ounces.

A mill will be erected on the Rey Del Oro property in the Magdalena district and development work will be prosecuted on an extensive scale. Several hundred feet of tunneling has already been completed in low-grade ore.

Sixty men are at work on the property of the Anaconda-Sonora Copper Company, located in the Sahauripa district nine miles from Campo Santo Nino. Ore shipments will be commenced when the line of the Cananea, Yaqui River and Pacific, now under construction, reaches the district.

NORTHERN ARIZONA.

Hassayampa Plans to Be Worked by Angelenos—Gold Mine Turns Out to Be Rich in Copper.

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) Jan. 12.—The great 7000-foot tunnel, now being driven on the United Verde mine at Jerome, is not to be the only one in that district. A tunnel over one mile in length is to be run through the mountains to tap the property of the Hull Copper Company, the work to be prosecuted both from the surface and from the bottom of shafts. The company has twenty-two claims, located years ago by John W. Hull, almost surrounding the great copper deposit that has brought so many millions of dollars to Senator Clark.

Maj. A. J. Doran, newly-elected Territorial Councilman from Yavapai county, has bonded the property of the Lynx Creek Gold and Land Company, about eight miles from Prescott, embracing 4000 acres of patented land and twenty-two mining claims. The property includes a large extent of placer ground of proven wealth, which is to be worked by means of a floating dredge. A sufficient water supply is to be assured by the construction of a large reservoir.

The development of scores of mines in the Bradshaw Mountains is being held back by the lack of miners, every property being short-handed. Most of the men are making toward Nevada, where they see prospect of greater riches.

The twenty-stamp mill of the Tiger Gold Company is working satisfactorily on ore from the Gray Eagle mine.

A Los Angeles company has taken options on a large amount of placer ground along the Hassayampa, in Walnut Creek district, and is sinking drill holes, testing the ground. If results are satisfactory, a steam dredger will be put at work on the property very soon. The same company on Oak creek has acquired holdings that will be worked by hydraulicing and sluicing.

On the 290-foot level of the Storm Cloud mine, owned by H. J. Beemer, has been found a magnificent deposit of copper sulphide, sampling 9 per cent. in copper, $44 in gold, and 11 ounces in silver. The find was a surprise to the miners and the management. The mine has always been considered a gold property, but it has now been found that an iron dike upon it carries high value in copper, with great depth. Several hundred tons of the ore on the dump sample over 7 per cent.

Judgment has been rendered against H. L. Dooley in the District Court in his suit against Joe Mayer, a well-known mining man of Mayer, Ariz. The suit was one of a number growing out of the notorious Dooley-Suttle trouble over the purchase of the Cypress mine, in which Suttle was charged with having received $21,000 from the Cypress Gold and Copper Company for the purchase of a mine for which he paid only $7000. Suit against Mayer was based upon the allegation that Mayer had received from Suttle $21,000 for the Cypress mine and had distributed only $7000 of it.

The Niesen stamp mill is being built on the property of the Golden Idol Mining Company in Cherry Creek district.

COAL AND IRON.

Stone Canyon Coal May Solve Problem of Working California Iron Deposits.

In a recent report on the minerals of California the State Mineralogist pointed out that California has long been known to possess large deposits of iron ore and of a character that will compare favorably with the Michigan ores, but the iron deposits of California have attracted comparatively little attention on account of the fuel problem. Owing to the high cost of a suitable coke, it has been found unprofitable to smelt iron ores in this State and compete with the eastern market. To overcome this difficulty many useless attempts have been made to smelt iron ores with California petroleum—without regard to metallurgical laws.

The reduction of iron ores in this State has been given grave consideration for some time past by some of the most able metallurgists in both the United States and Europe, the question has been considered in all its phases and experiments are continually being made to solve a problem which means much for the industrial advancement of the Pacific Coast.

Experiments are now being conducted in the manufacture of an artificial coke. California coal (lignite) enters largely into its composition, combined with petroleum and other products. The difficulty of utilizing a lignite that contains a large percentage of ash appears to have been overcome by grinding and washing previous to its incorporation with the other ingredients. Small lots of the manufactured coke appear to have the necessary qualities as to strength and fuel properties, but only demonstration on a large scale will prove its efficiency.

The existence of coal of superior quality has been known for thirty years, but the location of the mines has precluded profitable operation hitherto. Immense deposits of semi-bituminous are found in the Gabilan Mountains in the southeastern part of Monterey county, and the development work done on them by the Stone Cañon Coal Company has opened up a mine capable of supplying 1000 tons a day for forty years. The property of the company comprises about 6000 acres of land about twenty miles from the Southern Pacific Railroad, and the development work on the mine consists of a tunnel 3000 feet long, driven along a fifteen-foot vein of coal at a depth of 250 feet, and numerous shafts and drifts proving the extent of the seams.

Prof. Lawson, geologist of the University of California, says:

"It seems to be safe to estimate from what is known of the coal seam that it will be possible to follow it in mining operations along the strike, say for 9000 feet, and along the dip for 3000 feet. Such a seam, with the thickness of fifteen feet, contains 15,000,000 tons of coal. Or, if we are to assume an average thickness of only twelve feet, in order to allow for a possible thinning of the seam, 12,000,000 tons. In other words, it seems quite conservative to reckon on a supply of coal at the rate of 1000 tons per day for between thirty and forty years, and a very moderate amount of exploratory work might demonstrate the existence of several times this quantity."

After noting the different analyses made, Prof. Lawson says:

"The proportion of moisture is distinctly lower than is usual in the case of lignites, and the proportion of volatile combustible matter is notably higher. The high contents of volatile combustible matter suggests the utilization of the coal in the manufacture of producer gas. The non-fusible character of the coal, the fairly low proportion of the ash, and the fact that the coal decomposes to gas at a low heat, all point to the same conclusion. The gas which is given off burns with a sooty and highly luminous flame, and it would be suitable for enriching illuminating gas."

Recent tests of the Stone Cañon coal made in Los Angeles show it to be superior to any coal now in this market. It burns more freely and gives off more heat, and persons familiar with the coals of Western Pennsylvania assert that it resembles closely the Connellsville product, which is the best coking coal known. If the Stone Cañon coal will coke, it may solve the problem of smelting the iron ores of California.

It is asserted that the cost of mining is not above $1 a ton, and that the coal can be laid down in the Coast cities at a cost of $3. A railroad from the mines to the Southern Pacific or to tidewater is required for the economical working of the property.

Tailings.

The Nevada Constellation Mining Company, owned by T. J. Fry and some of his New York friends, located seventeen miles south of Searchlight and adjoining te Empire mine and near the Thurman strike, has opened up an eight-foot vein, showing good values. The tunnel will be driven on the vein, gaining a depth of 400 feet under the mountain. Values on the surface were as high as $52. The company is arranging to place all its treasury stock in New York.

FAKER FLOWER'S ARIZONA RECORD.

STOLE A MILLION FROM EASTERN SUCKERS.

Two Queens Another Rank Swindle Worked on Eastern Investors—Lack of Fuel Oil Retards Work in Arizona Camps—Washouts Make Trouble in Clifton.

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Jan. 11.—Arizonans are decidely interested in the report of the arrest of Dr. R. C. Flower, charged in New York City with fraud. Flower was behind the once famous Spenazuma Gold Mining and Milling Company, one of the greatest fakes that ever afflicted the mining industry of Arizona, even necessitating mention in a special report issued by Gov. N. O. Murphy. The Spenazuma company was based upon a mine in Graham county, in Black Rock mining district, its main mineral showing apparently being a large granite dike. It is possible there was value in the ground, but, assuredly, it was not on the surface nor in the workings, yet the property was described in glowing advertisements as the richest on earth and into the prospectus was cleverly woven a story that suggested, if it did not actually declare, that from the Spenazuma came the fabled golden riches of Montezuma. The project was the more reprehensible in that investment was solicited, with the most remarkable success, in the small towns of the Hudson River Valley, among people of small or moderate means, scores of cases being instanced where widows took their slender savings from banks and invested them where they thought wealth was sure to be realized. About $100,000 was taken out of a single village on the Hudson. Outside of advertising, the only use the money was put to that in any wise seemed legitimate was the erection of a small and illy-constructed stamp mill, which long ago was torn down and moved away. It is told that there still lies on the ground a quantity of ore, brought on burros from near-by copper, silver and gold mines, to be used in the deception of prospective investors who visited the claims to "see for themselves." A warrant was issued for Flower, in connection with the Spenazuma scheme, but he managed to make his escape to Mexico. It is understood that about $1,000,000 was realized from the sale of stock.

TWO QUEENS FAKE.

Very extensive advertising is being done in the East, often full pages of the daily press being utilized, for the exploitation of the Two Queens mine, about six miles from Winkleman, the terminus of the Phoenix and Eastern Railroad. The property came into prominence a few months ago by the publication of a story that one S. D. Gardom, the locator, had discovered upon it gold ore assaying $200,000 to the ton, in a ledge exposed for 300 feet in length and from 4 to 12 inches wide. It told also that there were four parallel veins running from 2 to 4 feet in width, in which had been found silver running from 14 to 190 ounces per ton and copper running from 5 to 10 per cent. Some work has been done at the mines, for a camp has been established and roads are to be built, but the management seems chiefly concerned in the work of securing eastern capital, in either small or large lots. Local visitors believe the property has merit, though assuredly the ore which is there developed, in necessarily superficial workings, nowhere near approximates the alleged $200,000 to the ton value.

FUEL FAMINE.

The starting of work of milling the late rich strike of gold ore in the old Golden Eagle mine of the Bonanza claims at Harqua Hala has been prevented by the lack of fuel oil. E. J. Olsen, superintendent of the company, has just returned from Los Angeles, where he made arrangements for a supply of oil that will arrive very soon. Late developments on the lowest level on the Golden Eagle claim have found the vein again at a distance of thirty-seven feet from the point where the body "faulted" and where the work was abandoned by Hubbard and Bowers, the former owners. By some it is believed that the Harqua Hala will soon become as great a gold producer as even the Gold Roads mine of Mohave county, which is turning out about $1,000,000 worth of gold bullion a year.

Fifteen miles from Ehrenburg in Northern Yuma county, on the Colorado River, is being developed a cinnabar mine. The mine is owned in Chicago, the superintendent being L. S. Judd. The district has been known for many years as abounding in copper and silver, but not until the last few months has its value for the production of quicksilver been understood. It is announced that the company will develop the property to a depth of 1000 feet before stoping and that roasters for the production of the liquid metal will be erected within the next few months. Cinnabar is a mineral very little known in Arizona. At one time there was some excitement near Wickenburg over an alleged discovery of cinnabar, several Arizona assayers finding large percentage of quicksilver in the rocks submitted to them. It was found later, on more careful investigation, that the rock had not even a trace of quicksilver in it, the peculiar reddish color being due to the presence of vanadate of lead.

The Monarch Mining and Smelting Company is doing extensive development work on the Black Buttes mine, better known as the Old Ryland, nine miles east of Wickenburg. The working shaft is about 360 feet deep and is to be driven to the 600-foot level. The management claims to have 800,000 tons of ore blocked out ready for stoping when a new fifty-ton concentrating mill is put into operation some time this year.

The Buffalo-Arizona Mining Company has purchased a five-stamp mill for its property north of Morristown, Maricopa county.

Lack of oil fuel has caused the shutdown of several small reduction plants around Kelvin. Personal visits of the managers to Los Angeles prove of little avail. Machinery for still another fifty-ton concentrator has just been purchased by G. Mead in Los Angeles for the Kelvin Reduction Company. Heavy shipments of ore have been made daily from the mines around Kelvin to the Humboldt smelter, but it is appreciated that much greater economy will result, were the shipments to be made in the shape of concentrates.

The shortage of fuel oil also caused the shut-down of a number of mines around Globe, especially those of the Arizona Commercial Company. On January 5 the reduction works of the Old Dominion Company at Globe resumed operations with two furnaces. Coke is arriving in small quantities and as soon as possible the other furnaces of the plant will be fired up.

WIND BLOWS HORSE AWAY.

Mining in the Pinal Mountains is being prosecuted just now under difficulties, for the snow lies deep and the roads are almost impassable. The wind in the upper Mineral Creek region is also a factor to be considered, there being one instance where a horse and rider were blown off of a mining dump.

The Clifton district is having a hard season. A few days ago the Coronado railroad was repaired up Chase Creek. Yesterday, through telegraphic advices, it is learned that the road had again been washed away, thus stopping operations which had been resumed on January 1, after stoppage since December 3. The Arizona and Shannon smelters both are affected by any trouble to the Chase Creek road, over which comes their ore supply. It is now announced definitely that the Arizona company will seek a higher line for its narrow-gauge railroad. Two weeks ago the Shannon company declared its intention of building an independent railroad from the hills to its mines at Metcalf.

Yesterday the miners employed at the Relief gold mine, thirty miles north of Phoenix, struck and deserted work. It was simply a row between the men and the manager, no question of wages being mixed with it.

A short time ago, it was announced that the headquarters of the Cieneguita Mining Company would be removed from Arizona to Nevada, in which State a new incorporation was to be effected. Two suits in opposition to this move have been filed in the local District Court, indicating the presence of a row of large dimensions among the stockholders. The property of the company lies in the Sierra Madre Mountains in Southern Sonora, and is reputed to be of very great value. Operations are handicapped at present by the remoteness of railroad transportation. This situation is to be helped very much, however, by the construction of the Yaqui River Railroad, which will pass within a short distance of the property.

GROWTH OF JOHNNIE.

Review of the Year's Progress Makes Good Showing for the New Camp.

JOHNNIE (Nev.) Jan. 9.—All the larger companies have shown most satisfactory reports with the close of the year. This time last year such companies as the Bullfrog Johnnie, the Globe Johnnie, the Boston Johnnie and the Johnnie Wonder were practically unknown. Since then, all of them have expended much money in development, and, with one exception, all of them have produced good shipping ore. Many other companies have opened up rich territory, but are not yet in such a state that they can be classed as coming mines. During the year the ore bodies of the district have been proven to a depth of 700 feet, the main shaft of the Johnnie Consolidated Company having been sunk to that depth.

The population of the district has increased five times, yet labor is scarce and idle men are unknown. The Globe Treasure Vein was not then known, but has since produced some of the richest ore that ever was extracted in the State of Nevada. It has been proven to a depth of 100 feet and a length of 125 feet, and from three to five feet in width.

A year ago ore and supplies had to be teamed 120 miles; now there is a railroad running through the district, within twelve miles of the principal mines, and milling machinery is on the way to the district. Telephone lines have been installed, and a mail service has been inaugurated during the past twelve months. Though the period in which assessment work must be done has passed, none of the large companies have ceased operations and only a few of the smaller owners have stopped work, showing that the improvements contemplated are for the betterment of the district and not solely to comply with the law.

The cold and inclement weather has prevented much surface work during the past week, and operations were confined to those mines which have attained considerable depth. Several snowstorms have raged and the blustering winds have been biting and cold.

The drifts on the 700-foot level of the Johnnie Consolidated are being extended, and the ore vein being followed shows remarkable regularity. Recent assays verified the former figures, and the ledges average between $15 and $20 across the face. Many of the men are put to work on the upraising of the new shaft. The upper levels are being cleaned and the stopes are being put in good shape. There is still much milling ore in the upper workings of the property, as only the shipping ore has been extracted. Superintendent Moser is making preparations to continue sinking on the main shaft and open up another level.

Owing to the inclemency of the weather the Boston Johnnie Company has confined its operations to the stopes and shafts in the leases. The Bowler lease, especially, is yielding good ore, and as the shaft is being sunk the ledge is being followed along the footwall. Both of the drifts are being extended, thus blocking out considerable ore.

Camp buildings are being erected on the property of the Johnnie Wonder by local contractors to accommodate the increased crew at work on the property.

Work has been confined to the lower level and the shaft in the Globe Johnnie. Good milling ore is being extracted in the work.

On the Bullfrog Johnnie the men are sinking the upper shaft along the ledge. Assays range from $15 to $27.

F. E. Bennett has taken an option for $5000 on the Schader group of claims, located about half a mile north of the Johnnie Consolidated mine. An option was also taken by Bennett on a group of six claims adjoining the Schader group, owned by Woodward and Simmons.

The McClanahan ledge was encountered in the tunnel of the November mines at a distance of forty-five feet and a depth of fifty feet. The ore is lead, silver and gold, and assays about $20.

A REAL GOLD BRICK.

Fifty-Thousand-Dollar Lump of Yellow Metal from an Arizona Mine.

A lump of gold bullion weighing 3247 ounces and valued at $50,000 has been exhibited in the window of a Spring-street jeweler's shop during the past week, and has attracted the attention of great crowds. The lump of gold is the product of 14½ days' run of the mill on the Gold Road mine, located about 25 miles east of Kingman, in Arizona.

The Gold Road is a low-grade mine, operated by the Posey-Bailey syndicate of Los Angeles, under the management of Samuel R. Porter. It is developed to the 700 feet level, and has an ore body 80 feet in width. It has been a paying property since Mr. Porter took hold of it, about two years ago. About 300 men are employed in the mine and mill.

The Oceanic Trust Company has sold for the Erkenbrecher Syndicate the Century mine located at Brownell, fifty miles south of Casa Grande, Ariz., to New York parties. This is a copper and silver property.

OPTIMISTIC MANHATTAN.

YEAR'S PROGRESS JUSTIFIES CONFIDENCE IN MINES.

Dexter Declares Stock Dividend and Nemo Pays Its Own Way—Water and Stamp Mill Contracts Solve the Camp's Chief Problems.

MANHATTAN (Nev.) Jan. 2.—The closing of the old and the opening of the new year finds Manhattan optimistic. At this date, everybody with an office in Manhattan is working overtime, answering inquiries from people in all parts of the United States who discern that this camp during 1907 will be a center of mining activity. A journey up and down Main street proves that real estate values have doubled over what they were in September. Long-time leases on office buildings favorably situated are in keen demand, and fortunate owners will receive in rentals during the current year the sum total of the amounts asked for buildings and lots three months ago.

As the first incorporated mining company of the district and owning properties throughout its extent, a survey of what has been done by the Manhattan Dexter Mining Company is a reliable index of the past year's progress. The Dexter properties were located during the summer of 1905, originally consisting of an immense aggregate acreage embracing twenty claims. This company was incorporated with a capitalization of 1,500,000 shares, $1 par, and vested with title to all the properties above referred to. In accordance with the original intention, eight subsidiary companies were incorporated, to each of which was allotted certain portions of these extensive holdings, the parent company becoming the owner of 700,000 shares in each of the offsprings. Development in various stages of progress on the acreage of the separate companies has proved some of them to be as rich, or even richer, than the famous Union No. 9, on which the mining reputation of the Dexter Company has rested up to date. In the neighborhood of $225,000 worth of ore has been hoisted to the surface on Union No. 9, with a maximum depth of only 225 feet.

At the December meeting of the directors of the Manhattan Dexter Mining Company, a resolution was adopted declaring a dividend by which the 700,000 shares in each of seven subsidiary companies and 41,000 shares in one other, be divided ratably to all Dexter stockholders. This division and distribution is to take place at noon on the 15th day of February, 1907.

With specific development plans outlined to meet the requirements of each separate company, Dexter activities through the coming year will be vastly greater than in the past.

Particular attention is due to the marked success of Waldo J. Clark, a Manhattan pioneer, in his record development of the Nemo, a property below Central and possibly four miles west of Union No. 9. Mr. Clark did not go to the public for contributions, but at his own expense began driving tunnels and sinking shafts. He kept this up through the long, dull summer. Last week his men touched the 200-foot level where they have a 3-foot ledge of $125 ore. This ore carries 50 per cent. galena, high silver values and from $7 to $10 in gold. Power hoisting machinery is on the way and elaborate plans for drifting and cross-cutting constitute the early programme of Mr. Clark for this year.

The examples of the Dexter and the Nemo are selected as two widely differing but equally successful methods of mining.

On New Year's Day the announcement was received here that the Tonopah Exploration Company has let a contract for twenty miles of pipe, which is to convey water to Manhattan from Jett Cañon for municipal and mill purposes. This same company has plans perfected and will soon place contracts for the construction of a big stamp mill below the town of Manhattan with an easy access of the principal mines of the district. This solves one of the most important problems of the camp.

On the east side of the range they have found copper, silver and gold together and it belonged to Omer Maris to gain the credit of bringing that section into public notice. Mr. Maris came to Manhattan when his fortunes were provokingly on the ebb. His short stay has already enabled him to forget the miseries of financial uncertainty and on New Year's Day he decided to move to town. He has leased the swellest offices in Manhattan and proposes to promote as well as discover and develop his own mines.

SEARCHLIGHT.

Bullion Output Continues, and New Ground West of Town Promises to Become Productive.

SEARCHLIGHT, (Nev.) Jan. 10.—The reaction, after the rush and scramble to complete assessment work always in evidence at the close of the year, coupled with holiday time and exceptionally stormy wintry weather, has resulted in a temporary somnolence, noticeably even in the proverbially placid camp of Searchlight, which might mislead the stranger visiting within our gates, but like the still waters, we contain a vast amount of energy and cause for excitement in the depths below the quiet surface. Development work is rapidly progressing on all sides, new discoveries are being opened up, and the steadily increasing production of bullion proceeds without cessation or comment.

The recent most important developments have occurred on the flat west of town, where the surface wash or detritus covers the bedrock from a few inches to upwards of 200 feet in depth. Through this shafts have been sunk at several points into the solid formation beneath and cross-cuts run to prospect for ledges pronounced to be traversing the ground. Following this work, a strong ledge, over twenty feet in width, and assaying $21 in gold, was opened to about ninety feet from the surface on the Taylor property about three miles west from Searchlight. Arrangements are now in progress for equipping it with a working plant and mill.

About one and one-half miles west from town the Wyoming Searchlight has a shaft sunk 280 feet on an ore body encountered a few feet from the surface, and promises to become a valuable producer when sufficiently developed. It is now equipped with a gasoline hoist, and sufficient water for present requirements is obtained from the mine. Getting below the surface disturbances the ledge is acquiring every earmark of permanency, and produces ore assaying up to $100 per ton.

The Boulder mine, which was the first to venture on deep prospecting in the district, has encountered a large body of decomposed spar and quartzose porphyry in its lowest level, 220 feet, which assays $17 per ton in gold. The extent of the deposit is now being investigated by suitable development work. This property covers the strike

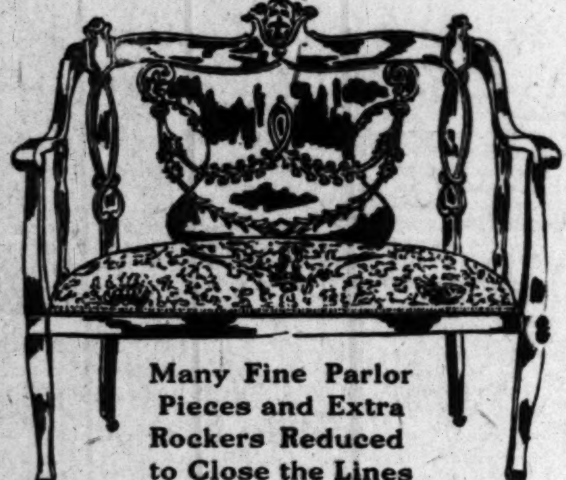
Quick Clearance Surplus Stock

After-Inventory Pick-ups in Many Departments

Only a Few in Each Lot

We took advantage of the rainy days last week to rush our first inventory in the new building. The result offers many money-saving surprises for the general public. In the haste of selecting stock for such a large establishment we find that some lines were overbought, while in some others orders were duplicated. In either case the result is the same. We have in nearly every department many articles that are really surplus and the room is needed for a more equitable display of our immense stock. You should waste no time about coming Monday or as early as possible in the week.

But Every One a Bargain



Many Fine Parlor Pieces and Extra Rockers Reduced to Close the Lines

Surplus Stock in Parlor Furniture

Five extra sets of parlor furniture. Very handsome 5-piece sets, finely upholstered and elegantly finished. These are well worth $45 a set. You may have choice of golden oak or mahogany, If you need parlor furniture it will pay you to see these sets and see them early, as they won't last long at this price—

$29.50

Three Piece Set $7.50

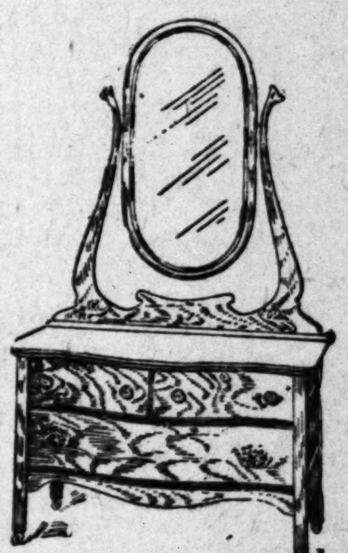
We have four sets of these dainty little parlor pieces which we will sacrifice this week. Upholstered in green verona and of polished mahogany finish. We make the price low to sell them promptly.

Just a Few Princess Dressers $15 to Close Them Out

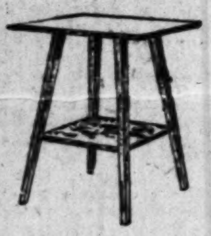
There is a surplus stock of this particular line. Nearly every home can make use of a nice solid oak dresser at the price of pine. These have French plate mirror and are regular $21 value. We offer the choice of three different styles of mirror. This is a special offer that means big economy.

Many Odd Dressers at Small Prices

Every odd dresser has been reduced. We do not intend to carry any surplus stock into the new year. We have one and two of various kinds at prices that save you money.



150 Tabourets To Close Out



We find we have, through an error, received 150 tabourets like the cut. Dainty little weathered oak pieces, selling regularly at 85c.

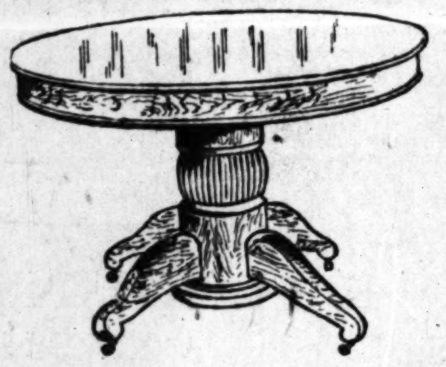
Over 50 Extension Tables Sacrificed

$4.95

A duplicate order revealed by the inventory on a lot of 36 tables. Well made, well finished, solid and substantial. All full 6-foot extension. Every one should be closed out this week at the reduced price.

$6.50

A small number of fine 6-foot solid oak tables. These are all extra good tables and regular $8 value. Only a few in this lot and you must come early if you want one.



$7.50

A few fine tables in the popular American quarter saw. Well finished and good value at the regular price, $10.50. These are surplus stock and to close them out this week will make the price as above.

$13.75

A chance to get a nice pedestal table at a greatly reduced price. Made of fine American quarter saw. Only 3 of these to be sold to reduce the line. Regular price is $20.

Save Money Now On Your Writing Desk

Some extra desks that must be sold this week as we do not wish to carry surplus. Quite a number of the popular style shown here, with a choice of golden oak, mahogany or birdseye maple. All highly polished and an ornament to any home.

Mutual Insurance Project Gets Support.

Fifteen Hundred Business Men Claimed.

Bill Ready to Go Before the Legislature.

Business men of Southern California are moving forward with determination on their plans for mutual fire insurance. They hope to secure favorable legislation from the solons now gathered at Sacramento, and as soon as the law enables them to act they intend to form an insurance association, which shall reach out all over this part of the State.

More than $3,500,000 worth of insurance is now carried by the men who have signified their willingness to go into the proposed mutual organization. Throughout Southern California there are now fully 1500 business men, it is claimed, standing ready to join hands in this insurance venture.

The promoters of mutual fire insurance in California believe they have all the details worked out so that the plans will be an improvement even over those adopted in various Eastern States, where the mutual insurance system has been in vogue a number of years.

The last meeting to complete details was held at Riverside. All of the fifteen retail merchants' associations of Southern California were represented, and the sentiment was enthusiastically in favor of urging the State Legislature to pass the desired enabling act.

A committee composd of J. F. Paulding of this city, A. N. Younglove of Riverside; E. B. Patterson of Redlands, and N. A. Ulm of Santa Ana, was appointed to promote the desired legislation, and the bill which the associations have had drawn to cover the organization and operation of these mutual fire insurance companies will be pushed at once. Assemblyman J. B. Transue will introduce it in the Assembly, and Senator Charles Bell will present it in the Senate. J. F. Paulding, and probably the other members of the special committee will go to Sacramento to urge the passage of the bill.

LAW AS PROPOSED.

This bill was completed yesterday afternoon. Its general provisions include the stipulation that before any mutual fire insurance company shall issue any policy it shall have subscribed and entered on its books not less than $500,000 of insurance in not less than 200 separate risks.

No officer or other person who determines the character of the risk shall be paid a commission, but shall receive a fixed salary and share of the net profits.

Every person insured shall be a member as long as his policy is in force, and shall have one vote for each policy he holds; and on the back of each policy shall be printed the date, hour and place of the annual meetings.

Corporations shall have the right of individual members and persons holding property in trust shall as trustees have all the rights and liabilities of a member, but no personal liabilities.

Members may vote by proxy, executed within three months and recorded within three days of the meeting at which the proxies are to be used.

Every company shall have at least seven directors holding office for one year. The officers shall have the same powers and duties as in other corporations, but shall be sworn annually.

To provide for a permanent fund, the directors shall set aside each year not more than 20 per cent. of the net profits, until this fund amounts to 20 per cent. of the sum insured on all policies. This permanent fund is to be used when there is an insufficient amount in the cash fund to settle liabilities.

The dividend on all policies expiring during each year shall be fixed each year, and each policy holder shall be liable for any assessments which may be made.

Assessments shall be made to meet losses when there are no cash funds, but the officers before making such assessments shall make a verified statement, showing the need of such assessment and the action of the board of directors in levying such assessment shall be subject to review by the courts.

If any officer is negligent in the performance of his duties he is personally liable for any debts which have not been paid by reason of the failure and neglect to collect assessments when due.

The proposed law also provides that until there shall be in force at least $2,000,000 of insurance, no risk shall exceed $5000, unless the excess be insured in a like company, and the maximum amount shall increase $1000 with each $500,000 of insurance in force.

POLICY LIEN ON PROPERTY.

The provision is also made that each policy shall be a lien upon the property insured to the extent of the premium unpaid ,and provision will be made for the enforcement of the lien. The bill also will provide for a minimum guarantee fund of $50,000, deposited with the State Treasurer, before any risks are taken.

The members of the merchants' exchanges of Southern California have spent much time in discussing these various phases of the proposed law, and they believe that if these features are retained it will shut out any attempts of wild-cat companies to operate under the new law.

In case the law is passed the merchants propose to raise the required $50,000 reserve fund to be deposited with the State Treasurer, by an issue of 7 per cent. bonds, and to use 50 per cent. of the net income of their company each year as a sinking fund for the purpose of retiring the bonds.

With the fate of the bill introduced two years ago in their minds, the Southern California merchants have endeavored to place in the present bill the features then lacking, and they believe they have now provided a plan which is "safe, sane and sensible." The bill of two years ago was introduced by Goodrich of Pasadena. It provided that wherever there were 300 insurance risks banded together they might be formed into a mutual insurance company, but no deposit was required with the State Treasurer, and no paid-up capital stock was required. There is little wonder that, even though the bill passed both houses of the State Legislature, Gov. Pardee failed to affix his signature to it, and thus it failed to become a law.

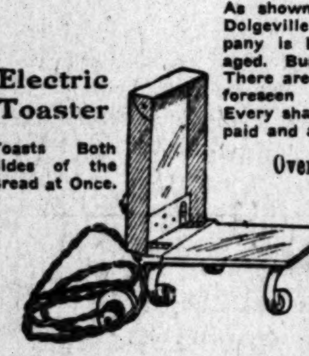
WHAT WE ARE DOING NOW AND WHAT WE PROPOSE DOING IN THE NEW PLANT

The business of the Electric Heating and Manufacturing Company represents the latest and most important achievement in electrical development.. It is the practical application of electricity to the everyday needs of the people in cooking and heating. It is the kid-glove method of doing the ordinary work of the kitchen; for there is no soot, no smoke and no dirty cooking utensils.. Further, it is economical, for with all its pleasing innovations, it costs less money than any other known fuel. The Electric Heating and Manufacturing Company is incorporated with a capital stock of $250,000, divided into 250,000 shares of a par value of $1 each.. All the stock is fully paid and non-assessable.. There is no preferred stock.. We manufacture under patents secured to us, various heating and cooking appliances, every one of which is ordered today and every day, far beyond our capacity to furnish. In the simple matter of our electric flatiron alone, orders swamp our store, although them out now at a rate of more than a thousand a month. Electric room heaters, bake ovens, bread toasters and other kitchen and heating necessities are dem and by the trade in quantities that our present overworked facilities cannot begin factory at Dolgeville, which is now in course of construction, will not only incre capacity, but also our dividend paying capacity, as the business is one of the mo tries on the coast.. Its output sells at a profit of fully 300 per cent., assuring big share of stock in the company. The new plant will be modern in every respect absolute monopoly, as no other individual in the world has the right to manufa articles.

The Most Profitable Industry on the Coast.

Machinery Now Being Installed in the Above Factory



Electric Toaster

As shown in the picture above, the new factory at Dolgeville is now completed. The money of the company is being wisely, ably and conservatively managed. Business principles apply, and we pay as we go. There are no assessments on our shareholders for unforeseen conditions or unexpected contingencies. Every share is just like every other share, actually full paid and absolutely non-assessable.

Overwhelming Demand for Our Appliances

An electrical marvel for the home, the restaurant, the hotel, the rooming-house and every place where people eat and cook. A dainty little appliance which may be connected with any electric light circuit and placed right on the table, without smoke, soot or smell, and toasting to a turn.

Put Your Money to Work

Let us put your money to work for you. It is the only way you will ever get ahead in this world. No man or woman in the world ever got rich unless he put every cent he could rake and scrape together into some kind of a business where the money worked for him. We want to do that for you. We have a business that is safe, honest, sure and without speculation. It is a business that has been in operation for some time past, and has proven an immense success.

The Vital Points

There are three vital points in the success of any manufacturing enterprise. First, to invent something practical and necessary; second, to manufacture it economically and cheaply; third, to sell it easily. Failure of any of these will balk an enterprise.

This company has surmounted all of these difficulties. We have the invention; we own our own machinery, and our success in selling has been proven by the large number of orders on hand.

Ironing is a pleasure with this new invention. Whether in heavy commercial work of the laundries or in the finest of light work in the home, this flat iron relieves ironing of all its troubles.

Every Appliance a Success

The test of any new invention is the degree of its acceptance by the people. Reflect that, work as we do, we are unable to begin to meet the demand for these appliances and you can realize the success awaiting us in our new factory, where every facility will be provided.

THERE IS JUST A LIMITED AMOUNT OF STOCK TO BE SOLD BELOW PAR FOR CONSTUCTION PURPOSES

It is the intention of the company to sell sufficient stock to fully equip its plant at Dolgeville. The success of the business, even with the overcrowded condition of our present factory, has been phenomenal. This is an opportunity for investors, large and small, to take shares in an industrial company in which returns are certain and big. Our profits are fully 300 per cent. Our expenses are merely nominal. Many people of means who find in this country only opportunities to speculate at a risk, but who realize that the industrial development of the country is just awakening, should investigate this. It will be found that every advantage claimed here is claimed conservatively, with no effort to mislead. That full and complete returns are accorded for the most searching investigation. That every stockholder enters the company on an equal footing with every other stockholder, without any preferred stock. That the ratio of profits is exactly as presented here. That the company is absolutely unable to fill its orders by reason of contracted facilities. That the money realized from the sale of the stock is actually being used as represented, and last but not least, that the whole field of industry on the entire Pacific Coast presents no other business so sure, so safe, and so profitable for every dollar invested in its shares of stock.

Those of limited means seeking to improve their condition will find in this stock the opportunity of a lifetime. Remember that the stock advances to 70 cents a share in a few days. Applications should be made for it at once—today—now.

GAMBLE LIFE AGAINST GOLD.

Los Angeles Men Mining Big Fortunes.

Story of Placer Claims in the Frozen North.

How Rolando and Becker Got Their Mines.

Many stories have come down from the gold fields of the frozen north, where, in the search for the precious metal, men take all kinds of chances; but the following story will vie in interest with any heretofore told, especially as it treats of local people:

John J. Becker, whose two sons, Adolph and Frank, are in business in Los Angeles, accompanied by his partners, Barney Rolando and E. Linton, arrived in the city before the holidays, directly from Nome, Alaska, to remain until the first boat goes north from Seattle, which will be about the latter part of May. The starting of the first boat is governed by the weather, for, until the ice breaks up no vessel could make the trip.

Becker, Rolando and Linton have been successful far beyond their dreams of wealth, and will return to reap the reward of the years of hard work and untold hardship they suffered. As proof of what they have in store, they brought with them enough gold in its virgin state to excite the curiosity of any mining man in the United States—gold in every shape from the finest grain to a nugget weighing over ten ounces.

One sack of "dust" weighs about six pounds, and is of sufficient fineness to run its value up to over $1600. This gold was taken out from time to time in prospecting the chain of placer claims owned by the three miners. The chain extends along Scherrett Creek for more than ten miles, and every bit of ground, with the exception of two or three small claims, upon which they also have options, belongs to them. This ground probably contains millions of dollars worth of gold, and may contain more value than any known placer mine in the world.

This estimate is based upon the fact that the ground averages upwards of $1.25 per yard, taking claim after claim, from the surface to six feet in depth, which is as far down as the miners have yet prospected. Both Becker and Rolando show a great amount of modesty, and will hardly give an adequate idea of the value of their holdings. Each insisted that while the value of their auriferous gravel was really far more than $1.25 per yard, he wanted to be conservative.

LOCATING THE MINES.

Getting so large a piece of ground took several years, and an unlimited amount of work, to say nothing of the expense of hiring a number of men at $5 per day and board to the man. Board is estimated at $2.50 per day per man, so the real wage paid was $7.50 per day. A large amount of the money paid out for wages was taken from the gravel day by day.

Barney Rolando left Gallup, N. M., in 1893. He first went to Junea. In 1898 he landed in Dawson. After the outbreak of excitement at Nome, Rolando started for there from Dawson. He outfitted in Nome with a string of good dogs and a sled loaded with provisions, blankets, gold pans and other necessities, going slowly and prospecting wherever he thought indications were good for a bonanza.

Rolando was found by a friend, who told him of some recent discoveries on Scherrett Creek, a few miles to the north of where he was camped. Loading his outfit into the sled Rolando started for the creek, and there pitcehd his tent. At that time Rolando was in partnership with three other men, Louis Banks, Jim McCormick and Billy Dasling. He afterward bought out their interest in the first claims located by the four, and they went in other directions, not realizing the importance of the strike they had made.

The first claims secured were the 4 "below," and 5, 6 and 7 "above." Claims in the north are staked out in the same order. The first claim is always named "Discovery." All subsequent claims located are numbered consecutively from 1 to as high as they run, below and above. Thus No. 1 "below" would mean the first claim adjoining the discovery claim down the stream. No. 1 "above" would mean the first one up stream. Side claims are those extending parallel to the creek, but out on the banks as far as the pay gravel might extend. These claims are named according to the fancy of the locator.

John J. Becker came into the deal with Mr. Rolando shortly after the locations were made on the first claims discovered on the creek. He purchased an interest with Mr. Rolando, and from that time on was a full partner.

MAKING THEM PAY.

The two men, working on their claims and locating new ones, went up and down the creek from early in June until about the middle of October of each year, when the whole country would take on its sheet of white to a depth of four or five feet, protecting its wealth with weather varying from 20 to 45 deg. below zero.

They dammed Scherrett Creek, and put in sluice boxes. The water obtained would only allow of the operation of the sluices for about an hour or so each day, for the creek is only an insignificant affair as far as water went. In the hour thus utilized, while the water lasted, the gold secured would average from $10 to $15. In this manner they arrived at the value of their gravel beyond a doubt.

When the great chain of claims were located and the title work done, their possessions included the following, beginning at the lower end of the groups: Lorenze, eight claims, 160 acres; Nos. 4, 3½ and 4 below; Emila, 160 acres; Discovery, which they hold by option; Nos. 1, 2 and 3 above upper Discovery; Milan group, 160 acres; Mary group, 160 acres; Lena, 160 acres; Clara group, 160 acres; a group unnamed, 160 acres; Becker group, 160 acres; then another unnamed creek group of 160 acres. Each claim in each group is named separately, as the law requires.

In 1905 E. Linton purchased an interest in the gold field with Becker and Rolando, and is a third owner at present. The three men share and share alike. He is at present in Colorado.

ORGANIZE IN ARIZONA.

The Nome Gold Placer Mining Company is the name of the company just formed by Messrs. Becker, Rolando and Linton, in accordance with their plans for the development of their property upon a gigantic scale. The officers of the company are: Barney Rolando, president; John J. Becker, vice-president and treasurer; E. Linton, secretary. The three men are also directors. The company was formed under the laws of Arizona.

The company will not place its stock upon the market, being practically a close corporation. The total capitalization is only $600,000, represented by 600,000 shares of stock of a par value of $1 per share. Of this amount 150,000 shares have been placed in the treasury and will be sold to Los Angeles and Seattle capitalists, who are friends of the incorporators.

Early in their operations Becker and Rolando located a water right on Libby Creek, twenty-two miles from their property, claiming 1500 inches of water, more or less. There is an abundance of water there, and it can easily be brought onto the placer ground. An open ditch will be run for a distance of twelve miles, and a pipe line, thirty-six inches in diameter, run to convey the water the balance of the distance. Immense sluices will then be made and hydraulic mining on a gigantic scale will be inaugurated. A fall of nearly 500 feet is attained by bringing the water from Libby Creek.

Some of the claims belonging to the corporation sample richer than others, one of the richest tested being the Emila. It was on this claim that Rolando found the ten-ounce nugget. He was shoveling gravel into the sluice-box when he saw it against a riffle. He also took many smaller nuggets from the same claim. Some of the smaller ones weigh an ounce.

STORIES OF FINDS.

Stories of fabulous finds are told by Messrs. Becker and Rolando, one of the greatest being that made by Councilman Bart, of Nome, last year. He was a poor man when he went to Nome, and his luck was against him for some time. Then he found "pay" dirt on his claim four miles north of Nome. His pannings grew richer and richer as he reached the zone near the much-coveted bedrock, until he suddenly began to get pans of gravel that contained $5000 worth of gold. He found a small layer of sand that was about half gold. In forty days he took out the immense sum of $750,000, and his days of poverty were over. He is now one of the leading business men of Nome. Such stories are frequent up there.

In the winter time Nome contains about 5000 people. In the summer time this number doubles and trebles. This year there will likely be 25,000 people in the district. Business is good and, strange to say, there are no gambling houses or dance halls in the city. The government put the lid down some time ago, and down it is yet; and down it is apt to remain. Work is plentiful and wages are $5 and board in the summer time and $3.50 and board in the winter.

The beaches are still being worked over for the second and third times, and good wages can be made by a hard working man with a rocker. The business men are doing well in the city of Nome, and are looking forward to years of great prosperity.

"Nome is just beginning to be heard of," says Becker. "The days will soon come when its name and fame will be upon the lips of every one and when the district will be one of the largest producers of gold in the world."

OXFORD SCHOLARSHIPS.

Many California College Men Will Compete for Possession of the Cecil Rhodes Honors.

On Thursday and Friday Southern California candidates for the Cecil Rhodes scholarship at Oxford will be examined at Occidental College. President Benjamin Ide Wheeler of the University of California is chairman of the committee on selection for this State. He has directed President Baer of Occidental College to conduct an examination in Los Angeles, while one will be held at Berkeley at the same time for students in the northern part of the State.

Under the Rhodes bequest scholarships are assigned to every State and Territory. They are open this year, and will also be open in 1908, 1910-11, 1913-14, and so on, omitting very third year. The scholarships yield about $1500 a year, and are tenable for three years. The student is not required to pass the entire time at Oxford, as certain periods are assigned for travel in Europe.

The examinations, which will be held this week; are not competitive, but simply qualifying, and it is intended only to ascertain that the elected scholar is proficient in the subjects which are required by Oxford University of all candidates for a degree. The candidates who pass the preliminary examinations are investigated as to their literary attainments, fondness for and success in outdoor sports, qualities of manhood, truth, courage, devotion to duty, sympathy for and protection of the weak, kindliness, unselfishness and fellowship, exhibition during college days of moral force of character and of aptitude to lead and take an interest in their schoolmates. The faculty and students of the institution to which the candidates are attached decide these matters, and then the records are compared by the committee of selection. The candidates are also interviewed by members of the committee of selection, and the scholarship is awarded to the candidate with the best record and the strongest personality.

It is expected that each of the southern colleges will present candidates for the scholarships. Harold E. Thomas of Pomona College, who is prominent in the athletics and literary work of that institution, will take the examination, as will H. B. Thomas and Clarence A. Spaulding of Occidental College. A complete list of candidates for the local examination has not yet been prepared.

Many Stanford and University of California men will take the examination in the North, and as the final selection does not have to be made before April 1, it is expected that President Wheeler will be able to announce the winner before that time.

The examination papers are mailed direct to the examination board in sealed envelopes, and are not opened until the candidates are assembled for the test. Dean Ward of Occidental will conduct the examinations and upon their completion will forward the papers of the students who pass to Oxford University.

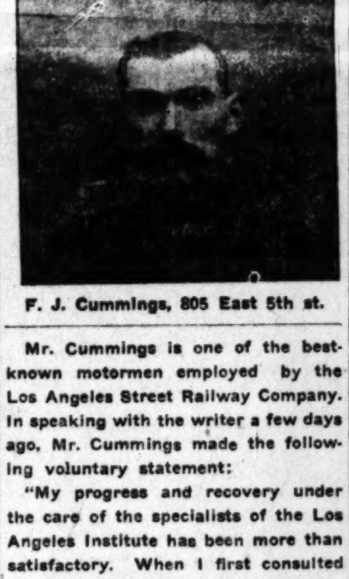
A Well-Known Motorman



F. J. Cummings, 805 East 5th st.

Mr. Cummings is one of the best-known motormen employed by the Los Angeles Street Railway Company. In speaking with the writer a few days ago, Mr. Cummings made the following voluntary statement:

"My progress and recovery under the care of the specialists of the Los Angeles Institute has been more than satisfactory. When I first consulted with these doctors I was suffering from a severe case of catarrh and bronchitis. I was coughing all the time, and spitting up a great deal from my throat; was losing in weight and feared that my lungs were effected. The way I improved is remarkable. I am fully able to do a day's work, cough all gone, appetite good and I feel fine. I certainly can recommend these doctors.

One That Will Hit the Bullseye, Too

WE OFFER IN THE STOCK OF THE MOHAWK JOHNNIE MINING COMPANY

--AT--

10 Cents Per Share

Par Value $1.00 - Fully Paid and Non-Assessable

This company owns outright, free of encumbrance, six full claims, splendidly located, in the famous Johnnie Mining District, Nev., situated squarely on the same marvelous mineral belt as Tonopah, Goldfield, Manhattan, Bullfrog, Greenwater and Crackerjack, and conceded to be one of the richest of all districts on that belt, a belt that has the record of the largest output of gold for the period of development of any mineral formation in the world. The company is now energetically developing its holdings, and already has a tunnel driven in about 60 feet, and a shaft down 40 feet, and in high grade ore. No effort will be spared to make the property a big producer, and thus, the stock of the company a large dividend payer. The ore from the company's claims ranges up to $481.05 per ton in value, almost entirely in gold. Mineral values invariably grow with depth, and the company is attaining depth as fast as men and money can do the work.

Limited Subscription

We will not sell more than 1000 shares of this stock to one person. This may appear a singular condition, but we impose it because we KNOW that this stock will prove a speedy and handsome profit producer, and we wish as many people as practicable to participate in the profits. Our business—the most extensive brokerage business on the Pacific Coast—has been built up on the making of profits for our customers; the more people we make profits for, the more customers we will have. If we could dispose of the entire 100,000 shares to one person we would not do so, much rather preferring to divide the allotment among several hundred people. You may be sure that such would not be our policy if we did not KNOW that the stock will prove a profit producer, for it would be much easier to suffer the disappointment of one client than of several hundred. As soon as the allotment made us has been disposed of the stock of the Mohawk-Johnnie Mining Company will be listed on the stock exchanges and become an active stock, its shares as cashable on the open market as a good check on a solvent bank. The demand for this stock will drive its price upward strongly, swiftly, just as the prices of scores of other stocks issued by companies operating on the same remarkable lode have been hoisted by the pressure to secure the shares; so certain are we of this outcome that we can assert most positively that soon after the Mohawk-Johnnie stock is listed it will sell in the open market at a price that will afford a handsome cash profit on a short-time investment In selling you this stock WE KNOW that we will be helping you to find gold dollars, and that right quickly, too. Remember what we did for those who bought Mohawk and Frances Mohawk stock of us and grasp the new opportunity afforded by Mohawk-Johnnie stock.

DEATH HALO ABOUT KING.

Spanish Monarch's Mantle of Danger.

Where He Walks Fiends May Lurk to Kill.

Alfonso Is a Fatalist and Is Not Afraid.

BY ARTHUR R. HINTON.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

MADRID, Dec. 15.—Scene: The door of a popular theater in Madrid, one night during the month of December, at the fashionable hour of 10 o'clock, when the Spanish theaters open and the streets are thronged with happy, care-free crowds of the light-hearted sons and daughters of Iberia. Among them were to be seen strangers from far-away climes, for Madrid, while less cosmopolitan than the more frequented capitals of Northern Europe, is not without the presence of visitors from every land, while few, if any, countries of Europe or America are without a few representatives among its permanent residents.

At the door of the theater about to enter was a group of four. Two were Englishmen, easily distinguishable as natives of Alban; one had been for two years a resident of Madrid, the other was a recent arrival from London. The third member was an American lady, resident in England, just arrived in Spain on a visit. The fourth and last of the group was a Spaniard.

As they started to enter there was a stir in the crowd. A carriage with an escort of cavalry dashed up to the curb, a double line of police was quickly formed from the door of the carriage to the door of the theater, and in another minute Alfonso XIII, the youthful monarch of Spain, jumped out, followed by the beautiful English princess whom he has chosen as his Queen.

"Come on," cried one of the Englishmen referred to, starting to elbow his way through the crowd to a place where a better view could be obtained of the royal couple. His Anglo-Saxon companions prepared to follow, but the Spaniard hung back.

"No, no," he whispered hoarsely. "Don't get near. It's dangerous."

The other three halted, their looks were puzzled, clearly expressing the amazement they felt as they gazed at their friend.

"What on earth is the matter with you?" exclaimed the young man who had first spoken. "Are you crazy?"

HALO OF DANGER.

"No, no," replied the other. "But surely you are not going into the theater, now, not where they are. There is too much danger. Madre de Dios, suppose a bomb were thrown. It's likely to happen any time. If it did, my wife might be a widow."

For a moment there was silence, as the three foreigners exchanged glances in which surprise and amusement mingled with contempt and then one spoke out, freely:

"Why, you miserable coward," he said. "Is that the kind of men produced in this country to be frightened by old women's threats. You get our dear English princess over here and this is the way you treat her. Afraid to go into the building where she is. Shame on you."

But jeers and arguments all failed to convince the Spaniard, who replied to all arguments by referring to the fact that the King's life has already been attempted more than once, that the anarchists had decreed his death, and nearly accomplished it by means of a bomb on his wedding day. He hurried away while the Englishmen and the American lady went into the theater and enjoyed the performance under the shadow of the royal box, and, as the world knows, nothing happened to mar the pleasure of the evening.

But let not this incident, for the correctness of which the writer can vouch, give the reader any wrong impressions. The fears of the timid subject of Alfonso are without doubt possessed of some very substantial foundation in fact, as shown conclusively by past events, and no one knows this better than the youthful monarch himself, although the knowledge did not seem to disturb him at all on his own account, though he fears much for the safety of his lovely young wife.

FIENDS OF DEATH.

Spain has a fair-sized anarchist colony, reinforced from France and Italy, in Barcelona, and already a prime minister, Canovas del Castillo, has fallen a victim to them. A theater would probably be an ideal spot for their deadly work, the fact that others besides the royal victims would probably suffer being one of no interest to them.

On the other hand, let no one suppose that such timidity is in any way characteristic of the Spanish people. Few indeed, would have done as did this man, and during the performance on the night in question, the theater was filled with a gay, happy throng who laughed, applauded and chatted vivaciously and cheered their sovereigns as they arrived and departed, just as if there were no such things as bombs or such people as anarchists. But this is not due to ignorance of the danger, at least on the part of thinking people. They realize the danger and take their chances.

Alfonso is a very popular sovereign, few, indeed, were ever more so, and as for the beautiful young Queen, every one knows that all Spain is in love with her. But "uneasy lies the head that wears a crown," and never was the truth of this old saying better exemplified than in the case of Alfonso XIII, the only person in the world's history who was actually born a King and whose reign began with the minute of his birth. Born in the midst of a Cabinet council, called thus into extraordinary session, to prevent the possibility of fraud, which leaders of the opposition to his dynasty professed to believe was intended, his troubles thus began.

Admittedly, Alfonso's personal popularity should do much to strengthen his dynasty, threatened, as it has long been from all sides, one the one side by the Carlists, the extreme reactionaries, and on the other by the Republicans, insignificant in numbers at present, perhaps, but liable to become strong at any time should the general political situation veer, as it may at any moment, especially if the controversy opened by the political-religious question embodied in the pending Associations Bill, comes to a crisis.

At present, Spain shows signs of entering upon the first stages of a battle between so-called clericalism and so-called liberalism, similar to that in France and Italy, the end of which no man who knows aught of Spanish character dare attempt to foretell, so far as its political effect is concerned.

KING A FATALIST.

Through it all the King pursues the even tenor of his ways. He is said to be something of a fatalist and to have declared his conviction that he is yet to die a violent death, but he does not let this keep him in. An ardent automobile enthusiast, he drives through streets and over mountain roads, far and near alike, taking the wheel himself, and delighting in getting away from the restraints of public life.

PREPARED BY

I. W. Lyon, D.D.S.

An incident has just been published in the Madrid press that shows the King's democratic ways as well as his humane nature. While motoring in the mountains, His Majestyy came upon a passenger and mail diligence stopped on a steep grade, where one of the horses had fallen from exhaustion, and the driver, stupid and brutal to the last degree, like many of his class, was belaboring the unfortunate beast with a fury that knew no bounds and accomplished no results.

The King stopped and dismounted from his car. He wore a motoring costume, large goggles effectually concealed his features, and the cochero failed to recognize him.

"Stop beating that animal," cried the King.

A volley of curses and renewed abuse was the only reply. The King stepped forward and stood between the driver and his dumb, helpless victim. The cochero was about to let out another volley of curses when one of the passengers recognized his sovereign and hastily warned him to be silent. The feelings of the cochero may be better imagined than described. He fairly groveled before the King, unable to speak from shame and terror, evidently fearing that he would be killed or given some horrible punishment for his conduct. When he recoveerd sufficiently to act, the King made him start on the journey, before he reget the horse on his feet properly and entered his car, after warning the cochero against such outbursts of temper in future, amid cheers from the passengers.

Alfonso's English marriage has not only been popular, but it has made the English people and language more popular, and this popularity is of advantage to American visitors as well, for in ordinary intercourse the Spaniard makes no distinction; in fact, he can only know of it if he is told. When he has been told he often distinguishes but little. English customs are already coming more into vogue in Madrid and Barcelona.

Alfonso seems to be proving himself a sovereign of progressive ideas. He takes a deep personal interest in all public questions while following the established policy of King Edward VII, of keeping aloof from the warring political factions. His personal popularity is liable to be of great assistance in staving off intrigues against the dynasty of which he is the representative, and which has been none too popular in the past. The exile of his grandmother, ex-Queen Isabella, the feeling toward his late father, and the attitude of the people in regard to his Austrian mother, are too well known to call for comment.

He began his actual rule right after the loss of Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines during his minority, with the accompanying loss of prestige, but with the accompanying relief from a well-nigh unendurable condition. That Spain is gradually beginning to bestir herself and perhaps to wake up industrially is the belief of some well-informed persons. But while politics remain a disturbing factor, with the chance of revolution in the air, capital is timid. Fears of anarchist bombs, too, do not help public confidence, as the death of Alfonso at this time might readily lead to no man knoweth what.

With no immediate heir to the throne yet born, who can say what would be the fate of the dynasty, with the constant battle on between Liberals, Conservatives, Republicans and Carlists. A revolution might not be at all impossible.

Under the circumstances, where is the man who wants to be in the place of the monarch—barely grown to man's estate—whose life has been already three times attempted, and some of whose subjects fear to enter the same building with him.

AMBULANCE COMING.

Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Will Soon Have Relief Work Equipment.

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is daily expecting the arrival of an animal ambulance built in New York expressly for the work in this city. It will be of the same general design as those used by the society in New York City. It will have padded sides, and a system of pulleys and lifting belts, so that an injured animal may be gently swung into the proper position for carrying it to the veterinary hospital, which, it is hoped, will be the next step in the work of the society.

The cost of the ambulance will reach about $1500, including the transportation, and the society still requires some contributions to complete the full amount.

It is also desirous of securing a donation or long lease of land suitable for the location of a hospital for animals. It has the funds on hand for the erection of suitable sheds and barns, provided the site can be secured without cost. It is hoped this phase of the society's work may be taken up early this spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Zimmer are at present at their old home in Troy, N. Y., where Mrs. Zimmer is lying seriously ill. Little hopes are entertained for her recovery.

Humphreys' Seventy-Seven Cures Colds and GRIP

As Grip now prevails, you should be able to tell it at once, prompt treatment means short attack. While Influenza and Cough are ever present—there is the racking pain and aching of the back, the limbs and the head, like nothing else unless it is Chills and Fever. The Prostration, the Fever, heat and restlessness are greater than in a Common Cold. "Seventy-seven" contains a remedy for each symptom, relief in every dose. If you will keep "Seventy-seven" handy (it fits the vest pocket) and take it promptly, you will not have to lay up, but can keep about your business. This appeals to busy people.

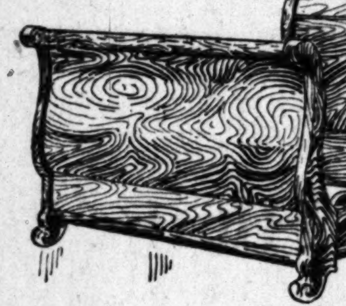
Elegant Bedroom Furniture---Easy Prices

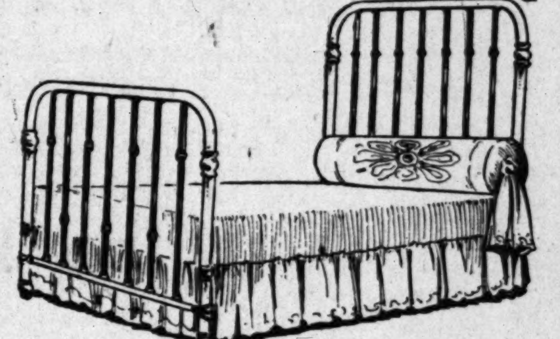
Our stock of what might be called the medium and higher grades of bedroom furniture is so complete and well assorted that prospective buyers in these lines cannot afford to overlook it. The price we put on each piece or suite is figured on basis of big business and small profit. We guarantee to save you money.

Elegant Napoleon Beds



One of the most prominent features of our Bedroom Furniture Department is the display of Napoleon beds. We show good assortments of full size, three-quarter and twin beds in golden oak and mahogany. These beds from a standpoint of cabinet work and finish are beyond criticism. Prices range from $35.00 up and every bed is a bargain.

Brass Beds $24.00 Up



We are particularly enthusiastic on the subject of Brass Beds just now because our already good assortment has just been augmented by a carload from the premier factory of the land. We now have superior assortments in both the bright and satin finishes or combinations of both in the three-quarter and full sizes. Prices range from $24.00 up.

Our Display of Colonial Beds

Our display of reproductions from the artistic old four-post Colonial beds has been praised by every-one who has seen it. Mahogany is the only wood used in these beds—the only one that is appropriate. Prices are not high when you consider quality.

Our stock of other bedroom pieces in the Colonial design is also good. If you want an artistic bedroom consider the Colonial style very seriously. You will be surprised to learn how much art and quality you can get here for your money.

Splendid Dresser Stock

Besides a magnificent stock of dressers which are part of suites we have scores of odd ones in all woods at prices ranging from $14.50 up to $225.00. We deal with the best factories only in these lines. A dresser must be perfect to find room on our floor.

Plenty of Chiffoniers

If you want scores of them to choose from and want to pay any price from $9.75 up to $175.00, we can please you. We have the most complete assortment shown in this city or any other city of the West. We have plenty of them in maple, birch, golden oak and mahogany and every one of these woods in a satisfying variety of designs.

Easy Choosing in Dressing Tables

It makes no difference what wood you are using in furnishing your bedroom, you can find a Dressing Table that will match. Our assortment includes all woods and every popular style of design.

First and Last Call!

What we have you can see, taste, touch and test. Nature unbosomed one of her treasures, and we were first to take possession

Indisputably legitimate propositions need no brag. As a conservative banking firm, enjoying the confidence of an intelligent clientele, we should be last to overstate the facts regarding any securities which we have to offer. One single presentation of a high-grade stock before the readers of a high-class newspaper should avail more than dozens of caloric and highly-colored screams to excite the impressionable.

We offer not more than ten shares to any one purchaser of American Borax Mines Company stock at $10 a share, each share of the par value of $100. We offer only three hundred shares in all at $10 a share. Of this allotment more than one-half has already been subscribed. We believe that before 9 o'clock tomorrow evening the entire allotment will be taken.

As soon as the three hundred shares are subscribed $3000 will be expended in opening up the property. The company's books will then be closed, and it will be impossible after that to buy any American Borax Mines Company stock at any price. Not a share of stock in the American Borax Mines Company can be bought through any other agency than the H. M. Bennett Co. of Los Angeles.

With a thorough knowledge of the stock situation in general, and the American Borax Mines Company in particular, we state in the most emphatic terms that the American Borax Mines Company presents the greatest merit and most certain opportunity for enormous and rapid profits of any stock at the present ime.

We point with pride to our honorable record—no investor has ever lost a dollar in the stocks of companies which we have promoted.

We have such faith in this opportunity for investment that we seek to give every one of our clients a chance to invest at $10 a share. Hence, we have refused individual subscriptions for more than ten shares, and in order to accommodate our clients who may not have the spare cash available today to seize upon this opportunity, we make he coucession that you may pay one-fifth down, balance in four monthly payments.

Our advice is, if you cannot buy ten shares, by all means buy one of a par value of $1000.

Few, even of the pioneers of California, know that one of the most profitable, productive and permanent borax districts of the world is located in the neighboring county of Ventura. A high degree of secrecy has been maintained by the Fraiser Borax Company, whose proprety is so rich that it has made the owners millionaires in a very few years. Luckily, the American Borax Mines Company have been able to secure, free and clear of all bonded or other indebtedness sixteen claims adjoining the famous Fraiser Borax property and adjacent to the Columbia Borax Company, another million-dollar concern.

Here is something more than a prospect. Nature has laid bare the secrets of her bosom, which any man who knows borax when he sees it may interpret, as a new resource of an every-day necessity.

Our claims are located on the southeast slope of Mill Mountain, 50 miles west of Lancaster station on the Southern Pacific, and about 30 miles from Sunset. Heavy rains and melting snow coming down off the mountain have worn deep erosions and exposed, not one, but a hundred leads of borax to plain view. The original discoverer, who recognized this mineral as crude borax, had the native wit to locate as many claims as possible there and thereabouts. Our company bought direct of him.

Three experts confirm the judgment of the discoverer and reinforce the opinions of each other. Mr. W. E. Davis has made a sworn statement that upon the expenditure of about $3000 the company will be enabled to ship from 5 to 10 tons of borax a day. The geological composition of our ground is identical with that of the Fraiser and Columbia Borax properties, and the water which flows from a spring upon our property is as strongly impregnated with borax as that of the Columbia. Mining Expert Davis concludes his report with the very conservative statement:

"That with the proper machinery and capable men this property will be on a paying basis sixty days from the day they begin work."

The joint report of George T. Webber of London, England, and J. L. Kelly of Denver, Colorado, both engineers of sagacity, concludes thus:

SECTION FOREMAN WHO HAS MADE A FORTUNE.

PATRICK QUINN.

Living in a little shack along the Southern Pacific with pretty Mrs. Quinn and the little Pats, Mikes and Aloysius Quinns, is a man who has made a fortune on the savings of a section foreman.

Big, good-natured Patrick Quinn could give pointers to the damsels who write, "How to keep ten servants and an automobile on ten dollars a week" for the Ladies' Home Journal.

Somebody asked him how he did it. He thought a long time and was perplexed, and finally said, with a brightening smile: "Why, you see, I was out on the desert and couldn't spend the money if I wanted to."

Quinn has made his money in Los Angeles in the real estate market.

He is one of the reasons why no one ever has been able to lick an Irishman. He is one of the Irishmen to whom it is as natural to rule as to breathe.

Gentle-voiced and kind, his paisanos jump when he gives orders. The company has put him out on the most difficult section of track anywhere around here.

He is the czar of a little kingdom of two rails and a roadbed and some rolling stock and some peons.

Although most section foremen change their entire force of men every pay day, Pat has some men who have been with him for ten years.

He began out in Arizona in the Indian days in 1884, and has been through scenes of wash-out and disaster that tried men's souls.

As he says, the desert is a good place to save money on. He saved his and put it in Los Angeles vacant lots. He sold these lots and bought more lots. The first thing he knew, he had a little fortune.

The men on the road say he has $50,000. Perhaps this is spreading it on some; perhaps not. At any rate, Pat admits that he need never work any more. However, he has got used to it. And when the old section car goes out at dawn he is there bossing.

INDIANAPOLIS GAS.

Peculiar Situation of the Gas Consumers in the Hoosier City—History of a Plan Unexpectedly Difficult in Operation.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

INDIANAPOLIS (Ind.) Jan. 8.—The entire world does not afford a parallel to the situation in this city concerning one public utility—the supply of gas. Because it is unique, this situation is of peculiar importance, as illustrating one phase of the comparative advantages of private and of public ownership and operation of a gas plant.

The situation illustrates more particularly the fallibility of human nature when enlisted in an altruistic enterprise and subjected to the strain of the temptations to make private profit therefrom. It has thence evolved a plan, most attractive in theory, for human nature to protect itself from itself in the superhuman task of treating fellowman to a "square deal" and resisting the financial allurements of monopoly. The success of such an experiment would mean an altogether novel example of private ownership under the control of public opinion, combined with the benefits of excellent service at fair cost and of final public ownership with the choice of public or private operation.

Indianapolis lighted its streets, its public buildings and homes with gas supplied by a private company controlled by New York capitalists, supposed to be in harmony with the Standard Oil Company, when the discovery of natural gas wells was made. This seemed a gift of Mother Earth. It meant only the expense of laying pipe lines and tapping the natural reservoirs, then assumed to be inexhaustible. Evidently, gas should be plentiful and cheap, not only for light but for cooking and manufacturing power; but the private monopoly would make no concessions as to rates, despite this new and marvelous source of supply.

Out of this condition sprang a corporation bearing the paradoxical name of the Consumers' Gas Trust Company. The strange title indicates the theory of its operation, which proved so successful that its investors have more than got their money back, with interest. But while they have prospered, there is presented the spectacle of a vast system of pipes, lying idle since the exhaustion of natural gas, which a reorganized Citizens' Gas Company seeks to buy in order to renew competition with the private monopoly, in the manufacture and delivery of artificial gas.

It is interesting to know that the original projectors of a popular (but not municipal) plant to supply natural gas to Indianapolis realized at the outset that to permit the stock of their company to have voting power would mean its purchase by the old company, until the latter would be able to elect its directors and thus restore the monopoly. Accordingly, all the stock of the Consumers' Gas Trust Company was placed in the control of a board of trustees.

For a time this plan worked beautifully. There was a guarantee of 8 per cent. on the stock, which was offered in amounts ranging from $25 to $1000, so that there was a large popular interest in the movement. It was promised that subscribers, besides their dividends, would have their stock redeemed out of the surplus earnings. Suffice it to say that this promise has been redeemed, until those stockholders who have chosen to do so have received back more than double their original investment, since 1890. Moreover, this competition forced down the price of gas to a figure that, it is computed, saved to the people of Indianapolis in fifteen years more than $10,000,000 in gas bills; and one indirect result of this saving, it is said, is the wonderful improvement of the city in street paving, street extensions, parks and other public works.

But the spirit of avarice raised its head in the later years of this cooperative corporation. A clique of the directors put their heads together and reached the conclusion to make friends with mammon. "Behold," they said, "the supply of natural gas vanishes. Let us secure control of the stock of our company, whose pipes parallel throughout much of the city the pipes of the Indianapolis Gas Company, the hitherto monopolistic enemy, whom we have forced to furnish gas at prices as low as our own. Mayhap the former monopoly will buy our plant, when we can no longer supply natural gas, and will then control all the pipes in this, our city, thus preventing future competition in the sale of artificial gas."

The stock of the Consumers' Trust took some surprising leaps. But just as the alleged scheme to sell out to the monopoly was near consummation, the public clamor became so loud that the trustees changed the complexion of the board of directors. This new board proposed to go ahead with the manufacture of artificial gas. But a stockholders' suit, claiming that the Consumers' charter restricted its operation to the supply of natural gas, was sustained by the Federal Court.

It looked then as if the monoply would win. But it was discovered that the charter gave the city the option to buy the plant of the Consumer's Trust Company. After some litigation, the city sold this option to a new company, the Citizens, for the nominal sum of $100. Pending the decision of an appeal, this second scheme is in the air and the independent plant lies at present idle and unused.

It is the scheme of control and operation by the new Citizens' company that is interesting. It is devised to protect its own promoters from their own greed. It is a plan of popular subscription in small amounts to the stock, upon which 10 per cent. dividends are guaranteed. The company is to charge 60 cents a thousand feet for artificial gas. When the surplus of profits is sufficient to redeem all obligations, the plant is to become the property of the city, which shall then be able either to operate it or to lease the plant upon terms prescribed by the municipal government. Every precaution has been taken against the private manipulation of a surplus. If any share of the $1,000,000 of stock is sold at a premium the excess over face value is to go to the surplus fund and shall pay no dividend. The United States Circuit Court is empowered to remove any trustee of the board in whom the election of directors is vested for corrupt practice or interest in any other company.

But this new company cannot begin operations until it can acquire the idle plant of the old Consumers' Gas Trust Company. The value of that plant may be determined by a board of appraisers, and its appointment is delayed on the part of the Mayor, who has a year in which to appeal from the lower judicial decision that the option of the city to buy the plant is valid. In the meantime, the active monopoly is making as many contracts with consumers for as long a time as it can at 90 cents per thousand feet. The outcome of this battle for the control of an idle plant between a private monopoly on one side and a self-denying but profit-aspiring private rival, involving final municipal ownership, is the unique feature of the gas situation in Indianapolis.

There are so many men suffering from chronic pelvic diseases, and the greater number of these victims are still more unfortunate in treating with doctors who know only enough to produce temporary results, or a false cure, if they succeed in benefiting the sufferer at all. There is no such thing as a partial cure of a disease, and the physician whose method does not eradicate every vestige cannot rightfully claim to do more than relieve.

We Cover the Entire Field of Private and Chronic, Deep-Seated Complicated Diseases.

We earnestly desire having all discouraged sufferers and men contemplating having themselves cured of any of the diseases we treat pay us a personal visit or write us regarding their condition. Do not hesitate because you have failed to receive a cure in treatment with your family physician; seek medical attention from a physician who thoroughly understands your case and can cure you safely, quickly and permanently.

Look to Your Own Interest

REMEDY FOR FREE SEED EVIL.

WANT FARMERS TO REPORT ON SUCCESS OF PLANTS.

Proposed to Discontinue Sending Out Common Seeds and Send in Their Place Special Varieties and Have Those to Whom They Are Sent Report to the Department the Result Achieved.

The Washington correspondent of the Cleveland Plaindealer says the Agricultural Department is again trying to restore the custom of Congressional seed distribution to the original conception. It started with the intention of providing farmers with samples of better seeds than they could get in the ordinary way. It was to improve crops. It has come to be at once a nuisance and an abuse.

The government buys a large quantity of ordinary seeds in the open market and each Congressman distributes his big quota in the fashion best calculated to maintain his political standing at home. Or, if he is a city Congressman, he may let the seeds rot. So far efforts toward reform have been in vain.

A regular battle raged in the House when the last agricultural appropriation bill was up, but advocates of the present seed distribution won. Senators Hale and Lodge have fought it year in and year out, but unsuccessfully. Their efforts have been directed toward eliminating all seed distribution by the government from the annual budget. Now the department has hit upon a new plan to preserve seed distribution but to make it something other than the present donation party.

Dr. B. T. Galloway, chief of the Bureau of Plant Industry, which has immediate charge of the distribution, has outlined this to the House Committee on Agriculture. He hopes something like it will be enacted into law and put into operation during the next fiscal year. He has seventy-five projects, in reality, for the distribution of seeds, but by altogether different methods than Congress has ever directly authorized. These projects contemplate sending out to various localities choice varieties of seeds as soon as feasible. He exhibited to the committee recently maps and photographs to illustrate where the work could be carried on. He has already undertaken it in a small way, sending special varieties of seeds to farmers or others, known to be specially interested in certain kinds of crops. The department keeps in close touch with the recipients of those seeds. Reports are made and the farmers thus brought into close coöperation with the department. In a way the individual farmer conducts a miniature experiment station, such as most of the states now maintain in connection with their agricultural colleges.

In effect, Dr. Galloway proposes to make each Congressman the agent of the Agricultural Department in extending these seed experiments. He would cut off entirely the annual supply of ordinary varieties of beet seed, corn, onion seed, tobacco seed and so on through a long list. The headings of eighteen separate plans that he outlined to the Committee on Agriculture indicate what Dr. Galloway proposes to do. These headings were: "Extension of Arabian Alfalfa in the Southwest," "Extension of Alfalfa Growing Into States Where It Is Not Now a Staple Crop," "Extension of Cold Resistant Alfalfas," "Distribution of New Varieties of Cotton," "Introduction of Matting Plant and Its Growth in the United States," "The Improvement of Cow Peas," "New Tobacco Varieties," "Introduction and Testing of Alkali Resistant Crops," "Grains for High Altitudes," "Adaptation of Winter Oats," "Sugar-beet Seed Growing," "The Improvement of Corn," "Bulb Growing in the United States," "Cultivation of Drug Plants," "Dry Land Arbocultural Work," "Introduction of Hardy Apples for the Apple Breeders," "Introduction and Breeding of Citrus Fruits."

As fast as the department has anything new under these or other topics, any new variety of seeds or anything new in the cultivation of the crops it would furnish the Congressman or Congressmen in the territory especially interested with the seeds or the information, as the case might be, and he would have oversight of the distribution to farmers willing to try the experiment and report to the Department of Agriculture. Illustrating his plan with reference to drug plants, Dr. Galloway says: "We import in the neighborhood of $4,000,000 or $5,000,000 worth of drugs each year and preliminary investigations would indicate that a considerable portion of these drug plants might be grown at home. The work would be applicable to nearly all the States bordering on the Atlantic Ocean, including New England, and also some of the Western States, such as Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and Northern Iowa. The object would be to introduce the seeds of promising drug plants and encourage the production of the crops, this being in coöperation with individual farmers and others."

Regarding the introduction of hardy apples for the apple breeders, Dr. Galloway says: "This work would be applicable to the entire tier of northern States from Maine to and including Montana. The object would be to find out through a study of published accounts of travelers and explorers as to where in different parts of the world are to be found apples or forms related to them which are likely to be valuable in the breeding of hardier and more drouth resistant varieties of apples for this northern country. This work would be done largely in coöperation with the experiment stations."

The Department of Agriculture has been trying for some months to encourage the introduction of matting plants in this country. Now most of those plants are imported from Japan. There are two matting factories in New England, one in Maine and another in Massachusetts. "We import about $5,000,000 worth of matting from foreign countries," says Dr. Galloway. "It is believed that most of this material could be made here if the raw material could be grown. There is plenty of land in the States of Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and North and South Carolina which is adapted to the growing of this crop. It is important to introduce the best kinds of matting plants from abroad and to establish the growing of the crop here. It is also important to improve our own native forms for this purpose."

The department has been sending plant explorers into various forgotten corners of the earth—to Chinese Tibet and Chinese Turkestan after hull-less barleys; to Russian Turkestan for the naked oat; to Hanchung for glutinous rices; to Arabia for dates; and so on. It wants to extend these explorations, which, it is claimed, have already yielded valuable results, and to utilize individual farmers for the development of the new crops. In the course of a few years, the department officials say, the benefits to agriculture in the United States would be enormous.

I INVITE EVERY MAN WOMAN AND CHILD HERE

Every Person of Los Angeles to Eat With Me Tomorrow at My Expense

This is an invitation that you simply cannot afford to ignore. I'll tell you why.

I'm going to feed you on a food that helps digest all other foods, a food that "stops the sharp pangs of dyspepsia in two minutes by the watch," so swears Mr. Henry Gray and many others.

A food that made Assistant Postmaster Estes "feel like a 2-year-old in a clover pasture."

A food that makes brains in five hours and blood in four.

A highly nutritious, stomachic food, made from the pineapple, and the paw-paw-melon, figs, oranges, celery and a few other good things for the nerves, stomach and bowels.

You may be starving your blood and brain in the midst of plenty. It isn't how much you eat that counts, but it's how you digest the food you eat.

You can't get steam out of water without fire; you can't get brain-power, nerve force and blood corpuscles out of food without digestion.

Thousands lack sufficient vital force and don't know why.

They think they need a tonic, a vacation or a change of scenery. But they don't. It's old indigestion that's the matter with them, and six days' use of my Biscuit will prove it.

They don't get the strength out of their food. It's like running corn through a mill with the rollers too wide apart; the corn goes through, but the mill doesn't grind.

Don't think you must have a pain to have indigestion.

Lack of flesh, too much fat, pimples, blotches, sallow complexion, lack of nerve force, impoverished blood, insomnia, headaches, weak brain power, may all be due to a faulty digestive process either in the stomach or bowels.

Eat my Biscuit along with your other food for a week and find out how your digestive organs are working. If the Biscuit helps you greatly, gives you more force, strength and brain power, you may set it down that your stomach, liver and bowels were doing their duty.

Only yesterday your head may have felt dull and heavy; you had the "blues"; were cross, nervous or irritable; everthing seemed to go wrong, and you couldn't tell why.

It's ten to one it was old dyspepsia slyly getting in his work, not enough to cause you pain, but just enough to dull your brain, rob you of your vitality, upset your liver and deplete your nerve force. Maybe you don't think so, but just try one package of my Biscuit and see if they don't change "blues" to a bright, cherry red; make the old world laugh in a merry glee and put vigor and vim in your life again.

National Bank President Kinner of Olean, N. Y., had stomach trouble so bad that he had to live on malted milk, and even that caused him pain—he ate three biscuits and went to eating his meals—sounds like a miracle—Well, I have Mr. Kinner's own letter to that effect.

W. G. Roach of Hornellsville, N. Y., says he hadn't been able to work for several years—had dyspepsia so bad—after eating my Biscuit two weeks he got a position and went to work, says he can eat anything now and feel "tiptop." This is only two of hundreds.

Mr. Dyspeptic, have you ever heard of the wonderful Biscuit that talks, that really tells you itself what it can do—that's Neal's. Five minutes after you eat it the Biscuit begins to unfold its virtues, and it will by actual demonstration prove to you more in regard to its merits in ten minutes than I could probably make you believe if I wrote and read you ten books as large as the dictionary.

"It seems like a dream," swears Mr. Charles F. Bowman. "Gave me relief in three minutes," says Mrs. W. H. Cruttenden. "Stopped my pain in two minutes," swears Mr. Joseph Fentiman.

You may know some of these people, or know somebody who knows them. I'll send you their pictures and full addresses if you want them, so that you can find out all about my Biscuit and the wonders it has wrought.

Probably you are not thinking whether all this can be true—stop it! I will send you absolutely free one large 25c package of my Dyspepsia Biscuit and wonderful Fig Chocolates, at once, and let them prove what I say, provided you will send me 4 cents to pay actual cost of postage. Cut out and use coupon below.

COME EAT WITH ME AT MY EXPENSE

This coupon entitles you to one large 25-cent package of Neal's Dyspepsia Biscuit and Fig Chocolates, absolutely free (provided you have never tried them,) if you will send 4 cents to pay actual cost of postage at merchandise rates. Will also send a free copy of our elegantly illustrated journal, called "Strenuous Life," printed in colors. It tells all about the Biscuit, what it contains, how it is made, what it does and how it does it; it tells about the chocolates, too—the wonderful Fig Chocolates that make the Liver go all day, every day, just like a clock. Read the large advertisement printed above, then put 4 cents in stamps in a letter today, with this coupon, and a full 25-cent package of these wonderful articles will be delivered at your very door tomorrow. Address "Neal," The Man That Made the Biscuit, Dept. 526 A, Syracuse, N. Y.

One of the Hundred-Mile-an-Hour Electric Engine That W Take a Train to New York in Ten Hours.

The New Year's Opportunity

The New Year brings a great opportunity to the men and women of the country—the opportunity to make a fortune. TURN OVER A NEW LEAF. START THE NEW YEAR RIGHT. Men are poor or rich according to their opportunities and their courage to act. We furnish the opportunity. ACT! Start the year with this resolution: "I refuse to remain poor. The railroads of the country have made millionaires of those who helped build them. I WILL HELP BUILD A RAILROAD OF MY OWN. The Chicago-New York Electric Air Line Railroad is being built by the people of this country. I am going to have a share in this enterprise, which offers me the opportunity of a lifetime. I AM GOING TO ACT.'

The wonderful sale of stock in the Chicago-New York Electric Air Line Railroad is increasing rapidly. Commencing last summer with a rush which astonished the management of the company, the sales have practically doubled every month since. Such emphatic indorsement of the enterprise leaves no shadow of doubt as to "where the money will come from" for building this great twentieth century railroad.

It is now well understood by the people generally that the national need for more railroads affords an exceptional opportunity for this electric trunk line. It is also well understood that this electric road will have all the earning power of its steam competitors and at the same time can be operated at a saving of 15 per cent. over steam power. This is one of the great boons electricity has given to mankind. More and more are the people beginning to understand that this railroad is their golden opportunity for acquiring an independent fortune. Such opportunities come only once in a lifetime.

Progress of the Work

Meanwhile the work of construction goes steadily forward, notwithstanding this is the winter season. WITHIN NINETY DAYS CARS will be running out of La Porte, Ind.

It happens that the first piece of road needed by the company is that running out of La Porte, in order to facilitate the work of construction. Over this track the company can deliver its own materials, laying them down at precisely the point needed. Arrangements have been made for leasing the power necessary to run this portion of the road until the big power-house to be built on land recently purchased south of La Porte is completed. The grading for this piece of road has been practically completed into the thriving city of La Porte. All necessary franchises have been obtained. seventy-five carloads of material have been ordered for immediate delivery and a part is already on the ground. Track laying will begin in January and unless there is unavoidable delay in the delivery of material, due to traffic congestion, April will see the first cars in operation.

Every Mile a Paying Proposition

The policy of the company is to build and equip a complete railroad one section at a time, and to operate that and succeeding sections while the remainder of the road is building. This is one of the strong features of the proposition which appeals to investors everywhere, because it makes possible a profitable business almost from the start. Every mile of the entire railroad from Chicago to New York will be a paying proposition for local business alone, to say nothing of the enormous traffic which it will command as a trunk line connecting the two greatest cities of the United States. As rapidly as possible this track from La Porte will be extended west with the result that before many months cars will be plying between La Porte and Chicago. This section will then be built east to South Bend, then to Goshen and so on until the railroad reaches New York. Meanwhile the completed divisions will be earning money for the stockholders. Stock is rapidly selling at $32 today. What do you imagine it will bring with the La Porte division operating profitably? That it will sell at par, $100, or near par, need not be questioned for a minute.

This stock is the best opportunity for investment offered to the American people since Bell Telephone stock went begging for purchasers. It is the only opportunity men of comparatively small means ever had to get into a railroad enterprise "on the ground floor." Start the New Year right. Write down an unalterable resolution that you will take immediately and all possible advantage of this unequaled opportunity to provide for the future of yourself and family.

Price of Shares

$105 per share if cash is paid.

If bought on monthly payment of $5 per month, price is $110.

This plan gives the investor who pays $5 per month the same percentage of profit as though he bought business property individually.

If you will carefully consider The Citizens' Corporation, its rich field of profit, its absolute security, the men of established ability associated with it, the opportunity which it presents for those who wish to invest only limited sums—if you will consider these things studiously and critically, there is no doubt but that you will apply at once for as much of the stock as your means will justify.

Briefly put, The Citizens' Corporation is organized to deal in gilt edge business property in Los Angeles.

It is capitalized at one million dollars—10,000 shares—and each share represents a full paid up certificate of stock.

There is no promoters' stock, no rake-offs, no "schemes."

In every city, business property, not residence property, yields the great profits and particularly in Los Angeles where growth is rapid, business property is a form of investment which probably has no equal in the land.

The Citizens' Corporation is really an association of individual investors who unite in order to gain those favorable opportunities which are only open to large capital.

Money invested in this way is far more safe than if locked up in residence lots—not only more secure but it earns bigger profits and there are no papers to bother with, no expenses, taxes and insurance to meet.

The Citizens' Corporation is not a complicated enterprise, but a simple co-operative company—nothing extraordinary or sensational, but just a plain mutual company for buying, selling and improving business property.

The officers are so well known as successful business men, that it is scarcely necessary to point out the value of their judgment in selecting and handling property.

All stock is alike—no preferred stock, no bonds.

Every shareholder receives his full pro rata of dividends.

You are invited to call at the office for more detailed information. Do not feel afraid to investigate. You will not be subjected to any unpleasant or persistent soliciting.

However, The Citizens' Corporation presents the most attractive, legitimate investment offered in Los Angeles for many years, and you cannot afford to ignore it.

HIGH PRICE ON PICO.

R. A. Hill Sells Forty Feet at 124 West Pico for Twenty-seven Thousand Dollars.

Guthrie & Blossom report the sale of the west forty feet of lot 20 of the north part of the Carr tract, located at 124 West Pico street. The sale was made for R. A. Hill, manager of Armour's Fertilizer Works, to Arthur M. Jones, for a consideration of $27,000, which is at the rate of $675 per front foot, or the highest price paid for inside property on Pico street.

The same firm report the sale for J. F. Zinn of lot 9, block 24, of the Glendale boulevard tract, for $1800, to E. W. Blossom, who in turn sold to J. T. Brown for $2500. Mr. Brown has refused an offer, preferring to hold same for an investment.

NINTH AND FIGUEROA.

Sells at Big Figure—Pico Street Lot Sells Twice in Quick Succession at Profit.

W. I. Hollingsworth & Co. report the sale of the northwest corner of Ninth and Figueroa streets, Geo. H. Rector to Herbert Earlscliffe, a Santa Barbara capitalist, and C. H. White, a Colorado mining man, for $100,000. Property has a frontage of 119 feet on Figueroa and a depth of 120 feet on Ninth street. A ten-room house of nominal value is on the property.

Cyrus Willard sells to W. P. Jeffries, No. 149 West Pico street, 60x120 feet for $30,000. Before the transaction was out of escrow Mr. Jeffries sold the property to H. T. Coffin for $36,000, making a profit of $6000.

TWO BIG ONES.

Business Property Attracts Big Investors and Sellers Take Handsome Profits in Short Time.

Blenkiron Brothers have sold to Karl Triest a lot on the east side of Grand avenue, commencing at a point 110 feet south of Seventh street. The property has a frontage of ninety feet on Grand avenue, with a depth of 165 feet, containing several frame buildings of nominal value. Rent, $110 a month. The price was $75,000 cash. Eighteen months ago Blenkiron Brothers paid about $43,000 for this lot. The sale was made through the agency of R. A. Rowan & Co.

Charles C. Chapman of Fullerton, one of the most successful orange and lemon growers in California, has purchased from Herbert Wolfskill, for $46,150, a lot 100 feet square on the north side of Third street, about 200 feet west of Central avenue. Mr. Chapman contemplates erecting a four-story reinforced concrete building on this site for wholesale commission purposes. The sale was made through R. A. Rowan & Co.

THIRTY-EIGHT PER CENT.

That Is the Profit on a Lot on Figueroa Street Made in Nine Months.

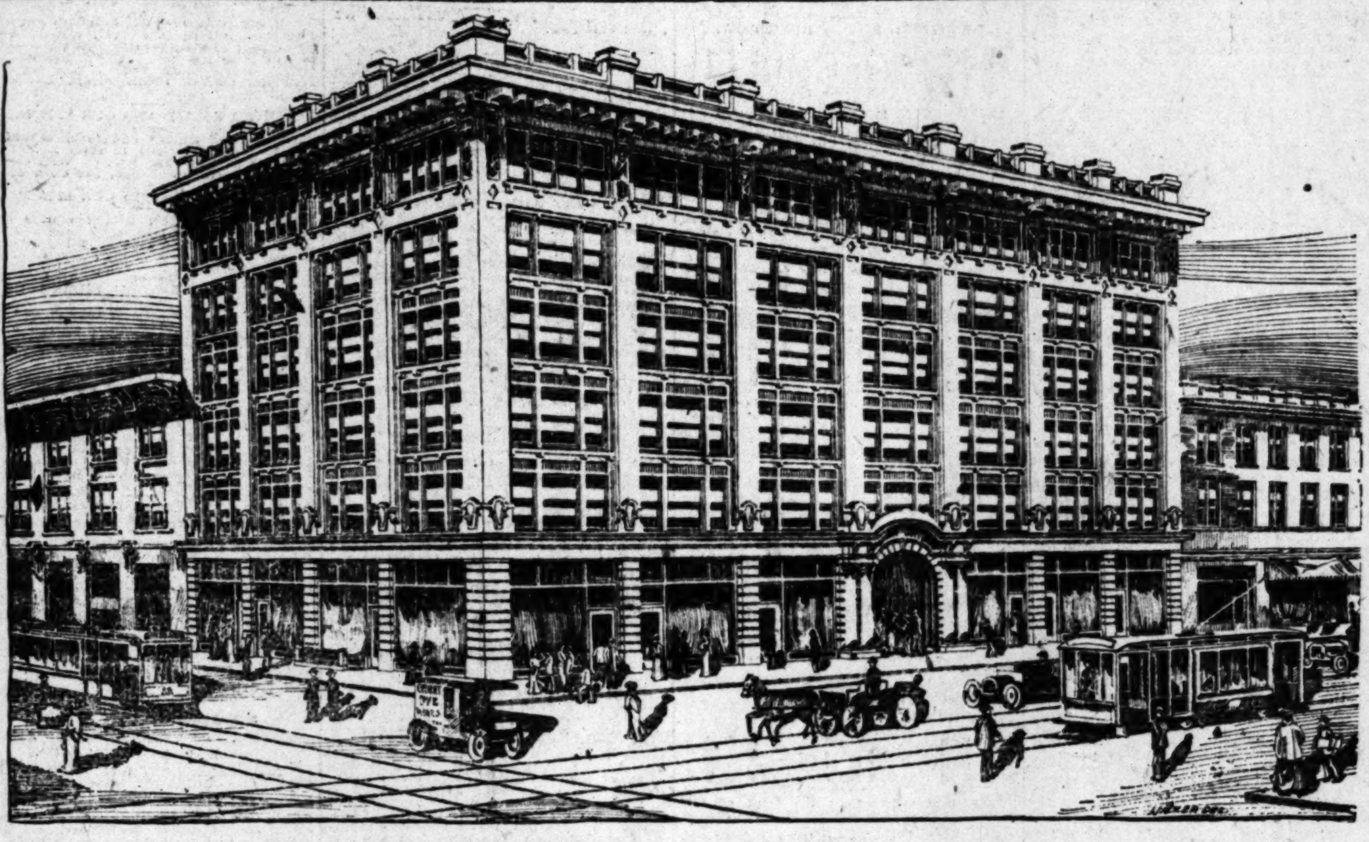
Through the transfer this week from Merritt M. Allen to Prentice Lebus of 60x165 feet at Nos. 831-33 South Figueroa street, for $32,500, there has been added $9000 profit to the bank accounts of the grantors. The transaction was negotiated by the firm of A. T. Jergins & Co., through whose agency the Allens acquired the property last March for $23,500.

The improvements on the property consist of a double-apartment house of twelve rooms, divided into two six-room suites. For the present it is the intention of the purchasers to allow the present buildings to stand, but negotiations are said to be pending whereby a business structure may be erected.

OUTSIDE PROPERTY.

The following sales are reported by the Southern California Real Estate Investment Company: To William Jackson and Charles Benedict of Los Angeles, and to A. J. Reis, of Long Beach, 105 acres of Fair Haven Farms property, averaging from $250 to $500 an acre, and aggregating a total of $42,600.

In Palm Place Tract, at Palms, the same company reports the sale of two lots to Miss Buck, $825; to Miss Winthrop, two lots, $850; to A. T. Dunn of Ocean Park, lot 9, $425; to Dr. R. B. Burton, lot, $475; and to Elmer Workman, lot, $400; Dr. Burton reports the resale of lot to A. T. Dunnat, at $525, an advance of $50; and Elmer Workman also has disposed of his lot to Mrs. Meekins, recently from the East, at $500, clearing a profit of $100 within three days. The California Real Estate Investment Company reports that these sales practically clear up the Palms Place Tract of forty lots, which have been on the market for two weeks only.



Spreckels Building going up at San Diego.

THE UNION BUILDING.

The illustration here shown is what will be the new home of the San Diego Union and the Evening Tribune, as well as the offices of the various Spreckels companies in San Diego.

The building will occupy the site of the present Union Building and in addition forty-three feet to the south, and forty-two feet to the west, which was recently acquired for the purpose. This will make the total dimensions 150 feet on D street and 85 feet on Third street.

The footings, columns, girders, beams and floors as well as the roofs and walls and external ornamentations will be of reinforced concrete. The building will be six stories high above the basement.

The basement will extend under the sidewalk on both Third and D streets and will contain the mechanical equipment of the building as well as the mechanical equipment of the papers, and in addition a restaurant and accessories. The entrance lobby of the building will be in the center, on D street. To the right of the entrance lobby will be three stores each 20x85 feet. To the left of the lobby will be three rooms each 20x40 feet, all of which will have the entrances on D street. In the rear there will be two stores each 20x80 feet, with entrances from Third street. The second floor will contain the offices of the various Spreckels companies. In addition there will be a law library to cost $10,500 for the accommodation of tenants of the building.

The next three floors will contain in all eighty-one offices or twenty-seven offices to each floor. The arrangement of the building is such that all the offices will be open to the outside air. No offices will have less than two windows, and many will have three and more. The offices will average in size 14x19 feet. All offices will open directly from the corridors and will be communicating. They will contain clothes closets, lavatories and radiators. The sixth floor is for the accommodation of the Cuyamaca Club, containing the following: Office, private office, reception room, check room, toilet room, two card rooms, billiard room, buffet, reading room, lounging room, four bedrooms with private baths, store room, kitchen, serving room, private dining-room, general dining-room.

The finish throughout the building will be mahogany finished birch. There will be two electric passenger elevators running from basement through the sixth floor. There will be a roof garden over the entire building for the use of the club occupying the sixth floor. The building will be heated by steam, lighted by electricity, and cleaned by vacuum suction system.

Drawings and specifications were prepared by Harrison Albright of Los Angeles. The contract for the construction has been awarded to Carl Leonardt.

TWO NEAR ARCADE.

M. B. Merwin & Co. report the following sales: Gladys avenue, between Fifth and Sixth streets, west side, 50x110 feet, with cottage, D. S. Cook to S. J. Baily, price $12,500; west side of Towne avenue, between Fifth and Sixth streets, 25x110 feet, improvements nominal, H. H. Cotton to Walter Wren, price $5000.

REINFORCED CONCRETE.

Robert D. Farquhar is the architect of the first reinforced concrete residence to be built in Los Angeles county. The illustration on this page shows the house as it will appear when completed at the Palisades, Santa Monica overlooking the beautiful Santa Monica Cañon. The house is built on the corner of Fourth streets and Adelaide Drive. H. M. Gorham is the owner. The lot is 100 feet wide by 200 feet deep. The house not only is so placed as to command a fine view of the cañon, but from another angle the whole stretch of ocean beach with the ocean for miles out can be seen.

The picture is a rear view of the building in order to show the most striking feature of the scheme of the house, which is being built on the old Spanish style with a large courtyard and inclosed "patio." The house proper is built in the form of a letter "U," the "patio" being inside the two legs of the letter. From the house to the garage in the rear, a reinforced concrete wall incloses a formal garden and makes the whole affair private, as all service is through a small side door outside the wall. The house is one story high and is roofed with the red mission tiles. The top of the wall is also capped with the same decorations. The size of the house is 61.6x60 feet, the inclosed patio is 27.64x40.6 feet. A covered screen porch extends into the courtyard. The garden is 47x87 feet.

The living room occupies the entire front of the house. Off the living room the dining-room opens by means of large glass folding doors, which can be thrown back, enabling the two rooms to be used as one large hall when entertaining a large number of guests. There are three commodious bedrooms and two bathrooms in one wing, all opening, by means of French windows, on the patio. On the other wing are the kitchen, pantry, servants' quarters, etc. All interior finish will be of polished hard wood. All arrangements are being made for cooking with either coal, gas or electricity. All the electric and telephone wires are taken into the house through small conduits.

In the barn in the rear, which is made in the same style and of the same construction, accommodations have been planned for an automobile, a carriage, two large box stalls, a laundry and a man's room. Entrance to the garage is through a trelliced arbor, which conceals most of the wall from the residence. Two cement walks will be laid about the garden.

One feature of the construction of the building is the way the plumbing is put in. All pipes and other concealed work were put up before the building of the walls began. Steel rods and heavy fence wire are the reinforcing materials used. The cost will be $18,000.

TWO ON MAIN.

E. E. White & Co. announce two sales on Main street: J. G. Gay and Charles D. Morgan, to W. H. Clune, lot 50x150 feet, to alley, Nos. 1612 and 1614 South Main street, $32,500, also Walter G. Story to local investor, 51½x132 feet, northwest corner Seventeenth and Main streets, $51,500; also C. Ganahl to Mrs. Bettie Rorick, lot 58x132 feet, improved with six-room cottage, No. 139 West Eighteenth street, $8800.

ANOTHER HILL STREET SALE.

Big Deal Turned Quickly, Although Involving Eighty-one Thousand Dollars.

One of the quickest deals ever reported is that just consummated through the agencies of Heron & De La Vergne and the Burck-Gwynn Company. Through these agencies J. B. Thresher has sold to the Title Insurance and Trust Company, which is acting for a local syndicate, a lot on the west side of Hill street between Second and Third, having frontage of sixty feet and a depth of 165 feet, for the sum of $81,000. This figures at the rate of $1350 a front foot, and compares well with other prices paid recently for property in this section.

It is said that a three months' option on the property had been taken by another firm, which experienced considerable difficulty in negotiating the deal. This firm turned the option over to the Burck-Gwynn concern at 9 a.m. the day of the expiration of the option. By 6 p.m. this company, working in conjunction with the Heron & De La Vergne people, had the necessary cash subscribed and their syndicate ready for the purchase of the land.

HOPE STREET LOTS.

Two on East Side of Street Near Twelfth Sold Through Agency of H. G. Cotton & Company.

Mrs. Clara R. Shatto and J. A. Anderson, Jr., sell to Alexander Keating, two lots on the east side of Hope street near Twelfth street, for $35,000. Property has been very active in this section of late and this is considered a good buy at the price quoted. The sale was made through the agency of H. G. Cotton & Co.

MORE PROFIT-TAKING.

Grand Avenue Lot Resold and Big Slice Left for the Seller as Profit.

W. B. Merwin & Co. report the sale of a lot 90x115 feet on the northeast corner of Grand avenue and Twlfth street, for $47,000. A local syndicate sells to Alex Keating of Redlands, Cal. The lot is vacant, and was sold by Ella Leach to Miess a short time since for $45,000. But in the former sale the lot was 90x165 feet. The seller now reserves a slice on Twelfth street, 50x90 feet.

CITY AND COUNTRY.

F. A. J. Shaffer reports the sale of two lots, 240 feet west of Grand avenue on Thirtieth street, improved with ten-room residene and six-room cottage, lot 100x175 feet, price, $30,000. Mrs. Robert L. Couts is the seller to J. G. Dinman, who will make it his home. Robert L. Couts buys of F. A. J. Shaffer 130 acres of land in Los Angeles county, highly improved, and stock and fixtures, two miles southeast of Norwalk for $32,000.

THE WEEK'S RECORD.

Hinman Hotel Changes Hands and Big Advance in Price in Short Period of Time.

The Schumacher Wilson Realty Company yesterday sold to a local investor the northeast corner of Seventh and Figueroa, 156 feet on the former by 15 feet on the latter street.

The property is improved with a three-story pressed-brick building on two-thirds of the lot, and a one-story building on the remainder. The improvements are valued at $100,000. The purchase price of the entire property was $275,000. At this price it is considered a reasonably cheap buy, and was bought as an investment.

Robert Marsh & Co. and Mines & Farish represent the purchaser, and A. E. Halsey the seller.

The sellers in this case bought the property a few weeks ago for $250,000.

VERMONT AND JEFFERSON.

Kuck and Golden have made the following sales: A. G. Kuck and M. B. Golden to Theckla Bright, 103½x150 feet, with five-room cottage, on the east side of Vermont avenue between Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth streets, for $7500; Theckla Bright to a local syndicate, the northwest corner of Vermont avenue and Jefferson street, 130 feet frontage on Vermont avenue and 140 feet on Jefferson street, improved with fourteen-room dwelling, $25,000; Theckla Bright to a local investor, 100 feet on the north side of Jefferson street, with a 50-foot lot running through to Thirty-first street, 140 feet west of Vermont avenue, $10,000; J. W. Main to M. N. Sarver, a lot 50x145 feet to alley, on the south side of Fortieth street, about 250 feet west of Vermont avenue, $1750.

IN POOL & JONES TRACT.

The Jones and Ryder Land Company announce the following sales: Poole & Jones to T. E. Leefer, lot 100x150 feet, to alley, southeast corner Harvard boulevard and Twenty-seventh street, $3600; R. A. Brassey to O. A. Martin, six-room bungalow, No. 2966 Roxbury avenue, $4100; A. H. Thompson to E. L. Petifils, lot 50x132 feet, near corner Twenty-ninth street on Raymond avenue, $2000; L. E. Jones to M. Muskegoff, five-room cottage, No. 450 Clarence street, $2000; L. E. Jones to M. Shakiron, five-room cottage, No. 440 Clarence street, $2000; John W. McMillen to Dewitt Reaburn, two-story house, No. 2922 LaSalle avenue, $6000; Minnie Stokes to J. Arthur Foster, two-story, eight-room house, No. 2656 Normandie avenue, $7000.

HILL AND EIGHTEENTH.

The Van Vranken-Hunter Realty Company has closed the sale of the northeast corner of Hill and Eighteenth streets for $24,000. George H. Rector conveys to the Title Insurance and Trust Company for a syndicate of local investors. The property has a frontage of fifty-eight feet on Eighteenth and 125 feet on Hill street, to an alley. Nominal improvements.

FOR SALE—

WHITE & HESKETT,
226 WEST SIXTH STREET.

FINE RESIDENCE, WESTLAKE DISTRICT.

$11,000—On high ground, surrounded by beautiful homes. Has large living room, parlor, dining room, den, kitchen on ground floor, four large sleeping chambers on second floor, two baths and two toilets, solid brass electric and gas fixtures, fireplace, cement cellar, laundry, furnace, clothes chutes, speaking tubes, etc., etc. has large floored attic suitable for billiard room; lot 50x150; this place has a fine view of the mountains and is located between two car lines with no car line on street on which it faces.

BEAUTIFUL 8 ROOM HOUSE.

$6500—Worth $7000. Close in in S. W. This two story 8 room house was built by the best builder in the city, and he is asking no more for it than he did when it was built four months ago, when it cost 30 per cent. less to build than it does now. It is within ½ block of two car lines. The first floor has large living room, with beam ceilings, den with cut stone mantel, dining room paneled and has stone mantel, kitchen, servant's room, large hall, pantry, screen porch with set tubs. Second floor has 3 sleeping chambers, dressing room; bath room, shower bath with tile floor. This house is finished in bungalow style, with elegant electric fixtures and everything modern, and the exterior is very attractive. Lot 55x155, to alley, with barn and buggy shed. It is surrounded by fine homes and owner puts this low price on it to make quick sale, as he must raise some money at once.

7 ROOM HOUSE NEAR ADAMS ST.

$4500—$1000 cash, $50 per month; 7 rooms, besides reception hall; is surrounded by uniform houses with fine terraced lawns; bath and kitchen finished in white enamel; all other rooms in natural wood. This house would be a bargain at $5000.

6 ROOM COTTAGE, IN S.W.

$3500—$500 cash and reasonable monthly payments. Was planned and built by one of leading architects of this city, and is up to date in every respect. Is located on 23d street east of Vermont. NEW BUNGALOW AND NEW FURNITURE.

$3800—This pretty new bungalow is located in the southwest section of the city near Arlington and Jefferson, in a pretty tract with oiled streets and good building restrictions. The living-room and reception hall occupy the whole front of house; handsome brick mantel flanked by two pretty bookcases, pretty archway between hall and living-room; also paneled side walls in these rooms; handsome dining-room with large bay window, pretty built-in buffet; these rooms have polished oak floors; neat kitchen and pantry, finished in white; two pretty bedrooms and bath, finished in white. The furniture is new and is in the mission and oak finish. This property is well worth the $3800 without the furniture. Terms $1400 cash, balance at $30 per month and interest.

A NEW 6-ROOM BUNGALOW.

$4000—This entirely new 6-room bungalow is located in the S.W. section of the city, on an elevated lot, 50x135 to an alley; neat little reception hall; living-room with pretty brick mantel, flanked by 2 built-in bookcases; nice large dining-room with built-in buffet and window seat; these rooms have the dark finish and oak floors; a very nice cabinet kitchen; two of the bedrooms and bath and finished in white; screen porch with set tub; lawn made; neat electric fixtures; terms if desired.

ONE AND ONE-HALF STORY.

A VERY PRETTY 7-ROOM BUNGALOW.

$4500—This entirely new 7-room bungalow is located in the C. V. Hall tract, on one of those fine wide avenues, which is so much admired by all who pass this beautiful home tract; you enter from a nice large porch into reception hall, through a pretty archway into large living-room with a handsome stone mantel; the dining-room is paneled with corrugated slash grain Oregon pine, and has a beautiful built-in buffet; all these rooms have the dark finish and oak floors; a very complete cabinet kitchen; pretty little breakfast-room; three neat bedrooms and bathroom all finished in white; this is one of the most roomy bungalows for the money to be found in the S.W.; lot 50x150 to an alley. If you think this will suit you don't fail to have us show you this at once, for it is one of those that sells quick.

SEVEN PRETTY ROOMS.

$5400—Just completed, modern 7-room residence, and located only one block from the West Adams car line on an elevated lot 50x136; large living-room with massive brick mantel and beamed ceiling; the finish in this room is weathered oak. The dining-room is paneled, has built-in buffet, and the Flemish oak finish; kitchen and pantry in white; screen porch with two stationary tubs and extra toilet; cemented cellar and furnace; upstairs are four nice bedrooms with ventilated closets all finished in white.

IN KINNEY HEIGHTS.

$6000—Modern 7-room home, built less than 2 years, and in the very best condition; large reception hall with built-in seat; nice living-room, pretty dining-room with mantel; all these rooms have the Flemish oak finish and oak floors; nice kitchen, pass pantry and screen porch; on the second floor are four bedchambers and bath; large back balcony; this home is only one block from the West Adams car line. Lot 50x150 to alley.

A TYPICAL CALIFORNIA BUNGALOW.

$6250—The term bungalow is applied to a great variety of houses, but we are offering you in this what we term a typical California bungalow, and we know when we show you this that you will say we are right. This new 7-room bungalow is located on a pretty east-front lot, near West Adams car line; wide veranda across entire front; large living-room with heavy beamed ceiling, massive brick fireplace; the den is elevated about 8 inches above the living-room floor, and has built-in bookcases and seats. The dining-room has paneled walls, cross-beamed ceiling, and a very handsome built-in buffet; the kitchen is simply perfect, and will delight any house wife who does her own work; 3 very pretty bedrooms, with closets, with built-in hat and shoe boxes, and finished in white; the bathroom is a beauty; handsome lighting fixtures, in fact, everything complete and first class.

NEAR BERKELEY SQUARE.

$500 CASH AND $50 PER MONTH AND INTEREST.

$6500—You may look the city over and not find the equal of this, all things taken in consideration. Nearly new, modern, seven large rooms and large reception hall; you enter from nice porch into reception hall, on your left through pretty archway into living-room, through sliding doors to dining-room with built-in buffet; all these rooms have the weathered oak finish and hardwood floors; nice kitchen and pass pantry; three fine bedchambers and bath on second floor; lot 60x150 to alley and improved with good lawn and fruit trees; pretty little barn.

BEAUTIFUL 8-ROOM HOME.

$7250—Located on the heights in vicinity of Harvard College, and convenient to 2 good car lines; fine porch with cement floor; handsome reception hall, with long plate mirror in hall closet door; living-room with massive mantel, beamed ceiling; handsome dining-room with built-in buffet; the den has large windows, built-in bookcases and seats; convenient kitchen, pass pantry, screen porch with toilet and wash trays; on the second floor are 4 large bedrooms with immense closets, commodious bath; piped for furnace; cement basement; the finish downstairs is the weathered oak style, and the floors are of the first quality of oak, both down and upstairs; the rooms upstairs are finished in white.

VERY ARTISTIC NINE-ROOM HOME.

$8000—This entirely new, modern, nine-room house is located on the high ground in the West Adams Heights district. From a veranda with cement floor that extends across the entire front you enter into a pretty reception hall; on left of hall is the living-room with handsome brick sandstone mantel; the library has paneled walls, and built-in bookcases with leaded glass doors; the dining-room has beamed ceiling, paneled walls and a very artistic built-in buffet; all these rooms have the dark finish and oak floors. The kitchen and pass pantry are very complete having bins, cabinets, hot water heater, etc. Nice bedroom, lavatory, and screen porch with two set tubs complete the first floor. On the second floor are three fine bedchambers with very large closets, sewing-room and large bathroom; all the rooms are finished in white. Cellar with furnace to heat all the rooms. If you are looking for an artistic up-to-date home let us show you this.

A HANDSOME TEN-ROOM HOME.

$9250—This beautiful ten-room home is located in one of the finest residence sections of the southwest on an east-front lot with a 55-foot frontage, and surrounded by homes of the same class. Large reception hall with beamed ceiling; handsome living-room with large fireplace; pretty library or den; large dining-room with built-in buffet. All these rooms have oak floors; kitchen, butler's pantry and servant's bedroom complete the first floor. On the second floor are five large bedchambers, with polished white maple floors; one of the bed-chambers has a very pretty mantel; nice lighting fixtures; furnace; lawn and flowers; auto barn and driveway. If you are in the market for a home of this size, it will pay you to see this.

WHY NOT OWN YOUR OWN PROPERTY? IN THIS LIST OF HOMES, WE OFFER A FEW SPLENDID PROPERTIES THAT ARE REPRESENTATIVE OF THE CLASS WE HANDLE. ASK US ABOUT THESE, AND WE WILL TELL YOU OF OTHERS. WE CAN SUIT YOU.

A PRETTY BUNGALOW.

This 6-room home has just been completed; lies in a first-class southwest neighborhood, and is fitted with every modern idea. Oak floors in three rooms, beam ceilings, brick mantel, handsome buffet, laundry tubs, gas and electricity, excellent hardware, large closets, spacious rooms, Flemish oak and white enamel finish. Price only $4000.

WEST ADAMS HEIGHTS.

Near Washington st. and Western ave., fronting east, we can offer a splendid, new, 9-room home that will please any woman. The house has handsome exterior, stone and cement veranda and cement steps; beautiful entrance; large living-room, library, large dining-room, all in Flemish oak with oak floors and handsome fixtures; pass pantry, complete kitchen; servant's bedroom, or breakfast room, as desired; basement and furnace; all built-in ideas complete; above stairs are 4 fine sleeping rooms, all with big closets; large bath, balcony, etc.; laundry trays, rear stairs, polished upper floors, etc., etc. Price only $7500.

10-ROOM CORNER.

We offer here one of the very few large homes in this city that can be bought for less money than would build it today. You will like this residence, for its appearance is extraordinarily handsome, and the entrance is beautiful. The home is almost new, never having been marred by occupancy; the rooms open nicely; the finish is Flemish oak below stairs, with hardwood floors throughout the house; built-in seats, bookcases and buffet; cream brick mantel; basement and furnace; separate rear stairs; five fine sleeping chambers; floored attic, etc., etc. Large enclosed balcony; auto barn and beautifully improved grounds; price $8250.

ON MAGNOLIA AVENUE.

Here is one of the most beautiful homes it has been our good fortune to offer. It sits in wide grounds, 70x140 feet to alley, and the locality is one of the best the city affords. The lower floor arrangement includes living-room 17x30, with pressed brick mantel and fireplace, seats, etc., dining-room, at the front, with brick mantel, buffet, paneled walls, etc., spacious reception hall, paneled and beamed in harmony with living-room and dining-room, so that it is a splendid addition to the beautiful arrangement of this home; two steps lead down to the den, in the rear of the reception hall, and this apartment is paneled, carefully appointed and has brick mantel. The floors are all oak, the lighting fixtures very fine, every appointment carried out in elegant harmony; above the ornamental stairs are four very large bedrooms, and a floored attic, large enough for two fine rooms. This property is very cheap at $10,000.

NEAR WILSHIRE BOULEVARD.

In this splendid residence of 10 rooms we confidently offer one of the most complete and artistically finished homes of this beautiful city. The location is ideal, just off the Boulevard and close to car service, in the heart of the already established home district. The appearance of this house in its charming environment will challenge your admiration and ready interest. The entrance is artistic; the large, spacious rooms open with beauty, and every appointment to meet the critical eye is placed with taste and skill. The lower floor arrangement includes living-room, library, dining-room, secluded den with outside entrance, pantries, and all domestic apartments complete, servant's room, etc. Above stairs are 4 splendid sleeping chambers, balconies, bath, etc., with opportunity for cosy second bath also; this home is, of course, finished with the beamed and paneled effects, the built-in seats, bookcases, buffet and sideboard, complete; the hardwood floors; and the richest, most perfect Flemish oak we have seen. Price is $11,500.

A WESTLAKE BARGAIN.

Here, on Westlake ave., we have just secured this remarkable home of 12 rooms at a figure that should sell it tomorrow. The arrangement of both floors is the very perfection of taste and convenience, the lower being planned with spacious ideas of entertaining and pleasure, that above for pure comfort and ease. On the lower floor the reception-room, den, living-room and dining-room, all splendid apartments, open finely together and occupy the forward two-thirds of a very large floor plan; to the rear are the rear hall, leading to side entrance, the breakfast-room, pantries, laundry and kitchen. Each one of these rooms is fitted with every idea modern invention has conceived to complete the best of homes. There are 3 mantels and fireplaces, all built-in appointments, many broad windows, etc., etc., ad libitum. There are 6 fine bedrooms, opening en suite; 2 baths; lavatories, seats, etc. Oak floors both above and below stairs. The attic is finished to billiard-room and servant's bedroom; spacious closets everywhere. The property is only 1 year old and in splendid condition. Price $12,000.

WE WANT A CHANCE, to talk with you about that new house you are going to build. We believe we are in a position to give you ENTIRE SATISFACTION.

Both as to price and quality of material and workmanship. In fact, we guarantee to do so. We are in the business of designing and constructing modern homes of any size and we carry the work from its inception to completion. We have been in this business in Los Angeles for over 10 years and in that time have designed and built many homes. We can give you plenty of references if required. Bring us your ideas of what you want in the way of a house and we will do the rest.

DON'T HESITATE.

If you haven't the cash, we will loan it to you and you can pay it back in monthly payments.

WANT A GOOD HOME
AT A SNAP?

Two elderly people own a fine home on 31st street, near Figueroa, consisting of a 10-room house and lot, 55x216 feet; also good barn. It is entirely too large and too much care for them, so we now offer it for sale for the first time, and at a SELLING PRICE too. They are not selling to make money, but because they WANT to dispose of the property. The house is exceedingly well built, large rooms, good cellar and cistern; lot well improved with fruit and flowers of all kinds. In fact this is a HOME, not strictly modern, but good as new, and very comfortable in every detail.

Come and see; the price is a whole lot less than it is worth.

FOR SALE—
KEEP OUT OF THE MUD.

Wouldn't it be a delight to go home after wading in the slop all day and find clean streets, no puddles to wade through, wouldn't it be fine, such were conditions at beautiful Miramonte Park during the storm of the past week.

Thursday when the much advertised southwest and downtown districts were almost inundated, there was no flooded streets in this tract. The greater part of this superb home tract, has been taken off the market, but I have a few choice lots, some of them choice corners, all large lots, which I can sell below their real value. But you had beter see me quick, easiest possible terms will be given. Nothing in Los Angeles county to equal this for a home or an investment. 15 minutes from 6th and Main. 5 cent car fare, 4 track line. The best and by far the cheapest.

Let me show you this property.

WESTMINSTER SQUARE.
WESTMINSTER SQUARE.

On February 1st, the price of every lot in beautiful Westminster Square will positively advance 10 per cent. The unprecedented success of this tract has forced this move. Westminster Square is finely located in the southwest part of the city at the corner of Fourth and Western ave. It has high class improvements, such as 75-foot streets, palms, and ornamental trees planted in front of every lot. Street car service will soon be a reality—car lines run through the tract. The location is high and sightly—free from fog and dust and affords a magnificent view. Two houses are almost completed—others being planned. Undoubtedly, this is the most popular and beautiful residence tract of the day and it will take but a glance to convince you THIS is the place you want to invest your money—either for big returns or for the ideal home site. Conveyances waiting at our office to take you to the property. Buy NOW—before February 1st and reap the reward of your foresight.

OAK GROVE TRACT.

OUR SIXTH AND BEST TRACT AT

EAGLE ROCK.

Has it occured to you that now, after the big rain, is the best possible time to select a lot? Some lots look best in a dry season. Come out and look at the Oak Grove Tract after a big rain. The drainage is perfect. The soil is decomposed granite, free from adobe, hence, no mud.
About one-half the tract is level. The rest on the hill slope covered with live oaks. Every lot commands a beautiful view of the mountains. The altitude is about 400 feet above the Los Angeles Courthouse. streets are now being graded and will be oiled. Abundance of pure water piped on all streets by the Eagle Rock Water Co.
Moderate building restrictions. White people only.
Size of level lots, 50x140. Prices $400 to $600. Terms, one-tenth down and $5 per month.
If desired we will plant and care for a few shade trees on each lot.

FOR SALE—
THE SAFEST INVESTMENT ON EARTH IS EARTH ITSELF.

$10 A MONTH
BUYS ½ AN ACRE.

I will sell you one-half an acre in a choice section, 20 minutes from downtown, accessible by two electric lines and only short trip from the business center, for $300. Graded and oiled streets and free water. $10 down and $10 monthly.
A SNAP—A REAL SNAP.

FOR SALE—
BUY WHERE YOU'RE SAFE.
A BIG VERMONT AVENUE LOT, $900.
Vermont avenue is safe from one end to the other. Some parts are better than others. This lot is in the best part. It is on high land, has the best view, and an east frontage; is larger, wider, deeper, has more improvements and costs less money than any other lot of similar area in that high-class vicinity. Don't wait until it is gone and then try to buy it of the purchaser. Buy it of me and make the profit yourself.

FOR SALE—
CAN'T YOU SPARE $10 MONTHLY?
$10 a month, with a small payment down, will secure you a lot in Athen Heights on Vermont avenue. There is no surer way to make money than buying these lots. The price is far below the ruling value in that vicinity. Lots are 50x169 and 100x169 to wide alleys. All improvements are of high class. Two fast electric lines. You can double your money. Price $375 and up.

FOR SALE—
$600 FARMS.
I am selling a few acres for $600 each in the finest section of the southwest. You have the benefit of two electric lines and improved streets and water. I am making terms so pleasingly low that you cannot afford to ignore this chance to secure a nice little home of your own or a safe and paying investment. Remember, that an acre is as good as 5 ordinary lots and in a very short time you can cut it up into small lots and make a handsome profit.

FOR SALE—
LISTEN A MINUTE.
We're going to tell you now of some conditions that exist, which we believe are sure to bring about a large increase in value in all lots in our SOUTH HOLLYWOOD TRACT NO. 1.
The first thing is the large size of lots, 50x136, some few larger and then all cement walks, curbs, oiled streets, water pipes, electricity, telephones and car service, are now there.
Again, there are now upward of a dozen cosy homes worth $1500 to $3000 (aside from the lot,) which assure you neighbors and not having to live in an undeveloped place and with stores, schools and churches near by.
Colegrove car line now passes property and the new cut-off connecting with will bring you to city in 12 minutes.
Low prices now and easy terms.
$500 AND UP,
$20 DOWN. $10 PER MONTH.
If you really want to buy something good, see me and arrange to go out and pick out a lot, for we haven't many left. Forenoons preferred.
WARREN F. McGRATH, Tract Manager for STRONG & DICKINSON, N.W. corner 2nd and Broadway.

FOR SALE—
THE FIGUEROA SECTION IS A MONEY-MAKER.
When you buy there you get property always in demand. I have a few 50-foot lots in the Figueroa Boulevard tract at $525 that are worth 50 per cent. more this moment. The prices should advance now, but having sold over 350 lots I dislike to advance the price for the few that remain. I will therefore continue to sell them for $525 and up, while they last. $50 down and $10 a month. They are at Florence avenue in the new city limits, are highly improved, have three car lines and a 5-cent fare. Come in now and make a little money yourself.

OAK GROVE TRACT.

OUR SIXTH AND BEST TRACT AT

EAGLE ROCK.

Has it occured to you that now, after the big rain, is the best possible time to select a lot? Some lots look best in a dry season. Come out and look at the Oak Grove Tract after a big rain. The drainage is perfect. The soil is decomposed granite, free from adobe, hence, no mud.

About one-half the tract is level. The rest on the hill slope covered with live oaks. Every lot commands a beautiful view of the mountains. The altitude is about 400 feet above the Los Angeles Courthouse. Streets are now being graded and will be oiled. Abundance of pure water piped on all streets by the Eagle Rock Water Co.

Moderate building restrictions. White people only.

Size of level lots, 50x140. Prices $400 to $600. Terms, one-tenth down and $5 per month. If desired we will plant and care for a few shade trees on each lot.

LISTEN A MINUTE.

We're going to tell you now of some conditions that exist, which we believe are sure to bring about a large increase in value in all lots in our SOUTH HOLLYWOOD TRACT NO. 1.

The first thing is the large size of lots, 50x136, some few larger and then all cement walks, curbs, oiled streets, water pipes, electricity, telephones and car service, are now there.

Again, there are now upward of a dozen cosy homes worth $1500 to $3000 (aside from the lot,) which assure you neighbors and not having to live in an undeveloped place and—with stores, schools and churches near by.

Colegrove car line now passes property and the new cut-off connecting with HARRIMAN SUBWAY will bring you to city in 12 minutes. Low prices now and easy terms.

$500 AND UP.

$20 DOWN, $10 PER MONTH.

If you really want to buy something good, see me and arrange to go out and pick out a lot, for we haven't many left. Forenoons preferred.

FOR SALE—

THE FIGUEROA SECTION IS A MONEY-MAKER.

When you buy there you get property always in demand. I have a few 50-foot lots in the Figueroa Boulevard tract at $525 that are worth 50 per cent. more this moment. The prices should advance now, but having sold over 350 lots I dislike to advance the price for the few that remain. I will therefore continue to sell them for $525 and up, while they last. $50 down and $10 a month. They are at Florence avenue in the new city limits, are highly improved, have three car lines and a 5-cent fare. Come in now and make a little money yourself.

EAST SEVENTH STREET.

OUR FIRST AND BEST CROSS-TOWN BUSINESS STREET.

NEW CAR LINE NOW BUILDING FROM MAIN STREET, EAST ON SEVENTH, AND WHEN FINISHED WILL SURELY ENHANCE THE PRESENT VALUES, AT LEAST, 50 PER CENT. WITHIN NINETY DAYS.

BEST BUY ON THE STREET.

PRICE $65,000.

INCOME AT PRESENT ABOUT $300 PER MONTH.

CLOSE TO MAIN STREET, BUT ONLY ABOUT HALF THE PRICE.

COMPARE THIS WITH THE PRICES ON WEST SEVENTH STREET, AND YOU WILL CERTAINLY WONDER WHY?

LOOK FROM END TO END AND YOU WILL NOT FIND ANOTHER BUY ON 7TH ST. THAT EQUALS THIS FOR LOCATION, PRICE AND TERMS.

REMEMBER THE NEW CAR LINE, PAVING AND OTHER IMPROVEMENTS NOW UNDER WAY.

WELL WORTH INVESTIGATING.

ONE OF THE FINEST APARTMENTS TO BE FOUND IN THE CITY.

GRAND AVE. BETWEEN 8TH AND 9TH STS.

EARNING CAPACITY IS NOW $18,000 PER YEAR.

PRICE $185,000.

THE BUILDING COST OVER $110,000 AND COULD NOT BE DUPLICATED TODAY FOR THE SAME MONEY.

LARGE 80x165 LOT.

WHEN GRAND AVE. IS PAVED, IT WILL BE ONE OF THE BEST BUSINESS STREETS WEST OF HILL STREET.

10 PER CENT. INTEREST ON HIGH CLASS PROPERTY LIKE THIS IS SELDOM TO BE FOUND. NOT TO SAY ANYTHING ABOUT THE INCREASE IN LAND VALUE WHICH IS INEVITABLE WITH THE IMPROVEMENTS NOW PROJECTED FOR GRAND AVE.

DOESN'T IT LOOK GOOD?

WELL, IT IS, EXCEPTIONALLY GOOD, IN FACT, IT IS TOO GOOD TO KEEP VERY LONG.

GOOD, CONSERVATIVE, SAFE.

A BROADWAY CORNER

NORTH OF 10TH STREET,

SOMETHING THAT IS VERY SCARCE AND BECOMING SCARCER EVERY DAY.

NEAR THE LARGEST DEPARTMENT STORE WEST OF CHICAGO AND WHERE MILLIONS OF DOLLARS WORTH OF IMPROVEMENTS WILL BE MADE WITHIN NEXT FEW YEARS.

JUST THINK OF A BROADWAY CORNER SOUTH OF SEVENTH STREET

FOR LESS THAN $3000 PER FOOT.

BROADWAY WILL ALWAYS BE OUR BEST RETAIL AND SHOPPING STREET AND WILL BE THE HIGHEST RENTAL PROPERTY OF ANY STREET.

THE PRESENT INCOME IS NEARLY $400 PER MONTH AND WILL BE $500 OR $600 WITHIN 12 MONTHS.

NOTHING ELSE TO BE HAD FOR LESS THAN $300 PER FOOT BUT OUR OPTION PERMITS US TO SELL IT FOR $2750 PER FOOT.

CAN YOU BEAT IT?

THIS IS THE PLACE WHERE OUR CONSERVATIVE BUSINESS MEN ARE INVESTING, BECAUSE THEY REALIZE THERE IS ONLY ONE BROADWAY

AND ITS PERMANANCY FOR THE FUTURE IS ALREADY WELL ESTABLISHED.

LESS THAN $60,000 CASH,

BALANCE THREE YEARS.

WE CAN POSITIVELY DELIVER THIS AT THE PRICE QUOTED, IF TAKEN BEFORE OUR OPTION EXPIRES.

DON'T FORGET THE PRICE.

ONLY $2750 PER FOOT.

GREAT OPPORTUNITIES.

QUICK PROFITS.

EAST SEVENTH STREET.

TWO (2) NEW CAR LINES BEING CONSTRUCTED.

WORK IS BOOMING ON THE TWO NEW DOUBLE-TRACK EAST SEVENTH-STREET LINES, COMMENCING AT BROADWAY AND SEVENTH STREET AND EXTENDING EASTWARD FOR A DISTANCE OF FOUR MILES. GO AND SEE FOR YOURSELF.

AS EVERY ONE KNOWS, SEVENTH ST. PROPERTY BETWEEN MAIN AND FIGUEROA STS. HAS REACHED A PRICE, IN SOME INSTANCES, OF $4000 PER FRONT FOOT AND STILL ADVANCING. EAST SEVENTH ST. HAS BEEN GREATLY RETARDED IN ITS GROWTH, PROSPERITY AND VALUE BY REASON OF INACCESSIBILITY—NO STREET CAR LINES; YET IT SHOULD AND WOULD HAVE BEEN BUT FOR FRICTION IN THE COUNCIL THE FIRST STREET TO HAVE RECEIVED THESE IMPROVEMENTS ON ACCOUNT OF ITS LOCATION AND ITS RELATIONSHIP TO THE HEART OF BUSINESS LOS ANGELES.

NOW THE PACIFIC ELECTRIC RAILWAY CO. AND THE LOS ANGELES RAILWAY CO. ARE CONSTRUCTING AND WILL SPEED TO A QUICK COMPLETION, TWO LINES THAT WILL BECOME THE MOST POPULAR AND BEST PATRONIZED ELECTRIC LINES IN THE CITY; AND THE ADVANTAGE TO SEVENTH ST. CAN HARDLY BE CONCEIVED AT THIS TIME. IT WILL RESULT IN LARGE NUMBERS OF VALUABLE IMPROVEMENTS BEING MADE ON THIS STREET IMMEDIATELY, AND WILL QUADRUPLE THE PEDESTRIAN TRAFFIC AS WELL.

ANYTHING ON EAST SEVENTH ST. BETWEEN THE LOS ANGELES RIVER AND MAIN STREET WILL DOUBLE IN VALUE IN 1907. THIS RAILWAY IS THE ONE THING THIS WIDE THOROUGHFARE HAS BEEN WAITING FOR, AND HAD TO HAVE BEFORE IT COULD HOPE TO COMPETE WITH VALUES ON WEST SEVENTH ST., OR EVEN EAST FIFTH ST. EAST SEVENTH ST. EXTENDS THROUGH THE VERY CENTER OF BUSINESS LOS ANGELES, RUNNING, ONE MIGHT SAY, FROM SANTA MONICA TO WHITTIER. PROPERTY AT THE PRESENT PRICES (AND CORNERS CAN BE OBTAINED FOR $600 PER FRONT FOOT, WEST OF CENTRAL AVE.) WILL PAY 15 PER CENT. NET, WITH COST OF IMPROVEMENTS ADDED. BUT NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY.

IT IS FOOLISH TO SAY "UNLESS YOU BUY TODAY PROPERTY VALUES WILL ADVANCE TOMORROW." THEY DO THAT ANYWAY IN LOS ANGELES. IT IS EQUALLY ASININE FOR ONE AGENCY TO SAY "IT HAS ALL THE BARGAINS." WE HAVE ONE OR TWO; YOU SIMPLY "BUY NOW" OF ANY OWNER OR AGENT ON EAST SEVENTH STREET AND REAP A QUICK REWARD.

Corners of this kind are seldom offered for sale. Make a search of the entire city and you won't find half a dozen. Only force of circumstances will compel a man to let go such a sure money-maker. Money grows on this class of property and the wise investor knows it. The corner of Main and Washington (a trifle larger) sold for $112,500 three months ago. THE SOUTHWEST CORNER OF WASHINGTON AND SAN PEDRO is by far the BEST CORNER on SAN PEDRO from NINTH to JEFFERSON. It is a natural business center and is worth just double any other corner. FOR SALE—
A fine large income property on E. 29th st., within 10 feet of the corner of San Pedro st. (now being paved, which means the property will rapidly increase in value). It's practically as good as a corner. The lot is 132x175 feet, improved with one 16-room and one 8-room modern flat buildings, one large 6-room modern cottage, a barn and large shed. Income is over $100 per month, at a low rental. The two blocks on San Pedro street, between 28th and 30th sts., are practically all built up with business houses, all lines of business being represented, and four more business houses are now under contruction. A corner opposite this property, improved, is held at $45,000. Having this property tied up on an option, I am able to deliver it at $12,500. Terms.
Come in and look it over if you want a sure investment.

MR. INVESTOR—
I want to talk a little "apartment house site" to you, show you what I've got up my sleeve, and which I know will interest you. I hold an option on a lot 60x155, located on Olive, between Second and Third, east front, which on account of peculiar conditions surrounding owner, make it desirable that he sell at once. The price is $27,000, which is $100 per foot less than owner of first property north will consider, and at least $50 less than adjoining property on the south. Judging from above facts, does $450 per front foot seem inconsistent. I leave that for you to judge. Furthermore, if you have a little speculative blood in your veins, I will guarantee, should you buy, to resell this property at a profit of $3000 in 60 days. I am at your service. SIXTH AND FLOWER.
SIXTH AND FLOWER.

This magnificent corner is one of the very few good ones to be had and especially at such a bargain price.

NOW CONSIDER IT.

It is one block south of where the new Harriman subway crosses Flower st., on grade; this is important as it is the first point for delivery of passengers coming in from the great western residence districts, traffic brings business; all the electric car systems in the city having lines passing this corner within one block of it, and it is absurdly cheap; just half the price per foot of the same corner on 7th st. You can triple your money.

SPRING AND FOURTH!!!

60x159 FT. TO 20-FT. PAVED ALLEY.

OR

20x159 FT. TO THE ALLEY.

This 20-foot lot would only cost you $130,000.

Some of you merchants who are "doing nothing but working for the landlord," buy this lot and work for yourself.

You know we Spring st. fellows don't do a thing but sit up nights marking up rents on our property.

There are stores down there now renting for $400 that only rented for $75 6 years ago.

Buy this, and you can mark down your own rents until they suit you.

In 5 years you can add 20 times $2500 per foot, or $50,000, to the profits of your regular business, making this lot worth $180,000, and if your business is any good you ought to be able to sell it out to some other fellow and then do the "marking up act" yourself for the balance of your worthless life.

The lot is the 1-story brick adjoining on the north the 40-foot yellow 3-story frame "Kosher Restaurant," 416½ S. Spring st. Your number would be 414 Spring st. Take a squint at it and if it looks good to you see me Monday.

I'll sell it, ½ cash, balance in 20 minutes. This means I want the simoleons "muy pronto." I'll say, however, that if you have the ½ cash, I can get a loan of $65,000 for you at 5 per cent. net.

BOAZ DUNCAN,
447 Wilcox Bldg.

N.B.—If you want 1280 acres at Rialto, prettiest level land you ever saw, Santa Fe through it, oiled road to San Bernardino through it, electric car soon to go through it, Salt Lake surveying stakes through 160 acres of it, connecting with Santa Fe, and, as a whole, a most promising place for fine orange grove homes, I say if you want something like this, come and see me; the price is $100 per acre, and $10,000 for a water proposition of 630 acres, with a dam, pipe line and gold mine on it. Joking? Not a bit of it! Come and see the gold itself at my office!

But I'm right here to tell you you can't have ALL that is advertised above; the sale of EITHER takes the OTHER off the market. I've got nothing that's bad—except a debt or two, and I'll give you your money's worth if you'll come and help me ditch the debt.

If you doubt, come and see. I'm going up to the 1280 acres Tuesday or Wednesday and if you'll go we'll see also a beautiful 20-acre navel orange grove with nice home, large barns, water piped, complete home, and I'll sell it to you for $18,000, ½ cash and balance out of the crops. And, if you want a grove, and that one didn't suit you, I'll turn you over to that brother of mine at San Bernardino, 507 THIRD ST., and if he don't give you a "Rialto orange grove" spiel that will curl your hair, then you can just come back and paste "To Let" on my office door and I'll back off the face of the earth! Say, you ought to hear him talk. "RIALTO!" It's the limit!

But if you'll go up and let him "show you," I'll bet he'll separate you from your money and annex you to some Rialto strip, before you get out of town.

I'm a Dutchman if he didn't come down here and sell me 4 pieces last week before breakfast, and it wasn't my fault either. I wasn't looking for any more debts, but I got 'em just the same; good and proper and swift. If we go up there I'll show 'em to you, and the funny part is, that he doped me till I'm still tickled to death over 'em, and, HONESTLY, "they're not for sale!" The things I AM offering to sell would cut some figure on my debts and "that's the milk in the cocoanut" or the juice in the orange.

So, if you want to do business on the Spring st., the 1280 acres, or the orange grove, see me Monday. B. D. 13

$45,000 ONLY $45,000

This is without exception one of the most beautiful sites for a high-class family hotel or apartment-house in the city for the price. Admirably located on high ground, presents a superb view and is close to business center. The lot fronts on three prominent streets—137 ft. on Orange st., 104 ft. on Kip st., and 125 ft. on Ingraham st. Nominal improvements bring in a monthly rental of $120. It located only one block from such high-class, handsome buildings at Hotel Hinman and Hotel Westmore. Nothing is lacking to make this absolutely the best buy of the day for a hotel or apartment site. Let us show it to you tomorrow morning.

JEFFERSON STREET.

The movement of property on this street still goes on in that best section between Main and Wesley ave.; two nice properties having been purchased there in the past ten days, with the completion of the great Shriners' Auditorium and the paving there will be a sharp advance in prices. Those who get in now will make a nice profit.

Having handled a great deal of property on the street, we know that we are in position to offer you two of the cheapest buys between Grand ave. and Wesley. They are both big lots, one is 50x180, the other 60x282. Come in and talk it over.

SUBDIVISION SYNDICATE.

The subdivision of choice, close-in acreage is one of the safest and most profitable forms of real estate investment. The Edwards & Winters Co. is now closing what will probably be their last Eagle Rock syndicate. This for the reason that the choice acreage at Eagle Rock is either all sold or held at so high a price that it is unavailable. We offer to the right people, $6000 in this syndicate. It can be purchased in units of $1500 and will pay a profit of over 100 per cent.

302 FROST BLDG.
ALFALFA LAND.
WALNUT LAND.
2000 ACRES.
2000 ACRES.

This is the fifth and the last subdivision of Lucky Baldwin's La Puente Rancho.

Here is your opportunity to secure lots of 5, 10, 20 acres each, for a home or for an investment. You can double your money in a short time.

The soil is a deep sediment loam, absolutely free from any objectionable features, and is particularly adapted to ALFALFA, WALNUTS, VEGETABLES, FRUIT.

The water supply is the greatest in Los Angeles county, being from the La Puente Water Company, having capacity of 1000 miner's inches. Furthermore, the land is water bearing, and you may develop water for irrigation at moderate cost. If you have been traveling over the country hunting for something that you could not find, come and see us, and your troubles will end.

This tract is convenient to three depots, on Southern Pacific, and within easy distance of the Los Angeles-Covina Electric R.R., and only 40 minutes' ride from Los Angeles. We have sold $1,000,000 worth of this property during past year.

5, 10, 20-ACRE LOTS.
$175 TO $250 PER ACRE.
Just think of it, only one-fourth cash, balance in 3 years.

An Acre Secures a Splendid

FARM

Near Tulare City.

The famous Paige-Mitchell ranch is proving itself the most fertile of all the good ranches in Tulare county and has a most abundant supply of water. This land will produce from $70 to $150 a year per acre and must not be confounded with cheap land.

The first payment of less than $20 an acre is all the cash you will have to pay out the first year. Your profits will probably pay for the land in 3 years and give you a good living besides.

If you want land, buy the best. It is the cheapest in the end.

[illegible]

THE CHEAPEST HIGH-GRADE BUILDING SITES IN SOUTH PASADENA.

This space is taken in order to extend you an invitation to visit the new subdivision we are now placing on the market. We will furnish tickets for the round trip and show you that it's just what we say it is.

In one of the prettiest parts of the Oak Knoll district, 20 minutes ride via the Pasadena Short Line, and where lots have been considered cheap at $1500 and up, we are showing the STRATFORD TRACT.

Lots average 50x157 feet, streets with oiled roadway, cement curbs and sidewalks, and 70 and 80 feet wide.

Soil is the finest, and Marengo Water Company's pure water piped to each lot with gas and electricity to be had.

Building restrictions guaranteeing an exclusive as well as a modern vicinity.

You'll never regret it if you come and take your pick of them right now, as they are in a district which is becoming more valuable each day.

We don't say that you'll have to buy them because we show them, but we do say that with reasonable business ability you will see the value in them and invest forthwith.

We can give terms as low as one-third down, balance to suit, and are making extra inducements to those who build first.

Get our descriptive folder, ask us any time and you will be shown.

ALHAMBRA.

FOR SALE—
ALHAMBRA.
WATCH IT IN 1907.

No adobe or clay mire to make life unpleasant after a rain, but only dry, hard roads and well-drained lots with a soil of sandy loam, rich, mellow and well drained. Just what you want for that home of yours.

Here are some newly-built bargains—

$1700. New house with modern improvements, 2 blocks from car line.

$1900. Cozy house located less than 2 blocks from car line on a street now being improved. This is a good purchase.

$2200 for new 5-room bungalow with all modern conveniences including instantaneous heater, mantel, gas and electric lights; lot set out to orange trees and ornamental shrubbery. Cozy home place.

$2500 for a quick sale. New 5-room bungalow with all modern improvements. This is a bargain and just completed; beautiful location.

$1700. 4-room house near car line, surrounded by homes.

$3500. New 6-room house with all modern improvements, just completed, on beautiful Curtis ave. This is a fine residence place.

$3750. One of the best of fine new homes on First st., which is one of our finest streets. Party finds it necessary for his business to change his location, which is the only reason that this fine home is on the market. This is close to the car line and will prove very attractive.

BARGAINS IN LOTS.

Nowhere in the county can values be secured in lots, on streets completely improved, such as we can give you in Alhambra.

On Curtis ave., at $800 and $900, we have home sites. These are in the Valencia Terrace Subdivision and all lots carry building restrictions. The development of the tract by building fine homes has been very marked, and as these lots are all within 500 feet of the car line, set to orange trees, the price is a bargain.

On Marguerita ave., from 250 to 500 feet of the car line, we can sell you a choice lot with all street work finished, for from $550 to $700. These are going very rapidly, because they are very attractive to buyers.

When we say street improvements we mean 5-foot sidewalk, heavy curb and 3-foot gutter, with thoroughly graded and, in most cases, oiled streets. All work done under the supervision of the city inspector and thoroughly high class. This makes it impossible for the ordinary cheap subdivision work to be put out in Alhambra, which is a good thing for the city and for the purchaser.

On S. Fourth st., near the High School and car line, we have a special bargain at $800, 50x150 lot; beautiful view of the mountains from this lot. It will not remain open for purchase long.

A little further south on Fourth street, lots at $450 to $550, which also have a fine view of the mountains and are well located near the High School.

Acre homes. We are enabled to offer special opportunities in acre homes in the beautiful Alhambra Acres Tract. We want you to see the Palm Drive section of this tract, than which there is none finer in the county, and we can sell you lots from one-half acres to acres and a half, at prices way under the ordinary values of 50x150 lots, with the street work all done and in a section where building restrictions will make one of the finest residence portions of Alhambra.

Come out today or this week and let us show you the beauties of Alhambra.

FOR SALE—FINE BEARING ORANGE grove, of ten acres. Address owner, G. A. HORN, Pomona, Cal., box 43.

FOR SALE—
Lemon and Orange Groves.

FOR SALE—
Lovely home, as well as large income producing orange grove; ideal location near the foothills, in famous La Verne district; just read and consider carefully what we are now going to offer you for your money; remember too, that the last three orange groves we recently advertised in this paper as good buys, one at $30,000, another at $28,000, and still another at $20,000, we immediately sold; the one we now have to offer we are sure of selling; we have no money to throw away advertising fake orange groves; we also pride ourselves in being competent to place values on this class of property; have been in the harness for over 28 years, growing oranges in Los Angeles county, and can further say we like the business for the pleasure and profits we find in it.

The property we now wish investigated consists of the following,

50 ACRES.

10 acres Washington navel oranges, trees 18 years old.

4 acres Washington navel oranges, trees 10 years old.

6 acres Washington navel oranges, trees 7 years old.

2 acres Washington navel oranges, trees 2 and 3 years old.

Making a total of 22 acres in Washington navel oranges; trees now in prime condition, having at all times had best of care; the returns from these trees for the past five years, which includes the low prices received three years ago, which was the lowest priced year out of 12 or 14 years, even then these trees have added to the owner's bank account for the five years $22,500, or $4500 per year; just glance over the age of these trees and satisfy yourself with us that the output from this grove will about double for the next five years; crop now on is estimated at from $5000 to $6000, and goes with place. Balance of land consists of 1½ acres eucalyptus trees, trees 30 feet high; wood to burn; ½ acre in assorted fruit trees for family fruit; 28 acres vacant land, most of which is A1 orange or lemon land; and with water, of which there is ample, is worth from $300 to $400 per acre.

OTHER IMPROVEMENTS.

Modern 7-room cottage, with nice yard and flowers; large barn for hay, stock and implements; one well and pumping plant, which furnishes 30 inches of water; one-fourth interest in another water plant which affords 22 inches water, reservoir for storing water, thoroughly equipped with cement pipe lines and turnouts; water under pressure for domestic use. Reasons for selling we can explain. Price $33,500; easy terms. Agents.

LUCK OR PLUCK.

Our Trader's element of luck
Is the "wizard's" genuine old Scotch pluck.
He sticks to his aim with a bulldog's grip;
But the mongrel's hold will always slip,
Whilst only crowbars loose the "wizard's" grip.
Mild though he looks, his will that never yields
Drags the bellowing mongrels from his fields.

THE SIGN WRITER.

Come in and see this marvelous man, the "Wizard," the best trader in the United States; or send in the lists of your property quickly. It means profits to you.

30,000—We want a first-class ranch with 1000 to 2500 feet altitude, alfalfa, walnuts or stock ranch preferred. Will go as high as $30,000. Will pay half cash, balance in listed Nevada mining stocks at market prices. Come quick if you want this.

10,001—A fine stone and brick apartment house, excellently located, in Chicago; worth $20,000, cost more. Always rented, encumbrance $5000; want to exchange this equity into Los Angeles or country property.

10,002—Unencumbered property that will bear investigation, in a hustling bustling town in Wyoming. Value established by bank in the same town. To exchange for Southern California.

142—On W. Temple st., a 6-room cement plastered cottage, chicken house, good condition, leases for $20 a month; value $4000, encumbrance $1000; will exchange the equity for a vacant or Boyle Heights property.

1112—W. Jefferson st., 8-room house, not modern, but in good condition, value $10,000; also 10 acres 1 mile east of Covina, in navel oranges 7 years old, no buildings, plenty of water, first-class condition, value $5500 with crop, and very cheap; will exchange one or both for city income property.

1289—Four new 7-room modern houses with baths, two on Pasadena ave. and the other two directly back on Griffin ave., between Ave. 22 and 23. FOR EXCHANGE—

Clear RESIDENCE and BUSINESS Lots. For equities in well located lots or cottages here or at the beaches, might also consider clear eastern.

These lots are located in SEARCHLIGHT, Nev., adjacent to the new Santa Fe Depot, and in direct line with the city's most rapid growth; values here will double in 60 days, and if the history of Goldfield and Tonopah repeats itself a small investment now will make you independent.

These lots are selling through this office for $100 and up, and to parties interested who are short of cash and have property this EXCHANGE should appeal most vividly, as an opportunity of this kind does not occur very often. The mining stock given as a premium with the lots makes the investment doubly safe.

Come in and let us explain the proposition; we are in a position to make you some big money.

FOR SALE—
GIGANTIC STOCK TAKING SALE.

Owing to the heavy rains of late, we have received numerous requests from our customers asking if our BIG SALE of FURNITURE is good for this week. We say YES. By all means come in, as not only are we going to make

TWO WEEKS OF BUSINESS IN ONE.

But have had an opportunity of going over our immense stock of furniture and shall place on the market thousands of bargains which have been put on the floor at prices that look

LIKE TAKING CANDY FROM THE BABY.

We have received from the great eastern factories a large line of furniture, which should have reached us before Christmas; we could sell it at regular prices, but our instructions are to SELL IT AT ONCE.

Which means that you can buy NEW furniture at practically

WHOLESALE PRICES.

These goods include bedroom sets, odd dressers, commodes, chiffoniers, sideboards, extension tables, buffets, wardrobes, combination bookcases, china closets, folding beds, iron beds, desks, rockers, chairs, rugs, etc.; We shall positively not sell these goods to dealers, but shall give the public the benefit of these extraordinary opportunities to obtain furniture at such a low price.

CASH OR EASY PAYMENTS.

C-o-l-y-e-a-r-s have enjoyed such a world-wide reputation for square dealing during the past years that our business has grown rapidly, which has enforced us to employ not only extra salesmen, but more teams, which insures to our city customers

PROMPT FREE DELIVERY.

All goods packed and delivered free of charge to depot for our out-of-town trade.

Invalid chairs for rent.

Our city buyer purchased the entire contents of two completely furnished residences on Figueroa st., another 9-room house on W. 11th st., and one in Pasadena; also several other lots of goods, including a restaurant outfit and 3 offices, all of which go on sale Monday at ½ original cost.

Anyway, there they were, and lots of people dined as their ancestors were in the habit of doing—by candle light.

In the restaurants water bottles and beer bottles were utilized as candlesticks; pill boxes made good ones in the drug stores, while in many other stores there was a variety of objects, which first came to hand, utilized to keep the old-fashioned light right side up.

But it was a sad proposition while it lasted.

GRIZZLY BEAR WHIST CLUB.

The Grizzly Bear Whist Club, named in compliment of the Grizzly Bear Magazine, recently established by the Native Sons of the Golden West in this city, was formed by the members of La Esperanza Parlor, No. 24, Native Daughters of the Golden West, at the home of Mrs. Emma Phillips in Long Beach. Miss Fannie Dreyfus was elected president, and Mrs. C. M. Giffin, treasurer. Miss Celia Katze was awarded first prize, and Miss Julia Wartenburg secured the one for consolation.

Mrs. Phillips banqueted the club with California hospitality, and the first meeting of the Grizzly Bears was replete with enthusiasm and cheer.

BEAUTIFUL PALMS

"Overlooking City and the S

But a few years ago distance determined the size and character of suburban communities. Few could afford to li more than five miles from business. Five miles meant an hour's ride each way. There has been a great chan The coming and improvement of the electric railway has revolutionized suburban life and suburban travel.

Time, not distance, controls the situation. The man who lives ten, fiteen, twenty or even twenty-five miles from business, can reach home at night and return more quickly in the morning than the citizen who, a few years ago, lived five miles away.

Time governs the situation. Rapid transportation is the key to it.

In every case where rapid transit has broadened the scope and area of suburban living, such districts have made fortunes for those shrewd and far-seeing enough to discount the future and let their money follow their judgment.

The bigger the city the bigger the example.

The new subway in New York has increased the value of outlying property several hundred per cent. in two or three years. It is a common saying that it takes as much to buy one lot now as it did to buy an acre before rapid transit came. It is easy to cite specific cases.

Three years ago a New Yorker now living in Los Angeles sold four lots in Simpson street, near 149th street, in the Bronx, for $5000. The same lots are worth $15,000 today. Rapid transit did it.

Land at the junction of 149th street and Southern Boulevard, in the same district, which sold for $3000 an acre three years ago is now worth $3000 a lot. Lots there are 25x100 feet, twelve lots to the acre.

Ten acres at 166th and Clay streets, in the Bronx, was sold in 1890 for $1500 an acre. Three years ago some of it was worth $100 a front foot, and as much was paid for two or three acres as for the whole ten acres in 1890. The same property is now worth from $125 to $150 a front foot.

The Harriman millions are to be expended in the improvement of the great Los Angeles-P electric railway system, whose netway embraces the beautiful and fertile country between Los Angeles and the west coast of the Pacific.

WATER PLANT IS IN SIGHT.

PHOENIX CITY COUNCIL HAS AGREED ON TERMS.

Details of the Transfer Are Arranged With Representatives of Gen. M. H. Sherman, Conditional on Permission of Congress for the Use of Bonds for That Purpose.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Jan. 11.—At last the way has been made clear for the acquisition by the city of its own water supply plant. The City Council and representatives of Gen. M. H. Sherman have agreed upon all points of the transfer and now nothing remains to be done save to secure from Congress an act permitting the city to purchase the water supply system with $150,000 of the $300,000 voted in bonds.

This was permitted by Congress in the sale of the Tucson water system, and it is, therefore, believed that by March 1 a full transfer of the works will have been effected. The city will pay Gen. Sherman $90,000 in cash, the balance of $60,000 being represented by the city's assumption of liability for bonds outstanding. It is probable that for several years the present waterworks will be maintained, though the old wrought iron pipe will be taken up and heavy cast pipe put in, as well as new service lines laid through the business part of the city and into the additions. As soon as the old pipe is replaced it will be possible to put fire pressure upon the mains.

RAILROAD'S NEW REACH.

Two hundred teams are being worked on the Arizona and California Railroad, on the last twelve miles of grade westward to the Colorado River. On the Colorado at Parker an engineering party is busy in an attempt to find the best site for a bridge crossing. Within a week a shipment of rails is expected at Vicksburg, the present terminus of the line, and it will be a matter of only a few weeks until the road reaches the river. The Santa Fé is still looking for a better route through Arizona, an engineering party lately having completed the running of a feasible line from Skull Valley to Parker.

A Southern Pacific survey party has finished the location work for the new Southern Pacific line between Phoenix and Yuma, and today commences work at Florence to complete the location of the Arizona and Eastern Railroad of the Southern Pacific line up the Gila.

Substantial progress is being made by the Southern Pacific toward the completion of its new bridge across the Gila River at Tempe. A force of 125 men already has placed seven piers and the grade approaches are practically complete. The new bridge is urgently needed.

PROBLEM OF INDIGENTS.

Miss C. G. Gilchrist, manager of the Associated Charities of Phoenix, has written to Jacob Hils, the noted economic student, concerning the dumping into the Southwest of the indigent sick of the East. The letter has been published by Mr. Riis in one of the eastern philanthropic papers, and has received much editorial comment, commending the stand taken by Miss Gilchrist.

In her article it told that the single county of Mariposa, Ariz., spends nearly $12,000 per annum for the relief of indigents. Many consumptives arriving here walk directly to the county offices, seeking admission to the County Hospital, having arrived utterly without funds. Cases were instanced where scores of people have come hoping for light employment, which cannot be secured and possibly would be injurious if it were to be had.

The avenues of employment open to consumptives are crowded, though laborers and competent artisans are always in demand at high wages. The situation is getting worse instead of better, and it is asked whether there can be no method whereby eastern communities may be compelled to support all citizens sent westward to become a burden upon the communities wherein they land

VAN LOOMS UP IN THE FOGGY.

Intercepted Wireless from "Special Commissioner."

Still in Hot Pursuit of the Pirate, "Rover."

Uncle Heine Sends Van an Affecting Damsellgram.

Yesterday afternoon the phonograph receiver in The Times showed signs of agitation and emitted strange sounds, and when the office boy set it in motion it recorded a stray wireless message that seemed to have come from somewhere out at sea. It evidently related to the Examiner's fake "rescue expedition" in charge of Commodore Van Loan, which started out to find Dora Bennis. Dora found herself, while Van Loan is still lost. The message appeared to be addressed to one "Uncle Heine," and was as follows:

"Think we are in latitude 23 north. Hit something last night and had to get out and push the ship over. Skipper said it was the 23d parallel. Sighted pirate Rover at 9 bells in dog watch, and gave chase. I loomed in the fog and encouraged the men with my voice. Voice badly worn and men clamor for other encouragement. Other encouragement about gone; only one bottle left. Still able to loom. Pirate craft bearing beautiful maiden showed us her heels. Crew blushed at sight. She has pink stockings on. Determined to overhaul pink stockings or perish. Sent three commissioners down to basement to put more coal in furnace. Overtook pirate at eleven bells, and in stentorian tones ordered him to heave two. Villainous-looking desperado climbed upon roof of pirate craft and heaved two lumps of coal at us. Swore abominably. Beautiful maiden appeared at first-story window and made despairing gestures. Placed thumb to nose and wiggled fingers pathetically. Commissioners wise to wig-wag code interpret gesture as signal of distress. Think it was beautiful maiden, but not sure. Don't know for certain that there is maiden on pirate ship. Better get certificate from Dr Hagan, and wire it to us. Ordered pirate to stop. Told him he was violating speed ordinance and threatened to give him roast in my column. Pirate told us to go to hell. Skipper looked at map, took observation and reported ship on that course. Ordered one of commissioners to heave the lead. Commissioner said hadn't swallowed any lead and couldn't obey order. Threw up his job instead. Was about to board pirate and rescue kidnaped maiden, when ship suddenly stopped. Feared it was puncture, but skipper went down cellar to see about it and found that we had unshipped keelson and blown out topping lift. No blacksmith shop in sight and can't make repairs. Other ship gone away and left us bogged down in boundless ocean. Skipper says wasn't the kidnaper, anyway; swears it was tugboat from San Diego going out to tow Pacific squadron out of our way. Where is Pacific squadron? Where is pirate Rover? Where is distressed damsel? Isn't whole thing a distressing dam sell? Where am I at, and where shall I go? Answer deadhead.

"SPECIAL COMMISSIONER VAN LOOM IN THE FOG."

Ten minutes later the phonograph receiver again had symptoms of wireless agitation, and this message was recorded:

"To Commissioner on Board Derelict Orient, Pacinc Ocean: Distressed party returned already yet. Beautiful maiden proves to be typographical error. Not beautiful and certificate not as represented by Doc Hagan. Offer of rescue turned down in terms used by Cambronne at Waterloo. Don't know where you are. Can go to blazes if you can find the way. Better stay there until Willie cools off. Insulting messages from Tom Williams deluging the office. Personal interview apprehended. Novelist gone bughouse. Stung! HEINE."

GLENDORA GOAL, TROLLEY RUSH.

DAY AND NIGHT SHIFTS FOR BUILDING ROAD.

Camp of Workers Established at Azusa and They Will Proceed Westerly to the San Gabriel River and Easterly to Glendora—Crowding Construction of Bridge.

GLENDORA, Jan. 12.—Active construction work on the extension of the Pacific Electric railroad from Monrovia to Glendora by way of Azusa has finally begun, and will be pushed vigorously until completed. On Friday fifty teams and a large force of men went into camp at Azusa for the purpose of grading and will work west to the San Gabriel River and east to Glendora. A large force of men and teams will also work between the river and Monrovia. It is the announced intention of the company to have the grading done and track laid and ready for the rolling stock just as soon as the bridge is built. About forty men are now working on the bridge. The force of men will be augmented and day and night shifts will be employed. An electric light plant will be installed for the benefit of the night shifts.

Reliable Remedy for Epilepsy

Both sexes and all ages who have any symptoms of Epileptic Fits or nervous twitching or trembling, should use Elixir Kosine at once, the only guaranteed specific for Epilepsy.

W. M. Federmann, the well-known druggist of Kansas City, Mo., writes:

"Our experience with Elixir Kosine has been truly remarkable and beyond our most sanguine expectation. The many cases that have come under our personal observation that hav been vastly improved and benefited, place us in a position to recognize a remedy of true merit.

"From a passive interest in this remarkable preparation, we have become very enthusiastic. We do not hesitate to give our personal guarantee to anyone who is afflicted with this terrible disease, Epilepsy."

Elixir Kosine is free from alcohol, cocaine, morphine or opiates. It is so uniformly successful that it is sold with a guarantee. The price, $1.50, will be refunded by the Owl Drug Co. if not fully satisfied after using a bottle. This trial is given at our expense. Mail orders filled. The Kosine Company, Washington, D. To Investors

THE BOSTON-JOHNNIE MINING AND MILLING COMPANY OF JOHNNIE, NYE COUNTY, NEVADA, IS A CORPORATION ORGANIZED UNDER THE LAWS OF NEVADA, WITH A CAPITAL STOCK OF $1,000,000, DIVIDED INTO 1,000,000 SHARES, WITH A PAR VALUE OF $1.00 PER SHARE, FULLY PAID AND ABSOLUTELY NON-ASSESSABLE.

THE ORGANIZERS ARE LOS ANGELES BUSINESS MEN, WHO HAVE CREATED THE COMPANY IN THE SAME MANNER AS ANY INDUSTRIAL CORPORATION WHICH IS FORMED TO MANUFACTURE ANY PRODUCT.

THE ONE DIFFERENCE BEING THAT THE PROSPECTIVE PROFITS ARE UNLIMITED.

THERE ARE A FEW INDUSTRIAL CORPORATIONS IN THE UNITED STATES WITH $100.00 PAR VALUE STOCK WHICH IS SELLING AT $800.00, OR EIGHT TIMES ITS ORIGINAL COST.

THERE ARE HUNDREDS OF MINING STOCKS WHICH ARE SELLING FOR FROM 100 TO 1000 TIMES THEIR ORIGINAL PRICE.

NO FORM OF INVESTMENT HAS MADE SO MANY FORTUNES OUT OF A FEW DOLLARS.

IF THE STORIES COULD BE TOLD OF THE THOUSANDS OF MECHANICS, SMALL STORE KEEPERS, SCHOOL TEACHERS, ETC., WHO, WITH $50.00 OR $60.00 HAVE BECOME WEALTHY BY ONE SINGLE INVESTMENT IN THE FIRST ISSUE OF TREASURY STOCK IN A GOOD MINE, IT WOULD FILL A BOOK.

THE ONLY WAY YOU CAN JOIN THIS FORTUNATE CONTINGENT IS TO BUY GOOD MINING STOCK WHEN IT IS FIRST OFFERED.

THE BEST MINING ENGINEER IN THE WORLD CANNOT SEE BEYOND THE POINT OF THE PICK.

IF YOU KNOW YOU ARE BUYING STOCK IN A MINING COMPANY BACKED BY GOOD BUSINESS AND MINING MEN, YOU HAVE TAKEN THE FIRST STEP IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION.

A POSTAL CARD WILL BRING YOU A DETAILED STATEMENT OF THE BOSTON-JOHNNIE. THEN GO TO YOUR BANKER OR LAWYER, OR THE MERCANTILE AGENCIES AND GET A REPORT ON EACH DIRECTOR OF THIS COMPANY.

WRITE TO THE POSTMASTER OF JOHNNIE, NEVADA, AND ASK HIM HOW THE BOSTON-JOHNNIE PROPERTIES COMPARE WITH OTHERS IN THE SAME DISTRICT.

ASK HIM IF THEY ONLY HAVE PROSPECTS, OR IF THEY HAVE ORE BLOCKED OUT.

WE EXPECT TO TAKE OUT HALF A MILLION DOLLARS IN THE NEXT YEAR.

WE EXPECT TO SEE THIS STOCK GO TO A DOLLAR A SHARE.

A LIMITED AMOUNT OF THE FIRST ISSUE OF TREASURY STOCK IS OFFERED AT 20c PER SHARE. THE SECOND ISSUE WILL BE OFFERED AT 40 CENTS.

The chief feature in the edict is the manifest endeavor to approach the ideal of "one man, one office." Equally important is the abolition of the useless multiplication of officers, and with the exception of the Board of Foreign Relations, whose composition cannot be changed without permission from the powers, there will henceforth be only one head to each of the governing boards. Some of the old designations are quite obsolete and the titles have been modernized. The Board of Punishments was never fully described in the title. It will now be called the Board of Law, corresponding with the American Department of Justice.

While the time is not ripe for the establishment of a Parliament, a partial substitute is afforded by the appointment of a council "to assist in government," which is to become the mouthpiece of the people, though they are not permitted to nominate or elect its members. The censorate is retained as a terror to corrupt incompetent officials. The press is yet in its infancy in China, and is said to be characterized by such venality as to make it unwise to give it a full measure of liberty.

Some obsolete institutions have been abolished or incorporated with other boards, such as the "court of sacrificial worship," "the court of imperial entertainment," the "court of State ceremonial," all of whose functions have been taken over by the "board of rights" and the "court of the imperial stud," which has been taken over by the board of the army.

HONORS ITALY'S KING.

American Ambassador Presents Him Gown from Pennsylvania University and Exposition Medal.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

ROME, Jan. 12.—King Victor Emmanuel today received in private audience the American Ambassador Henry D. White, who invested His Majesty with the academic hood of the University of Pennsylvania and placed with the King his diploma as doctor of laws. White also gave His Majesty the medal bestowed on him by the Louisiana Purchase Exposition in recognition of the King's services in promoting the Italian exhibit at St. Louis.

Ambassador and Mrs. White were the guests of Dowager Queen Margarita and of the Duke and Duchess of Genoa during the day.

JURY HAS WILLIAMS CASE.

Fate of Alleged Murderer of Vandever May Be Decided Today—Disagreement Expected.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BAKERSFIELD, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] All the testimony and arguments in the second trial of Buman Williams, who shot William Vandever to death at a dance in Delano last May, were in at noon today, and Judge Bennett charged the jury and submitted the case. At a late hour tonight the jury was still out and a disagreement is expected.

Counsel on both sides have made every possible effort and public interest is high. Williams testified that deceased had spoken of members of his family harshly and made a plea of self-defense.

The defendant has been attended in court throughout the trial by his three girls, one of whom is only 6 years of age. The mother and grief-stricken 17-year-old bride of Vandever have also been regular attendants at court.

CREEL GETS SUMMONS.

EL PASO (Tex.) Jan. 12.—Mexico's new Ambassador to America, Hon. Enrique Creel, has been called to the City of Mexico, where it is said, he will receive instructions relative to the negotiation of a treaty with the United States under the terms of which the Mexican republic may be able to reach and punish those of its people who come to America to plot and act against their own government.

The President has been elected an honorary member of the Royal Geographical Society of London. Those thus honored include Emperor William, King Leopold and King Oscar.

ICE CREAM FACTORY.

The Purity Ice Cream Company are about to build a new factory. The contract has been let and work begun. The picture on this page is an illustration of the building. The design is by M. C. Chamberlain. The structure is two stories and basement, 36x88 feet. The basement will be reinforced concrete with cement floor. The cost will be $10,300.

Improvements are progressing in the McCarthy Company's Florence Heights Tract, as, owing to the high grade and nature of the soil, it drains off rapidly after the heavy rains. Three new houses are being started in the McCarthy Company's Greater Los Angeles Tract, on which property the street work is fully completed.

NEW WORK PLANNED.

The following new work in the hands of various architects is given by the Builder and Contractor:

Edward C. Kent is preparing sketches of a six-room modern bungalow at Douglas, Ariz., for Mrs. C. C. Clarke.

Westburg & Burke are preparing plans of a seven-room frame residence on North Alvarado street, between Santa Cruz and Montrose for E. Nordquist.

John P. Krempel has plans for alterations to the storeroom at the northwest corner of First and Main streets. The fronts will be entirely remodeled, a new copper front with plate and luxfer prism glass, marble base and sills, tile floors, metal ceiling. Hardwood fixtures will also be installed.

F. M. Tyler plans for a six-room frame cottage on New Hampshire street, near Sixteenth street, for James Wool. The same architect is also drawing plans for a five-room bungalow at Forty-seventh and Vermont avenue for Tyler & Co.

Fred R. Dorn plans for a one-story eight-room brick building to contain three stores on the west side of Main street, south of Ninth street, for Robert Marsh and F. R. Strong.

Marsh & Russell plans for a two-story ten-room frame residence at Ocean Park for Mrs. J. M. Hale. They have also in preparation drawings for a church building for the Second Adventist Church, on Thirty-fifth street. It will have brick and plastered exterior, Sunday-school room and social parlors. The same architects are making the working drawings for the Calvary Presbyterian Church, on the corner of Fremont avenue and Center street, South Pasadena. It will have artificial stone veneer facing. The interior will be arranged in the most approved style. They have also plans for alterations and additions to the Covina Methodist Church. A Sunday-school room will be added, and the structure made thoroughly modern in equipment.

Hebbard & Gill have been commissioned to prepare plans of a reinforced concrete theater and apartment building for F. Lanier of Atlanta, Ga., to be built at the corner of Third and Ash streets, San Diego. It will have a frontage of 100 feet on Ash and 150 feet on Third. The theater will have a seating capacity of 1400 and standard-sized stage. The basement will be fitted up for restaurant purposes. The building will represent an investment of $100,000.

Harrison Albright plans for a five-story reinforced concrete store and apartment building to be erected at Sixth and E streets, San Diego, for D. C. Reed and M. Hall and the building permit for its erection has been issued. It will have an equal frontage of 100 feet on both streets and will cost about $95,000.

J. E. Maxwell, two-story, seven-room residence, No. 215 Avenue 52, $3782.

Harris Newmark, two-story, eight-room residence, No. 977 Arapahoe street, $8000.

At Pasadena there were issued during the week three permits to build, of an aggregate cost of $9210. There were but two items, each for a cottage, costing as much as $2000.

At South Pasadena there were eight permits to build issued, of an aggregate cost of $19,597; one to E. H. Prescott, two-story house, $2400; to E. L. Beasley, one-and-a-half-story bungalow, $2000; to Taylor & Off, two-story, brick laundry and flat building, $3000; to Charles Packard, flat building, $3000; to William W. Fogg, two-story frame house and stable, Oneonta Park, $8397.

At San Diego for the week there were issued ten permits to build, of an aggregate cost of $119,450; one to D. C. Reed and M. Hall, five-story, to G. N. Frye, residence, $12,000; to H. D. Irwin, cottage, $2500.

At Santa Monica there have been issued recently six permits to build, of an aggregate value of $23,200; one to H. M. Gorman, bungalow at the Palisades, $16,000; one to J. L. Wurtz, cottage, Santa Monica city, $2200; to Julia R. Young, cottage, Central Beach, $2000. During the past year the building at Santa Monica almost entirely in homes, is reported to amount to about $400,000. These homes ranged, for the most part, at from $1000 to $2500 each.

BUILDING CONTRACTS LET.

The effect of the continuous and copious rains is very manifest in the small number of building contracts filed during the week, as well as in the issuing of permits to build. Under these heads the items calling for an expenditure of $2000 and upward, also the new work in the hands of architects, follow:

Ida W. Sparks to F. Freeman and I. R. Lee, one-and-a-half-story eight-room bungalow, No. 1656 Cimarron street, $3185.

A. R. Maines to Los Angeles Planing Mill Company, two-story basement and attic eleven-room house, Wilshire Place, $16,841. Same owner to L. J. Smith, plastering above residence, $858. Same owner to Howe Bros., plumbing and gas fitting, same, $1188.50.

Robert Marsh and Frank R. Strong to Harry Johnson, one-story brick building, three stores, west side Main street, near Ninth, $4747.

Johanne Nolt to Wesley B. Roberts, one-story garage, northeast corner Washington and Bonnie Brae streets, $2500.

Isadoro Lafranchi to Pozzo Construction Company, four-room cottage, No. 1301 Pleasant avenue, $2050.

Jones & Smith to Walter N. Scott, six-room cottage, No. 2087 West Twenty-ninth street, $2130.

LeSage Bros. Co. to Weber Showcase Company, fittings in three-story department store, Nos. 430-34 South Broadway, $12,977.

Clara Newton Cattern to Fred W. Maule, fireproof apartment-house, No. 314 South Olive street, $29,605.61.

Fidelia Wood Duckels to Wilson & Barnes, six-room cottage, Cordova street, near Normandie avenue, $2100.

R. A. Rowan & Co. to D. W. Aaron, one-story brick building, 92x80 feet, five stores, Main street, near Seventh, $14,000.

H. Newmark to Hatton & Field, two-story eight-room house, Arapahoe street, near Ninth, $7128.

C. B. Booth to J. Niederer, interior finish, two-story residence, corner Garfield avenue and Oak street, South Pasadena, $2986.

Long Beach Market Company to Martin Madden, one-story market building, 150x90 feet, Long Beach, $12,237.

Charles W. Hill to Los Angeles Artificial Stone Company, one-and-a-half-story seven-room bungalow, Alhambra, $2550.

A MODERN EFFECT.

Among the beautiful residences adorning our rapidly growing city of Los Angeles, is one just finished for C. A. Markwell, on West Seventh near Catalina street, and illustrated on this page.

The broad low effects are coming to be more and more appreciated and the expression of comfort and enjoyment as well as utility are sought for and found in the characteristics embodied in this residence.

The picture will give some idea of the massive rough stone walls of the veranda, large columns and buttresses.

The architecture is in the one and one-half story design, although it is full two stories. The heavy timbered effects given to the projections, veranda, and overhanging cornices and rafters, together with its quaint casement windows, form the chief attractive features of the exterior.

The interior is well and artistically finished. Large stone mantel, massively built-in buffet and cases, paneled walls, wide staircases, are some of the interior arrangements. The sliding doors are full panels of glass, set in coppered bars. Doors to pass-pantry and kitchen are automatic. The finish in the main rooms borders on the mission. Hardwood floors throughout.

The house contains five chambers besides the main rooms. The lighting system includes the latest conveniences. The three and four way and emergency switches to light the entire house.

The residence including the garage and man's quarters cost about $10,000.

The building and all of the special fixtures and features were under the personal supervision of Scott Bros., architects.

EAST SEVENTH SALES.

W. M. Garland & Co. report the purchase of thirty feet on East Seventh street between Maple avenue and Los Angeles street, from the Huntington Land and Improvement Company at $1250 per front foot; the sale by R. G. Beebe to a local investor of the southwest corner of East Seventh and Merchant streets, with 102.6 feet frontage, for $61,560, or $600 per front foot. The sale of the southeast corner of East Seventh and Decatur streets, 147 feet frontage, to Carroll W. Gates, for $35,000; 90x125 feet on the west side of Maple avenue, between Sixth and Seventh streets, to J. W. Wilkinson, for $50,000.

TO IMPROVE SUNSET BOULEVARD

The following communication is gladly given space.—[Editor Times.

The people who own property on Sunset boulevard and near it, and also those interested in good roads, are trying to join hands to raise a fund to put the boulevard in first-class condition for all kinds of travel. This boulevard was built at a cost of about $1,000,000, and few realize how easy and cheap the finest drive in the West can be had here. As it is now rough and full of holes it is scarcely traveled by automobiles, but is shunned, and Vermont and Prospect avenues mostly used. I think $25,000 would put it in fine shape from Los Angeles to West Hollywood limits, and in order to start the raising of that amount I will be one of 250 men to give $100 each, or I will be one of 100 to give $250, or I will join any plan to raise said amount. Los Angeles and vicinity has many roads called boulevards, but they are not such boulevards as are found in Kansas City, Chicago and Eastern cities. It is the latter class, we want to put Sunset in, and it should be pushed along. With all eyes on the West and northwest, and millions to improve street railroads, it is only a small matter to make Sunset boulevard a beautiful and pleasant fifteen-minute drive to that popular foothill city, Hollywood, Respectfully, A. B. SHRINER.

RAMONA ACRES.

The Emerson Realty Company of the Delta building, general agents for "Ramona Acres," are introducing a new and unique idea in subdivision, something never before placed before the public in California. Their "Ramona Acres" second filing, only ninety-six lots, cut from 113 acres of land, are all corner lots, each and every lot an acre, which is a greater area than five city lots.

Cement sidewalks and curbs are now being put in; 178 inches of artesian water is being piped to the front and back of each acre from the Ramona Ranch Company's own private reservoir, holding 530,000 gallons of water.

Electric light poles are on the ground for lighting purposes. The Pacific Electric Covina line will place this tract within seventeen minutes of the center of Los Angeles, and is nearing completion.

"Ramona Acres" has the distinction of being the first piece of high, level land platted into acre lots, its elevation being over 466 feet above sea level, or considerably above the frost line.

Sales up to date in "Ramona Acres" aggregate a total of over $120,000.

The above, and other lots in the attractive Commonwealth tract, are to be improved with substantial residences in the very near future.

PROF. C. IRVIN ALTHOUSE, of 305½ S. Spring st.

THE CELEBRATED PALMIST (and astrologer) whose work is known throughout this entire land, and who has made a life study of PALMISTRY AND ASTROLOGY, has convinced hundreds of the best intellects and persons in all walks of life that his remarkable readings and predictions for future events in their lives are unparalleled.

PROF. ALTHOUSE'S readings, which are thorough and scientific, have nothing in common whatever with the fictitious readings of illiterate, unreliable humbug palmists, psychics, fortune tellers, etc., who scarcely know one line or mount from the other, and who, by their disgraceful readings, drag these useful sciences into the mire of fortune telling and fraud. A satisfactory reading can only be had from one who has thoroughly mastered the laws of this wonderful science through years of critical study of planetary influences on the lines of the PALM, combined with large experience, trained judgment, etc. All kinds of diseases can be accurately diagnosed. Careful advice given in domestic, love affairs, etc.; also of financial success or failure; changes, deaths, investments, vocation in life, and many other important things you should know, which cannot be mentioned. With each palm, there is also an astrological reading.

PROF. ALTHOUSE stands at the very head of the profession, having read—FROM LIFE—more celebrated people than any other palmist. He does not deceive the public in this respect. His readings, too must in no wise be classed with those of any other reader now operating in this part of the country, and his skilled work has no comparison with theirs whatsoever.

E. H. SOTHERN says—"I find your readings coincides with Cheiro's," and "I am greatly interested in Palmistry." Frederick Warde says, "Your reading of my hands was most satisfactory. Your knowledge and skill in palmistry is REMARKABLE and gave me a much more exalted idea of that science than I have hitherto entertained." Louis James, actor, says, "I wish to say that your reading of my hand was ENTIRELY SATISFACTORY." Paul Gilmore, actor, says, "I want to express to you my keen appreciation of your reading; it is by far the most scientific I have ever had." Juliet Crosby, actress, says, "Prof. Althouse has given me a most helpful, complete and satisfactory reading." Prof. Althouse also read Admiral Schley, Senator Clark, Gov. Pardee, Gen. Chaffee, Baron Rothschild, Joaquin Miller, Ysaye, Sousa, Creatore, Susan B. Anthony, Nance O'Neil, Calve, Julia Marlowe, Adaberto, Sembrich, Gadski, Jefferson, Nat Goodwin, Maxine Elliott, Lillian Russell and hundreds of others. These are a few names of PUBLIC persons, and are merely given to indicate the class of people being read, as well as the very best people of Los Angeles, WITH WHOM ALL HIS BUSINESS IS STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL. Intelligent, high-class patronage solicited—those capable of appreciating the superior qualities of a fine reader.

ASTROLOGY AND THE HOROSCOPE.

PROF. ALTHOUSE has also given many years of critical study to and is an experienced practitioner in the science of MODERN ASTROLOGY, by which he has made many REMARKABLE PREDICTIONS. The HOROSCOPE is DECIDEDLY A GUIDE IN LIFE, showing remarkable things when properly cast — from the position of the planets at your birth; in fact, tells everything about one's self worth knowing, being in truth one of the best investments the world offers. Your horoscope is also a key to the character of others, and in this respect can be of the utmost use to you. Beware of the braggart and untruthful reader, and who is not competent to cast horoscopes CORRECTLY.

PROF. ALTHOUSE'S wonderful proficiency in hand reading and casting of horoscopes, has brought him a large and successful practice. The most private confidences are reposed in him, and his advice is sought in the most difficult and critical circumstances.

KNOW THY FUTURE
BY CONSULTING THE WORLD'S GREATEST CLAIRVOYANT, PALMIST AND SPIRIT MEDIUM.

PROF.
MILBURN

PERMANENTLY LOCATED IN HIS OWN HOME, 659 S. HILL ST., 659, CORNER OF SEVENTH ST.

Forty years a practicing psychic, known from ocean to ocean as the marvel of two hemispheres, press and public recognize Prof. Milburn as the foremost and most able clairvoyant and spirit medium now before the public. Where others fail he succeeds with ease and he positively will NOT accept fee for his readings unless you are perfectly satisfied and receive the information you desire. Marvelous demonstrations of second sight, that must be seen to be believed, so be sure and consult him at once. Elevate thyself! Know thy future. Positively no equal on earth in his profession. By his wonderful powers he will tell your full name, tells what you called for, tells what you want to know. If not correct, free, free. So positive am I of my power to tell the past, present and future that I will make NO CHARGE, NO CHARGE, NO CHARGE, unless you obtain the information you desire and find me superior to all clairvoyants, palmists and mediums in this city.

SPECIAL OFFER FOR ONE WEEK ONLY.

Realizing there are many skeptical people in Los Angeles, and that this city has been overrun with pretenders, etc., and that many of its best citizens would be only too anxious to visit a TRUE clairvoyant medium were they assured of satisfaction, therefore Prof. Milburn will (to convince the public of Los Angeles of his superiority over all clairvoyants) give his full readings to all, for seven days only, at

50C

WHEN CONSULTING A CLAIRVOYANT ALWAYS CONSULT THE BEST. AS A TEST IN THE READING HE WILL TELL YOUR NAME, AGE, OCCUPATION, WHOM AND WHEN YOU WILL MARRY.

ASSISTANCE FOR TROUBLED OR UNFORTUNATE—If you are in trouble of any kind, discontented, unhappy, or not satisfied in life, or have domestic, love or business troubles, you will be told how to overcome all trouble. WHEN OTHERS FAIL HE SUCCEEDS WITH EASE.

HE GIVES ADVICE ON BUSINESS, speculation, investments, insurance, changes, travels, health, sickness, love, divorce, marriage, lawsuits, separations, wills, deeds, mortgages, patents, claims, collections, mining, etc. He will tell you what trade, speculation, or profession you are adapted for.

LAWSUITS, WILLS, DIVORCES—He can render you assistance and give you advice in a way that will bring success in business transactions, property speculation, investments, mining, etc.

LOVE, COURTSHIP, MARRIAGE—Gives truthful revelations of all love affairs, troubles, marriages, restores lost affections, reunites the separated, settles lovers' quarrels, etc.

Tells how to WIN the man or woman you love, and how to make your husband or wife be true to you, and how to overcome all your enemies.

WHY CONSULT AN INFERIOR MEDIUM WHEN PROF. MILBURN, THE ACKNOWLEDGED LEADER OF THEM ALL, IS HERE AND HIS FEE IS NO HIGHER THAN THOSE LESS COMPETENT.

His past record and strictly honorable dealings are sufficient guaranty for his future work and have won the good will of the press and public.

READING BY MAIL, ONE DOLLAR.
SEND DATE OF BIRTH.
REMEMBER THE REDUCED PRICES FOR ONE WEEK ONLY.

HOURS—10 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily and Sunday. Satisfaction guaranteed or no pay. All business sacred and confidential. Lady in attendance. Private parlors and office.

REMEMBER THE NAME!

PERSONAL—

MRS. MASSON,
the noted palmist of London, Eng., may be consulted at 322 S. SPRING ST. (Suite 17,)
by those desiring CAREFUL, CONSCIENTIOUS, AND SCIENTIFIC HAND-READINGS FROM ONE OF THE FOREMOST PALMISTS OF THE DAY.

The earnest student and thinker will soon learn, in his investigations along psychological lines, that that which pertains to occult phenomena proper, can readily be distinguished from crude and oft-exposed SLEIGHT-OF-HAND TRICKS, the most common of which is the telling of the subject's name, age, etc., AFTER HE HAS HIMSELF WRITTEN THAT INFORMATION.

PALMISTRY, HONESTLY PRACTICED WILL NOT tell you your name, but it WILL give you information of considerably greater value in every-day life.

Your vocation, your present line of work, matters of health, marriage and domestic life, financial conditions and ways and means of climbing out of a rut of ill-luck into wide paths of success and prosperity can all be told you through scientific palmistry, WITHOUT A SINGLE QUESTION, WRITTEN OR VERBAL.

MRS. MASSON DOES NOT APPEAL TO IGNORANT SUPERSTITION, BUT TO THE FINEST INTELLIGENCE.

HIGH-CLASS PATRONAGE SOLICITED
Daily, 9 to 6; Sundays, 9 to 2; evenings by appointment. 13

WANTED—

HERE'S A RARE OPPORTUNITY.

The owners of one of the most successful and profitable business enterprises in this city have, by the most strenuous work, close application and careful management, succeeded in building up the business to a point where more capital and help are needed, and desire a capable and genial associate who can take charge of a certain branch of the business.

This enterprise is well and favorably known, having extensive business relations with many of the foremost business men of the city, and will stand the most thorough investigation. While it is already paying handsomely, there is scarcely a limit to its field of possibilities.

If you are acquainted in the city, this prosperous and rapidly growing business is no stranger to you, its high standing being universally recognized, and you will doubtless be surprised to learn that it is possible to secure a substantial interest in it for an investment of only $6000, become an officer and director in the corporation, and at same time receive as compensation for your services whatever such services are worth to the concern.

If you desire to connect yourself with a nice, clean, highly profitable and thoroughly established, and become associated with representative business men of unquestionable character, this will prove no disappointment to you.

I. M. HOLLINGSWORTH, 304 Fay Bldg. 13

WANTED—LAW PARTNER; ACTIVE, AGgressive man to take Los Angeles end of a law business, with offices here and in Goldfield, Nev.; only small amount of money required and local business is paying now; the investment will be secured, inasmuch as my library and office furniture here are worth more than what a good man can get in for; the right man is what I want. Address D, box 188, TIMES OFFICE. 13

DO YOU WANT YOUR MONEY TO WORK for you? Of course you do. Here is your chance.

Several claims, well located, splendid gold values; producing mines all around; no mortgages. Until we have completed organization, we are going to offer you this stock at the ridiculously low figure of half a cent a share. Five dollars buys 1000 shares; $50.00 buys you 10,000 shares.

Early placer mining along the gulches prove the immense wealth hidden away in the ledges. The fragments of two old arastas on our property further prove that we have these ledges. Numerous openings on these claims, consisting of tunnels, shafts and inclines again further prove that we have a property that only awaits development to place it among the dividend paying mines of the West.

We are going to sell the first block of 100,000 shares of this stock at the above named price. Do you want to join us in this? If so, address F, BOX 17, TIMES OFFICE. 13

FOR SALE—WE HAVE AN EXCEPTIONally good opportunity for investment of $5000 where the bank books will show a profit of 12 per cent. monthly. The business is high class and desirable in every respect. Very little work required; not necessary to be active, but can do so and handle the finance if desired. This is out of the ordinary. Surely an opportunity to be taken advantage of. This is a bona fide legitimate business, which more than doubles the investment yearly.

WELL, WHAT DID MACDERMOTT TELL YOU?

During the scare of the strike and during the holidays MACDERMOTT was the only broker who came out publicly and stated that all the good stocks would advance after the holidays. How did MacDermott know? Because, during six years' experience in the Cripple Creed district, I saw the same thing happen six consecutive times. I also had inside information that the strike scare would end before the 10th. This information was right. Look u my advertisements of a few weeks ago when I told you to buy Great Bend, Blue Bull and others at the market, which have now doubled in value.

Suppose my advice had been wrong. Don't you know that every fake promoter in Los Angeles would have printed it in flaring head lines? But MacDermott's advice is based upon practical mining knowledge, and is, therefore right.

The curse of this town, and the greatest enemy to legitimate mining has been the crowd of fake promoters who have gulled the public and sold barrels of worthless stock to the public of Los Angeles. MACDERMOTT IS THE ONLY MAN who has come out publicly against them. I consider them fakirs, and I call them so in plain language. I have saved hundreds of thousands of dollars to the public in the three years I have been in business in Los Angeles, and I have driven many of the fake promoters out of town, and hope to drive others.

I urge the public not to buy one share of mining stock from anyone, unless it is offered on the public call of the Mining Stock Exchanges. By so doing, you will save money and help drive these fakirs from town. Again I advise the purchase of the good listed stocks. Among the best to buy are—
Jumbo at market.
Great Bend at market.
Verde at market.
Herald at market.
Mohawk Florence Leasing at market.
Mohawk Gold Bar Leasing at market.
Mohawk Daisy Leasing at market.
Manhattan Gold Rand at market.

Our new clearinghouse will be finished this week, also direct wires to the camps. Free location blanks will be furnished miners. Latest mining papers on file.

Come to the SOUTHWEST MINING STOCK EXCHANGE, 114 S. Broadway. Public calls at 11 a.m. On account of the large volume of business, the management has decided to have an extra public call daily, at 2:30 p.m. to start this week.

EDWARD MACDERMOTT, PRESIDENT.

All stocks bought and sold on commission. MacDermott has the largest stock brokerage business in Los Angeles. Come and see for yourselves. Be sure and do business with Edward MacDermott if you want to make money. 13

CONSOLIDATED REALTY STOCK IS THE best buy on the market today. Backed by over one million dollars' worth of centrally located business corners that are bound to increase enormously in value. In ten years this stock will be worth $1000 per share. We have some of this stock we can sell at a bargain, while it lasts. Cash or option contracts. If you have Consolidated Realty Stock you cannot carry, list it with us. We can sell it for you.

THE OUTLOOK FOR THE ANTIOAK LEATHER COMPANY during 1907.

This company has made good during 1906 in a remarkable degree in proving the quality of its goods and in openig the confidence of its customers for leather and harness. The promise of 1907 includes great extension of its splendid and profitable business in the past year.

It includes a contract for three years with a leading house of California, handling leather and its products and having hundreds of widely extended agencies and customers which should bring to the Antioak Company a business approaching a million dollars annually.

Another contract is with a subsidiary company organized to establish large works in Mexico and which will produce substantial royalties to the home company of Los Angeles.

Another outlook is the perfecting of the leather auto tire, to the point of marketability in competition with rubber tires, and at a price representing very large profits in their manufacture, to take over which branch of its business the company has splendid offers.

Dividends have been paid during 1906 on the preferred, with assurances of their continuation during 1907, and with the new business in sight also a beginning on the common.

For the purpose of raising needed working capital an offering of treasury stock at a most attractive price and on installments, will be quoted on application. We are great believers in this company, and its stock as a profitable investment.

LOUIS BLANKENHORN, 204 West Fifth st., Los Angeles. 13

MR. F. A. MALINS OF DENVER IS NOW here on mining business in connection with a large foreign syndicate, but on account of high water will be unable to reach the properties he is to examine for several weeks. In the meantime his services may be secured by any one desiring property examined and reported on, or values of mining propositions determined. Mr. Malins is a member of the Institution of Mining and Metallury of London, as well as the American Institute of Mining Engineers. His work has always been reliable, conservative and satisfactory to his clients. Those who engage him will know absolutely whether properties examined are paying propositions or not, or whether they can be made to pay by application of proper methods. For the present Mr. Malins can be reached by addressing A. R. GIBSON, 447 S. Hope st, Los Angeles, Cal., or telephone Ex. 528. 13

FOR SALE—

Copper selling 25c.

Copper mines paid more than combined railway earnings of the United States, 1906.

I have a few shares proven Arizona copper mine.

Mill tests of tons of ore prove 26 per cent. copper, 22 to 100 oz. silver per ton.

Mine located in the greatest copper zone in the United States.

Smelter to be installed.

300 shares at par or can sell up to 2000 shares.

C. E. GILHOUSEN,
13 2603 Central ave.

HIGH CLASS MINING INVESTMENT, 200 acres patented, Kern County, near R.R. Vein 20 feet wide, sampled for 1000 feet on surface by very reliable engineer, shows over $6 per ton. Quartz soft and cheaply worked. Water and all facilities. Oil 65 cents per barrel delivered; 51 per cent. syndicate interest will be given for $45,000, spread over two years. This amount will purchase property and build mill. This is a legitimate and commercial mining proposition, and the profits must come from the operation of the property and not from the sale of stock. A. R. GIBSON, The Touraine, 5th and Hope. Ex. 528. 13

IF YOU BUY GOLDFIELD STOCKS—

You want to buy with greatest chance for profit.

Before stocks became active I took an option on a block of stock in one of the very best prospects in the camp. Development has shown large bodies of ore with high grade that bids to make a producer as big as the biggest. I find now that I cannot handle all of this alone and will give opportunity to right person to buy at right price in a property that will make a mine.

Address C, box 72, TIMES OFFICE. 13

INCORPORATE YOUR PROPOSITION INTO a stock company. Have your work done by those who know how; that do it right. The cost is small compared to the results. We are in a position to do this work for you and do it right. Our record of over twelve hundred companies, not one of which has had to go to court, that we have incorporated, speaks for itself. We incorporate in any State or Territory. See us before you decide. CHAPMAN, BRISCOE & CO., 701-7 Delta Bldg. 13

he Grandest Success of the Season

Everybody delighted—the Golden Spike of the Redondo Villa Railroad was driven January 6th. The commencement of great transportation facilities for the Redondo Villa Tract. The roadbed has been graded, ties are on the ground, rails will soon be laid.

THE GRAND MILLION DOLLAR HOTEL AND TROPICAL GARDENS AT REDONDO.

The First Locomotive

Of the Deutz Locomotive Works of Cologne, Germany, has just arrived at Boston, per Steamer "Betania," and will soon reach the Redondo Villa Tract, where it will be used as an Auxiliary Locomotive by the Redondo Villa Electric Railroad. This locomotive can haul one ton of freight at the astonishing small cost of only six-tenths of one cent per mile, by actual demonstration in England. With denatured alcohol—on the free list January 1st—such a locomotive will run a sharp race with electric power. But the Redondo Villa Tract will not depend upon it alone, for it will also enjoy the well-known advantages of electricity as a motive power for transportation. The Edison Electric Company now furnish the Redondo Villa Tract with electric light and power from their 10,000 horse power lines. The Adams Pipe Company have just completed laying 25,000 feet of water pipe over the Redondo Villa Tract. Three Double Track Electric Railroads are now being built to Redondo. Actual work is now being rushed on Mr. H. E. Huntington's $1,250,000 Electric Power House at Redondo.

All lots one price. $90 per lot, $4 down, $4 per month. No interest. No taxes

Minister of Justice Poloni at Budapest, has sent his seconds, Secretary of State Bolgas and Baron Kaas to Herr Halmos, ex-burgomaster of Budapest, to demand an apolgy for and retraction of a charge publicly made by him that Poloni had abused his position in order to obtain an advantage for a personal friend. Should Halmos refuse, the seconds are instructed to arrange for a duel.

EVERY ROAD OPEN BUT ONE.

Trains Moving Almost on Schedule Time.

Only the Coast Line Now a Source of Trouble.

Passengers from North Spend Week on Trains.

Not even in the offices of the operating department of the Southern Pacific has any man the temerity to say when the disabled Coast line, suffering from the ravages of the recent floods, will be open for traffic.

Not in many years has the system been struck as severe a blow by the elements as it is suffering today. With the valley line crippled by soft tracks and imminent landslides, and the Coast line entirely disabled, with miles upon miles of track either under water or covered with the débris of the floods, and the acres of earth hurled upon the way by the power of the elements, it speaks volumes for the cleverness of the operating department that trains are kept moving at all between this city and San Francisco.

For practically a week even Santa Barbara, so close at hand, has been cut off from communication with this city by rail. Yesterday a train was pushed through to Ventura by way of Saugus, where a transfer of passengers was made, the marooned ones being brought back to this city, and those desiring to go to Santa Barbara allowed to proceed around the wreckage and take the train awaiting on the other side. This morning an attempt will be made to get the early train leaving the Arcade station at 7 o'clock, through all the way to Santa Barbara, running by way of Saugus.

But beyond Santa Barbara, it is impossible to say when the trouble will be repaired, and the line opened. Even the most hopeful estimate made by the Southern Pacific people themselves puts it at the latter part of next week. Since most of the trouble is north of San Luis Obispo, on another division, the local offices know none of the details of the damage nor of the efforts made to restore regular train service.

The only avenue left open to the Southern Pacific is the Valley line which, in addition to suffering from soft track, now is compelled to carry the added work of trains taken from the Coast line and sent by the former route.

An effort is being made to keep up the train service as far as possible. The fine Shore Line Limited trains have been taken off completely, however. But Nos. 20 and 21, the daily Coasters leaving Los Angeles at 8:30 in the morning, will be sent out this morning on time, but by way of the Valley. These trains will run by the Valley route until further notice. Also trains Nos. 9 and 10, the through New Orleans trains, will be run by way of the Valley.

This schedule of extra trains to be handled over the San Joaquin division, in addition to the valiant attempts which are being made on that division to break up the tremendous freight blockade, makes the movement of trains by that route a feat of railway engineering which the laymen can little appreciate.

And the trains are moving right along, in spite of the fact that they are tagging on one another's heels as closely as they dare move. Up and down the valley it is a constant procession of trains, according to a belated passenger from San Francisco. Every side track is filled with waiting trains both freight and passenger, and the rails are fairly kept warm twenty-four hours a day.

Yesterday a number of passengers who set out from San Francisco Tuesday morning, arrived in Los Angeles after practically a week on the road. When it was found impossible to get them by the obstructions north of San Luis Obispo, the trains were turned back and sent through San José and over to the San Joaquin division and thence to this city.

These weary wayfarers tell thrilling tales of the incidents of that trip, ranging from the tragic to the ridiculous. The tragic was approached when the dining cars and all of the eating-houses for miles about were depleted of everything edible even to carnation table bouquet salads.

Yesterday the new schedules were working so well that the train service was fairly regular. No. 9, the through train from New Orleans, left a little over two hours late for San Francisco. The Owl got out on time, with right of way over everything else on the division. The greatest delay was in the Golden State Limited from Chicago, which came in last night about midnight, about five hours late.

If the Santa Barbara local can be gotten through this morning the regular local service between that city and Los Angeles will be resumed. To take care of travel north of Santa Barbara, a series of stub locals is being organized to do the best possible for the more unfortunate section of the road, and to cater to the demands of those local patrons who are compelled to travel at any cost.

Although all the roads south and east are suffering from generally bad weather conditions, train service is being kept up remarkably well. Over the Santa Fé and Salt Lake yesterday trans-continental trains arrived practically on schedule and were sent away on time to the second.

CITIZEN PLAYS OFFICER.

John Smith was arrested and taken to the City Jail last night by S. A. Rico on the charge of burglary. Mr. Rico learned, he says, that Smith had broken into a room and taken several suits of clothing and a suit case. He called up the Central Station and told the police that he could arrest a burglar if they would instruct him how to do it.

VERMONT AVE SQUARE
HEWITT ADV.C

Clean, Mudless
Well Drained

You had not supposed we could sell lots at Vermont Avenue Square during the heavy rains of last week.
You would naturally think our property was deluged along with the rest of the city—that buying at Vermont Ave. Square would be as inactive as it was at other tracts in and around the city.
If you had visited the Square during the worst of the downpour, you would understand and believe.
You would know then that no other tract offers such inducements—no mud--no floods as elsewhere—water disappearing as quickly as it falls.
Vermont Avenue Square is therefore healthful as well as a clean, comfortable neighborhood to live in. It is ideally located away from the smoke and dirt and noise of business, yet near enough to be quickly accessible to every part of the city.

Unexcelled Car Service
Grand Ave. line marked "Vermont Avenue Square"--5-cent fare, 8-minute service, transfers to all city lines.
You now realize why Vermont Ave. Square appeals so strongly to homeseekers and investors. Visit the Square under our auspices.

GARDEN SHOW IS GORGEOUS.

Most Magnificent Exposition of Autos in Country.

Two Score Thousand Lights Glow in Ceiling.

One Hundred and Fifty Models Are on View.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Never was the tendency toward larger cars, more power, greater strength in frames, more luxuriousness in bodies and increase of price so much in evidence as in the automobile show that opened to a vast congregation tonight in Madison Square Garden.

Whereas, two years ago small gasoline cars of less than twenty horse power and costing less than $2000, dominated the trade, the vehicles of such type in the Garden show can be counted on the fingers of one hand. In their place are larger, handsomer, more comfortable cars, with horse powers running up to sixty and averaging thirty-five, and prices averaging $4000.

Of forty-three gasoline makes represented in the show thirty-one are of American and twelve of European construction. There are approximately 150 different models on view not counting various styles of bodies of the same category in the same makes and sizes of classes. Of these twenty-eight are American runabouts, including the "Fishtail" type of body in high-power classes. Fifty-eight are American touring cars in various sizes and thirty-eight are American town cars of the limousine or landaulet type. The foreign models aggregate thirty-five, though various styles of body construction are shown.

American gasoline machines exhibited vary in price from $650 for an Oldsmobile single cylinder runabout to $15,000 for Apperson and Locomobile racing runabouts. The highest-priced American touring car shown is a "60" Losier, listed at $7500. The cause for increased prices is shown in higher-class material and finer workmanship.

When the doors of Madison Square Garden opened at 8 o'clock tonight for the seventh annual automobile show held in that place, the most magnificent industrial exposition ever promoted in this country was ready for inspection. In a private view, accorded today, the promise of the Show Committee that theirs would be the best-dressed exhibition ever held in the Garden, was more than fulfilled.

When it is said that more than $50,000 has been spent simply in preparing the setting for the exhibits and that the interior of the Garden presents a scene of dazzling beauty, only a vague idea is conveyed of what is to be presented. For a show setting, S. R. Ball, the decorator has conceived a palatial Swiss garden amid Alpine scenery.

Overhead the iron girders of the house are concealed by a canopy of amber hue, studded with 37,000 silver stars. The floor is covered with a specially woven green carpet, with white streaks and dots to carry out a snow effect. The side walls of the main floor and platform are concealed by paintings designed to perfect the illusion of an Alpine perspective and at Fourth avenue is a huge canvas of mountain scenery. In front of the pillars that support the galleries are heroic statues on pedestals, eight on each side.

The decorations were practically completed last night and early this morning the business of installing exhibits was begun. The show has been departmentized this year, so that on the main floor and elevated platform are found only gasoline pleasure cars. Electric pleasure vehicles are exhibited in the hall off the foyer, at the Madison end.

The basement is occupied by commercial vehicles, except for a portion toward the Fourth-avenue end, set apart for a Rathskeller. The concert hall, galleries, mezzanine platform and basement accommodate the exhibits of accessories. The foreign cars have a prominent space on the main floor.

Forty-three different makes of gasoline cars are represented, besides seven makes of electric carriages and nine of commercial vehicles. The exhibit of electrics is the most complete ever seen and there are many new features in every department. The foreign cars exhibited are the genuine 1907 models, most of them sent from abroad at the close of the Paris show. The show will be open day and night until 11 o'clock January 19.

SWEET MARIE IS TO RACE AGAIN.

GRAND OLD MARE MAY SWING ON THE CIRCUIT.

Is Now Resting at Stock Farm and Enjoying Good Health—Grand Sire Is McKinney, Which May Found Another Great Branch of the Famous Wilkes Family.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] George M. Webb, acting for E. T. Stotesbury of Philadelphia, who recently purchased Sweet Marie at the "Old Glory" horse sale at Madison Square Garden, makes the announcement that the great mare will be trained and exhibited again next season. She may also be raced on the grand circuit.

Sweet Marie is now at Finoga stock farm, and is enjoying the best of health. It is Mr. Stotesbury's intention to exhibit the mare at horse shows as well as train.

Sweet Marie's sire, McKinney, 2:11¼, is fast coming to the front as a remarkable sire of extreme speed, and seems destined to become the founder of another great branch of the Wilkes family.

The prominence into which McKinley has forced himself was mostly due to his own individual merits. His get have demonstrated their speed ability, as well as their race-horse qualities. In regard to their proficiency, however, his sons and daughters are mostly too young for their offspring to demonstrate their ability.

THUMBS DOWN FOR REFORMS

COLLEGE ATHLETICS REMAIN IN OLD CONDITION.

Football Practice Restricted to Late Date—Conference Takes Drastic Action for Year and Athletes Are Very Much Disappointed Over the Change.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "Thumbs down" was the action of the Western Intercollegiate Conference at its second session at the Auditorium today. The reformed athletic reforms of the December conference again were reformed back into their original condition, so that the status of athletics in the big colleges of the West is almost exactly the same as it was a year ago. Action taken by the conference was:

Amendments vetoed—

The addition of two games to the football playing schedule, making seven games for each team.

Withdrawal of the retroactive feature of the three-year rule by allowing all students registered September 1, 1906, to play four years.

The provision that the conference rules regarding the period of participation should apply only to football, baseball and track athletics.

Amendments accepted—

Provision that there should be no football practice prior to September 20.

The only important ruling of the previous conference that was allowed to stand was that making September 20 as the date for the uniform opening of the football training season. The seven-game rule, the anti-retroactive feature of the three-year rule, and the provision that minor sports should be open to freshmen and for four years, all were voted down.

All the changes were adopted by a majority vote at the December conference and were then sent to the individual members of the "big nine" for ratification. If the faculty of any conference schools refused to accept its provisions within sixty days, a second conference was to be called, when the representatives, instructed by their respective faculties, were to vote again on the provisions. A two-thirds vote was to be necessary at this session.

The conference action, it is feared, will defeat plans of Coach Stagg to arrange games for the coming season with one or two eastern colleges. With a seven-game schedule there was a possibility that Chicago would play Pennsylvania and Yale or Pennsylvania and Naval Academy. But with Minnesota already booked and Illinois and Indiana certain, games with the eastern elevens would force Stagg to abandon anything in the nature of practice games.

HARVARD GETS MEET.

Intercollegiate Field Contests to Be Pulled Off at Cambridge in the Spring.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In the fight for the privilege of holding the next intercollegiate field meet, Pennsylvania lost to Harvard at the meeting of the Executive Committee of the Intercollegiate Athletic Association, held last night at the Fifth Avenue Hotel.

President H. R. Gevelin of Pennsylvania, seconded by F. C. Chapman of Cornell, argued in favor of Franklin field, Philadelphia, but the opposition was too strong.

Vanderbilt to Europe.

NEWPORT, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Alfred G. Vanderbilt has arranged to sail for Europe on Saturday, January 19, to attend a meeting of the Committee on the International Horse Show, of which he is a member. His exhibit for the international show, which will take place in June, will be a large one. It will consist of twenty-six horses and sixteen vehicles, including a coach.

BIG ATHLETIC FIELD FOR Y. M. C. A. GAMES.

To Expend $30,000 on Sporting Facilities Which Will Be Systematized so as to Affect Uniformly All Southern California.

THE Young Men's Christian Association is to have a $30,000 athletic field to be used for field athletics, outdoor games of all kinds, and such facilities as conserve to that end. The site practically has been selected from several under consideration and a deal for the purchase of the ground is expected to be closed within a few days.

To accomplish the best results in athletics all branches of physical work are to be systematized uniformly so as to promote the best interests, not only of the Los Angeles association, but all those of Southern California. Los Angeles is to be a center from which will radiate all athletic activity emanating from the Y.M.C.A.

At the last meeting a committee was appointed by President Letts to see to the prompt acquisition of a field and the expenditure of the $30,000 set aside for the erection of such buildings and structures as will be necessary. The committee consists of O. T. Johnson, E. P. Clark and Gregory Perkins, Jr. Tentative plans for the track have been submitted by Physical Director C. H. Price of the Los Angeles Y.M.C.A.

MEETING YESTERDAY.

A joint meeting of the Southern California District Committee of the Athletic League of the Y.M.C.A. and the physical directors of the association gymnasiums in Southern California was held yesterday in the offices of the State Committee of the Y.M.C.A. at No. 621½ South Broadway, lasting from 10 o'clock in the morning until 2:30 in the afternoon. It was called together by A. Claude Braden of Pomona College, chairman of the Athletic League Committee, for the purpose of making the first attempt to establish a definite scheme of coöperation between the associations in Southern California.

The following plan for the arrangement of future seasons of Y.M.C.A. athletics was adopted by the commission and will be put into effect immediately:

Cross-country running — September and October.

Football—October 1 to Thanksgiving Day.

Football practice will begin in September, but the games will not commence until October.

Indoor athletics—Middle of November to January 1.

Basketball and gymnastics—January, February and March.

Track and field athletics—February and March.

Indoor baseball and handball—April, May and June.

Tennis and baseball—June, July and August.

SYSTEMATIZED PLAN.

It is hoped that the adoption of this systematized plan throughout the Young Men's Christian Associations in Southern California will have the effect of systematizing athletics in general in all of the other groups and branches into which it is segregated. Its adoption will make it possible for the Y.M.C.A. to develop its athletics to a higher point of perfection than has been attained before on the Pacific Coast, and when the new building and the new athletic field are completed they will make all branches of athletics much easier to handle than they have ever been before.

In order to put its new scheme into force the association will hold championship tournaments and events at the close of each season in all of the sports and the Young Men's Christian Associations through Southern California will be able to participate for the reason that there will no longer be a conflict of seasons to impede them. The system will be buckled on without delay and the first general event held under the new scheme will take place at Pasadena on the evening on Washington's Birthday, when a championship indoor athletic meet will wind up the indoor athletic season for all the branches of the association.

JOINT COMMITTEE.

The meeting of the joint committee was called to order yesterday morning by Harry F. Henderson, assistant State secretary of the Y.M.C.A. The members of the district committee who were present were: A. Claude Braden of Pomona College, Kinter Hamilton of Harvard School, and C. LeRoy Lowman of Los Angeles. The physical directors present were: George W. Braden of Pasadena, E. A. Merwin of Long Beach, L. J. Schantz of Riverside and C. H. Price of Los Angeles. Physical Directors Rufus W. Gilbert of Redlands and A. N. Morris of San Diego were expected at the meeting, but failed to be present.

It was decided to appoint managers to have general supervision over the handling of separate events and the running of the final championship matches and tournaments. George W. Braden of the Pasadena Y.M.C.A. will have the handling of basketball; Rufus W. Gilbert of Redlands will supervise indoor athletics, and C. H. Price of Los Angeles will look after the interests of gymnasium work. The heads of the other branches of sport were left over to be appointed by a subsequent meeting of the district committee.

The matter of holding a summer session of teachers' institute for the physical directors of the Southern California Y.M.C.A. was put in the hands of the directors themselves and it was decided to substitute a directors' institute for the summer quarterly session of the directors. The session will take place at Catalina in the middle of July and will continue the better part of a week. It will be taken up with lectures and demonstrations by some of the leading authorities on the various branches of athletic work. L. J. Schantz of Riverside was appointed to arrange for the gathering.

The following programme has been arranged for the coming first quarterly meeting of the directors:

Religious work of the physical department of the Y.M.C.A., by A. N. Morris of San Diego.

Physical and medical examinations, by C. H. Price of Los Angeles.

Nomenclature and grading of gymnastic exercise, by George W. Braden of Pasadena.

ATHLETIC FIELD.

The plans for the new athletic field as outlined by Athletic Director Price, of the Los Angeles Y.M.C.A., contemplate one of the largest and most complete institutions of the kind in the country. It will require 11¼ acres of ground, in the shape of a rectangle, 800 by 600 feet in dimensions. It will include a baseball grounds, a track with a large grand stand, six tennis courts, four covered handball courts, an outdoor gymnasium, a swimming pool, a large building especially fitted out for indoor meets, a pavilion especially fitted out for wrestling, boxing and fencing, and a lacrosse field.

One other feature that will place the affair in a class beyond the ordinary run of athletic grounds will be the large clubhouse to be erected in the farther end of the grounds. This is intended for young men to live in and will be sufficiently spacious to accommodate a large number. They will be allowed to make their home there, and to enjoy the advantages for athletic

ORANGE BELTERS IN BASKETBALL.

SCHEDULE READY FOR SERIES OF SPRING GAMES.

Pomona Team Has Best Chance to Win Championship, but Others Are Preparing to Capture Honors. Six Strong High School Aggregations Waiting for Referee's Whistle.

The outlook for good basketball this year in the Orange Belt League is very bright, and more interest is shown than at any time since the game was instituted three years ago.

The six schools of the league—San Bernardino, Redlands, Pomona, Riverside, Ontario and Colton, with the possible exception of the latter one, are doing hard work at practice and expect to put out exceptionally strong teams.

This will be Ontario's first year at the game and although they have been practicing since the first of the school year they probably will not be in any better shape than the other schools when the season opens January 19.

As it was last year, the cup probably will fall to one of the three larger schools of Pomona, San Bernardino or Redlands, with the former a slight favorite on account of starting practice a month earlier than either San Bernardino or Redlands. The latter two continued the football season up to Christmas and consequently were unable to get much practice until after the holidays. The rainy weather has interfered with the practice considerably, San Bernardino having the only available indoor court which probably will enable them to get their men whipped into as good shape as Pomona's for the game January 19.

Redlands and Pomona each only have one member of the last year's teams left, this season, while San Bernardino has two. Riverside and Colton also only have a small part of their teams left.

Pomona is expected to put up a stiff fight for the cup this year, as they claim they were cheated out of it last year by a raw decision at Redlands. The league, to settle the matter, hung the cup up for the year. San Bernardino and Redlands have both held the cup. Redlands is the only school which has made an effort to secure games outside of the league this year, and they already have a long list of games matched. Following is the schedule:

January 19—Redlands and Ontario at Redlands; Colton and Riverside at Colton; Pomona and San Bernardino at Pomona.

January 26—Ontario and Riverside at Riverside; Pomona and Colton at Pomona; Redlands and San Bernardino at San Bernardino.

February 2—Redlands and Riverside at Redlands; Pomona and Ontario at Ontario; Colton and San Bernardino at San Bernardino.

February 9—Redlands and Colton at Colton; Pomona and Riverside at Riverside; Ontario and San Bernardino at San Bernardino.

February 16—Redlands and Pomona at Pomona; Riverside and San Bernardino at San Bernardino; Colton and Ontario at Ontario.

SIX-DAY RACE SCANDAL.

Fogler and Root Charge Patrick Powers With Bribing Them to Lag Behind.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Eddie Root and Joe Fogler, six-day bicycle riders who won the last week-long race at Madison Square Garden, came out with a long statement yesterday, to the effect that Patrick Powers, who promoted the race, had "dished" them out of $1500 which they allege he had promised to give them if they would not gain a lap over their competitors.

They went to Mr. Powers's office yesterday and demanded the money. Powers declared that he had never made any such offer to the men and refused to pay them anything.

INVITE SOUTHERNERS TO POLO TOURNAMENT.

Northern Millionaire Enthusiasts Furnish Transportation and Entertainment to Guests Visiting Burlingame and San Mateo.

A CARNIVAL of polo and pony racing has been announced for the coming spring that will give polo enthusiasts and pony-fanciers of the two sections of the State a chance to become acquainted and to indulge together in their favorite sports to their hearts' content.

Robert Leighton, the secretary of the California Polo and Pony-Racing Association, has been in Los Angeles the last week, and C. W. Clark, the millionaire polo enthusiast of Northern California, was stalled at Santa Barbara until the resumption of service on the Coast line. Both men made the trip from San Francisco for the especial purpose of concluding arrangements with the leading players and pony owners of this end of the State for taking the latter up north in February, for the big tournament that is to be held on the Clark polo grounds. The northerners will come south immediately on the completion of this event to participate in the Coronado tournament and races.

Invitation has been sent out by the northern association to the polo players of Southern California.

The polo tournament and race meeting will be held under the auspices of the California Polo and Pony Racing Association, at Burlingame and San Mateo, Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, February 21, 22, 23 and 24. Polo on Thursday, Friday and Sunday, February 21, 22 and 24; and races on Saturday, February 23.

The polo will be played alternately on the fields of Mr. Carolan, at Burlingame, and Mr. Clark, at San Mateo. The races will be held on Mr. Clark's track. The preliminary games will take place on Thursday and Friday, February 21 and 22, and the finals will be played on Sunday, February 24.

LIST OF RACES.

The programme for the day of pony races will include the following events:

Quarter mile, for maiden ponies, weight 160 pounds; two pounds allowance for each quarter-inch under 12:2.

Three-eighth mile, selling; the winner to be sold at auction for $500. Top weight, 165 pounds; five pounds allowed for each $50 less to $250. Beaten ponies not subject to claim.

Three-fourths mile, Galloway race; top weight, 160 pounds; three pounds allowed for each ½-inch to 14:2.

Quarter-mile, top weight, 165 pounds; three pounds allowed for each quarter-inch under 14:2.

One-half mile, top weight 160 pounds; two pounds allowed for each quarter-inch under 14:2.

The association will provide free transportation to and from San Mateo for all players, grooms and attendants, and all race and polo ponies. It will also take care of all visiting players and their grooms, and ponies during their stay. The club has stable room for 100 ponies and will provide for more than that number if necessary.

It is not the intention of the association that the tournament should in any way partake of a North versus South tournament or in any way dim the luster of the coming Coronado tournament in the southern part of the State. The idea is to induce as many poloists as possible to attend and then to divide them into separate teams, such as teams, A, B, C, D, E, etc., having each team so balanced in regard to the players' abilities that the games will be close and exciting. If, however, a club should wish to put a team of its members into the tournament and play under its club name, it will be allowed to do so.

PRIZES OFFERED.

The prizes offered for the tournament and race meeting will be of a handsome and costly nature and should the owner of any winning race pony prefer to receive his prize in cash it will be possible for him to do so.

In case the regularly programmed events do not cover all the classes so as to suit all of the ponies in attendance, others will be added.

Entries for both the polo tournament and the pony races close on Saturday, February 16. In order that adequate transportation and other arrangements may be made players and owners are asked to send notice as early as possible.

All race ponies holding certificates of the C.P. and P.R.A. or of the Southern California Association will be eligible to entry under those certificates. Ponies not holding such certificates will be measured and certificates will be issued to them.

Immediately upon the conclusion of the northern tournament the polo players will start for Coronado, and the ponies will be shipped at once to San Diego. In this event the northerners will be the guests of the southerners. Play at Coronado starts March 7, the entry lists closing February 23. There will be two days of racing and polo, under the auspices of the Southern California and Polo and Pony Racing Association.

RUNNERS CIRCLE THE CINDERPATH.

OCCIDENTAL PROSPECTS BEGIN TO LOOK BRIGHT.

First Intercollegiate Meet of Presbyterians to Take Place Washington's Birthday—Several Men Injured by Football Are Unable to Do Track Work.

Track work has begun in earnest at Occidental, but the present prospect for a successful season is not as favorable as it was at the opening of former years. The lack of good material to replace several point winners who graduated last year is responsible for the poor outlook. Strenuous work will have to be done if the Presbyterians expect again to win the track championship. An unusually large number of inexperienced men are appearing on the track for instruction, and while some of them show possibilities, the coaches have a stupendous task upon their hands to develop point winners in time for the dual meets which begin February 22.

From present indications, Hodge, the crack low-hurdler and quarter-miler, will not be available until late in the season, even if he is able to don a track suit at all. A wounded leg, sustained during football season, refuses to mend, and a physician has ordered him to keep out of athletics. If Hodge is out of the game, Occidental will be crippled severely in the low hurdles, and greatly weakened in the quarter-mile. He was expected to win points in both events, and many students were of the opinion that he would give Bird a hard race for first place in the 440-yard dash. Beal is the only remaining low hurdler, and he cannot be expected to run better than third in the conference meet.

In the high hurdles, Thomson is good for a place in the dual meets, and Carver and Bradbeer are showing good form. It is hoped that one of these men can be developed into a point winner before the end of the season. Clarke, Wieman, Beard, Thacker, and Marshall will take care of the weights, and the Presbyterians expect to win their share of the points in those events.

With Bird and Roth for first places in the sprints and distances, and a number of good men to contest second and third places, Occidental will be strong in the runs, but in the high and broad jumps no first place men are in sight. Newman has a record of over twenty-one feet in the broad, but twenty-two feet or better will be necessary for first place.

The Presbyterian relay team promises to be strong. Bonner, Crane and Holderman can run the distance in less than 55, and Bird, who will sprint the last lap, has circled the track in 0:50 4-5.

Manager Crane has completed the track schedule, with the exception of the Pomona dual meet. The home meet, at which the new men will be tried out, will be held January 30. Pasadena Y.M.C.A. is engaged for February 9, and on the following Saturday the annual class meet will be held.

The first intercollegiate meet will be held on Washington's Birthday with U.S.C. The Whittier team is scheduled for March 16, and the conference consisting of Pomona, U.S.C., and Occidental will be held at Claremont, March 23. March 9 is being held open for the Pomona dual meet, which will be held at Claremont. Occidental and St. Vincent's will not contest on the cinderpath as the Catholics will not put a track team in the field this year.

The Presbyterian oval will be one of the best in the south this year. A drainage system is being installed in the athletic field, and the track has been resurveyed and leveled. The 100-yard straightaway will be given special attention, and will be of sufficient width to accommodate six hurdles.

training afforded by the grounds.

Regular courses of training will be carried on by the association and can be taken by young men outside of their working hours. Besides these advantages the men will have the social and moral training the surroundings will give and the grounds will be kept up so that the place will have every attraction.

The new track will be ready in time for next year's track season, as it is placed on the schedule of events that was made out by the directors and committee men at their joint meeting yesterday.

NEXT INDOOR MEET.

The championship indoor athletic meet, which will be the first held under the new system, takes place at Pasadena on the evening of February 22, and the programme of events was decided upon at the meeting yesterday. Each Y.M.C.A. will enter a team of three men who will compete in all of the five events scheduled, and the team having the highest percentage wins. The events are as follows, in the order in which they will be run off. Broad jump, consisting of three successive jumps; fence vault, running high jump, 12-pound shot put, quarter-mile indoor run.

Probably all of the Y.M.C.A.'s in Southern California will participate in the event, as it will be the first of its kind, and some have already started preparations for selecting teams to represent them.

The Los Angeles Y.M.C.A. held a meeting of its Executive Committee last night to make arrangements for a tryout between the indoor men. The choice will lie between the following men: Dean Cromwell, C. Littlepage, Emil Breitkrantz, and Lewis W. Gatz.

The Pasadena Y.M.C.A. already has set the date of its tryout for Tuesday evening, January 22, and the following men are entered in the event: Harry Gammon, Neil C. Hotaling, Wyman Tyler, Clayton Carus, Courtney Lacy, Earl Flanders, and Ernest Purdy.

A new Gymnasium Club has been formed at the Los Angeles Y.M.C.A. and the members are now hard at work practicing on pyramid building, exhibition and competitive gymnasium work for the purpose of giving an exhibition at Watsonville during the session of the State Y.M.C.A. conference there in April. The club includes the following members: H. E. Bittman, W. B. Scheckles, C. Littlepage, A. F. Moulton, Stanley Hart, George Lingstrom, L. L. Perine, Ernest Bennett, W. A. Davis, Russell C. Cromwell, L. L. Pennock, and Charles Dutton.

WRIGHT'S POSITION.

Cannot Play as Amateur in England Because of Alleged Professionalism.

Beals G. Wright has caused more trouble in the tennis world, the past season, than any other player. The difficulty was caused by the old cry of professionalism. Wright represents a business house handling tennis goods. The English hold that, acting in that capacity, he must be credited as a professional, because he is representing the business house on the strength of his skill in tennis.

BEALS G. WRIGHT,
a storm center in the tennis world.

Wright is one of the best tennis players representing America. He has taken part in all the big championship contests for years. He is considered about the only match for the Dougherty brothers in England. It is said that the latter expect to withdraw from tennis, largely because of Wright's expulsion from the amateur ranks.

NATTY LITTLE RUNABOUT.

Another of those paying tribute to the express company is the Pacific Automobile Company, and yesterday they received by express the demonstrator of their new line, the Overland runabout.

The Overland is a natty little four-cylinder runabout. The mechanical features of it were explained recently in these columns, but actual inspection of the machine emphasizes two striking points—the planetary transmission system housed on the rear axle, and the absence of side levers, all the speed and brake control being by pedal. One of the pedals has both a forward and backward throw, and controls the low and the reverse. It interlocks with the high speed pedal, so that either one throws the other out.

The radiator of the Overland has a particularly pleasing outline, and the French square type side lamps carry out the straight line effect.

CONTESTS WITH SMALL SWORDS.

PASADENA ATHLETES TO FENCE BY CODE DUELLO.

Athletic Carnival in Which Society Folk of the Crown City Are to Take Part—Y.M.C.A. Members to Swing Clubs—Women to Give Exhibitions of Skill.

An interesting athletic carnival will be held at Elks' Hall, Pasadena, tomorrow night. H. W. Maloney has arranged the affair to help out the Academy of the Holy Names, and some of the most prominent athletes of the Southland will be included in the programme.

H. W. Maloney, champion fencer of the Pacific Coast, will fence several rounds with H. Berls, former amateur champion of New York State. Both men are experts with their weapons and a keen rivalry exists between them. The French school of the small sword will be used by the contestants and the fine points of the code duello will be observed carefully.

Prof. Alberti, a pupil of the Mernegic, champion fencer of the world, will meet Berls in a contest of skill, the broadsword being the weapon chosen. Alberti is the older and more experienced swordsman, but Berls has strength and great endurance, beside being very fast on his feet. He forced Maloney hard in the contest for the championship of the Pacific Coast and will make things lively for his opponent in the contest.

The tournament will be of interest in that it will bring together the most prominent exponents of the art of swordsmanship in Southern California, and as fencing is becoming very popular in Pasadena, the events will be watched with interest. Last winter's contest was the first official championship event held in California and the fine points of fencing are just becoming understood by those interested in the art.

The lighter features of the contest will include a garland drill by the pupils of the Academy of the Holy Names, club swinging by a class of lady pupils, bag punching and tumbling by members of George Braden's class of Y.M.C.A. athletes.

The bag-punching feature will be made interesting by the fact that one of Maloney's women pupils will give an exhibition of her skill, while one of the other exhibitors will punch the bag blindfolded.

Braden's class of club swingers, which is composed of prominent young amateur athletes of Pasadena, will give an exhibition of their skill with lighted torches, in addition to the regular features. The Pasadena Y.M.C.A. squad leaders' team, under the charge of Director Braden, has done much toward interesting the young men of Pasadena in athletics and the members readily give their services at entertainments toward that end.

WINTER LEAGUE FOR BUSINESS.

SIX CLUBS NOW LINED UP FOR REGULAR PLAY.

Long Beach Team, Which Was Recently Taken in Is Expected to Prove a Strong Bunch—Officers Report Very Great Interest Shown, Three Games Scheduled for Today.

Notwithstanding the professional baseball the fans have had here for several weeks, the Winter Amateur League is still very much alive and is playing a good article of ball every Sunday that the rain or bad weather has not marred. The third series of games will be played off today, if there is no rain. To date, the Meeks team is in the lead by a small margin.

The majority of the players have been seen frequently in the Southern California league teams, the Newsies, for instance, being almost entirely made up of players from that league. It seems that the old spirit of rivalry that existed in the Southern California League is manifesting itself in the Winter League, and every game is fought to a standstill. Much deadwood has been cut out of the teams, and they appear stronger now than ever.

F. J. "RED" PERKINS, secretary Winter League.

At a recent meeting of the league, Long Beach was admitted, and it has already shown that it can hold its own with the other teams. While the boys are not spectacular in their work they play consistent ball, and this is the kind that wins the greatest majority of games. There is little doubt, however, but that the team will be improved, for good players are always available.

With the admission of Long Beach the league now seems to be on a firm foundation, as there are six good teams in it. They will play each Sunday for the next two or three months. The officials that were recently elected for the ensuing year are as follows: H. F. Graham, president; F. J. Perkins, secretary; Frank Hanawalt, treasurer.

The schedule of games for today is as follows:

Long Beach vs. Hayward Colts at Long Beach; Western Hardware and Arms vs. Myers at Pasadena; Meeks vs. Florence at Florence.

POLO EXPERTS AT CORONADO.

Many noted eastern players may be seen in the polo games for the international-trophy at Coronado, in March. Several of the prominent eastern clubs are expected to send teams and the personnel includes the best players in the country.

The Bryn Mawr club, the Meadowbrook, and the Lakewood are prominent organizations which include in membership many of the widely known persons in the East. Probably the best player in America is Foxhall P. Keene, who took to England the team which tried to lift the Burlingame cup. He has captained many championship teams and also has competed in international auto races.

Harry Payne Whitney, son of the late W. C. Whitney, is an enthusiast on polo and a great horseman. He is a member of the Meadowbrook club. George McFadden of Philadelphia is a celebrated polo player, is good at racquet, and is chairman of the University of Pennsylvania Football Committee. He is a member of the Bryn Mawr club. Charles Randolph Snowden, a member of the Bryn Mawr and Lakewood Polo Clubs, has gradually advanced in his play until critics pronounce him one of the best in the country.

P. F. Collier, publisher and horseman, is one of the men who has dealt the Osler theory a solar plexus blow. Although well advanced in years he is one of the best polo players in the East. He made a remarkable record in one game. He took the ball at one end of the field, and despite the strenuous efforts of the opposing team carried the sphere the entire length of the field in three strokes and made a goal. Collier owns a dozen of the finest polo ponies in the world at his stables in Eatontown, N. J.

SPORTING COMMENT.

New Year Athletics.

Many lessons were taught in amateur athletics during last year, and improvements of the coming season may be developed from what has been learned. The trend in school athletics seems to be toward taking away the money-making and strenuous features from sport. Competent critics believe that, in time, gate receipts will not be collected, and all contests will be free to the public, possibly restricted by invitation. Expenses of travel and railroad would be paid by private subscription. Expensive trainers and apparatus would be tabooed. Athletes would be taught to take care of themselves and so order their lives that they would be fit for any feat and be regular in their habits. As it is, amateur athletes are under the care of professional coaches and trainers, who order their living and prevent the athlete from thinking out his tactics. This takes away all the individual initiative, and makes the man the creation of the coach and trainer, rather than a development of spontaneous manhood. Coaches and trainers will be needed to teach the men what to do, but, as it is, the instructors not only teach, but compel, adherence to the routine of training. The athlete is like a clock, wound up to do what is required. Athletes should be taught to depend on themselves entirely and should order their own movements. Then the winner will be the best man in more respects than physical.

Shortened Battles.

Unless boxers learn more of defense than they do nowadays, the game is going to degenerate in public opinion, and in physical attributes. A review of the history of fighters shows that most of the sluggers, who ate up untold punishment because they sacrificed defense for offense, are now dead, when they should be in the prime of middle age; or are in helpless condition physically and mentally. Terry McGovern is a living example. Kid Carter is another; so is Young Corbett. There are many of them. On the other hand, take the clever men—Jim Corbett, Joe Choynski, Kid McCoy and many others. They are in good health and strong. Abe Attell should live long in the fighting game, for it is doubtful if the sum total of his punishments equals that received by Batling Nelson in his fight with Joe Gans. Jack O'Brien ought to live to a good old age. It is obvious that the change in conditions must be gradual, and that some drastic action governing the fighting game must be adopted. The only measure which would effect desired results is to shorten the bouts and change the methods of giving decisions so that there would be a premium on cleverness. Perhaps it would be best to give no decisions. It is up to some strong man of influence to step in and demand a revision of the game, as did President Roosevelt in football.

Blooded Cats and Dogs.

The cat shows planned for the coming week, and later, are conducive to high-class sports in that interest therein serves to develop perfection in breeding of blooded animals. The same may be said of dogs. Nowhere in the country are conditions so good for rasing fine cats and dogs. While their production serves no great commercial end, yet there is nothing lost, and for art's sake the breeding of fine animals is well worth the while.

"MUGGSBY" M'GRAW AND HIS GIANTS.
Some of the Gotham National League ball players who will report here March 1 for their spring practice.

NEW YORK GIANTS TO PRACTICE HERE.

LOS ANGELES baseball fans thought they were very lucky several years ago when they had the Chicago National ball team here for two or three weeks during its spring practice term. The locals were fortunate in a baseball way, for they saw some very good games played between Chicago and the Los Angeles club, and had the satisfaction of seeing the Looloos beat the team that later on won the National League pennant.

This year we will have the New York Giants, so called, and there is naturally much interest shown in the team, for it has the reputation in the country of being a very bad acting bunch that eats the eyes out of umpires and tears down the grand stand occasionally if things don't go to suit the men. Three of the men are in this city at present, in Manager "Muggsy" McGraw, Shannon and Devlin, and they are apparently tame enough to eat out of your hand. They are very nice fellows, and the last ones that you would think are Bowery kings.

TWENTY-FIVE COMING.

McGraw will have twenty-five men here for practice, and they are to report March 1. All but six are men who were on the team last season, and McGraw thinks some of his new men will make good, so he will have no shortage of ball players. In fact, he will have a number to farm out to minor clubs, and it may be possible that Los Angeles will get a few, for we could use any man he has on his list.

The list of the old-timers who will be here consists of Devlin, Shannon, Seymour, Brown and Donlin as outfielders; McGann, Strang, Gilbert and Dahlen as infielders; Bresnahan, Bowerman and Smith, catchers, and Ames, Christy Mathewson, McGinnity, Taylor, Wiltse, Ferguson and H. Mathewson as pitchers. All of these men are well known to baseball fans all over the country and need no introduction.

In the way of new men, McGraw has signed outfielder Burke of the New Haven team of the Connecticut League, who led his league the past year with a batting average of .347. In the infielder line he has Shortstop Hannifan of the New Haven, Ct., team, Second Baseman Mullen of Baltimore and Shortstop Cochran of Cincinnati. He will try out a new catcher named Fitzgerald from the Utica team of the New York State League, and he has one new pitcher, West, who was with Billy Lush in the Rutland, Vt., team. It is a cinch that all of these new men must be good ones, or McGraw wouldn't take the trouble to sign them for this season.

SHAY MAY NOT PLAY.

Some of the newspapers reported that he had come West for the express purpose of signing Danny Shay of Stockton as a shortstop, but if you could hear McGraw talk you wouldn't think that he would go across the street to ask Shay for a cigarette. He admitted that he had had a talk with Shay, and that Shay wanted to play ball again, and for New York, too, but McGraw didn't sign him, and may not. He intimates that Shay is a little overrated, and that there are others in the business just as good, and probably better. When asked if Shay was to report here for practice, Mac said that he would not unless he was signed, and the inference is that he has made Shay an offer, and if Danny don't accept it, he will continue to sell cigars in Stockton this year.

Of course, it is too early to give even a guess as to the line-up of the team for this season, for some of the old-timers may be worn out and may be replaced by new men. All through the East the criticism has been made that McGraw has too many old-timers on his staff, and the fact that he has signed six or seven new men would lead one to believe that he will make a change in several positions. The success of the Giants this year will prove whether or not old-timers can hold their own with the younger men, for another year, at least.

McGraw, by the way, thinks very well of Southern California and our beautiful city, which is certainly very sweet of him, when it is a constant and never-ending struggle to get a sack of coal or wood.

PLANNING ATHLETICS IN GRAMMAR SCHOOLS.

AT THE Thirtieth-street school grounds the boys of the "grades" are preparing to inaugurate plans in athletics for the spring season.

The cohorts of the Grammar School League gather at the spacious, well-equipped grounds out in Thirtieth street, which have become the center of grammar-school athletic activity, and every afternoon one or more contests between the various schools take place.

The events that will fill the programme during the coming six months are baseball, track, girls' basketball, and an innovation in the way of a series of association football games.

The present school year so far has been a record-breaker both in the number of schools that have participated in the events run off, and in the interest manifested among the pupils of the schools. Owing to the unsettled state of the football question, no football series was played by the schools, but the boys' basketball season proved the most successful event of its kind ever carried out. It was finally won by the boys of the Twentieth-street school, the Thirtieth-street lads coming in second.

The question of selecting a substitute for the old intercollegiate football in the grammar schools was threshed out at length during the season with the result that the schools are now about to give the English game of association football a trial. It was agreed upon that the intercollegiate game was unsuitable for the grammar schools on account of its roughness and the element of danger connected with it, and an attempt to have Rugby tried out as a substitute met with little encouragement, as the boys in almost every one of the schools objected to the scrum formation, which kept all of them who were forced to participate in it out of the game as far as open play was concerned.

TEST FOOTBALL GAME.

Under the direction of Principal W. W. Tritt, the boys of the Thirtieth undertook to test the association game, and the result is highly satisfactory. The boys have taken to the game and Tritt declares that he believes the game is the one style of football that is adapted to the needs of the grammar schools.

Other schools have become interested in association and it has been decided to utilize the time between now and the promotion recess in February to try the game out. A meeting of representatives from the schools who are interested in the game was called during last week and a schedule of games, to be played on the Thirtieth-street grounds, was arranged. As soon as the weather and condition of the ground permit, play will be taken up.

The schools that will go in for association football at the start are: Griffin-avenue, Castelar, San Pedro, McKinley-avenue, Main, Second, Fourteenth, Thirtieth, Thirty-ninth and Fortieth streets. Others probably will fall into line when the game once gets a start.

As soon as the association football season is over and the schools open for the second term on February 8, the baseball season will be started. The baseball championship is now held by the Thirtieth-street school together with The Times trophy, a silver cup offered two years ago.

The San Pedro-street school was second in the race last season, and in the final game of the series between the two schools the victor won two out of three games, each so closely contested that there was only one point difference in the scores. The scores read 6-7, 6-5, and 2-1. This season there will be more schools than ever entered in the series, and, judging from the basketball series, the interest will be more than doubled.

SPRING TRACK WORK.

Later in the spring, track work will be taken up. A special grammar school meet will be held this year, and a new rule adopted for the schools by the committee of principals in charge of grammar school athletics will greatly better the conditions of the track and field events over those that have prevailed in the past. This rule restricts to two the number of events in which an individual contestant will be able to enter.

In many of the field days held in the past one individual performer has been able to carry the day for his school by participating in all or almost all of the events. This occurs more often in the grades than among older classes of athletes, owing to the possibility of there being present in one school a student physically developed beyond his years. The effect of this is not only injurious to the individual, but is distinctly operative against the chief aim of athletics in the schools, which is to interest and bring out a large number of pupils. The field day probably will be held some time in the latter part of April.

Girls' basketball is played throughout the greater part of the year, and the series is in progress. The championship is held by the Washington-street school, the Thirtieth-street school coming next in line. The annual championship trophy in this event is a handsome silver cup, and also was presented by The Times a year ago. It is now in the possession of the Washington-street school girls. This year's championship will not be settled until some time in March or April.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL LEAGUE.

Of the fifty-odd schools in the city practically all have come to be associated in some way with the Grammar School League, by this time. The following have been most active: Griffin avenue, Castellar, Custer avenue, Union avenue, Normal Training, Olive, Grand, Hoover, Berendo, Sentous, Sixteenth, Seventeenth, Norwood, Washington, Thirty-ninth, Vermont, Jefferson, Thirtieth, Fortieth, Main, McKinley avenue, Twentieth, San Pedro, Hewitt and Second-street school.

The committee of principals appointed by the Board of Education last September, to look after the welfare of sports and athletics among the grades is made up as follows: W. W. Tritt, principal of Thirtieth-street school, chairman; Miss Estelle Cowan, principal of the Griffin-avenue school; Miss Vesta Oldmsted, principal of the Thirty-ninth-street school; A. E. Dolland, principal of the Washington-street school; T. J. Phillips, principal of the San Pedro-street school.

The committee holds regular meetings, and before the opening of every season issues a call for a meeting of the captains of the various school teams for the purpose of arranging a schedule and other details. As far as possible the management of the series is left to the students and the committee simply exercises a supervisory power.

BASKETBALL CONTEST.

Los Angeles High School Boys Win Very Close Game from Team of Downey High School.

The boy basketball players of the Downey High School came to this city yesterday morning to defeat the Los Angeles High School team in a basketball game, but went home defeated last night, losing by the very close margin of 35 to 30. The game was played in the gym of the local High School and was one of the best ever seen in this city, being won in the last few minutes of play. At the end of the first half the score was 17 to 16 in favor of Downey and in the second half it was nip and tuck all the way until Los Angeles made a spurt near the finish and won.

For the winners the points were made as follows: Rogers 20, Bristol 4, D. Goodwin 2, Paulin 6 and Newsome 3, while for the losers Byrne made 16, Henshaw 8 and E. F. Standlee 6. Newsome substituted for Bristol in the second half. The referee was Keeney and the line-up was as follows:

Los Angeles.		Downey.
Rogers	forward	Henshaw
Bristol	forward	E. F. Standlee

ROUGH-HOUSE WRESTLING.

Excited Men Slug Each Other and Crowd Is so Boisterous That Police Are Called in.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—The catch-as-catch-can wrestling match here last night between William Demetral of Chicago and Carl Pons, the French champion of Montreal, was won by Demetral, in one of the roughest contests ever seen here. Demetral gained two falls out of three.

The men became so belligerent and the crowd so boisterous that the manager sent for the police. The wrestlers used their fists at every opportunity and the Frenchman left the ring with a deep cut under his right eye.

IMPASSABLE IS CASITAS.

ROADS TO NORTH WORSE THAN EVER BEFORE.

Storms Have Played Havoc With All Highways in Ventura County. Nearly Completed Bridge Over the Ventura River Swept Out, and Entire Casitas Region Flooded.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

VENTURA, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The storm of the past few days has played havoc with the roads of this county. From the Conejo to the Santa Barbara line the roads are cut with gullies or piled deep with mud and débris. Ellery Barranca became a torrent of water and every culvert was overflowed. In many places the road itself became a channel for the flood.

In the Conejo section around Moorpark and east and south of the Santa Clara River the roads are badly broken up, but the Supervisors have men at work and within a week or two these roads will be in fair condition.

From the Santa Clara River to Ventura the many barrancas are in bad shape. Several of the bridges were unsafe, but have temporarily been put in shape for use. Ventura avenue to the Casitas crossing is in bad condition, though teams are now passing over it. The overflow from the Ventura River and from the Cañada Larga came down the avenue making it like a river itself. Supervisor Clark has had men at work ever since the flood waters subsided, making the roads passable.

The Casitas crossing will be impassable for days. The high water made new channels and the crossing is in worse shape than ever before. The river was higher than ever before known, and it will take days for the water to become shallow enough for autos to cross.

The splendid steel bridge across the Ventura being built by the county, which was almost completed, was taken out by the flood. It is not probable that this bridge will now be completed until next summer or fall.

The Casitas Pass is well-nigh impassable. The road is gullied and cut from the foot of the grade to the summit. The rainfall in the mountain section was especially heavy and the roads show the effect of the torrent that flowed down the mountainsides. It will be inadvisable for autos to attempt the trip over the mountain for at least a week or ten days.

AUTO FIRE WAGON SHOWN.

Light Chemical Truck Carrying Two Tanks and Eight Men Is on Exhibition at Auto Show.

One of the latest developments of automobile industry is being shown in the commercial vehicle department of the Madison Square Garden automobile show. This is a combination emergency and chemical automobile wagon for fire departments. After practical use in the fire department of Springfield, Mass., the utility of such a wagon has been demonstrated, and as a result the Combination Ladder Company of Providence, large makers of chemical tanks, and the Knox Automobile Company have entered into an arrangement whereby a stock model of this type will be put on the market.

The car is a Knox chassis with a forty-horse-power four-cylinder air-cooled motor. It carries two thirty-five-gallon chemical tanks, the usual amount of hose and other paraphernalia, and a squad of eight men.

One of the cars has been in use in Springfield for three months, answering every alarm, and its work has been so satisfactory that the Fire Commissioners are now proposing to buy another machine and divide the city into two sections. Insurance companies are said to have given it the strongest commendation, as the promptness with which it arrives at fires increases the salvage.

The fire department of Wayne, Pa., have ordered one of the cars, and the city fathers of Hartford, Ct., have opened bids for an automobile of a similar kind.

FIRST ENTRY FOR GRAND PRIX.

Three Bayard-Clement Racers Nominated and Their Drivers Named.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PARIS, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The first French firm to enter automobiles for the Grand Prix race of 1907 is the Bayard-Clement. Three automobiles have been entered. One of these racers already is built and is expected to be on the road in a few weeks. It will be driven by the maker's son, Albert Clement.

The second driver is Pierre Garcet and the third Gaudermain.

The first entry of the tire contest in connection with the Grand Prix is the firm of Falconnet-Perodeaud.

NEXT ON TAPIS IS HILL CLIMB.

IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION ALREADY AT WORK.

Washington's Birthday Event on Pasadena-Altadena Course Already Engaging Attention—Rains Have Damaged Roads, but Proper Repair Will Insure Speedy Track.

After the automobile show, the next thing of importance in the local motoring world is the Pasadena-Altadena hill climb. The Altadena Improvement Association has already started the work of preparing the ground and getting the machinery in motion for a successful event. They wish to have the Washington's birthday automobile festival one of the great fixtures in the auto world, and will spare no pains to arrive at this result.

At the recent meeting of the association, the same committee that had in charge the preparations last year was reappointed for this year. The committee was instructed to confer with the Automobile Dealers' Association, and arrange matters with them. The association does not take on itself the running of the contest, the starting and timing, the entry list, or any of the purely automobile matters. These are in the province of the dealers' association, and they will do much as they did last year in all probability. They will have to worry around to provide a better contest than they did last year, but there is always room for improvement.

The main trend of automobile development has been toward more powerful and lighter cars, and among the products of the leading factories for 1907 are several cars that should do better than the winner of last year, a Thomas. A battle royal can be expected in the big touring car and free-for-all classes, and the new type of semi-racing runabout should provide a few examples of the speediest kind of work.

The course will need a large amount of work. Soon after the contest last year the Altadena Improvement Association took steps to provide for a still better roadbed on the upper part of the run. The long cypress-lined avenue is now in very good shape, despite the work of the recent storms. It was formerly oiled only in the center, but the association oiled it along the sides also during the summer, and their work has been well repaid.

The upper part of the course has changed somewhat the past year. Two score of bungalows have sprung up at the finish line, where formerly there was hardly a house. The road used to end in a jumping-off place, and now it has been continued at a slight angle, with sidewalks and cement gutters.

The lower part of the course, within the limits of Pasadena, is not so good. In the first place, the electric car line has been extended up Los Robles avenue to Washington street, which leaves a narrow track for the cars to follow. This track has been badly scored by the rains, and will need repairing. Just inside the city limits there is a stretch of nearly a block where the rains have flooded sand onto the road, and this will have to be fixed. The double turn needs banking, also.

In spite of the rains, however, the course is still only in need of a little work here and there to make it eminently satisfactory.

GARAGE FOR DOCTORS.

Scheme to Provide Pasadena Medicos With Special Auto Service Will Be Discussed Tuesday.

A doctors' garage in Pasadena has been a dream of the medical profession there for some time, and now it seems possible that it will become a reality. Three months ago it was seriously proposed, and those who feel the need of it have been investigating the situation since then.

Tuesday at the meeting of the Pasadena branch of the Los Angeles County Medical Association the matter will come up for action. Dr. Z. T. Mallaby is the chief proponent of the idea, and he is prepared to further the scheme by every means in his power.

Doctors need special attention to their wants in the automobile line. Many use electrics in Pasadena, and quick charging of the batteries is an essential, as doctors never know when they may be called on to turn out in the night. They must have their automobiles at instant command. If their machines are forced to wait their turn, the doctors feel they cannot rely on the automobile for ever ready service. For the same reason quick repairs are also necessary.

A coöperative garage has been suggested, where none but the machines of doctors would be received. On just what basis the scheme will be worked out cannot be told until after the meeting Tuesday.

Expert Coming for Show.

J. W. Willcox has just received a letter from J. D. Maxwell, head of the Maxwell factory at Tarrytown, stating that the firm has decided to send one of their head experts to Los Angeles for the auto show. Mr. Ossenhauser, an automobile man of long experience and one of the leading men at the Maxwell factory, has been selected, and is already on his way here. During the show he will demonstrate the Maxwell car, besides giving the benefit of his experience to any Maxwell users who may ask advice.

MANY COLORS IN THIS SHOW.

CHICAGO GETTING READY FOR AUTO FESTIVAL.

Green, Scarlet, Black and Gold the Basis of the Color Scheme.—New Car Announced on the Chicago Market—Hay in Ford Big Six Makes First Century of Year.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—In point of artistic and impressive decorative effects, the Chicago Automobile Show, February 2 to 9, will be in a position to vie with any similar industrial display. This, if the statement of Samuel A. Miles, the manager, is to be accepted and the artisans are successful in carrying out the comprehensive scheme which has just been formulated. The management of the Chicago exhibition has a doubly difficult task confronting it, inasmuch as two buildings must be transformed to do honor to King Automobile. Both the First Regiment Armory and the Coliseum, the two structures which will be used jointly for the show, will be adorned in uniform style.

The floors will be carpeted in green with borders of red, while massive pillars of cream tint, decorated in black and gold, will support the uniformly lettered firm names. Beneath the sign bearing the maker's name will be an arch of staff, with an automobile design on either side, the work of Henry A. Thiede of Chicago. At the left will appear a racing car, apparently traveling at highest speed, while at the right will be a touring car filled with a merry party. A central plaque, designed by A. T. Merrick of New York, will show the head and shoulders of Mercury, the hands grasping the steering wheel of an automobile. The lettering on the distinguishing sign over each booth will be of gold on a scarlet background.

Distributed at intervals through the room will be heroic figures typifying sport and industry, designed by Thiede. About the gallery edge will be placed figures of chauffeur and chauffeuse, alternately. The gallery itself will be utilized for exhibits of accessories. The total cost of decoration is given as $30,000.

Ralph Temple, president of the Chicago Automobile Trade Association, has announced that he will manufacture a car during the coming year, to be known as the Temple Marvel. It will be a two-cylinder, 14-16 h.p., runabout, with jump seat if desired, selling for $850.

Thomas Hay, at the wheel of a 1907 six-cylinder Ford, completed the first century run of the year in Chicago. Starting with the toll of the midnight bells, in the early morning of January 1, he kept the big car in operation until the odometer registered the completion of one hundred miles. Mr. Ford observed the traditional custom of the bicyclists of Chicago, among whom there was always keen competition for the honor of having ridden the first century of the year. Mr. Hay had no competition.

HEAVY EXPRESS SHIPMENTS.

White Garage Gets Five Pope-Hartfords, Including the Show Car.

Among the dealers who are giving money to the express company so that they may have cars for the show, the White Garage has probably expressed more cars than any one else. Five Pope-Hartfords are now standing in a beautiful row in the garage, the result of one express shipment. After they have admired the nice line of cars, Cap. Ryus, Billy Ruess, et. al., go into the little office and silently regard a $1100 hole in the bank account. Then they think of the White steamers also coming by express, and sigh heavily.

One of the Pope-Hartfords that arrived yesterday is the show car. It is finished in white all over with blue striping. The upholstery is dead black, which makes a fine contrast, and the car is bound to attract attention. The engine is not specially finished, but after Billy Ruess has driven a gang of helots up to it to buff the engine all over, and polish the pipes, and paint the cylinders, it will glitter like the morning star.

The other Pope-Hartfords are not show cars, but they exhibit various color schemes. One is Napier green, another Brewster green, a third gray and black, and there are two in dark blue, one with gold trimmings, and one with light blue striping.

The show White which is coming is finished in white and gold. It is of the Pullman type, with extra seats.

SPORTY SPEED WAGON COMES.

E. C. Anthony's Packard Runabout Finished in Green and Scarlet, Attracts Attention.

Earle C. Anthony's specially finished Packard runabout has arrived in town and is now dazzling the eyes of spectators. It is painted a tender tint of apple green, with scarlet running gear. Mr. Anthony says that it is not loud, but he said the same concerning his Buick "23" runabout.

The car is the standard Packard runabout with rumble seat. What is somewhat unique, it is fitted with a top. This top will repay attention. It resembles a Victoria hood in shape, and is made of the special cravenette cloth that the Packard factory has used this season. The leather trimmings are in apple green.

The upholstery of the car is also apple green leather, although this does not appear except on close inspection. Cloth covers have been fitted over all the leather work, and at a distance the seats seem to be of dun leather.

High-class sport is planned for Coronado this year and the practice should be encouraged, for it brings into Southern California many of the richest persons in the country. While they may not be here for the purpose of developing commercial relations, yet if they are pleased with what they see and experience, it is a good result. The influence on pure sport is excellent for those who partake are of the highest class, who would spurn anything mean for ethical rea[illegible]

GOSSIP ALONG GASOLINE ROW.

Stoddard-Dayton touring cars have been sold to Dr. Clarence Moore and F. C. Hornby of Redlands.

A 1907 Thomas touring car has arrived for C. M. Shevlin. This is the first Thomas of the season to be delivered, as the demonstrating car is the only other Thomas that has come to Los Angeles.

The Superior Auto Company reports sales of Haynes cars as follows: Fifty-horse-power touring cars to H. C. Breeden and J. M. Jones of Ocean Park; and thirty-horse-power runabouts to F. O. Johnson and J. F. Bowen.

Wayne cars have been sold during the past week as follows: Mrs. S. G. Potter, Wayne cruiser; H. C. Norris, model "K;" E. D. Hackney, model "C;" G. F. Wickersham of Santa Ana, light victoria; L. E. Worrell of Pasadena, runabout.

Mitchell cars were delivered during the past week to E. R. Feuerborn of Los Angeles and Deane Laughlin of Santa Maria.

The Maxwell agency has received word that the new Maxwell plant at Newcastle, Ind., is progressing finely. The foundations are finished, and they expect to begin turning out machines in three months.

A. P. Renton, who has taken the agency for the Great Smith car, has received his demonstrator. The peculiar features of the car have been explained in The Times. The demonstrator has a straight-line body, and is finished in Mercedes red.

Garbutt the Winner.

In a specially arranged game of handball for the sum of $100 a side, Garbutt and Brain defeated Holbrook and Schmidt at the Los Angeles Athletic Club, yesterday afternoon. The score of the match was 21-17, 21-14.

GOOD THINGS FOR FIGHTERS.

Fiesta Week Looked Forward to as Millennium.

Time When Meal Tickets Are Ready for Delivery.

Attell-Baker Row Settled If Jeffries Referees.

The Fiesta week card is requiring much of Manager McCarey's attention, these days. Although he has arranged for the big battle of the week he proposes to have two or three others of large caliber. If it is possible to secure Joe Bowker, the Englishman will be brought to this country to meet the winner of the Abe Attell-Harry Baker battle. As an international contest the fight would attract world-wide interest, as is indicated by the attention given the Neil-Bowker battle in England.

It seems almost certain that the purse McCarey can offer will attract the Englishman, as no such money is given in his country. A 500-pound purse is a big thing in England and were 2000 pounds to be offered here Bowker might jump at the chance.

Either Baker or Attell would make a worthy opponent for Bowker. Both have beaten Frankie Neil and did it more neatly than Bowker, from all accounts. Jim Neil "hollered" after each of the three fights, but he seems to have made the most noise after the English defeat, so it is probable that Frankie had the best chance in that battle.

The battle should be a mighty good one, whichever boy meets Bowker. Americans believe that either can whip the Englishman, in the English style or American.

One other bout for Fiesta week no doubt will be selected. There are many to pick from, but very likely the selection will be from the lightweight ranks. Joe Gans and Harry Lewis may be the card if they can be secured. It is probable that they would demand too much money, considering that McCarey already has to pay $30,000 for the Burns-O'Brien battle. Joe Thomas and Honey Mellody would be a great card, as neither have been seen in action here.

If Jim Flynn continues to make such a good showing he may be chosen to meet some top notcher in the Fiesta week card. It is not altogether certain that more than one fight can be pulled off, but McCarey is desirous to make of the week a carnival long to be remembered in fistic circles.

ATTELL-BAKER BOUT.

The Attell-Baker situation remains the same. It is understood that the difficulty is smoothed over, if Jeffries consents to act as referee. If he refuses, there may be all sorts of trouble, especially if either of the contestants wants to flunk out.

That the contest between the boys will be hot and bitter goes without saying, after all the trouble and ill-feeling that has been caused. It is not at all improbable that the little fellows may throw science to the winds at times and go in to slug for dear life. In that case the crowd surely will get a run for its money.

Harry Baker and party expect to occupy a box seat at the Orpheum Thursday evening, the night before the battle with Abe Attell. In the party will be George Brown, who fights George Cox in the principal preliminary; Frank McDonald, Joe Smith, Fred Ward, and William Silverman.

The last time Attell and Baker fought both boys had box seats on the same side of the house at the same playhouse. Then Attell beat Baker to it and got the front box. Baker had to look over and past Attell to see the show. This time Baker stole a march on his rival. He secured the front box a week ahead of time. Abe will have to take a back seat this time.

BROTHERLY LOVE.

Not much brotherly love is lost between the Sullivan twins, Mike and Jack. When Jack lost the decision to Jim Flynn the other night, Mike sent him a bitter telegram advising him to pack his duds and come home to drive a one-horse dump cart. Fine brotherly sympathy, that.

It is said that if the twins only would get together and be friends, they could make the biggest hit of any two brothers in professional life today. As an entertaining pair they can do a turn which would win them big salaries on the best vaudeville circuits. As exhibition boxers they could do as clever a stunt as any of them.

It is said that in England the pair assisted in an entertainment and their turn was so good that the Sullivan part of the show was repeated with considerable extension. They did stunts with the banjo and guitar, the piano; sang songs, danced, and boxed. The show was given for the benefit of charity and some seats sold as high as $15.

MENNEY OFFERED MATCH.

Eddie Menney has been offered a match with Freddie Weeks at Cripple Creek, Colo., by the management at that place, but no word has been heard from Weeks and it is believed the latter is after bigger game, as he agrees to meet Jimmy Walsh at 120 pounds, ringside.

Menney is not stuck on going to the mountain country as he would have to remain there some time to get acclimated or loose out. Weeks is a good boy, as he has defeated Monte Attell in eight rounds, and has been beating all the good ones recently.

Charles Howell of Visalia is said to be the most promising heavy man in California. He is an amateur boxer of good family and came very near joining the professional ranks, but was dissuaded by relatives. He weighs over 200 pounds and whipped all the big men in his neck of the woods.

SANDY FERGUSON.

New Englanders in Los Angeles are persistent in boosting Sandy Ferguson. They say that all he needs is good management of some one who will humor his whims. Said one of them last night: "There is but one real good man in the heavyweight class in New England at the present time, and with a little judgment on his part he would figure prominently in national pugilistic circles. That individual is "Sandy" Ferguson, who has been prominently before the public since 1899. Ferguson is the New England champion, and has been for several years, and he is one of the few heavyweights that met Joe Walcott that can boast of a victory over the diminutive darky. Sandy's introduction as a boxer was done in the spirit of a joke at the Millstream Boat Club in Chelsea eight years ago, but he made good from the start. Then he was introduced at the B.A.A. and won two matches there. After those battles he whipped Jack Buckley, the New England heavyweight champion, in East Boston, and since then he has beaten every big man of his weight in New England."

HOW JEFFRIES TRAINED FOR FORMER BOUTS.

Sparring with Fitzsimmons on one of his tours through the States.

A Boston critic says the following of Jimmy Walsh:

"Jimmy Walsh stands at the head of the bantam class in New England, and he is peerless in that division. There is not one boy in New England at his weight capable of competing in the ring with him. Jimmy is a product of the B.A.A., but finished his fistic course of instruction at the Lenox and Essex clubs."

WRESTLING BOXERS.

Very few wrestlers have ever become proficient boxers; and it may be said that very few boxers ever were good wrestlers. George Hackenschmidt aspires to be a fighter, and so does Frank Gotch. Both want to fight Jeffries. Neither could box with Joe Gans, apparently.

Joe Walcott seems to be the only wrestler on record who ever became a good fighter. Joe was a wrestler before he took to the fighting game and was a good one at that. He is built for mat work and the best of the middleweight wrestlers had nothing on Joe. Since becoming a fighter Walcott has not wrestled except in training and in private.

JOHNNY SUMMERS.

One of the best English boys fighting today is Johnny Summers, who boxes at 126 pounds. He is a hard hitter and very clever. Early in December he met Spike Robson and lost on a foul, but not until he had given him a terrific beating. Summers became excited and hit Robson as the latter was down on one knee in the fifth round. The battle took place before the National Sporting Club and was the feature event at the annual benefit to "Peggy" Bettinson, early in December.

GANS OPTIMISTIC.

SAYS BRITT IS EASY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Joe Gans completed his Chicago engagement and left tonight for Baltimore to visit his mother in obedience to the maternal command to "keep stepping and bring home the bacon." Gans says he will knock out Jimmy Britt in jig time.

"He is not any more dangerous than the others," said Joe today. "I know he is a clever boxer, but I will bet that I stop him inside of ten rounds."

Lavigne and Erne.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Believing that an old-timer should fight an old-timer if he really wants to get back in the ring, Jack McGuigan, manager of the National Athletic Club, has made plans to match Kid Lavigne in a six-round bout with Frank Erne. The date selected for the bout is January 19.

Indians' Field Record.

CARLISLE (Pa.) Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Carlisle Indian athletes have announced the official track and field records by the students of the school:

100-yard dash, time, 10 seconds, held by Caswell, Beaver, Mt. Pleasant.

220-yard dash, time, 22 3-5 seconds, held by Mt. Pleasant.

BEAGLES AS HUNTERS.

Are Considered Good Trailers of Rabbits in the East Where They Are Used Extensively.

Beagle hounds are used extensively in the East for the purpose of hunting rabbits. Very few are owned in Southern California, as the conditions of hunting are so different. Few persons consider rabbit hunting a sport here, as there are plenty of other kinds of game for the nimrod to hunt. The jack rabbits are too swift for the beagle. They require the swiftest hounds in coursing, and very few persons hunt them with dogs.

BEAGLE HOUNDS.
Excellent rabbit hunters in brush country.

Beagles are very low in stature, and some of them are extremely bench-legged. Beagles are liked in the East because they can worm their way through brush heaps and route out the rabbits. Then, after they begin to "circle," these hounds are so slow of foot that the rabbit does not hole up at once, but hops along slowly a short distance in front of the hound, thus allowing the huntsman to get a fair shot.

ROD AND REEL CLUB.

Members to Hold Big Jollification Meeting at Symphony Hall Wednesday Night.

The big jollification meeting of the Southern California Rod and Reel Club will occur next Wednesday evening in Symphony Auditorium, Blanchard building. It will be quite the banner event of its kind in local sportsmen's history.

There will be music by a male quartette, a fencing exhibition, perhaps a boxing match or two, refreshments and in all probability some smoking material characteristic of club gatherings.

Secretary Ellsworth Salyer, unaided by the entertainment committee, arranged an attractive programme. The entire membership of the club is expected to turn out.

The New York District Attorney's office has begun an inquiry as to whether there is a theatrical trust in that city.

TRACK WORK AT STANFORD.

First Field Meet Held There in Two Years.

McFarland Again Leads the Cardinal Men.

Fear Stanton and Donnell of California.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Jan. 11.—Cinder-path prospects for the coming spring are the brightest that have opened a Cardinal track season for many years. The annual meet with the University of California will take place early in April, and Stanford has set to work to put a team in the field that will be unbeatable.

Not only the prospect for an exceptionally good team makes the present season an unusually interesting one, but the fact that the meet will be the first in two years to be held between the colleges will intensify the fighting spirit. Besides this it will be the first field day that has been held on the Stanford campus since 1904, and the first ever held on the new track, which will be completed on Stanford Field in time to permit of its use for the event.

"Jack" McFarland of Los Angeles is again captain of the Stanford track team, having been reëlected upon the opening of college last fall. He probably has made a greater name for himself in Stanford track athletics than any other one man who ever competed for the Cardinal. With McFarland on hand to run the hurdles Stanford can feel reasonably sure of two firsts in the hurdles events. He also will help in the getting together of a good relay team.

Although many good men are back from last year's "earthquake" team, it is expected that the mainstay of the team will be the freshmen. The effect of the great interscholastic field day, inaugurated at Stanford last spring, can be seen, as numbers of the star performers in that event are registered in the freshmen class.

Stanford has her old star runner back, and one of the most interesting things to watch during the season will be the progress made by Miller, the crack distance man. Miller has competed in but one field meet. He won the mile, the half-mile, and took third place in the quarter in the meet at Berekely in 1905, and ran all the events in a pouring rain that covered the track with several inches of water. Probably no long-distance runner who ever attended a college on the Pacific Coast gave as much promise of becoming a record-breaker, and as the field day of 1906 was cut out by the earthquake, this year's meet will be the first opportunity he will have to show what development he has been able to make under the training of "Dad" Moulton. Miller should insure Stanford first place in both the mile and the half, and the records in both of those events will be on shaky ground.

Crowley, the star athlete of Throop Polytechnic of Pasadena, in the southern meets, last year, is now at Stanford, and should add points to the Cardinal's score in the pole vault and both the jumps. Bellah, the star athlete of the Hanford High School, who made such a brilliant showing in the last interscholastic meet held at Stanford, entered the University last semester, and was counted upon for the jumps, but was compelled to take a leave of absence in December, and will not return until next fall.

Maundrell of Lowell High School of San Francisco, who held the record for the mile in the northern interscholastic league until he was beaten out by Kenneth Lee, of Harvard School, in the last interscholastic meet, is registered and if he developes as his High School form indicates, he will help Miller to corral all the distance points for Stanford. Zimmer, a transfer from the University of Indiana, will help the old men out in the half, and if he runs up to his old time of 2:03, will take an easy first in the event.

The return of Horton makes Stanford exceptionally strong in the hurdles, and also strengthens her in the field as the big man from Ukiah is good for five or six points in the weights.

In the dashes there will be Edwards, Davis, Owen, and Holman, but California must be conceded the majority of the points in this part of the programme on account of the presence of her two Los Angeles men, Stanton and Donnell.

Trainer Moulton expresses the opinion that the Cardinal's prospects for a winning track team are better this year than at the outset of any season in which he has had the training of a Stanford team. Great preparations are being made for the interscholastic field meet this year; a large number of trophies have been added to the list, and the gathering promises to be a record breaker for High School field meets on the Pacific Coast. Several Southern California schools have signified their intentions of sending teams. The meet will probably be the first big affair held on the new Stanford track.

BASEBALL SQUAD.

CARDINAL OUTLOOK.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Jan. 11.—With the Rugby team back from Vancouver and disbanded for the year, athletic interest is now divided between baseball and track work. Baseball comes to the fore slightly in advance in the spring, and this year the season has started off with a vim and the Cardinal is out to win with one of the most promising squads that Stanford has put on the diamond for many seasons. Lanagan is again at the helm, which is in itself a magic word with the men in red sweaters and big S's.

The fact that the team will consist of all return men except one, seems to insure success, but California also has as bright an outlook and much will have to depend on Coach Lanagan's ability to develop his men into the best possible form.

The first baseball practice will be held on the 21st of this month, and after that the candidates will go into training and do as much work as weather will permit up to the date of the intercollegiate games in March. The first game will be with Santa Clara College on about February 2, and following that there will be an average of two games a week. In this way Lanagan will go on with his successful policy of last year of developing the 'varsity by a continuous and thorough system of practice games.

Of last season's 'varsity baseball players, J. H. Bell and D. D. Sales will not play again this year, but both of these men will be substituted by competent players. Capt. Presley has in past years proved himself an excellent man on first base, and will no doubt this year be still better. T. R. Cadwalader, whose home is in Los Angeles, and who made his 'varsity letter last year, is still at Stanford and is looked to now as a valuable man for the infield. He will probably make either the second base position or that of shortstop.

Fenton and Sampson, both old 'varsity men, will go to make up a fast and hard-hitting infield. The Cardinals are well supplied with pitchers, having three, all of whom can be relied upon. Of the three, it is likely that W. C. Theils will develop into the best on account of his speed. The outfield is even better off, having all old men, with a number of good substitutes. A. J. Chalmers will probably play left; C. C. Owen of Los Angeles, center, and E. G. Dudley right.

The freshman class is said to be well stocked with first-rate baseball players, so that in case any vacancies appear, or any of the old men weaken, there will be plenty of material from which to choose new men.

BOXERS' QUARRELS.

Abe Attell and Harry Baker are making a grave mistake in quarreling over matters pertaining to the referee question, or any other, for that matter. The men or their representatives should get together and talk the matter over sanely. It is bad for the game in general to squabble. Although some of the blood-thirsty fans may be worked into such a frenzy of expectancy that they will part with a few dollars to see gore shed, the general public does not like bickerings. No more enthusiastic crowd ever saw a fight than that at the Sullivan-Flynn battle, and yet these men had not the least difficulty before the meeting.

PLUNGER GATES ANGRY.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] John W. Gates is prepared, so his friends declare, to make it hot for the turf moguls in the event of an adverse decision by the Jockey Club in the case of "Boots" Durnell.

The latter is Gates's protegé and has been backed by the millionaire in the ownership of a large stable headed by Nealon, the great horse which Durnell purchased last fall from Barney Schreiber for $15,000.

A Remarkable Car

One of the most interesting exhibits at the Auto Show next week will be the 50 H.P. seven-passenger National. This is the only shaft-driven car built in America that is equipped with Hess-Bright ball bearings to crank shafts and cam shafts. Thirty-six annular ball bearings are used in the 1907 Nationals and, as they are practically frictionless, the entire power of the motor is transmitted to the driving wheels. The advantage of ball bearings in the motor of an automobile is shown by the brake tests of these new National engines, four cylinders of 4⅞ bore by 5-inch stroke, giving 52½ horse power at 1000 revolutions, an unparalleled performance. The superiority of small cylinders over large ones is conceded by all experienced motorists; they consume less fuel and jar the crank shaft and transmission less, saving tires as well as preventing breakages. The new Nationals have individual cylinders, opposed valves, two sets of spark plugs, high-tension magneto and accumulators in reserve. The transmission is selective and there are two internal expanding brakes on each hub. The price is $3650.

...RACE RESULTS.
...EVERY RACE.
...PRESS—P.M.)
...Jan. 12.—The
...Emeryville track, the Andrew Selling stake, resulted in a victory for Sam Hildreth's Rapid Water, over a shifty field. When Williams gave him his head he drew away from Burleigh, who found the distance too far, but got the short end of the purse. Favorites swept the entire card. Results:

Three and one-half furlongs: Firestone, 114 (L. Williams,) 1 to 6, won; Wilmore, 106 (Horner,) 13 to 1, second; Jeremiah, 103 (McBride,) 12 to 1, third—time, 0:43 1-5. Rhinestone, War Sawyer, Pajerita, Luxuric, Wayne and Irish Mike also ran.

Five furlongs—Temacea, 97 (Horner,) 6 to 5, won; Red Bill, 88 (Dugan,) 75 to 1, second; David Boland, 111 (L. Williams,) 8 to 1, third—time, 1:02 2-5. Cloud Light and George P. McNear also ran.

One mile, selling—Dorado, 104 (Horner,) even, won; Lazelle, 99 (Hunter,) 9 to 1, second; Lucian, 104 (Graham,) 2 to 1, third—time, 1:45. Byronerdale, Pickaway, Pinaud also ran.

Six and one-half furlongs, Andrew Selling stakes—Rapid Water, 109 (L. Williams,) 11 to 10, won; Joe Coyne, 106 (Brown,) 11 to 2, second; Burleigh, 106 (Graham,) 6 to 1, third—time, 1:23 1-5. Mandator, Miss Officious, Hector, Mansard, Mary F. and Blagg also ran.

Mile and one-sixteenth—Fulletta, 107 (Graham,) 3 to 2, won; Gov. Davis, 104 (Sandy,) 7 to 1, second; Graphite, 106 (C. Miller,) 7 to 1, third—time, 1:51. Miss Rillie, Plausible, Beechwood also ran.

One mile, the Bourbon Belle handicap—Sir Edward, 113 (Graham,) 6 to 5, won; Northwest, 97 (Davis,) 5 to 1, second; Ramus, 102 (Horner,) 12 to 5, third—time, 1:43 3-5. Boloman and Rightful also ran.

New Orleans Card.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 12.—In the steeplechase, the second event at City Park today, Jockey E. Morrison was thrown and badly hurt. Jockey Hueston was also thrown.

Lucky Charm, the most consistent performer of the present meeting, was shot and killed today by his owners, the horse having broken down. Results:

Five furlongs—Spider Web won, Duchess of Montebello second, Kankakee third—time 1:01 3-5.

Steeplechase, short course—Uncle James won, Aules second, Harefoot third—time, 3:05 3-5.

Three furlongs—Lattice won, Ruby Wicke second, Stephen third—time, :35 4-5.

One mile—Gold Ice won, Judge Post second, Columbia Girl third—time, 1:40.

Seven furlongs, handicap—Emergency won, Meadow Breeze second, Phil Finch third—time, 1:25 2-5.

One mile, selling—Wes won, Consideration second, Polly Prim third—time, 1:39 3-5.

GOOD HUNTING.

Ideal Hunting Conditions Despite Heavy Weather—Good Sport With Snipe.

Despite the idea in Southern California that long-continued rains mean scattered birds and spoiled sport, two unusually good days marked the sport of the last week.

The country was inundated from one end to the other, and pools of considerable size stood in every depression, making good resting places for ducks. Conditions were as nearly ideal for the duck hunter as he may ever expect to find them, and yet all the clubs had very fair shooting, both a week ago yesterday and last Wednesday, not excepting those which take their week-end sport on Sunday.

Roaring southeasters in seemingly endless succession, high winds and squalls of rain featured both the Saturday and Wednesday shoots of clubs in the Chico country, and resulted in rather small turnouts. This is, in fact, the chief cause of the deterioration noticed in shooting during the rains; the inclement weather keeps some parlor hunters at home.

Circuit Judge Debolt has refused to dissolve the injunction restraining the Hawaiian Territorial government from exchanging its lands on the island of Lanai for other lands. The judge holds that the proposed exchange is illegal and unwarranted. His decision checks the plan of Gov. Carter to make the exchange.

As the public school boys are going to take up the association game, some of the players may volunteer their services as coaches of the various teams. Each of the public school teams may be coached by the same man, and thus establish a rivalry between the big players as to which shall turn out the best eleven.

It is proposed to invite the school boys to witness some of the games to be played by the big teams in order that they may learn the fine points of the play.

Association football is played with the feet. It is a foul to use the hands. The players may "dribble," but that is the extent of the hand play. Sometimes the head is used, the ball being bounced from one player to another in that way.

Eleven men compose the team. There are: A center forward, right and left outside wing forwards, right and left inside wing forwards, center half-back, right and left half-back, right and left full-back, and goal tender. The latter is the only player who can use his hands to catch the ball, or to hold it when kicking.

PUBLIC PAYS ALL EXPENSES.

"Insiders" Make the Racing Game a Sure Thing.

Ascot Swallows Millions of People's Money.

Not Even a Square Gamble for "Outsiders."

"Would you rather be an insider looking out, or an outsider looking in?"

This is a saying often heard around the betting ring at Ascot, and it is always chanted by an "insider" looking "out," a bookmaker or an employé of a bookmaker, and it can be stated that a man looking in at the racing game has a slim chance to make money.

The expense of making a book is enormous. In the first place, on a track like Ascot or Oakland, the "cut in," or fee to be paid the racing association for the privilege of booking for each day is $120, salaries of two "block" men, $15 a day each, or $30; salaries of three box men, $10 a day each, or $30 and each book usually has one outside man at $10 a day, making a total salary roll of $70, and the incidentals are about $10 a day. The total expense of each book is, therefore, about $200 a day. There are about twenty-eight books at Ascot Park, and they pay out, before going to work each day, the sum of $5600. The meeting lasts ninety days, during which time the books pay to the association and for salaries, the enormous sum of $504,000.

At an average attendance of 3000 daily, for ninety days, at $1 each, the gate admissions are $270,000, making a total of $774,000 taken from the public of Los Angeles to see the game. And these figures are based on the assumption that the bookmakers do not make a cent; whereas it is conservative to figure that they will average winnings of $8000 each, or an additional sum of $224,000.

LOSE FORTUNES.

Thus a portion of the public who usually can ill afford to gamble, put up the collossal sum of $1,000,000 to see horses run for ninety racing days.

It seems impossible to conceive of a community as law-abiding and as respectable as is Los Angeles, allowing a game in which there is not as much chance of "breaking" as there is gambling at Monte Carlo.

The "soap" game of our old country fairs, or the "chuck-luck" game of the mining camps, are as easy to beat and are as a rule conducted in as honest a manner.

There is no game of chance in the world which is so easily manipulated as the racing game. While there are honest horse owners, and honest bookmakers, there are horses in practically every race who are not "trying today." But the public who play do not know it. Every day at the track is heard the expression among the "wise ones"—those who are strictly on the "know"—that such a horse "isn't trying at those odds." In the language of the "insider" looking "out," the horse is a "laub."

And the many ways of making a horse a "laub" would fill a volume. In a close race—where the horses figure nearly the same—a small drink of water before coming out, a big feed in the morning of the race, a little "slow-up" dope, which makes the horse inclined to sulk, and, most potent of all, the "instructions" given to the jockey. These, and many more schemes, will keep the horse out of the money.

Sometimes an owner will "lay a horse up" with two or three books. For instance, a horse has been running well, has been "rounding to" to his best condition. It has been entered where, with ordinary racing luck, it should win. Everybody knows it should win, and the bookmakers know it as well as the public. There is where the two or three bookmakers, or sometimes only one, with the help of the crooked horse owner, gets the public's money.

Suppose the horse is entered where the winning end ofthe purse is $325. The odds will be low, probably requiring the bettor to put up $5 to win $4. Then there is the chance the owner takes that if he runs on the "square" his horse might get off poorly or have bad racing luck, and not win. So he goes to his two or three bookmaker friends, (there are always some bookmakers it is safe to approach on these affairs,) and "lays" the horse up—guarantees it will not win.

The bookmakers give him, say, $250 each, or a total of $750, for not winning. This sum is $425 more than he could make if his horse had the racing luck and won. And then the bookmaker gets his figures in the public's pocket. Where he would usually take, say, $500 to $800 on this legitimate favorite, he takes safely from $2000 to $4000. But he does not stop there.

There is usually another horse in the same race that figures close to the favorite. With the favorite "out of it," the books in on the deal refuse to take much money on the next horse, or if they do they bet it back in the books not "in," and the result is a clean-up and the Los Angeles race-going public pay the bills.

Often a race comes up in which, out of ten or twelve horses, but two or three figure to have a chance to win. The two or three owners get together and agree about this way: "Now we can't all win. Bill, you win it, and Tom and I will stay out, and we will divide the purse, and all bet on Bill's horse." So the dear racing public is hit again. "Tom and I" instruct their jockeys, or dope their horses accordingly, and each owner bets $300 or $400 on "Bill's" horse, at, say $3 for each $1 they bet.

NO CHANCE TO WIN.

What chance has the public at the game? There never was a man not on the "inside," who made a permanent winning at racing.

After the owners, or the bookmakers, have their chance, come the jockeys. There is one boy riding at Ascot who was at the Spokane meeting, up in the "bushes," as racing men call it. This boy rode a horse at that meeting which should have won easily. But he didn't. The owner is as honest as any man in the business. He thought his horse could win, and bet several hundred dollars on it's chances. At the end of the meeting this owner heard something. He went to the jockey, who was drunk and had been talking freely, grabbing him by the collar he asked the boy why he had pulled his horse. The poor drunken jockey commenced to cry and told his story.

Another horse owner in the same race had given him $200 to give the horse a bad ride and not win, which sum the jockey bet on the winner, netting him about $800 on the transaction.

One the Coast, today, judges of the horses that run, and of whose results they are sole arbitors, bet on the results. There is no doubt but that some of them own horses, running in other colors.

In Los Angeles was once a certain owner who got so crooked he threw the judges down, and they even bet on the "laub" he foisted on them.

So they ruled him off. But he was reinstated, and went up to Oakland, and the first race he had anything to do with, was the biggest robbery ever committed on the Pacific Coast, where there are some pretty good hands in the racing business.

MAKING A KILLING.

His horse was an odds-on favorite at $1 to $2, and should have beaten his field from fifteen to twenty lengths. He finished absolutely last, and Sugarmaid, a horse that opened at 60 to 70, was played down by friends of Lotus's owner to 20 and 30, and just romped home. It was as bad as going out in a dark alley with a piece of lead. And what did the judges do? Not a thing.

The owner explained that the horse was lame. If it was lame, he should have been ruled off for running it, unless a sign was up on the blackboard that such was the fact. If it was not lame, he should have been ruled off for cheating. After the race the mother of the boy who rode Lotus showed "Sugarmaid" tickets to women friends in the grand stand.

There was a peculiar feature of this race, in that an honest jockey was an unwilling helpre. Everybody knew that, according to form, the horse he was on figured second. That he would not ride crooked, nearly everybody knew, and the "wise" money was thus enabled to make the "killing" stronger. As Sugarmaid was touted as not up to form, and didn't figure, and no one could bribe the jockey, the logical conclusion was that if Lotus was beaten, the second favorite had to win. This horse came second, but Sugarmaid, the "sleeper," won.

Nothing shows the crookedness of the whole game as much as the fact that the men who were expelled from the game were reinstated. Nearly every crime against decent sport was proved against these men. But one is in Los Angeles racing, the other in Oakland. What chance has the public against them? They had "doped" horses, had them pulled, laid them up with bookmakers time and time again.

HISTORY OF TROTTING.

Yankee Was First Horse to Go Mile to Harness in Less Than Three Minutes.

The trotters did not break many world's records during the season of 1906. In fact technical marks were about all that had to be entered on the books. Sweet Marie's 2:03 3-4 in a second heat was the most noteworthy performance of the year, since it was the fastest second heat ever trotted. Cresceus still holds the world's record for the best mile in a race—2:03 1-4—made in the first heat of his match race with The Abbott, in 1901.

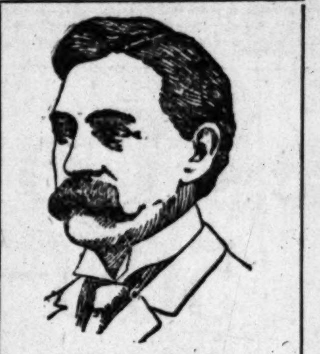
At the close of the year 1806, just 100 years ago, the fastest mile ever covered by a trotter up to that time was in 2:59. This performance, then considered a wonderful one, is credited to a horse called Yankee. Four years later, in 1810, Boston Horse trotted a mile in 2:48½. It was not until 24 years after that, in 1834, that Edwin Forest, under saddle, trotted a mile in 2:31½ while in the same year Sallie Miller went a mile in harness in 2:37, and it was 11 years after, in 1845, that Lady Suffolk took a world's trotting record of 2:26 under saddle, and a harness record of 2:29 1-4. In 1849 Pelham trotted a mile in 2:28, and in 1853 Highland Maid lowered the record to 2:27, which mark later in the same year was equaled by Tacony.

It was in 1859 that Flora Temple reeled off the first mile of a race in 2:20. This little mare, whose name will be remembered as long as the harness horse game lasts, took a record in that year of 2:19 1-4, which stood as the champion performance until the great Dexter appeared, and in 1867 went a mile in 2:17 1-4. Then came Goldsmith Maid, a mare whose phenomenal racing achievements, all things considered, have never been approached by a harness horse, and probably never will be.

In 1871 Goldsmith Maid set the world's record at 2:17, and this held good until 1874, when she reduced her own mark to 2:14, which stood until St. Julien, in 1879, trotted in 2:12 3-4, which was the world's record for a trotter until he reduced it in 1880 to 2:11 1-4. Jay-Eye-See was the first horse to trot a mile in 2:10. This he did in 1884, and in 1885 Maud S. took a record of 2:08 3-4. Since then the world's trotting record has been gradually reduced, as follows:

Nancy Hanks	1892	2:04
Alix	1894	2:03¾
The Abbott	1900	2:03¼
Cresceus	1901	2:02¼
Lou Dillon	1905	*1:58½

MEN ONLY



DR. TAYLOR
The Leading Sp cialist

I Never Guess

Experiment or take chances of any sort. I attempt to cure only those diseases that I have been curing for the past sixteen years, and I believe I am justified in saying that I have learned all about them. Were I lacking in knowledge pertaining to my specialty I would never have attained to my present success, nor would I today be recognised as the leading specialist, treating men's diseases. If afflicted, you can depend upon it that the service I offer you is the service you need and is service such as can be rendered by no other physician. My practice is the largest because I invariably fulfill my promises.

Varicocele

Under my treatment the most aggravated cases of varicocele are cured in a few days' time. There is no pain, and it is seldom necessary that the patient be detained from his occupation. Normal circulation is at once restored throughout all the organs, and the natural processes of waste and repair are again established. If you are afflicted with varicocele, consult me at once. Delays can but bring on aggravated conditions and nervous complications that will impair the vital functions and involve the general health.

Contracted Disorders

In the treatment of contracted disorders I offer a service such as no other physician can render. The remedies I employ have a most thorough and positive action in cleansing the membranes of all infection and subduing all inflammation. My manner of application insures absolute thoroughness and removes every possibility of relapse or a chronic stage. My cures are not only thorough, but are accomplished in the briefest time posible.

You Pay When CURED

Don't throw this announcement away. Cut it out; put it where you can find it, and if what I have to say to you today is not of GREAT interest, watch for another talk. Shall I send you a treatise? I will if you live out of the city; and if you can call I will give you in addition a beautifully engraved chart.

Consultation Free

I am never in doubt

I am never in doubt as to what the results from my treatment will be. Day after day for sixteen years I have been curing case after case of the several diseases peculiar to men. No case comes to me now, the like of which I have not treated scores of times in the past, and I can always say definitely whether I will be able to effect a permanent cure. I never hold out false hopes or make promises that I cannot fulfill and you can rely absolutely upon any encouragement I may be able to offer you. If I promise you a cure, a cure will follow.

"Weakness"

I cure functional weakness in men. I know of no other physician curing this ailment. Most doctors treat wrongly. They give stimulants and tonics. These things can't cure. "Weakness" is a symptom of prostatic disorder and the treatment must be local. This is a truth that I myself revealed. I have perfected the only system of local treatment that cures "weakness." A few doctors over the country claim to cure by the same method, but their treatment is only an imitation of the genuine "Taylor" method. The genuine is here and is administered by its originator. Don't hope to find it elsewhere.

Specific Blood Poison

No dangerous minerals to drive the virus to the interior, but harmless, blood-cleansing remedies that remove the last poisonous taint.

Dr. Taylor & Co. 305½ S. Spring St., Cor. 3rd
Ramona Blk., Los Angeles

MEN

WHY DO MY PATIENTS get the results they are looking for?

THE ANSWER IS SIMPLE: I take great interest in your CASE and will work hard and honestly to accomplish a thorough and complete CURE.

I AM NOT AFRAID to exert myself in your behalf. This is why I am SUCCESSFUL.

Wide Experience

Has proved that personal treatment of chronic diseases is the only reliable and sure way of effecting a speedy and complete cure.. It costs no more to have good treatment than to be guessed at, and is much safer.

Functional Weakness

My treatment for functional decline or "Weakness," as termed by some, is the result of years' special work in functional disorders; the results I obtain are by direct methods and not in common use. They are more satisfactory, more lasting and more certain than those obtained by common methods. My treatment is only given in person, for I can see and know that each application has the desired effect.

CONTRACTED DISEASES.

Become chronic through improper treatment, painful, caustic remedies are the direct cause of stricture, ulceration and deep-seated inflammation of the urinary tract. Every case now chronic could have been cured in one week to ten days with the right treatment scientifically applied. I am confident I cure these ailments more quickly than any one, and with less pain or inconvenience to patients.

STRICTURE.

I cure the right way once and for all. I remove all urethral obstructions, inflammation and soreness and restore the membrane to a healthy conditions, usually in ten to fifteen days.

VARICOCELE.

My treatment effects a cure in four to six days, and the cure will be PERMANENT. Normal circulation is quickly restored, the pains cease, swelling subsides, the patient's strength and vitality improve immediately.

See the Pope-Toledo at the Automobile show

Our show car leaves the factory this week by express. When you see the Pope-Toledo at our exhibit, you will see something novel in automobile construction. You will see the best ideas of the best foreign and American construction embodied in one car—the Pope-Toledo. A car constructed of

Chrome Nickel Steel Throughout

Thirty-six-inch wheels! (all big cars must come to this) and front axle set forward under the radiator (as all really up-to-date cars now use.)

Reverse spring hangers insure easy riding and yet permit the car to set low to the ground and yet preserve the maximum clearance.

We want you to look the Pope-Toledo over from tires to tonneau and compare, point by point, with other cars.

Thomas Detroit

The Thomas Detroit 40-Horse Power Car is the PERFECTED RESULT of four years' successful Automobile designing by such engineers and builders as Coffin, Chapin and others, combined with the best ideas of the E. R. Thomas Motor Company (of Buffalo) corps of highly paid designers. The result is a car beyond their most sanguine expectations.

$2900.00

All the best ideas of the best designers and the best construction of the best factories are incorporated in this new (or rather completely developed) car. 40-Horse Power Motor—simple, clean cut, powerful and flexible. A three-speed forward selective transmission, different in construction and handling from anything else. Large bearings, flexible control, and properly constructed and designed chassis, give to this car a wonderful sweetness of operation, unapproached by anything in her class. Large wheels and tires (34x4,) a 112-inch wheel base, I beam axle, pan under entire motor and transmission, instantly removable. A wonder on hills, the smoothest, quietest, snappiest performer in the country. The touring car seats five, large roomy tonneau, fully equipped, lamps, storage battery, etc. The runabout is built as a runabout (not a touring car with the tonneau removed.)

DANCERS NOW TAKING THE WORLD BY STORM.

Educated Feet of a Pretty Woman Bring More Salary Than the Brains of a College Professor—Poses by Famous Beauties.

DANCERS enthralling kings; dancers wedding millionaires; dancers buying yachts and automobiles; dancers taking cities by storm and drawing higher salaries than tenors and prima donnas!

This is the record from day to day. The dancer was never more feted, more sought for than now.

Truly it is the age for the muse of terpsichore.

For a time it looked as though dancing were a lost art.

For half a century the art as it has been practiced in the brilliant days of Ellsler and Tanglioni seemed to have passed. True, the Grand Opera at Paris still had its ballet, and in all parts of the world the ballet show, as an excuse for displaying the glories of the feminine form divine, continued to hold sway. But it was the loveliness of the woman, not the art of the dancer, that former the prime requisite.

Now the dancer has come back to her own. The poetry of motion is the aim of the amusement purveyor. He wants the performer who has mastered all the beautiful evolutions that appeal to the eye. She ought to be beautiful, of course, but this is not essential, if she can but dance.

The names of dozens of dancers, whose services are being eagerly fought for in Europe, immediately suggest themselves as votaries of the graceful art who have profited by the new preëlection for an art that reaches way back into the haze of antiquity when dancing formed part of the religious ceremonies.

Otero, Guerrero, de Mendes, Aragon, Rocca, Westergaard, Hero, Deja are all worshiped now just as were their precursors of hundreds of years ago.

The revival in dancing has been about ten years reaching its climax. Undoubtedly Carmencita, La Loie Fuller and Otero had much to do with bringing it about.

Fuller, drawing an unimportant salary in a Hoyt farce, invented new forms of dancing, and was quick to see the better possibilities they had in Europe than in the United States.

She judged rightly, went to Paris, opened her own theater, made an unexampled success, and became rich.

Carmencita was less the business woman, but she went all over the world, and helped make people enthuse over the real art of dancing, and Otero and Merode, the latter with her classical dances, helped largely to effect the revival.

Europe's kings have not been without influence in favoring dancing. Emperor William of Germany has always delighted to pay honor to the queens of the fairy feet, so has King Leopold of Belgium, who heaped limitless wealth before the pretty feet of Cleo de Mérode, and now the young King Alfonso of Spain has given orders that there shall be assembled for him in Madrid a corps of dancers, who, for beauty and ability, shall be without watch in the world.

The young ruler of the country of the Dons loves music and dancing more than any of the other arts, and it is his purpose to award the highest salaries and privileges to those who will help to keep Spain foremost in the art of graceful motion.

It is the plan of the King to keep out of the repertoire the dance music of the foreigns, and confine the work of his troop to strictly national dances.

Nor will be keep his dancers at home exclusively. He wants the world to know the beauties of the bolero, fandango, sequidilla and flamenco, and during the season which is not the fashionable one at Madrid, the company will travel to Paris, Berlin, Vienna, London, St. Petersburg and even to the United States.

One of the results of the newly-aroused interest in dancing is the greatly improved ballet that is now a feature of grand opera performances in this country. It used to be that operagoers cared little about the kind of dancing that was furnished them. Frequently in operas like "Faust," the ballet was cut altogether, and where, as in "Aida," "Lakme," "Queen of Sheba," it was indispensable, it was so poorly given as to be merely a travesty on what art should be.

Now things are different. Herr Conreid, director of the Metropolitan Operahouse, thinks the dancing feature of his entertainments so important that he picks out the best premier dansueses in Europe. The art of the "Girl With the Red Domino" has attracted to the Metropolitan Operahouse many whom the fascinations of the music alone would never suffice to draw.

It has been the usual experience of the dancer to come up from the ranks, to have been an humble performer at first, a child dancer, a prodigy. Of such a kind was Merode, who began as an inconspicuous member of the ballet at the Grand Operahouse, Paris, and worked her way to the top.

Otero, who is mentioned as one of the stars that Alfonso hopes to take to Madrid, is a noblewoman, daughter of the Count and Countess Carassaw. She was born in Italy, and gained fame as a dancer when only 8 years old. She married the Marquis of Otero when she was only 13 years old, eloped from him at 16, and was divorced from him in 1889.

Many men with royal names have involved themselves in serious trouble for love of this siren of the dance. The brother of the Empress of Germany, the Duke Ernest Gunther, of Schleswig-Holstein, was omitted from the court circular on account of his persistent attentions to Otero, and it was even said that the Crown Prince of Germany, now the Emperor, was a victim of her charms.

Otero, after a long and varied career, in which at various periods she has been lionized in every capital of Europe, has finally decided to settle down and marry a wealthy Englishman named Webb.

But she will not quit the stage. Like women who once taste the joy of reigning as an empress of the dance, she is determined to continue to pirouette her way into the applause of the multitude, and more now than ever since as a part result of her own inimitable art, dancers all over the world are reaping a harvest such as none could have predicted ten years ago.

The Spanish girl is generally esteemed to be the best dancer, with the Italian second. The daughters of Castile have a dash and passionate abandon that seems to be lacking in other women, who, while they may possess limitless grace, do not imbue the measures of the dance with the proper fire.

In Spain they have never ceased to love the dance. The composers of that country have neglected opera in favor of dance music, because they found in the latter an easier and quicker road to popularity. And the women of the south of Spain will go through any amount of arduous effort in order to master a famous step.

For the great dance of the flamenco they regard it as no hardship to begin practicing in childhood and work for eight years, in order to finally obtain perfection.

There are some figures in this dance that really put the performer to a terrific muscular strain, but the delight it gives to the throngs and the resulting applause is always felt to be liberal repayment to the artist.

Alfonso will have to make a battle in order to monopolize the star dancers of the capitals of Europe. At the operahouse a dozen theaters and dance halls, Paris has use for as many high-class dancers as it can get. In fact, the supply is short of the demand.

Vienna is another capital that will pay any price to feast itself in the perfection of art motion, and London makes demands, which are seconded by the rich returns from theatrical tours of the United States.

It is the day of the dancer, a time when the properly educated feet of a pretty woman are worth far more in salary than the cultivated brains of a college professor.

OUR DEBT TO CHINA.

Besides the Mariner's Compass and Gunpowder, We Received the Wall Paper Idea.

We are apt to forget, writes Miss Kate Sanborn, in her new book, "Old Time Wall Papers," how much we owe to the Chinese nation—the mariner's compass, gunpowder, paper, printing by movable types (a daily paper has been published in Peking for 1200 years—printed, too, on silk.) They had what we call the golden rule for 500 years before Christ was born. With six times the population of the United States they are the only people in the world who have maintained a government for 3000 years.

The earliest papers we hear of anywhere were imported from China and had Chinese or Indian patterns, coming first in small sheets, then in rolls. Some of the more elaborate kinds were printed by hand; others were printed blocks. These papers, used for walls, for hangings and for screens, were called "pagoda papers" and were decorated with flowers, symbolic animals and human figures.

The Dutch were among the most enterprising, importing painted hangings from China and the East about the middle of the sixteenth century. Perhaps these originated in Persia; the word "chintz" is of Persian origin and the French name for its imitations was "Perses."

About 1745 the Compagnie de Indes began to import these papers directly. They were then also called "Indian papers." August 21, 1874, we find an advertisement: "For Sale—Twenty sheets of India paper, representing the cultivation of tea."

Such a paper, with this theme, was brought to America 150 years ago—a hand-painted Chinese wall paper, which has been on a house ever since and is today in a good state of preservation.

CUPID DEFIES ANTISEPTICS.

GROOMS HAVE A HARD TIME AT LOVE MAKING.

New York Woman Determined Her Daughters Shall Not Marry Any Man Who Will Not Keep Up a Strenuous Antiseptic Warfare Against All Germs.

[Washington Star:] Cupid, soused in formaldehyde and with disinfected arrows, has been having a hard row to hoe against science in the antiseptic romance of the beautiful twin daughters of Mrs. Watts Sherman and the twin sons of Mrs. Burke-Roche Batonyi of New York. The Sherman twins—Irene and Mildred—are to be married to Francis and Morris Roche. This news, which comes from Newport, where the Roche boys are with their mother, who was Mrs. Burke-Roche, marks the triumph of love over Mrs. W. Watts Sherman's strenuous insistence that her twin daughters should not marry until she was assured that their antiseptic careers as girls in the germ-proof Sherman city and country establishments would be continued indefinitely in the homes that their husbands might set up for them.

Francis and Morris Roche have not, and will not, lead antiseptic lives, but they are healthy, happy, good-looking young chaps for all that. Upon them [illegible] has been left to work some of the rights and privileges from which he has been barred through the hitherto antiseptic lives of Misses Irene and Mildred Sherman. Ever since they were sanitary babies in antiseptic cribs the Sherman twins have been guarded against germs as though every one of the wiggling, goggle-eyed purveyors of disease and destruction was an ogre.

Mrs. Sherman has frequently said that she would as soon see an ogre in the nursery as an undisinfected doorknob, rattle, picture book or doll. The Sherman mansion, at No. 838 Fifth avenue, is famed as the only germless house in New York. "No germs need apply," is the notice that is constantly up there. Every germ that pokes his head inside the walls runs the risk of coming to an abrupt and terrifying end before it has the slightest chance of getting in its work. If a fly or a mouse is captured there it means the instant dismissal of the servant to whom the fault is traced, for the fly or the mouse is notoriously a harbinger of huge colonies of germs, and as such is doomed without the right of trial.

Whatever they do and wherever they are, Mrs. Sherman and her daughters wear long gloves. They even sleep in them. Only when they are bathing are their hands exposed to the atmosphere and the possible attacks of germs. Not even with their gloved hands do the Shermans or their servants touch many articles. Each has a pair of extension lattice tongs, which serve to raise any small object that they wish to move. Every drop of water used in the house is boiled, and only distilled water is drunk. Gloves, dresses, coats, hat, shoes—all that they wear—are sterilized and stored in hermetically sealed closets and chests.

The fight against dust is unceasing. Vacuum machine suck every particle of dust from the walls, ceilings and floors twice a day. Linings of zinc and cement and screens keep rats, mice and flices at bay. To catch any valorous rodent that might gnaw its way within, traps are scattered all over the house. Electrical connections are made, so that whenever a trap is sprung its number is registered on a switchboard. A servant then puts trap and captive into the furnace. Cats and dogs and birds are also banned. Mrs. Sherman used to believe that a canary could be taught to lead an antiseptic life and be fed upon sterilized food, but lately she began to have doubt, and canaries were banished.

As a caller steps into the lobby of the mansion his coat, hat, cane and overshoes are deftly removed and locked in an air-tight closet until he is ready to leave. Then the closet is sprayed with formaldehyde or fumigated with germ-killing gas. Tradesmen are not allowed to enter the kitchen. They are obliged to deposit their packages outside.

His Ma Was Due.

The way in which one Oklahoma editor announced that his mother was coming to visit him may seem a trifle breezy, but it's pretty safe to say that away down in her heart "ma" was prouder than forty queens:

This is the way he did it:

"The editor of the News-Republican is going to tog up a little this evening. Going to change collars and put on a pair of cuffs, if he can find any. Going to get shaved and going to get our shoes shined and the pegs cut away, so we can walk right peartly.

"Ma's a-comin' down to see us. You know who ma is. Ma is our only ma, and she's a good one, too—one of the old Ohio Quaker sort, you know.

"Ma lives in Kingfisher. She was our ma when we were born; she was our ma out in Western Kansas when we hunted prairie coal; she was our ma when we drank parched-corn coffee in old Oklahoma in '89, and she's our ma now. She's the best ma we ever had.

"If you see us tomorrow walking down the street with a little woman with a smile on her face, you'll know that's ma. If you never had a ma you should get one—and one like our ma, too."—[New York Sun.

Secretary Wilson Finds That Blended Whisky May Be Anything but Whisky.

Secretary Wilson made a recent visit to the Baltimore distilleries in company with Dr. H. W. Wiley, chief of the Bureau of Chemistry, and George F. McCabe, the law officer of the Agricultural Department, and says the visit had been productive of good results. They examined the operations of two distilleries, one blending establishment and a gin still, with a view to ascertaining precisely how the liquors are made.

At the gin still only six barrels of the liquor are manufactured each day. It is pronounced pure by Dr. Wiley, but not a gallon of it is sold in the market. It is sold exclusively to blenders, who mix the pure gin with neutral spirits and some flavoring material, and that product is put on the market as gin. They also discovered that three-fourths of the straight whisky made in this country is sold to blenders, with spirits ing matter

Some of them are members of the Pittsburgh colony. Millionaires have moved to New York from various parts of the country. They help to make living in this city hard and costly.

"I have been informed by Nicholas Murray Butler and others that college professors who get $3500 or $4000 a year can hardly make both ends meet. They must pay $150 a month for a flat, whereas not long ago their rent was no more than $800 a year. These men are driven into the country when they should be taking part in the social and other activities of the city. Our extravagance has had its influence abroad, especially in Germany, where hotels have increased their prices. I have seen it stated that American tourists spend $100,000,000 in Europe every year.

"The actual total, as shown by letters of credit which pass through banks, is about [illegible] amazing sum is paid out for luxuries such as pictures, jewelry, clothing and hotel bills. Wealthy men are no longer satisfied with horses. They must have automobiles. We are blessed with abundant crops and with much gold, silver, iron, copper, coal and lumber. Accordingly, our prosperity is not menaced at this time. Men have got to make money to keep up with the parade, and the savage pursuit of it by the rich and the manner of their living have quickened the step of the whole nation until everybody, almost, is on the run.

CONDITIONS GROWING BETTER.

"Of course there have been complaints about the vice of luxury ever since man laid away the skins of barbarism and put on the clothing of civilization. Conditions have been growing better all the time, and every thoughtful and kindly person is glad of it. The poor can now have books and music and the comforts of life. Sir Josiah Child in his speech on the public revenues of England said that in 1688 there 'were more men worth £10,000 than there were in 1650 worth a thousand; that £500 with a daughter was, in the latter period, deemed a larger portion than £2000 in the former; that the gentlewoman in these earlier times thought themselves well clothed in a serge gown, which a chambermain would, in 1688, be ashamed of, and that besides the great increase in rich clothes, plate, jewels and household furniture, coaches were augmented a hundredfold.' We all welcome the natural growth of wealth, but extravagance is quite another matter. Sir Josiah Child drew a wholesome and desirable picture. The reckless expenditure of Francis Bacon, the Lord Chancellor, caused him to take bribes and to be removed from office and fined $200,000. Then he became a philosopher and wrote himself into the literature of the world. I think philosophy should precede extravagance and not follow it. If that order were observed there would be less waste and considerable more virture in the world. And happiness, too, when you come right down to it."

"Are not the Jews making extraordinary headway in New York in large banking, industrial and commercial undertakings?"

OWN PAPERS AND THEATERS.

"They are. Newspapers and theaters also have been given into their management. Kuhn, Loeb & Co., James Speyer & Co., and our own house are illustrative of what the Jews are doing in banking. The first Jews to come here were Portuguese. They were good men of business. The Germans who began to arrive in 1845, however, were better, and the Portuguese were crowded out. Then the Russians, shrewd and able in all practical matters, vanquished the Germans. It is said that Jewish names are over many of the stores and factories of New York. True enough, and some of the best stores and factories at that. However, it is not generally known that most of the names are Russian."

"What has made the Jew so uniformly successful in business?"

"The animal which is the prey of man and other animals adjust itself to conditions and nature lends its help. The pheasant is as brown as the forest leaves in which it hides. The squirrel can jump from one tree to another. Excluded from land and the mechanical trades, the Jew adapted himself to other things. He had to live, and therefore to work. But there are inborn characteristics among the Jews. Moreover, they have had the laws of Moses. I am a liberal Jew, but I don't lightly cast aside the Mosaic writings and teachings which have governed my ancient race. You must remember that the Jew takes a profound interest in the thing he has to do. He gives his business all of his time and talent. A moral man, he loves his home, and is there when he isn't at his store, bank or factory. I am not talking of the young Jew, the Jew of today, whose life is before him, but of his father and grandfather, who wrought out their own characters and destinies.

"From Abraham down the Jew has venerated and obeyed his father. There is a head to every Jewish family, and among parents and children there is more than the usual bond of affection, loyalty and helpfulness. If you look into the matter you will find few divorces among my people. There are many more now than formerly, but, as I said, I am not describing or discussing the present generation. The family of a Jew is the center of his love and interest. His business provides food, clothing and a shelter for his wife and children. Can't you see why he works and how closely the affairs of his world out of doors are knit into the affairs of his home and heart. But he has had a hard fight. His manner and his appearance are against him. He is not nearly so attractive personally as the rosy-faced, blond-haired Swede who may come in the same ship.

CAN'T WORK IN THE STREET.

"He can't work in the streets like the Italian and negro because he is physically inferior to both. Taught self-reliance by persecution, he may go into business for himself, if it be no more than a rag buyer's push cart. Conditions and the Jewish law have made him what he is. There have been great Jewish musicians, but few artists and no sculptors. Here, again, we find the repression of the law, which says: 'Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image, or any likeness of anything that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth.'"

"How many Jews are emigrating to New York annually?"

"Ninety thousand; and we have considerably more than 750,000 as it is. The united Hebrew charities collects $350,000 a year, and it gives the poor Jew a little money until he can get employment and become self-supporting. Unfortunately, a good many of the immigrants go to peddling at the fish market or in the streets. Some are shoemakers, tinsmiths, and butchers. Not a few find work in sweatshops. The Rusians whose names are seen on the signs in Broadway began in that manner. They lived on what American would throw out, worked early and late, and now they are independent. Go to the East Side and you will be astonished at the progress which the Jews are making. Their children are in school and are refusing to speak Yiddish at home or at play. As a rule, they are an industrious, frugal and law-observing class of people. They own things, or will, either merchandise or some little business [illegible] will be conservative citizens."

"Are any considerable number of Jews accepting Christianity?"

CLINGS TO HIS FAITH.

"Not in this country. Proselyting societies have been formed, but they are a waste of money and effort. The American Jew has all the rights that others have, and he gains nothing by rejecting his religion. I am sorry to say, however, that many of the foremost Jews in Germany are being baptized. An old law which keeps them out of the army deprives them of other public offices and privileges is blamed for their recreancy."

"How did you begin your business life?"

"I could have gone abroad after being graduated from Columbia College, but I preferred the bank. I was put into a back room, where I worked over books at $10 a week, and got a knowledge of accounting. Then I was sent to New Orleans, where we had a branch house that was largely engaged in buying cotton exchange. When I returned to New York I was given a department in the bank here and $10,000 a year. I earned my first money by starting a circulating library. Horatio Alger, Jr., the author of books for boys, was a tutor in my father's family for a dozen years. He wrote some of his books in our house. Maybe I got my library idea from him. Anyway, I and my brothers and cousins bought books and rented them out. I suppose I made a dollar or two a week at the business."

"Who established the banking house of J. & W. Seligman?"

"My father, whose given name was Joseph. He was born in Bavaria and educated at the University of Erlangen. When he was graduated he wrote an address to the faculty in Greek. Indeed, he could read or speak five languages. He came to this country when he was 19 years old, landing in New York with $38 in his pocket. Shortly after his arrival he was introduced to Asa Packer of Philadelphia, founder of Lehigh University, and projector of the Lehigh Valley Railroad. Judge Packer gave him a place as cashier on some work of construction at a salary of $400 a year, half of which he sent to his parents in Bavaria. When he was 21 years old he went to Greensborough, Ala., and started a little dry goods store. He prospered, and began sending to Europe for his seven brothers and three sisters. He brought all of them to this country, and, also, his mother. On the death of his father he returned to Bavaria, and paid the debts which had been incurred by a failure in business.

STARTED AS PACK PEDDLERS.

"The brothers did various things when they reached America. Several of them ere pack peddlers. Jesse and Henry engaged in the dry goods business at Watertown, N. Y., where they remained for seven years, and did well. My father and his seven brothers finally lumped their money together and opened an importing house in this city. They continued to make money. The Civil War and the difficulty which the government had in getting funds drew my father's attention to financial matters. The importing house was sold and the eight Seligmans, my father at the head of them, became bankers. I suppose they had nearly a million dollars among them. The firm was known as J. and W. Seligman & Co., and so it has remained until this day, although all of the brothers but one are dead.

"Branches of the bank were opened in this country and Europe. Joseph, James and Jesse remained in New York City. Leopold and Isaac were resident partners in London. William went to the Paris branch. Henry and Abraham managed the branch at Frankfort-on-the-Main. Later, banks were opened in San Francisco and New Orleans. The credit of this government was not good in Europe during the year 1863, but my father sold a good many war bonds in Germany, and was otherwise so helpful to the authorities in Washington that our London bank was made the repository for the State and Navy Departments. For many years our naval officers drew on our bank from all parts of the world, and on one occasion the government owed us more than a million dollars, which we carried for a considerable period and until Washington could raise the money to pay it.

"My father drew the syndicate plans in 1871 under which the 5-20 United States bonds were refunded at a lower rate of interest. For thirty years we have been assocaited with every syndicate that has disposed of the securities of the government. We were financial agents for the old Panama Canal, and the $90,000,000 which was sunk in that deplorable enterprise passed through our hands. Gen. Grant was my father's personal friend, and asked him to be Secretary of the Treasury after A. T. Stewart's confirmation had failed in the Senate. But the bank needed him, and his brothers beged him to let politics and public office alone. The eight brothers were equal partners, but my father was at the head of the firm and the family. So he declined to enter the Cabinet. My uncles had children, and the Seligman cousins got to be rather numerous. When my father died, therefore, the long-standing partnership was brought to an end, but the banks are doing business just as before, and we are all interested in them, but not exactly on the old basis."

Humboldt Brewing Co.

Location, Eureka, Cal., on the Humboldt Bay, in Humboldt County, one of the best counties in California. Eureka is a thriving town of 16,000, 200 miles north of San Francisco, with numerous surrounding towns of from 200 to 8000. The city of Eureka alone has 70 saloons, where beer is sold, and now is importing $15,000 worth of beer monthly. This business will all be controlled by our company, this being the only brewery in the county.

In addition to the local business we have an assured sale of 25,000 barrels of beer the first year in San Francisco.

Eureka is noted for its pure water, without which good beer cannot be made. The good water, difference in taxes, cheap water transportation and other expenses will enable us to make a better beer and deliver it in San Francisco for less than it can be made there.

To complete payments on the property a limited number of shares will be sold at $6 per share. After this allotment is sold the price will be advanced. This is without doubt the safest and best investment ever offered to the public. Breweries play larger dividends and there are less failures than in any other business. Did you ever hear of breweries failing on this coast? Breweries pay all the way from 30 to 40 per cent. dividends per year. If you can find time to call at my office we will take pleasure in showing you photographs of the various buildings and explain to you the advantages of this unusual investment. If you cannot call fill out the coupon and mail to us and we will send you full particulars.

The Humboldt Brewing Co.'s property of Eureka, Cal., consists of about 6 acres of land and five separate buildings, one of which has just been completed and is being equipped with the most approved machinery known to the brewing business. The building is modern in every respect, absolutely fireproof, and has a capacity of 40,000 barrels per year, but can be, at a small outlay, increased to 70,000 barrels should occasion require.

A very conservative estimate of the net profit on beer is $2 per barrel or $80,000 for the first year's output. Add to this the profits from the Steam Brewery, Ice Plant and Bottling Plant, which would be at least $20,000 more, in all $100,000, or 33 1-3 per cent. on the entire capitalization; $100,000 is 10 per cent. of $1,000,000, which would be the actual value of the company's properties, and if sold at that price would bring to each stockholder $3 for every $1 invested, or 200 per cent. Do you know of any legitimate enterprise that offers as good an investment as this? Remember, only a very few shares left. You may not have this opportunity again.

OUR, the HUMBOLDT BREWING COMPANY of Arizona, is organized under the laws of Arizona for the purpose of taking over the Humboldt Brewing Company of Eureka, organized under the laws of California, on account of which a large amount has already been paid by our company, also to enable us to make our stock forever unassessable, thus protecting every one interested in it.

½ Unlike many other companies, no one man or clique of men own a controlling interest. It is an association of investors controlled by the investor for the investor. Every stockholder has a voice in the affairs of the company according to his holdings, no matter how small these holdings may be.

An opportunity to purchase Brewery stock is seldom offered the general public. Of the three breweries in Los Angeles not one share of their stock can be purchased at any price, because it pays too well. An English syndicate has $7,000,000 invested in breweries in San Francisco, because it was the best investment they could find. The Rainier brewery grew from nothing to $6,600,000 in 17 years. Be wise, come in with us while you have a chance. It may not be offered you again.

OIL OF WINTERGREEN.

Massachusetts People Who Distill It from Black Birch Bark and Twigs.

This is the time of the year when one section of Massachusetts is engaged in making wintergreen oil out of black birch brush. Contrary to the popular belief that wintergreen is made either from coal-tar products or wintergreen leaves, the bulk of it is manufactured from the black birch. The small boys know what a decided wintergreen flavor the bark has, for many a time they have gnawed at it in the woods and remarked its flavor, and maybe it was the observation of the small boy that set older heads to thinking.

The black birch grows in wonderfully profuse quantities on the hills of Huntington and Chester, and at this season the farmers of these two towns are busy cutting it. They carry it away by the cartload to a little place called Dayville, where there is a wintergreen still and they get $4 a ton for it. The fall is the best time to cut the birch, for then it is full of sap and is the most valuable.

The process of manufacturing wintergreen oil from black birch is comparatively simple. The brush is put into a cutting machine, which chops it into pieces an inch long. The chopped pieces are put in a still similar to a whisky still, made of wood and having covers that fit tightly. Each still holds about 2700 pounds of chopped brush.

It is stamped down solidly and covered with about twenty inches of spring water. Then the cover is placed on the still, and sealed to make it air-tight. In the bottom of each still is a coil of copper pipe through which the steam circulates.

The hot steam boils the mass of water and brush pieces; the sap from the brush mingles with the water and when the mass evaporates it contains both birch oil and water. The steam from this mixture is conducted into a large pipe that is laid under a stream of cold running water and is condensed into liquor.

In this form it flows through a pipe thirty feet long, which narrows continually until it becomes only half an inch in diameter. The oil being heavier than the water sinks to the bottom of the pipe and passes off into receptacles placed at the mouths of the pipe. The water is collected and turned back into the stills to be evaporated over again. The oil then goes into separators, which remove all the water from it.

The oil is practically colorless and so strong that half a glass of it would kill a man. It burns the tongue like an wintergreen and only an expert could tell that it is not made from wintergreen leaves. Nearly all the wintergreen oil of commerce is made from black birch brush, and it sells at wholesale for $2 a pound. From three to four pounds are obtained from a ton of brush. The region of Huntington and Chester is the only part of Massachusetts where there is a brush season for the purpose of gathering black birch for wintergren oil, as nowhere else in the States does it grow profusely.

The Cause of Sleep.

Dr. Salmon studies in Revue de Medicine the relations existing between sleep and the function of the pituitary gland. He believes the cause of sleep to be internal physiological secretion. The hypophysis (pituitary body) is assumed to play an essential part in the production of sleep. Since the substance of this gland is said to contain bromin, this serves to support the theory that the hypophysis exerts a sleep-inducing influence upon the nerve centers. The author endeavors to back up his statements by the occurrence of anatomical changes in this organ in various diseases which are associated either with somnolence or with insomnia.—[The Post Graduate.

PROMINENT PERSONS.

Marconi of wireless-telegraph fame is said to have recently been converted to spiritualism by Princess D'Antuni del Drago, who besides being a convinced spiritualist, is a remarkable medium.

Samuel G. Ward, formerly a Boston banker, and Ralph Waldo Emerson's most intimate friend, is still living in Washington. He is one of two survivors of the Harvard class of 1836 and is one of three survivors of the Boston Latin school class of 1827.

Henry Louis Bischoffscheim of London, long known as a power in European finance, celebrated his golden wedding anniversary recently. He gave $500,000 to certain charities in which he and Mrs. Bischoffscheim are interested. One-fifth of the amount goes to Jewish institutions, the remainder to undenominational charities.

By placing a negative at the focus of a telescope during the hours of the night Miss Harriet S. Leavitt, one of the members of the Harvard Observatory, photographed examination force, has recently discovered thirty-six new variable stars. These latest additions to the known twinkling points of light make a total of 1364 stars which Miss Leavitt has discovered.

Discussing the little rumpus with Japan, Senator William A. Clark expresses the opinion the Chinese in this country are superior to the Japanese. "I have loaned thousands of dollars to Chinamen," said the Senator, "and never have I known one to fail to meet his obligations." He emphasized his opinion as to the superiority of the Chinamen by calling attention to the fact that the Japanese in their banking institutions employ Chinamen in positions of trust in preference to their own countrymen.

While the child-labor bill was under discussion in the Senate Mr. Piles said he did not approve of some provisions in the measure, adding: "Under the bill as it now stands I would not be permitted to employ my own son in my law office if he were under fourteen years of age." "Would you," Senator Beveridge interrupted quickly, "put a son under fourteen years of age at work in your office if you desired to train him to be a lawyer?" "I went into my father's office," said Senator Piles with dignity, "at the age of 12." "Did it help?" queried the Indiana Senator. "Yes. I am here." Then the sedate Senate chuckled.

It has been observed that John Sharp Williams of Mississippi always turns his face to the Republican side when addressing the House. Some one asked him if this was because he was ashamed of his Democratic colleagues and the southerner replied: "I always believe in facing the foe, and besides I am quite deaf in my left ear, so I must face the Republican side when I speak and train my good ear in that direction in order not to miss any of the shots that are aimed at me. As it is, if I did not possess a tremendous power of concentration I would not, [illegible] defective hearing, be able to [illegible] what

MEN AND THINGS OVER THE SEAS.

The Kaiser Insulted.

The imperial decree ordering the German language to be used in the schools in teaching religion, has aroused the people at Czempin, near Posen, to a state of exasperation, and a serious case of lese majeste has occurred. The club of the shooting society was sacked and the portraits of the Emperor and Empress destroyed. The eyes and ears of the imperial couple were cut away and the rest of the canvases covered with mud.

Will Visit South Africa.

The Prince and Princess of Wales, should they carry out the intention with which they are credited of paying a visit to South Africa, will add another to their record of things which no Prince and Princess of Wales have done before. The first prince of the blood to visit South Africa was the Duke of Connaught, Prince Arthur of Connaught made a brief appearance there, in his regimental capacity, toward the finish of the war. As Prince George of Wales, the present heir apparent and his brother, the late Duke of Clarence, saw Cape Town in their midshipman days, when the Bacchante touched there.

Holland Houses Seclusion.

Holland House is the only "country estate" in London. It is surrounded by terraced gardens for a full half mile in every direction. There is the Italian garden, the Japanese garden, the old English garden, the semi-tropical garden and the modern garden. The rose walk is a solid mile of roses of all colors and sizes. There are arbors planted and named after great statesmen or poets or writers. There is a beautiful garden stairway of rustic beauty built by Inigo Jones and a poet's floral corner dedicated to Rogers. The house is approached on each side by a driveway half a mile long, sheltered by oaks. There are a mile or two of lawns and then come fields and woods. Behind the house and well away from it are the stables, kitchen gardens and paddocks for horses, cows and sheep.

Outside the great walls of the estate are closely built streets and terraces and crescents erected on land from time to time chopped off the estate. A statue of the third Lord Holland of the second creation, which formerly stood well within the grounds, is now in one of the principal streets, gazing silently at the continual procession of omnibuses and cabs. And yet with all this land cut off and sold for building purposes, there are miles of gardens, fields and woodland within the walls, which thus make Holland House the only "country estate" within the city of London.

Prospective Bride a Man.

A remarkable tragedy at Breslau has revealed a long hidden secret. Herr Meyer, a teacher living in the town, fell in love with Mme. De Paradeda during a recent visit to Paris. They were betrothed and Herr Meyer brought his fiancé to Breslau to present her to his family. The day before the wedding Mme. De Paradeda commitetd suicide. It was then found that the fiancé was a man. He was 35 years of age, but had masqueraded as a woman for twenty years without being suspected. Herr Meyer is suffering from brain fever, which was set up by the mental shock of the discovery.

Church a Concert Hall.

One of the unpleasant things about the present church controversy in France is the evident lack of public respect for sacred things. For instance, it is announced that an abbey has been rented to Pollpot, the painter, who has made a studio of it.

Victor Charpentier, the noted orchestra leader, has leased a famous old Dominican church and turned it into a concert hall. There in that solemn setting of fluted columns of arches, with the benign Christ of Tissot smiling an eternal blessing from the high dome, he directs 150 enthusiastic amateurs who give monthly concerts there. All his lessons are taught in that deserted home of the monks, and he has [illegible] of the altar. The only visible transformation in interior arrangements is that this altar and the confessional boxes are swathed in black. The other parts of the church Charpentier uses as his living apartments. The sacristy is his office.

Cheap Parliamentary Meals.

Members of the House of Commons are not extravagant eaters during the sessions. The report of the Kitchen Committee of the House shows that from February 13 to December 24, 165,451 meals were served in the House. Of these 126 were breakfasts, 5829 luncheons, 47,968 dinners, 795 suppers, 75,213 teas, and 5515 meals at bars.

The cost of the meals reached a total of $96,445, or an average of 58 cents. This includes $31,445 for spirits, wines, beers and mineral waters, and $5480 for cigars.

SCIENCE NOTES.

Sleep Is the Real Stimulant.

It is no new principle that Dr. Fere of the Bicetere Hospital, in Paris, has made known in a recent article on "Work and Repose," but it is not the less worth repeating. He has made many special experiments, and announces as their general result that the supposed power of various alcoholic and other stimulants to increase physical and mental energy and postpone fatigue, or avoid the effects of fatigue, is illusory. There is only one form of effective, recreative repose—sleep; and sleep, in order to exercise its proper power, must be natural. The sleep produced by narcotics is "a toxic somnolence having the appearance only of real reparative sleep." But sleep itself is a mystery concerning whose nature we possess merely a "hypothetical knowledge."

No Need of Dying.

Prof. d'Arsonval, one of the most eminent members of the French Academy of Sciences, says the majority of people die of arterio sclerosis. He uses a sphygmometer to measure the tension of the blood in the arteries. If the mercury of the instrument marks fifteen or sixteen centimeters, it shows a normal tension. If the tension is higher or lower, Prof. d'Arsonval states that six baths of the high frequency current will bring it to the normal, where it will remain, all danger of arterio sclerosis being removed.

These baths of five or ten minutes each may be taken three times a week. They give the patient absolutely no sensation. If this electrical cleansing, continues the professor, is followed by auxiliary treatment in expelling from our bodies the morbid waste caused by electricity, there is no longer any internal reason for growing old or even dying.

Valuable Silk Discovery.

An article recently published in the Strassburger Post mentions a discovery said to have been made by a chemist and engineer of St. Etienne, by which the color may be taken out of silk, and it may be recolored in any desired tint, without in any way injuring its texture. The article goes on to state that in case the inventor can do [illegible] it will almost revo[illegible]tirely do away with the danger of injuring silks through coloring by means of too strong chemicals.

Growth of Electric Generators.

In two decades the capacity of electric generators has increased more than a hundredfold, while they produce power with four times the former efficiency. The largest generator of twenty years ago was the 100-kilowatt dynamo, belted to a 150-horse power engine, but dynamos now being built have a maximum capacity of 12,000 kilowatts.

Drugs by Electricity.

Prof. Stephane Leduc recently gave an exhibition at one of the Paris hospitals of how drugs could be administered by electricity. The professor shaved the back of a rabbit and put a compress of sulphite of strychnine on it. This violent poison did the animal no harm, but immediately after the passing of an electric current the rabbit died, the electric current having introduced the poison into its system. This method he calls ionisation.

Prof. Leduc considers that ionisation should prove extremely useful in the curing of rheumatism, sciatica, locomotor ataxia and paralysis.

The professor also showed his colleagues an interesting experiment with electricity as an anesthetic. He put a rabbit to sleep by means of the electric current, under the influence of which the animal could be cut without feeling pain. The professor kept the rabbit asleep for ten minutes and then stopped the current, and the animal opened its eyes and sat up.

This new method of producing anesthesia is likely, Prof. Leduc considers, to replace chloroform and ether at a very early date, and is of immense importance to medical science.

A Rival of Petroleum.

The patent rights to petrolite, the new rival of petroleum, invented by Hugo Medberg, a Swedish marine engineer, are about to be sold to a French syndicate, the only obstacle in the way being the figure asked—30,000,000 crowns being considered several millions too steep. If the deal is closed this sum will not go to the inventor, who sold his patents for a song, but to a quartet of capitalists in Sweden and Denmark who purchased the invention for speculative purposes.

A series of tests made in Copenhagen and Paris have proved the new product superior to other fuel oils, both for light and power. It gives a stronger light than kerosene and generates more power in proportion to the amount consumed. Combustion is complete and odorless, making it a highly desirable substitute for benzine in automobiles.

Aluminum Wire for Magnets.

Magnet windings of uninsulated wire are said to have proved feasible by the use of aluminum wire, the natural oxide upon which forms an effective insulation for moderate voltages. For over 200 volts, paper wound wet between the layers is effective, and for higher potentials, extra oxidization has been secured by dipping in a chemical bath.

IN THE BIG INDUSTRIES.

Sewing Machine Industry.

It is estimated that during 1906 there were made in the United States 1,500,000 sewing machines, valued at $22,000,000, as against a production of $20,869,870 in value in 1905. One-half of this manufacture is for household machines and one-half for factory machines. In this industry we lead the world, the annual production of Great Britain being about 1,000,000 machines, and of Germany a like quantity. Both of these countries are also large buyers of our machines, Great Britain taking about $1,750,000 worth and Germany about [illegible] best customer is Mexico, to which we exported last year $800,000 worth. The total exports of sewing machines and parts for the year is about $9,000,000 in value, or 40 per cent. of our manufacture.

Tin and Terne Plates.

The manufacture of tin sheets and tinned iron plates and terne (that is, tin and lead coated) plates showed tremendous gains in 1906. The production ascertained by the Iron Age was as follows: Gross tons in 1906, 1,200,000, against 924,000 tons in 1905, and 764,000 in 1904. The increase was mainly in sheet tin, which is used largely for stoves, gas and oil heaters, etc., and in roofing tin, made of terne plate. Tin for canning use remained about stationary in production. There are thirty-six concerns in this industry, and their production this year will total about $50,000,000 in value. The exports increased, and about 100,000 tons were shipped to Canada.

Car Shops for Minneapolis.

Armour & Co. of Chicago are announced as intending to add to their proposed packing plant in Minneapolis new car shops at a cost of $2,000,000. The packing plant will cost between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000, so the company will spend about $6,000,000 in construction work in Minneapolis during the coming summer. The new project is one of great importance to the city, for the shops will cover more ground than the packing plant itself and will employ almost as many men.

New Steel Mill.

A new structural steel mill is to be erected at Rodeo, a few miles from San Francisco, by the Great Western Rolling Mill Company of San Francisco. The machinery has already been purchased in Pittsburgh, Pa., and is on its way to Rodeo. The plant will consist of two open-hearth furnaces, a muck mill, Belgian mill, structural mill and finishing plants.

Oil Cake Factory.

William Irvine of Chicago, until lately prominently connected with the American Linseed Oil Company, is in Denver where, it is said, he proposes to establish an independent linseed oil and oil coke factory. The proposed factory will cost about $15,000, and will have a production of ten barrels of linseed oil and 3½ tons of oil coke per day. The soil in Eastern Colorado, Mr. Irvine believes, is particularly adapted to the growth of flax, both as to heavy yield and excellence of linen fiber.

Consolidation of Paper Plant.

A San Francisco dispatch announces that the extensive power and paper interests of the Fleishhackers at Floriston, on the Truckee River, and the local plant of the San Francisco Coke & Gas Company will be consolidated. The companies will be financed by the London, Paris and American Bank, in which the Fleishhackers and Leopold Michels, president of the gas company, will soon become heavy stockholders.

The San Francisco Coke and Gas Company is owned to a large extent by New York capitalists. It will, it is said, derive power for electric lighting from the plant of Floriston.

PEOPLE OF THE COAST.

W. A. Beard, formerly secretary of the Sacramento Valley Development Association, has accepted the position of executive officer of the National Irrigation Congress to be held in Sacramento next fall.

S. R. Bellamy of Sacramento has made a success of silk raising. His cocoons were forwarded to the government bureau at Washington and were recently returned in the form of skeins of silk with the announcement that the [illegible] strong.

"Doc" Keefe of Berkeley, has the unique credit of having postponed his wedding to Mrs. Sarah S. Schrenfeidt because of having lost his whiskers by an explosion of coal gas from a stove on which he was working. According to the Oakland Tribune, he incidentally suffered other injuries from the burning gas.

Miss Jennie Crocker of San Francisco, recently gave a ball at the home of her father, Col. Fred Crocker, at Uplands, above San Mateo. For a ballroom an addition was built to the house at a cost of $35,000, which was finished the day before the ball, and the day following workmen began the demolishing of the building.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hull of Oakland are united after twenty-two years' separation. They were married at sea when 18 and 14 years of age, respectively. Three months later the wife's parents took her away and subsequently each was led to suppose the other dead. Hull himself entered the Catholic priesthood and eight years ago he and his wife met and recognized each other. He, however, remained in the service of the church till March, 1904, when he resigned that he might be reunited with his wife. He is now a Congregational minister.

Henry Milner Rideont of Marysville is making a success of literary work and has a serial story running in the Saturday Evening Post.

A CYNICAL FELLOW.

It seems that the denatured alcohol industry of this country is yet on the bottle.

It is reported that President Joseph Smith (of the Mormon church and of the forty-two kids) on the night before Christmas, as the easiest way out of it, went downtown, bought out a racket store and told the kids to help themselves.

Mr. Rockefeller says he doesn't know whether he is the richest man in the world or not. It is difficult to understand how he endures the uncertainty.

It is understood that the opening song at the meeting of the American Dairymen's Association next month has been selected: "Shall We Gather at the River?"

A New Jersey man has been offered $100 for a pearl he found in a pig's snout. Which is neither new or startling, since we have heard for several years past of casting pearls before swine.

Organized labor in Illinois is in a fight with the Methodist Book Concern and threatens to issue a boycott of the entire Methodist denomination. If the Illinois organization carries out its proposed plan and our Methodist brethren find it out, what the latter will do to the former will be a "plenty."

The Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, New York, last year paid $150,000 for broken china and crockery. But the item didn't say what the fight was about, or who were in it.

One time a woman with the "motto" habit, worked and had framed this one and hung it up in her husband's office: "Don't grunt, pig; do your stunt." What is home without Art?

What with Prof. Mark Twain in the Far East shying bricks at the silk tile and Dr. Burdette in the Far West jeering with the jeers the derby, those to whom the sombrero is not becoming may take refuge in the skull cap.

THE RAMBLER.

Winter in California.

A sweet new time of flocks and flowers,
Of creeping grass and trickling springs,
Of flashing lights and misty showers,
Of lyric joys and fleeting wings.

Oh, hush! An oriole on the spray
Has lit the orchard gloom with fire,
And flooded all the vibrant day
With music from his unseen lyre.

Oh, see! the violets blue and dim,
The poppies lifting cups of gold,
Are filled with nectar to the brim
And all the beauty they may hold.

Thou, too, my heart, art tuned to song,
To sudden smiles and happy tears.
O heart, thy day of doubt was long,
But God hath banished all thy fears.

George Ade's Valise.

"Yes, I saw 'The College Widow' when it ran at the Mason a few weeks ago," said the life insurance man, propping his feet comfortably on the window ledge and lighting a very fat and very brown cigar. "A clever thing it is, too, bright and effervescy, like all George Ade's work.

"Say! That fellow is a cracker-jack at fun, ain't he? And he's just as modest as he's funny. Used to know him when he was helping on the society column of the Tribune. Well, laugh if you must—but I'm not joshing; he did do society stunts for awhile. Later, he got promoted to doing the hotels.

"Richard Harding Davis used to be a cub reporter in Chicago, too, if you remember. He went away and got famous as a correspondent and a Van Bibber story teller, and when he loomed up again in dear old Chicago town he was pretty big and chesty, they say. I don't know—I never met him myself. However, I have my private opinion, and it's based on pretty strong circumstantial evidence.

"Well, Ade was on hotels at the time of Davis's triumphal tour, and he and I happened to stroll into the Auditorium Annex together. Ade made a bee line for the register and began to look it up and down. All at once he grinned delightedly and beckoned to me.

"'Hannan, my boy,' said he gleefully, 'look at that, will you? Wouldn't it jar you?' (That's the first word of slang I ever heard him use, too, though he afterwards wrote whole dictionaries of it.)

"He pointed at the las tentry: 'Richard Harding Davis and valet.'

"Ade whipped out his fountain pen, and with a face as sober as a judge's, wrote directly underneath,

"'George Ade and valise.'"

The Kicker.

Lo, the Kicker!
Isn't he a peacherine,
With his aspect lank and lean?
All his world is quite awry,
Hear him grumble, flout, decry.
All our swans he turns to geese,
All our woolly lambs he'll fleece,
All our nightingales are crows,
Gone the perfume of the rose.
Oh, that kicker!

Lo, the kicker!
When he dines the meal is bad,
Soup and salad, beef and shad;
This is overdone, and that
Tasteless is and stale and flat;
Nothing pleases, nothing suits.
He should have a taste of BOOTS—
Quick massage, if sharp and sure,
Might avail this epicure.
Kick that kicker!

Oh, the kicker!
Hear him bicker!
Art, religion, politics
Have their share of scurvy kicks;
Wife and marriage, home and heaven,
Suffer from his No. 11.
Naught but death can set us free
From his mule mendacity.
When he goes, as go he must,
[illegible] bite the dust.)
He'll die kicking!

The Only Brick Concern in the State of California in Which You Can Buy a Dollar's Worth of Stock at Any Price and You Can't Get This Much Longer

The Brick Company of the Peop

If there were any argument needed to prove the profit and stability of the brick industry it is furnished by the fact that you cannot buy an interest in any brick concern now operating business on the coast more profitable and permanent. Their product is in steady and constantly growing demand.

The supply never fills the demand. Their prices tend upward, not downward. They are making money for themselves and their shareholders and you cannot secure a dollar's any price. An independent brick concern, making brick by the old method, could make money and make it rapidly. Ours is a company owned directly by the people. Our stock has By the public at large. We are not going to make our brick by the old method, but in a newer, more economical and more profitable way. We are going to make money for ourselves holders faster than the old companies and at the same time turn out a better quality of fine pressed brick.

Plans of the United States Granite Pressed Brick Company

We hold the process for the manufacture of the best pressed brick ever placed upon the markets of the world. It is made of crushed granite, pressed into perfect shape, and by means of a secret process and without any cement, hardened into a smooth, square-edged brick without an equal for strength, durability and appearance. We have secured a property at Fifteenth and Alameda streets upon which we are commencing the erection of a modern, up-to-date plant. We have ordered the machinery and will have the factory in operation within the next 60 days. We have also secured lands in the Tejunga Valley carrying the granite deposit necessary in our operations. We have samples of our brick on exhibition at our offices. We invite and urge the most rigid and searching examination of them. The stock is open for subscription to the public in general. The third allotment of the shares is now being sold. The first allotment sold at $5. The second allotment was over-subscribed at $6. The allotment now offered is placed at $7 a share, and it may be the last stock offered the public in this company. We do not purpose selling unnecessarily a single share of stock. The par value of the shares is $10 each, and there are only 25,000 shares all told. Once the plant is erected and in operation par value will not limit the price of the stock and not a share of it will be obtainable at double $10. It is safe to predict that $50 will not buy a share of this stock after one year's operation of the plant.

Pressed Bric

No other industrial ever offered this city has met with such a tion. In these days of inconsi it is encouraging to observe that investors, business men and even chanics are quick to discern the tween doubtful speculation and ment. There is no element of risk of this character. The brick is superior by all architects, builders contractors who have examined it awaits it eagerly. It has only tured to commence making money It differs from a mine, an oil well of speculation, as it is a com established want and selling at price.

You Must Buy This Stock Soon or Not at All

We reserve the right to advance the price to par or withdraw it absolutely without notice, should conditions warrant such a proceeding. The demand for this stock has been so general have progressed so steadily that circumstances may not render necessary the public offering of another allotment. The present price is $7 a share in lots of 10 shares or more. Those $5 may congratulate themselves on having entered into a great money-making business at a very low cost. Purchasers at $6 have also made money by the simple advance in value. now at $7 may feel absolutely assured that they are receiving stock which will return large steady dividends and cannot be bought for $50 a share in the very near future. By all itself before you invest a dollar. Come in and examine the specimens at our offices. Investigate our plans and methods and you will realize that with our process and our manage ing upon an industry, owned and controlled by no trust, which will make you big money from the very start.

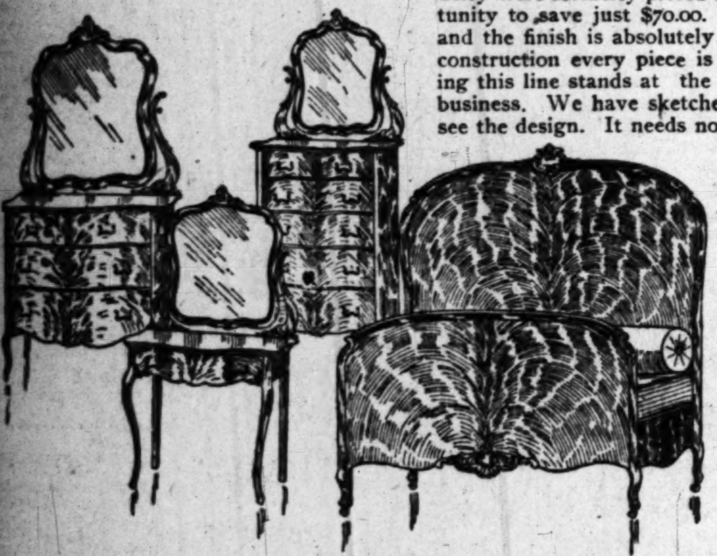
Our Annual Red Letter Clearance Sale Continues

This Week. Time for YOU to Act

Perhaps you allowed the rain to keep you away last week. It didn't hinder hundreds from coming. We were greatly surprised at the totals of the week's business. This week we began anew with fresh, strong items brought forward for your attention. It would take scores of pages this size to tell you the whole story. In this one we can merely hint at what is going on. Remember that every piece of furniture in the house is included—that prices are honestly reduced—that we hold a sale but once a year. Come as early as you can—tomorrow if possible. Sold tags are going on by the hundreds every day. The very thing you want may be gone if you delay.

Four-Piece Mahogany Bedroom Suite $167.50



They were formerly priced at $237.50. You have an opportunity to save just $70.00. Every piece is real mahogany and the finish is absolutely perfect. From a standpoint of construction every piece is faultless. The factory producing this line stands at the head in the bedroom furniture business. We have sketched the suit so that you might see the design. It needs no defense of further argument. Needless to say the mirrors are heavy beveled French plate. At $167.50 this suite is a bargain you can't possibly duplicate.

Other Bedroom Suites

The above is an example of the bargains we are offering in bedroom furniture. If you have been considering some new pieces for the bedroom, now is the time to buy them. You can save from 25 to 35 per cent.

Plenty of Bedroom Chairs and Rockers

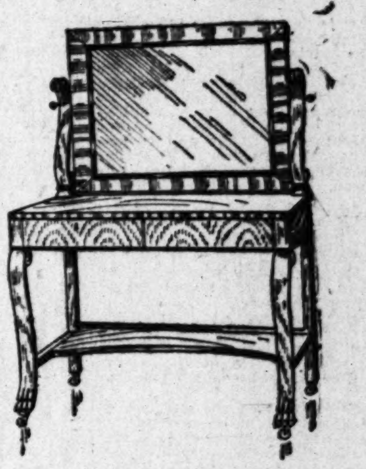
Our big stock of bedroom chairs and rockers is reduced for this sale. Just now we have the largest stock of these chairs that we have ever had. The assortment includes every wood and finish and a good range of prices.

Brass Beds Are reduced, so if you like a combination of a brass bed and wood in the other pieces you can get a bed at a bargain price.

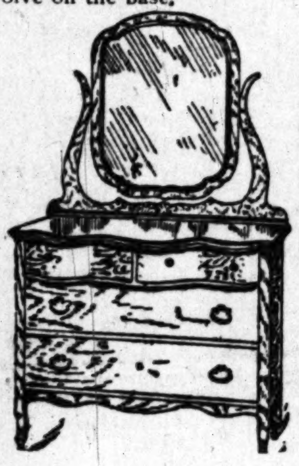
$70.00 Dressing Tables $45.00

One of the handsomest designs we show. It is made throughout of quarter-sawed oak in a hand polished golden finish. We have dressing tables from $14 up to $100 and every one is reduced for this great sale. You can save from 10 to 30 per cent. and get the best that's to be had.

The assortment includes, of course, all woods, such as mahogany—both the dark and the tans, maple and birch. You have always wanted a dressing table, now is your time to get one.



CHEVAL MIRRORS If you are interested in bedroom furniture you will be glad to know that our entire stock of cheval mirrors is reduced on a par with the other bedroom pieces. Your special attention is called to the new oval styles which revolve on the base.



$22.50 Oak Dresser $18.50

Just like the picture on the left. It is made in solid oak throughout and has the polished golden finish. The top drawer is double swelled and divided.

We have solid oak dressers as low as $14.00 and dressers in all woods at all prices up to as high as you care to go.

Chiffoniers Opportunities are just as good in chiffoniers as in dressers. We have scores of odd ones that are greatly reduced for this sale. All grades are included. The saving averages at least 20 per cent.

Every Piece of Furniture in the House is Reduced

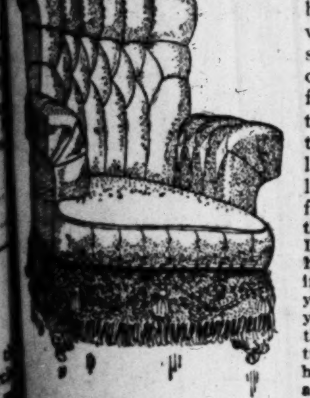
One-Half Reduction In Oriental Rugs--Nothing Excepted

Our Entire stock of Oriental Rugs—the largest in the West—is included in this very unusual offer. If you want to pick rugs for your home from a stock that includes nothing but the gems from the Orient, selected by our own buyer, imported by us direct; and if you want to pay just half the regular prices, come to this sale. Our Rug Department is located on the top floor and there is no artificial light to confuse you as to colors.

Dining Room Furniture Is Not Forgotten

Fully two-thirds of one of our spacious floors is devoted to a display of Dining-room Furniture which includes a good design assortment in all woods—oak, golden, weathered and fumed, and mahogany—imitation and the real thing. Broken assortments are responsible for some very deep price cuts. For instance, we have a solid weathered oak, round top, 6-foot extension table for $9.50 and a quartered oak china cabinet for $16.50.

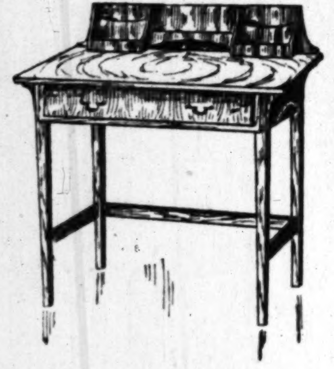
$65 Turkish Chair $52.50



A representation bargain from a well assorted stock, which includes the best from the best factories in the country. The one illustrated on the left is a beauty—full leather over the best coil springs. Leather couches have been reduced in proportion, so if you want to improve your library a bit this is your opportunity. Leather upholstered chairs are also reduced.

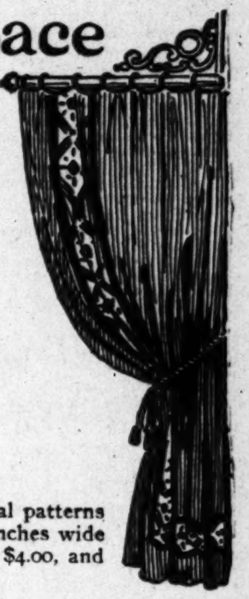
$22.50 Table Desk $16

Just like the picture below—one of the latest designs on our floor. It is made of walnut and the grain is beautiful, most extraordinarily well matched. The design is simple, yet most effective.



We have a dozen other good bargains in table desks; some in weathered and some in golden oak and mahogany.

Goodly Reductions in Lace Curtains, Draperies and Portieres



This splendid department, recognized as being second to none in the country, takes an active part in this sale. When you come up, ask about our department of Interior Decoration, see the colored sketches that we gladly furnish with your estimate and learn how thorough our service is.

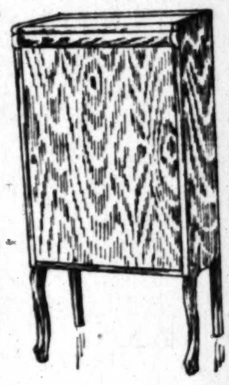
Couch Covers Every one reduced. We have all the latest Oriental patterns with or without fringe in the standard size; 50 inches wide and 3 yards long. They are all reversible tapestry. $5.00 couch covers go for $4.00, and $37.50 couch covers go for $28.00, and everything in between in proportion.

TABLE COVERS We offer Jute Velour Table Covers in the 6-4 size, good patterns to select from at $5.00. not one worth less than $6.50.

Remnants On the remnant table you will find pieces of practically every line we carry—pieces large enough for a pillow cover. All marked at less than cost.

$10 Music Cabinet $7.20

It is a great one, just like the picture below, in the mahogany finish. It is well built and finished. This is an example of the splendid bargains we are offering in Music Cabinets in this great Red Letter Clearance Sale. We have good assortments in both golden oak and mahogany—both the imitation and the real.



$10 Ladies' Desks $7.65

In maple—every piece selected. The design is a popular one and the cabinet most perfection itself. We have the same desk in weathered oak, with large drawer underneath, for $8.

Our list of desk bargains is a long one and includes all woods and a great variety of styles—in fact, every desk in the house.

$25 Bookcase $17.50

You can get an idea of the design from the picture on the right. This case is made throughout of solid oak and the finish is golden. It is a standard size with ample shelf room. We have book cases as low as $7.00 and at every other popular price. The assortment in Craftsman designs, weathered oak finish, is particularly good. Get that book case now!

THREE POWERS IN A CRISIS.

Germans Rebel Against Emperor's Ambitions.

Even Battle in France Over Church Matters.

Church War Also Disturbs English People.

Rarely have European affairs presented features of such intense dramatic interest as at the present moment, says a London dispatch to the Chicago Tribune. An Emperor is fighting his people upon a grave issue of policy, a religious war has begun between a republic and its greatest Christian church, and Great Britain is at deadlock in the first stages of another religious controversy, its present guise being the education problem but the real issue being the question of the separation of church and State.

An outside observer who studies impartially the great popular movements is able usually to see situations in truer perspective than those whoe are in the thick of the fray. It is in this spirit that the following brief observations upon the German, French and English crisis now pending are offered:

The struggle in Germany is not based on the mere question of colonial policy. It is the culminating protest of the German people against the terrific financial burdens which the Emperor's vast ambitions in the world's politics have imposed upon the nation. Added to that is the almost rebellious opposition of the general populace to the heavy increase in the cost of food brought about by the prohibition of imports for the benefit of the agrarian class.

Germany is now the most tax-ridden of progressive nations, and the patience of the people is well nigh exhausted. The Germans fully sympathize with the Kaiser's ambitions for national greatness, but they protest that his pace is so rapid that it is exhausting the vitality, of the empire. They are shocked and appalled by the revelations of scandal and the cruel atrocities in connection with the colonial administration, especially in Southwest Africa.

MILITARY SPIRIT AFFLICTS GERMANY.

The military spirit has gone mad in certain directions and the Germans resent it as they would at large resent the horrors of the Congo. The average patriotic German argues that if all his sacrifices for the greatness of the fatherland bring disgrace in the eyes of Christendom as one of the consequences, then the price is too great to pay.

It doesn't follow that the next reichstag will reject the government's colonial budget, as was done this week. It would do so if it correctly voiced German opinion. The reichstag is one of the most unrepresentative national legislatures in the world. It is impossible that it should be otherwise under the forty-three years old distribution system which the government refuses to alter. One district in Berlin that has 200,000 inhabitants, for example, has the same representation in the reichstag as a district of 20,000 in Saxony.

There would be a great increase in the Socialist membership and a diminution in the number of Clericals if the principle, one vote one value, prevailed.

It is impossible yet to forecast the result of the impending campaign. There will be much beating of drums and appeals to support the Kaiser in creating a world empire, and it isn't at all impossible the Emperor may carry his point once more. This is certain, however; the imperial programme will have to be moderated. The burden is greater than the people are willing to bear, and they will find means by one way or another to lighten it.

EVEN BATTLE IN FRANCE.

No outsider is called upon to express an opinion upon the merits of the French religious controversy. One may perhaps be permitted to say that looking at the situation from alternate points of view each side has made the best possible moves under the present circumstances. The Pope has certainly consulted the best interests of the church in forcing the struggle.

His reason may be found in this fact: For fifteen years, during which the writer has been a close student of French public sentiment, a great and significant change has taken place. There has been a steady drifting away by the populace from religious convictions. This, of course, is most marked in the urban populations. It isn't that the French people are developing an antagonism to religion. The change is far more dangerous than that. France is becoming not irreligious but unreligious.

The church's only hope in combating this tendency toward disintegration is to make its cause a fighting cause. The Pope clearly recognizes this, and has acted accordingly. The government, on the other hand, had no option but to meet the challenge with unyielding insistence that the law of the land must be obeyed.

It is true the law of 1881 requiring notification of all public meetings had not in contemplation religious services in its application. It is equally true the government would not dream of seeing such a law as a new piece of legislation. It cannot, however, repeal it under the foreign threat which this week came from Rome, that if it did the Pope would probably at once raise, and, rightly, from his point of view, some new controversial issue.

In other words, a long and bitter struggle between the Roman Catholic church and the French government seems inevitable. It will be a bloodless war if the present directors of the French republic can make it so. They are not haters of the papacy; they are honest Republicans, who believe there should be no connection between the civil government and any church. Bitterness probably will develop on both sides, and the developments of the struggle will be the spectacle of the most absorbing interest which the world will have to watch during the coming year.

England's religious controversy has now reached its acutest parliamentary state. There is small chance of the question coming immediately before the country, even if the deadlock between the two houses on the education bill continues. Bannerman dare not risk the reduction and probable disappearance of his majority by appealing to the electors.

The essential fact in the situation is that this struggle will continue inside and outside of Parliament until the direct issue of the disestablishment of the church of England goes to the country and is decided. It is problematical what the vote of the country would be if the issue were pressed to a decision immediately.

The same change noted above in the case of France in regard to the attitude of the people toward religion is taking place in England also. It is slower in this country, and it would be quite a mistake today to describe Britain as unreligious, but the tendency undoubtedly is in the same direction.

Manufacturer's Semi-Annual Muslin Underwear Sale

Starts Tuesday, Jan. 15

DIRECT FROM MAKER TO WEARER.

Twice a year the manufacturers of this famous health made Underwear, offer a big shipment of their most popular lines at prices slightly above cost of production. This is done in response to a direct appeal for high-grade undermuslins at sale prices and as a method of popularizing their fine lines. Too much emphasis cannot be placed on the fact that this event offers values that will not be surpassed or even equaled at any other time during the season. And we want particularly to call your attention to the fact that every piece bears the health label of the National Consumers' League, an insurance against all cheap sweat-shop goods. Thousands of fresh and dainty undergarments and almost as many styles make the selection most varied, while the prices are just about half what you would pay for same goods if bought in the regular way. To those who have profited by these sales on previous occasions we need say but little. To those who haven't we need simply call their attention to the goods and prices now displayed in our show window. REMEMBER, SALE STARTS TUESDAY MORNING, JAN. 15.

NEW BOOKS REVIEWED.

[BY A TIMES REVIEWER.]

TRAVEL AND DESCRIPTION.

Mrs. Adams-Fisher.

A WOMAN ALONE IN THE HEART OF JAPAN. By Gertrude Adams-Fisher. L. C. Page & Co., Boston. (Price $2.50.)

Mrs. Adams-Fisher is a writer whose name is well known to readers of The Times, who will remember her letters from Europe and the Far East. Her first book, "A Woman Alone in the Heart of Japan," is an improvement even on her very good work in The Times Magazine, smoother and clearer, showing the effect of more deliberate preparation. Mrs. Fisher is unconventional in her manner of looking at the customs and traditions of the Orient, and this lends her book a special interest, since she gives us an original inside view of many things usually passed over in silence by the traveler. She deserves our thanks for this, for we have had too much literature of perverted vision, praising and idealizing the East, or at least leaving us with an impression of its civilization as well-nigh on a par with our own. Moreover, Mrs. Fisher penetrated to parts of the country not visited by the ordinary sight-seer, and made it a point to see everything worth seeing; in fact, one continually realizes, in reading her book, with what combined keenness and tact she hunted evasive facts and gained admission to places of which most Americans in Japan, certainly most American women, never even hear. Her observations may be recommended as an antidote to the overflowing enthusiasm of the majority of other books that treat of Japan and the Japanese.

The book differs otherwise much from the ordinary traveler's description. Mrs. Fisher writes a flowing style, vivid and full of anecdote; and her volume is not only of value for its information, it is also of a sort to interest the average man and woman, and ought to sell well in the eastern States as well as in California.

Miltoun-McManus.

RAMBLES ON THE RIVIERA. By Francis Miltoun. Illustrated by Blanche McManus. L. C. Page & Co., Boston. (Price $2.50. For sale by C. C. Parker, Los Angeles.)

CASTLES AND CHATEAUX OF OLD TOURAINE AND THE LOIRE COUNTRY. By Francis Miltoun. Illustrated by Blanche McManus. L. C. Page & Co., Boston. (Price $3. For sale by C. C. Parker, Los Angeles.)

Books of travel by Francis Miltoun, illustrated by Blanche McManus, have become a regular feature of the holiday season. They are fairly well written, and the illustrations are not of the best, by any means; occasionally they are as bad as possible, and this appears to be in the part the case with the volume on the Riviera—a country offering the greatest inducements to the artist.

Mr. Miltoun's style is what one might term "readable;" and the traveler who intends making a visit to the sections he describes will find his volume a practical help; but they are somewhat too much after the pattern of the popular guide-book's superficial; and the English is by no means without blemish. Just what, for instance, does Mr. Miltoun mean by saying that "Monaco was a microcosm in size even when Roquebrone and Menton made a part of its domain, and today it is much less in area?"

The volume of Touraine and the Loire country is better, at least, as regards the illustrations, which average much superior to those of the other volume. The text is of the same character, "readable," but not more than that.

Italian Scenes.

GLIMPSES OF ITALIAN COURT LIFE. By Tryphosa Bates Batcheller. Doubleday, Page & Co., New York. (Price $4.50. For sale by C. C. Parker, Los Angeles.)

"Glimpses of Italian Court Life" is an immense volume de luxe, beautifully printed and bound, with the arms of Italy on the cover. The title is not altogether appropriate; but the text consists of letters by a woman who evidently has the very best introductions, as she meets distinguished people in all the places that she visits, and writes chattily and popularly of them, their occupations, peculiarities, habits. Not the Italian nobility alone, but artists, musicians, scholars, figure in the pages. The author is herself a singer, a student of music and art, and the best things in her book, to many, will be the descriptions of architecture and famous works of art that interlard the somewhat feminine descriptions of persons, gowns, places and festivities attended. For the rest, those who like information on society and social affairs in foreign lands will find her letters much to their taste. The volume is illustrated from many photographs of distinguished people met, and with some fine reproductions of Italian scenes and buildings.

—o—

Versailles.

VERSAILLES AND THE TRIANONS. By Pierre de Nolhac, Director of the Versailles Museum. Illustrated in color by Rene Binet. Dodd, Mead & Co., New York. (Price $6.50 net. For sale by C. C. Parker, Los Angeles.)

The character of Pierce de Nolhac's volume on the Trianons and Versailles sets it apart from the ordinary books of description. It is not a holiday book, put together to sell, but the work of a student and connoisseur of art, a Frenchman acquainted with the history of his own country. Thus, it combines history, art criticism and description. M. de Nolhac's appreciations of the scenes and relics of Versailles are such as will appeal to the highest type of audience, and his style is clear and polished—a pleasure in itself. Art students should find the book of great value. It is illustrated in color from photographs, paintings and from what might more properly be termed sketches in color by the writer—highly impressionistic pictures, some of which are well carried out, others of which are little more than an indication of principal lines.

By Grant Allen.

CITIES OF NORTHERN ITALY. By Grant Allen and George C. Williamson. L. C. Page & Co., Boston. Two volumes. (Price $3.)

Grant Allen was one of the most versatile of writers. During a life cut short far too early, he dipped into the provinces of natural science, economics, fiction, art, travel-description; and I am not sure that I have named all his "specialties" yet. Each one of these provinces was made in so far his own that he excelled in it, in one or another manner, and became famous in it. His books of travel-description are perhaps the least distinguished of his works—although they, too, deserve more than a passing attention. He completed several such books before his death and gave his readers new viewpoints, and some classic old ones in attractive dress, regarding Florence, Paris, Venice and cities of Belgium. His work on the cities of Northern Italy was not completed at the time of his death, some five or six years ago; but his friend, George C. Williamson, continued and brought it to an end, as it now appears. Mr. Williamson is evidently not fully in accord with Mr. Allen as to methods to be pursued in the writing of such a book, but he endeavors to carry out the original plan as nearly as he is able.

Mr. Allen's idea was to offer the traveler books on famous cities that should exceed the guide book bounds of a compendium of facts and offer history with anecdote and information regarding all great art and other sights of the territory traversed. He is in a measure superficial in his treatment, and yet his work is never trivial. Probably the chief unfavorable criticism that could be made on it is that it does not include enough not to be found in Baedecker, if in a less literary form, to attract a large class of readers. Of the two volumes the first is occupied entirely with Milan, the second includes chapters on Verona, Padua, Bologna, Ravenna. Both volumes are illustrated from photographs.

American Shrines.

HISTORIC BUILDINGS OF AMERICA, AS SEEN AND DESCRIBED BY GREAT WRITERS. Edited by Esther Singleton. Dodd Mead & Co., New York. (Price $1.60 net. For sale by C. C. Parker, Los Angeles.)

Dickens, Hawthorne, Samuel Adams Drake, John Fiske, figure in this collection, but the large majority of the names are little known to fame. The book is one of the compilations made up for the holiday sales, and while it may be a handy and desirable reference work on its subject, undoubtedly it is so, little stress may be laid on the idea of literary value according to the title. It is admirably illustrated from photographs.

JUVENILE BOOKS.

Book of Heroes.

HEROES EVERY CHILD SHOULD KNOW. Edited by Hamilton W. Mabie. Doubleday, Page & Co., New York. (Price 90 cents net.)

Perseus, Hercules, Daniel, David, St. George, King Arthur, Sir Galahad, Siegfried, Roland, King Alfred, the Cid, Robin Hood, Richard the Lion-hearted, St. Louis, William Tell, Robert Bruce, George Washington, Robert E. Lee, Abraham Lincoln, Father Damien, make up the somewhat heterogeneous list of heroes that it is believed by Mr. Mabie should be a part of every child's education. Perhaps, indeed, Mr. Mabie's idea may be the right one—that it is necessary for youth to form high ideals of various sorts, and of lesser moment just how these ideals are acquired than that brain and heart and imagination be appealed to in their formation. The stories of the heroes are well and interestingly told by Mr. Mabie, and the volume is undeniably a very good one to add to those other volumes of the library of things a child should know.

A Wholesome Story.

THREE BOYS AND A GIRL. By Anna Helena Woodruff. Jennings & Graham, Cincinnati. (Price $1.25.)

"Three Boys and a Girl" is a wholesome story of country life, with clever and helpful young people to make it attractive. The story is a bright one, well if not supremely well written, and both boys and girls will find it very readable. Indeed, although it is not work of the highest rank in its sphere, it deserves warm commendation and probably a stronger adjective than has been given it above.

Olive Thorne Miller.

KRISTY'S RAINY DAY PICNIC. By Olive Thorne Miller. Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston. (Price $1.25. For sale by Cunningham, Curtis & Welch, Los Angeles.)

Olive Thorne Miller is known chiefly by her sketches of the life of birds—a work in which she was practically the pioneer. But her latest book, a little volume of stories, that together make up one continued story, show her as charming in this line as in the earlier papers, and there is speaking strongly. The book is for girls of from eight to thirteen, and no better thing of its class has appeared this season. The delicacy and finish of Mrs. Miller's work remind one of Mary E. Wilkins in her stories written for the Youth's Companion. There is plenty of interest in each story, too. Mrs. Miller now belongs to Los Angeles, and we may be proud of ranking her among our authors.

—o—

For Smaller Folk.

PETER POODLE, TOY MAKER TO THE KING. By Will Bradley. Dodd, Mead & Co., New York. (Price $1.50 net. For sale by C. C. Parker, Los Angeles.)

The remarkable things that happened in Toyville are the subject of this book, which is very much according to the taste of most young people of five to eight. It is fascinatingly illustrated in the bright colors that children love.

HUMOR.

The Tender Passion.

THE HUMOR OF LOVE. Edited by Tom Masson. Two volumes. Moffat, Yard & Co., New York.

Tom Masson, whose verse in this field is well known, has collected a large assortment of prose and verse on love, matrimony and kindred themes. Our old friend, "The Lawyer's Ode to Spring," is found in the volume of verse, Lowell's "The Courtin'," of course—in fact, this appropriately opens the first volume—Holmes's "Ballad of the Oysterman," C. F. Lummis's parody on "Annabel Lee," Thackeray's delicious satire on "The Sorrows of Werther"—whose long-drawn-out German sentimentality must have wearied his British soul sadly—the play of "Pyramus and Thisbe," from "A Midsummer Night's Dream." The prose selections cannot be pronounced as good as the verse; many are of the humor of a generation ago, and that is not on a par, for the most part, with the humor of today. But it is undoubtedly difficult to find good short selections on this subject.

BOOKLETS.

Garden Quotations.

YE GARDEYNE BOKE. A collection of quotations instructive and sentimental, gathered and arranged by Jennie Day Haines. Paul Elder & Co., New York.

A few holiday booklets arrived too late for before-Christmas notice. Among these the most attractive, and one that must appeal to Californians, is a considerable volume of prose and verse selections on garden subjects—the various flowers and the garden as a whole. The book is very artistically printed and appropriately bound in light grass-green linen, stamped in darker green and in gilt. This is a good book to buy at any time of year, especially in this section of the country.

—o—

Quotations—Various.

MOSAIC ESSAYS. Composed by Paul Elder. Paul Elder & Co., New York.

A second attractive booklet, also very daintily printed, is a collection of quotations on friendship, love, happiness, nature, success, put together by Paul Elder. These quotations are gathered from every source imaginable, and are well selected; the booklet is one of the most desirable of the holiday gift specialties, Paul Elder & Co. are, indeed, deserving of the very highest praise for their recent publications of this sort; no other publisher has approached them in this field this season.

LITERARY STUDIES.

Southern Authors.

A HISTORY OF SOUTHERN LITERATURE. By Carl Holliday, M.A., recently professor of English, Alabama State Normal College, now of the English department, University of Virginia. The Neale Publishing Company, Washington, D. C. (Price $2.50 net; postage, 20 cents.)

Carl Holliday's "History of Southern Literature" is unfortunately written from the viewpoint of the instructor in English—unfortunately because the instructor in the author cannot rid himself of that petty attention to detail, in the fear of omitting something, which especially in a subject of this sort is undesirable to the average man, since it leads to the consideration of much that does not deserve to rank as literature at all. The southern part of this country has produced of late years some of the best writers we have; writers in whom something of the flavor of old romance, refined to exquisite sentiment, survives, imparting an individuality that is distinct and vastly attractive. The southerners are justly proud of this galaxy of writers, to which they may reckon the man often classed on the continent of Europe as our greatest genius—Poe; in early days, Washington, Jefferson, Patrick Henry, Marshall; later Francis Scott Key, Clay, Calhoun, and of the moderns, Hayne and Lanier, Cable, Frank Stanton, Joel Chandler Harris, James Lane Allen, Thomas Nelson Page. But this volume includes a vast number of lesser names, some of very small importance, indeed, which are, nevertheless, given almost as much space, often, as the most important and famous. This mode of treatment is, to be sure, the traditional one; possibly it is a method unavoidable, at a stage where so little has as yet been written distinctively on southern literature; but, save and except to the specialist, it is a method that "clutters" the mind with useless facts. And with all due respect to the lesser lights, have we time nowadays, when there is so much to be learnt, to occupy ourselves, even in a university course, with details regarding writers of little or no importance? Isn't there something to be corrected in a traditional method that uses good vital energy to so small an end?

From a literary viewpoint, that is in point of style, the text-book, is excellent, the critiques clearly and interestingly written, in choice and polished English.

BIOGRAPHICO-HISTORICAL.

Washington Society.

THE FIRST FORTY YEARS OF WASHINGTON SOCIETY. Portrayed by the family letters of Mrs. Samuel Harrison Smith (Margaret Bayard.) Edited by Gaillard Hunt. Charles Scribner's Sons, New York.

Margaret Bayard was born February 29, 1778. She was a contributor during her life to Godey's Lady's Book, The Southern Literary Messenger and Peter Parley Annual; but her grandson, who has edited her correspondence for publication, rightly estimates this as her most important literary work. "She was the intimate friend of Jefferson—who was her life's hero—and his family, and one of his most characteristic letters, that in which she discloses his views on religion, was addressed to her; of the Madisons, the Clays, the Calhouns, of William Wirt, the accomplished Attorney-General for twelve years, and of William H. Crawford, whose partisan in his candidacy for the President she became, besides many others. She entertained Harriet Martineau when she came to Washington on her famous tour, held long conversations with the Socialists, Owen of Lanark, and had as one of her intimate friends Mme. De Nueville, the wife of Hyde de Neuville, the most popular of the early ministers to the United States." Her grandson and editor writes: "In the valuable manuscript collection in my possession are several thousand of my grandmother's letters and of letters to her from nearly all the prominent characters of her day. They were kept by her son, Jonathan Bayard Smith, my father, under lock and key during his life, and have only been seen since coming into my control after my mother's death.

"The letters are, indeed, deeply interesting and full of character. The pictures of men and things therein contained are very unusual, and it is everywhere evident that Margaret Bayard belonged to the intellectual women of her day—which produced many women of brain. There is, of course, a deal of chit-chat even in the midst of larger things, but there is also much that makes clearer in our minds the character of the time and of some of its leading men. The portrait of Robert Owen is for instance, unprejudiced, clear and detailed. The closely personal portraits of Clay and Calhoun are also of great interest. There is much of conversation related in the letters, and this with so much of the art of naturalness as to compel the belief that it is reported with very considerable accuracy. In American literature, the collection is almost unique, and reminds one rather of the French school of brilliant feminine letter writers. Much that is historically important will be found in the volume, but its chief value will remain that of the human document, of distinctive literary character. Those who are interested in such documents ought not to miss reading it.

ETHICAL BOOKS.

A Book of Wisdom.

THE KEY OF THE BLUE CLOSET. By W. Robertson Nicoll. Dodd, Mead & Co., New York. (Price $1.40 net. For sale by C. C. Parker, Los Angeles.)

It is becoming the fashion to write books of advice to people. Lay sermons they should be called, though from the larger number the distinctly religious element is lacking. These books are superficially the outcome, perhaps, of the vogue of Charles Wagner, but their popularity goes deeper and has its roots in the moral and political awakening that is taking place in this country, and the world over. "The Key of the Blue Closet" is one of the best of these books that has been written—a far-sighted book in line with the most advanced thought of the time; the work of a thinker and a scholar, of a man, moreover, of wide sympathies and much understanding of people.

Perhaps, indeed, the book should be reviewed as much as a literary study as an ethical volume, for the chapters on great authors, more especially those on great women writers—Jane Austen, George Eliot, Charlotte Bronte, of whom Mr. Nicoll writes with the rarest understanding, are notable additions to our critiques. Of Lamb and Coleridge, of Schiller and Goethe, of Dickens, occasionally of Stevenson, and Hardy and Andrew Lang, and of Bain and Spencer, he says incisive things.

As to the ethical chapters, they are singularly wise psychologically, seldom guilty of the shallow dogmatic measuring of all men, and all women by the foot rule of subjective constitution. Fine and delicate analysis is here, and admonitions are for the most part tempered with appreciation of individuality.

But the literary style of the book is its greatest value. This places its author among the finished essayists, whose work stands for force of inner significance through appreciation of the value of diction. To people of literary tastes this book can hardly be too highly commended.

Annie Payson Call.

EVERYDAY LIVING. By Anna Payson Call. Frederick A. Stokes Company, New York. (Price $1.25. For sale by C. C. Parker, Los Angeles.)

"Everyday Living" is somewhat of a contrast to the last-reviewed book through its dogmatic application of set rules to all individualities. Miss Call is not without charity, but she has little comprehension of human differences and a belief that all such differences can be set aside by the following of hard and fast rules of conduct. Her views are comparatively narrow. However, her admonitions may be none the less salutary for that reason, as the New England Spartan spirit is often of good effect. And much that she says is wise, with this reservation. Her maxims are of practical character.

Eminently Practical.

BOY WANTED. By Nixon Waterman. Forbes & Co., Chicago.

This is distinctly a practical book, dealing in examples and maxims, or general principals of action drawn from them. The problems surveyed are chiefly everyday ones. The book in this sense is good. Part of the text is prose, part verse. The volume has as frontispiece a picture of the log cabin in which Lincoln was born.

NEW MAGAZINES.

The January Bohemian Magazine has a sketch of Israel Zangwill.

"Hunting Without a Gun" is an article by T. S. Van Dyke in the January Outing Magazine. Women ought to be interested in Dr. W. R. Latson's article in this number, "Health the Basis of Womanly Beauty."

The Travel Magazine (formerly the Four-Track News) has two articles on California—one by Helen Lukens Gau on "The Desert of Southern California," and a second, "California's Challenge," by French Strother. "Winter Bathing in the Pacific," by Susan Colton, is a third article in this issue. Percy C. Crocker writes of "Jamaica, the Garden Island of Our Tropic Seas."

The North American Review for January considers the question, "What Japanese Exclusion Would Mean," in an article from the pen of Osborne Howes. Yves Guyot discusses what he considers "German Designs on Holland and Belgium." M. Guyot makes sure that Emperor William covets the ports of Rotterdam and Antwerp, and that therefore he hopes to annex the Low Countries. This article is a reply to one by Karl Blind, written in a spirit of pacification. M. Guyot concludes: "Karl Blind has proved his friendship for me as the Emperor William proves his love for peace. He made, not only against me, but against France, in the past, the present and the future, an arraignment which proves that, if he were formerly exiled from Germany, he retains for his country a love which, like all true love, has a bandage over its eyes. But he has not shown that I was wrong in saying that the Emperor sees with sorrow that the two great ports on the Rhine are in Holland and in Belgium, that there are constant manifestations—dating back several years—in favor of the annexation of Holland and, at the very least, of Antwerp; that England and France must look such an event in the face, for they could not permit it. It would make the Emperor William dictator over Europe."

"Japan and the Philippine Islands," by James A. Le Roy, is a leading article in the January Atlantic.

Putnam's Monthly for January has a number of articles on primitive man in Nebraska—a symposium to which Robert F. Gilder, Henry B. Ward and Erwin H. Barbour contribute. Charles De Kay contributes an article on American pottery.

Events of the day give significant timeliness to Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett's serial novel in the Century, "The Shuttle," which has for its keynote the problem of international marriage. The chapters in the January Century will carry Betty across the sea to her sister's English home and experiences—Betty with her unusual beauty and charm, her bewitching independence, and her devotion to her father.

Scribner's is particularly fortunate in its list of writers and in the exceptional interest of its contributions for the coming year. The fact that the serial story for 1907, "The Fruit of the Tree," is to be by Mrs. Wharton (whose "The House of Mirth" has already sold nearly 200,000 copies in book form) will undoubtedly attract a great number of readers.

PEOPLE AND THINGS LITERARY.

Man walks the earth,
The quintessence of dust;
Books, from the ashes of his mirth,
Madness and sorrow, seem
To draw the elixir of some rarer gust;
Or, like the Stone of Alchemy, transmute
Life's cheating dross to golden truth of dreams.

The Century Company will issue some time this month a work on "The Dangers of Municipal Ownership," by Robert P. Porter, which will present in considerable detail facts and figures to the credit, or discredit, of municipal ownership, or "municipal trading," as it is termed in England, in the countries and cities where it has been tried.

Twenty-three times has Rudyard Kipling's "Jungle Book" been printed, and in editions of from 2500 to 20,000 copies. The sale passed the 100,000 mark several years ago. "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" has been printed thirty-nine times, and its publishers, the Century Company, say that its sale in 1906, the sixth year of its issue, will exceed 10,000 copies.

Anthony Hope's "Dolly Dialogues" is one of the books that seems to have become a contemporary classic. This humorous society tale in dialogue, with its rather pathetic undercurrent, was a startling antithesis to the author's "Prisoner of Zenda," and though in such a totally different field, has made such a success that Messrs. Henry Holt & Co. are now having to reprint it for the seventeenth time.

One of the important announcements of the beginning of the year is that of a new book by Miss Jane Addams, to be published about the middle of this month. Miss Addams is known first of all as the head of Hull House, one of the earliest and the most efficient of social settlements. In her new book which is entitled "Newer Ideals of Peace," she reveals herself as a thinker and investigator along the lines of social and economic progress. The book is described as a study in the gradual development of the moral substitutes for war.

The J. B. Lippincott Company has lately published a collection of facsimile reproductions of the drawings of Jean Francois Millet, accompanied with an introductory essay by Léonce Bénédite of the Luxembourg Gallery. The book is an imperial quarto, thus allowing reproductions of such a size that the work of this most extraordinary figure of the nineteenth century art may be fully comprehended and studied to the best advantage. There are fifty reproductions, including all the well-known and many other drawings.

The hundredth anniversary of the birth of Gen. Robert E. Lee will be celebrated on January 19, and Doubleday, Page & Co. will mark this occasion with a new edition of "The Recollections and Letters of Gen. Robert E. Lee," by his son, Capt. Robert E. Lee. Perhaps no book concerning the life of the great Confederate chieftain so adequately makes a measure of his real character as this, because it tells the story of his life in the form of his letters to his wife and children. This book has already passed through seven editions in the United States and one large edition in England.

The Macmillan Company will soon publish a book entitled "Practical Problems in Banking and Currency." The volume will consist of addresses delivered before the National Banking Association in recent years, and the list of about eighty authors includes many distinguished names. The book is timely, as the past year has been one of the most notable in the history of the currency discussion, while Secretary Shaw's report and the probable discussion of currency conditions in Congress will keep this subject prominently before the public in the immediate future.

The Earl of Carlisle and his daughter, Lady Dorothy Howard, have lately been the guests in Washington of Miss Molly Elliot Seawell, whose latest novel, "The Victory," has just been published by D. Appleton & Co. Lord Carlisle, like Miss Seawell, is opposed to the new spelling, and gives a reason which shows much appreciation of America. "It is a great pity to differentiate our two countries any more than is necessary. As Mr. John Bright said, 'We are two maidens, but we are one people.' In England every year makes us better acquainted with our kinsmen in America, and we wish to be as friendly with you as you will let us. The language is our common heritage, and we don't want that community disturbed." Lord Carlisle is one of the hardest workers and most constant attendants in the House of Lords. His efforts, both public and private, are always directed toward cementing good will between America and Great Britain. He is the head of the Protestant branch of the Howard family.

A somewhat unique book is announced for publication by Doubleday, Page & Co. It is, "My Life as an Indian," by J. W. Schultz. Mr. Schultz's history is an unusual one. He was born in New England, of German parents, more than seventy years ago. When he was a very young man, he decided to go to the source of the Missouri River. He stopped at Fort Benton, which, in the forties, was a picturesque frontier post. He fell in with the Piegan Blackfeet Indians, then one of the most powerful tribes of the West. He assumed their life, joined them in their wars on other tribes, was made a full member of the tribe, and married an Indian squaw. Some years later, when he inherited money in the East, he returned to civilization, but found it so cramped that he again sought his Indian haunts, where he remained until a few years ago.

HOURS GRANTED, BUT MINERS IDLE.

GRASS VALLEY OPERATORS UNFAIRLY TREATED.

Union Men Asking an Eight-Hour Day, but Want It to Mean Only Seven and a Quarter Hours of Actual Work—Operators Want Seven and a Half Hours' Work.

Because of a disagreement as to how fifteen minutes of time each day shall be disposed of, mines in the Grass Valley mining district of Nevada have been closed down. The miners have asked for an eight-hour day, and the operators are disposed to grant the same, and in at least one case supposed that they had everything fixed satisfactory to the Miners' Union. How difficult it is to settle the matter satisfactorily can be seen from the fact that a considerable number of the miners themselves do not know just what is meant by an "eight-hour day." One thing certain is that it does not mean eight hours of work for the operators, and it is a question whether it means even seven and a half hours of actual work. General Manager Foote of the North Star mine, says:

"Instructions were given that our men should start to go underground at 7 o'clock in the morning, all to be down at the station at 7:15 o'clock, and be at their place of work at 7:30 o'clock. The men were to work until 12 and take half an hour for lunch. Resuming work at 12:30 o'clock, they should work until 3:30 o'clock, making just seven and one-half hours' time of actual employment. Quitting at 3:30 o'clock, the men reached the station in time to be hoisted at 3:45 o'clock, and each and every man was out of the mine not more than half a minute after 4 o'clock, strictly complying with our understanding of the demand of the Miners' Union that the men should leave the surface at 7 o'clock and be out of the mine at 4 o'clock.

"Our employés went to work on Tuesday morning with a full understanding that they would not be hoisted out of the mine until 3:45 o'clock. The committee of the Miners' Union, which had no personal interview with me, despite reports to the contrary, acquiesced in the men going to work with the understanding that they themselves believed we were acting fairly and squarely on the proposition. When the night shift came to work they were told by another committee representing the Miners' Union that unless we would consent to hoist the men on the half hour, making only even and one-quarter hours' work, the men would not be permitted to go underground. We are entitled to seven and a half hours' actual work. Technical advantage is being taken of the situation. Allowing half an hour of their own time to get to work and half an hour of our time in reaching the surface, with half an hour for lunch, the men will be underground a maximum of nine hours, which the Miners' Union contends for."

The operators certainly met the miners fairly, and instead of the men refusing to work, they should have made an attempt to arbitrate the slight difference of fifteen minutes of time.

While the operators are willing to grant the desired eight-hour day they naturally feel that they are entitled to some agreement that they will not be subjected to any further demands, and they have, therefore, asked for some guarantee that there will be no further demands made by the miners. This latter request of the operators the miners claim they cannot grant because of a rule of the Western Federation of Miners which forbids them from entering into a contract.

In other words, the operators must keep their agreements or the miners will walk out, but the miners will make no agreement that the operators may be protected. Were unionism not so one-sided, the public would be more in sympathy with the movement, because of the spirit of fairness that prevails in every community. Anything one-sided is as disagreeable to a fair-minded person as a difference in the length of one's legs is to the owner thereof.

OBEYED HIS FATHER.

Governor Odell's Example to Those Who Have Headstrong Ways of Their Own.

[Saturday Evening Post:] Four years ago, when ex-Gov. Odell of New York was coming up for a renomination at the convention in Saratoga, there was a plan to put a man on the ticket with him for Lieutenant-Governor to whom Odell objected strongly.

The Governor's father, 88 years old, a deacon in the church, and very strict in religious matters, was in Saratoga.

There was a conference at one of the hotel cottages that lasted until late in the morning. The other leaders were trying to force Odell to take the obnoxious man.

About 2 o'clock Odell's father, who had heard what was going on, stalked angrily over to the cottage and rapped on the door.

"Well?" said Platt, sharply.

"I want to see my son," demanded Odell.

The Governor came to the door.

"What is it, father?" he asked.

"Ben," said the old deacon, "tell them to go to ——."

"Yes, father," replied the Governor, obediently, and he went back and did just that.

Prune Juice Deception Ended.

Secretary Wilson is going to insist that no more prune juice be used to adulterate whisky. It wouldn't be so bad for the health of the drinker if he were to drink half whisky and half prune juice, but the trouble is that seductive prune juice is used as coloring to hide a lot of chemicals, whose chief delight and principal amusement is to eat holes in the stomach of the consumer.—[Chicago News.

PERQUISITES OF POLITICS.

United States Senators Love Mineral Water.

Thousands of Dollars Spent to Quench Their Thirst.

Curious Items in the List of Their Luxuries.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—According to the figures given in that interesting document known as the annual report of the Secretary of the Senate, the solons in that august body are a thirsty lot, but, so far as the report shows, confining themselves entirely and exclusively to Apollinaris and mineral waters of every kind and character, and lemonade. If there are stronger brands of fluid, straight or blended, the itemized report does not show it. However, it is known to those who have access to committee rooms that in a large number of them it is no difficult matter to find the "critter," as the late Senator Harris of Tennessee termed the genuine article.

There are ninety-two Senators, including the Vice-President, and the report shows that during the fiscal year 860 cases of mineral waters, costing $4504.70, went down their throttles. Just a little Grosvenorizing will show that this was nearly ten cases for each Senator at a cost of a fraction over $48.96 each. From the list of mineral waters it would appear that the Senator drank a little of everything save Potomac.

Two hundred and twenty-five cases of Apollinaris must be added to the expenditures for wet goods, and for the same the sum of $2025.87 was expended, and the drink list concludes with $318.97 for lemons and sugar, making a total of $6849.54 paid out to appease the thirst of the law-makers.

Outside of the items for drinkables, the report furnishes many and interesting facts which would lead the general public and taxpayers to believe that a Senator is an expensive luxury and that there is a wasteful and deplorable expenditure of the public money in gratifying their whims and tastes. Nearly $12,500 was paid out for stationery, engraving, pens, ink, pencils, arm bags, hand bags, card cases, desk sets, ink stands, scissors, pocket knives, stamp boxes, glove and handkerchief sets, collar boxes, tobacco cases, scrap/books, etc., etc. Here are a few of the unusual and peculiar items making up this tremendous list of luxuries:

The juice as it falls from the crushers, is run nito strainers, from whence foreign matter is extracted. It is then run into a huge receiver contiguous to a succession of cauldrons arranged in line over a furnace, the hottest part of which lies nearest the furnace door and remote from the first cauldron. The juice is then ladled from the receiver into the first cauldron and allowed to become heated; from this it is ladled to the second one, and so on, until it finally reaches the cauldron placed over the extreme heat of the furnace. The object of ladling the juice from pan to pan in this manner, is to gradually allow it to become heated so that it may not in any way become burned. During this process, volumes of steam are given off and the large percentage of water being thus evaporated, concentrates the juice in the form of syrup or molasses. This is then run off into barrels and allowed to cool.

THE DISTILLERY.

The equipment of a small distillery is very simple; all that is necessary being vats for setting up wash, retorts, and a still. By using a Pontifex still, i. e., one having two retorts placed equidistant between the still and "worm" excellent results are given.

The still which is of copper, is built into masonry, the crown only appearing above the surface in which is situated the man-hole. From the crown a hard-wood jacket is extended, the wood being clamped by means of metal bands. From the top of this jacket, a copper pipe leads into a retort which we will call A—, and which is placed some 6 to 8 feet from the still. This pipe enters the top of the retort and descends to about the center of it. From the crown of retort A—, a second pipe whose orifice just penetrates the rim and clear of any liquor contained therein, leads to a second retort, which we will name B—. This pipe descends, as in the case with that piercing A—, to about the center of it, while a second one leads directly to the "worm" i. e., a copper pipe arranged in the form of a series of coils placed in a tank, through which cold water is made to flow. The free end of the "worm" passes into the receiving room where we will leave it for a few moments.

Our attention is now drawn to the hard-wood vats, or holders in which the wash is to be set up and which are capable of holding some 200 gallons apiece.

Wash is an admixture of molasses, water and lees. An ordinary wash, i.e., one having no added lees, can be set up with 50 gallons of molasses to about 150 gallons of water. The object of putting up wash in vats is to induce fermentation, which commences about the third or fourth day, and to help this, young guava branches in full leaf are placed on its surface, helping somewhat to keep the gas, given off during fermentation, from escaping too rapidly. From six to eight days is required to ripen the wash, much depending upon climatic influences. During the period fermentation is in progress, the wash should be "pumped" up daily. This is done by means of a long pole at one end of which is a flat perforated board; this has the effect of stirring up all sediment, thoroughly mixing the wash and helping somewhat to mellow the whole. When effervescing has almost ceased, the saccharometer should be used and if the requisite reading is registered, the wash is ready for distillation. Two or three inches from the base of each vat is a plugged hole, placed several inches from the bottom, so that when the vat is to be opened, sediment is thus prevented from entering the still. The wash passes along troughs and enters the still by way of the man-hole, which when almost full, the cover is screwed down and the joints hermetically sealed.

The retorts should now be charged as follows: Into retort A., 20 gallons of low wines should be poured; into retort B, 15 gallons of ow wines; the bung in each being tightly replaced. The fire may now be started under the still and care should be exercised to see that too great a heat is not kept up after the wash begins to boil, as it would be apt to cause "vomiting." As the steam given off from the boiling wash rises into the jacket, it is forced by the pressure of back steam into retort A, where the low wines start to boil; the heavily charged steam given off from this retort is forced into the pipe leading to retort B, where the process is repeated, the steam thus formed passing into the pipe leading to the "worm" and coming in contact with the cold coils is at once condensed and trickles into the receiving room under the appellation of rum.

Directly the first tricklings make their appearance, the fire should be damped, if not raked out altogether. As the flow becomes greater, tests should be taken every few minutes to insure of the spirit being proof, i.e., from 18 to 27; above that mark it is called low wine. These low wines are used for filling the retorts, and the residue left in the still after proof spirit has ceased to flow and which is termed "lees," is used in the setting up of wash, possessing the qualities of barm.

When the wash is first set up, it should register by saccharometer reading from 10 to 11, and water or syrup added until the requisite mark is obtained. A good recipe for a 400-gallon still is: 120 gallons of lees, 100 gallons of molasses, 180 gallons of water. From a 400-gallon set up, about 10 per cent. should be converted into proof spirit.

PURE RUM IS COLORLESS.

Rum as it appears in the receiving room is a perfectly colorless liquid, but is of a dark brown hue when sold to the general public, due to the addition of caramel or storage in sherry casks, and its aroma is accounted for by the presence of butyric ether.

The distillations from the wash of beet sugar molasses can hardly be classed as rum, owing to its unpleasant taste and aroma, and it is only by a succession of distillations and concentration that it eventually becomes "silent," in which state it may be used in conjunction with highly flavored spirit, or for making a fake liquor, the principals of which consist chiefly of birch bark oil, and artificial ether, etc.

Arrack, a popular Malaysia liquor, is a distillation from cane molasses to the wash of which palm toddy is added, which increases its flavor.

In conclusion, it is not amiss to examine the illustrations. In the first we see a number of negresses carrying heavy bunches of bananas on their heads for disposal at the market, or to the jetty where they will be shipped to some foreign port. The tree in the background is the bread fruit tree (artocarpus incisa.) The fruit, when ripe, is cooked whole in its covering, similar to the manner in which yams or sweet potatoes are prepared, and must be eaten often to be appreciated. One gentleman in the hotel where I was staying, describes it thus: "It is like eating sawdust, but can be swallowed." When properly cooked, however, it is not in the least unpalatable and far preferable to the sodden sweet potato so frequently met with.

Newcastle, the military station in the Blue Mountains of Jamaica, and at an elevation of some 3800 feet, overlooks the Caribbean Sea. Kingston, the capital of the island, and Port Royal, the old buccaneer headquarters, most of which now lies submerged beneath the blue waters of the harbor, can be plainly seen from this mountain sanitarium.

NEW UNION SCHEME.

To Remove Women from Field of Labor—Premium Is to Be Offered for Babies.

[Chicago Tribune:] President Roosevelt's anti-race-suicide theories are to receive the hearty indorsement of Chicago's union labor. An organization is being perfected which will place a premium on child birth. One hundred dollars is to be paid to the wife of each member of the association at the birth of a child. Should the stork leave twins at the home of the union man the premium will be raised to $250 and $500 will be paid cheerfully in the event of triplets.

There is a twofold purpose in the object of the proposed beneficiary organization, one of which is to insure the father and mother of a stated sum at a time when it is greatly needed, and the other is one which has back of it purely union principles—to remove women from the field of labor and place her where she rightfully belongs, in the home.

"There are many single union men working alongside union women who would marry if they felt they could afford to accept the responsibilities that go with the rearing of a family," said one interested union man yesterday. "With the women taken from the field places will be open for men at better wages. That is one vital problem which we believe can be solved in no other way. In order to take women out of the labor field the men must marry them and furnish them homes.

"There has been a lot of talk and a great deal of stuff printed on the race suicide question. We do not have that question in mind so much as to provide union men, who are not overburdened with money, with an ample sum at a time when it is needed. We have our beneficial organizations which pay money in case of death and why not one which will provide money at the time of birth?"

The formation of such an organization is being seriously considered by members of the bakers' and confectioners' union. It is not the intention to make it a purely local association, but to extend its membership benefits over the entire country. Thousands of union men, it is believed, would be glad of the opportunity of joining such an association. It is believed that a small fee at the time of joining and dues of 50 cents a month, or even less, would be ample to carry out the project. Birth rate statistics and insurance rate schedules are being studied in an effort to work out a feasible plan under which the association may be conducted. When the promoters have all the details figured out the project will be launched.

Needless Effort.

What fatigues the motive power is getting to work. Once the mind is fascinated and the field of consciousness restricted to a single object, the brain works without exhausting itself. Let us apply ourselves for a good time to whatever we do, and have several hours of sustained labor. By quitting the task to dream, to smoke a cigarette or to watch a fly, one becomes exhausted.—[Paris La Revue.

MARVELS OF TOOL MAKING.

SECRET IS IN THE MAKING OF THE STEEL USED.

When Properly Hardened Tool Steel Shows a Finer Grain Than Otherwise—Same Care Must Be Taken With Heats as the Baker Takes in Baking Bread.

No one knows how, when or where the first tool steel was made, says E. T. Clarige in the Chicago Tribune. Without doubt it was the result of an accident. Some primitive blacksmiths found that from contact with the fuel under certain conditions iron became much stiffer, and that it would become much harder if dropped into water at a red heat. By further experiment it was evidently found that iron bars would best take on this ability to harden if packed in muffles with charcoal and kept at a high heat for a number of days. They had no idea whatever that they were carbonizing their iron—in fact, did not know that there was such a thing as carbon as we know it.

Blister steel was simply iron carbonized the same as one casehardens the link motion, except that it was left in so much longer that the carbon went in much deeper. You occasionally hear some old fellow speak of the good old days when they had blister steel to make tools of. I only wish he had to make a tool out of some of it. The truth is that it was full of seams and the carbon was unevenly distributed. The center of the bar generally had little or no carbon, and one of the first improvements was to turn a bar over and weld it upon itself, which allowed the carbon to soak through a little more uniformly and thinned out the soft streak in the center.

OLD PROCESS WAS SECRET.

This was called single shear steel, and when this bar was again doubled over and welded on itself it was called double steel.

Some time about 1760 one company in England astonished the rest of the blister steel makers by producing a bar that would harden uniformly all the way through. The story is that the process was kept a secret until a competitor sought shelter on a cold wintry night, and was allowed inside for humanity's sake. His eyes saw what to him was a wonderful process. He found that they were packing the broken pieces of blister steel in a crucible and melting it. This was the beginning of the present crucible process, and really few changes have been made since that time.

It may be said that there have been only two changes of any importance in the method of making tool steel. One concerns the type of furnace used, and the other is the direct process of carbonizing. All of the melting was originally done in coke holes, the same as brass is melted today. By the way, any metalworker can make steel in his own shop if he have a brass furnace. Just put a hundred pounds of good Swedish iron into a new No. 60 crucible, putting a cap over the top to keep out any gases which might carry any impurities into the steel. Put in one ounce of good clean charcoal to each four points carbon added to your mixture, and that is about all there is to it.

LIKE BAKING BREAD.

But this is a slow process, and it would bother us a good deal to keep the heat just right. The amount of heat must be just as carefully regulated as in baking bread. If we were to pour out the steel as soon as it is melted, the chances are that it would be all honeycombed. It must be held at a high heat for a certain length of time to work off the gases, or must undergo what we call "killing" the steel. This was a hard thing to do with the old style coke furnaces, but with the invention of the Siemens-Martin regenerative gas furnace it was made possible to regulate the heats perfectly.

A few years ago some one who was a little more daring than the rest figured it out that the charcoal could just as well be put right into the crucible with the iron. The reason it had not been done before was probably because every one thought that the charcoal would all burn up the minute the crucible was put into the furnace. The science of chemistry is only about a hundred years old, but the practical application of chemistry to the arts is not over fifty years old.

Chemistry teaches us that in order to burn up this charcoal we would have to supply oxygen in the proportion of 32 parts by weight to each 12 parts of carbon. The amount of oxygen contained in the free air in the crucible is too small to enter into any calculation; consequently this charcoal simply gets red hot without being consumed.

A good illustration of this is the carbon in an incandescent lamp, which is not consumed as long as the oxygen of the air is kept away from it.

IRON HUNGRY FOR CARBON.

When the iron is brought up to a certain temperature it becomes hungry for carbon, and the carbon in the charcoal is then taken up rapidly. When this direct carbonizing method first was used I remember a certain English steelmaker came out with a publication condemning it thoroughly and saying steel could not be made in that manner. This same man is still making steel, and is now using this process the same as every one else.

One thing of great importance was learned from experience, and that was that certain kinds of iron made good steel and that others seemed, for some reason, unfit for the purpose. Mind, they knew little about phosphorus and sulphur, the two deadly enemies of steel, and it was only from many experiments that they found that certain grades of Swedish iron gave them the best results. This knowledge became tradition, and to this day we are still guided by it.

Chemistry has taught us to compute accurately certain known impurities, such as phosphorus and sulphur; but to this day we cannot tell why these Swedish irons are better than irons produced in this country of, as far as we are able to determine, the same chemical analysis.

SWEDISH ORE THE BEST.

When nature made these deposits of iron in Norway and Sweden it so happened that there was little or no phosphorus or sulphur present to contaminate it, and so far these conditions have not been discovered anywhere in America.

We used to hear a great deal about "Bessemer ore." By this term was meant an ore running not over one-tenth of 1 per cent. phosphorus, up to which limit it could be safely used in the Bessemer process. Some of the southern irons carry as high as two-tenths of 1 per cent., while many of the Swedish irons carry little over one-hundredth of this impurity.

Starting in with the purest American ores, chemistry has taught us how to eliminate nearly all of these impurities, but it would seem that the immense doses of physic required must weaken the structure of the material, or else the difference is due to elements which cannot be found by analysis.

Such advances as have been made in crucible steel making have been developed first of all by outsiders, and gradually forced on to the steelmakers in spite of themselves. The modern high-speed steel is a good illustration of this, the development of which was brought about by two men who were not directly connected with the tool steel branch of steel making.

One of the large open hearth steel concerns which furnished a great deal of its material rough turned found that its forging department could turn out a great deal more material than its machine shop could take care of.

DISCOVERED BY ACCIDENT.

Possibly by accident, possibly by intention, it seems that they burned the end of some of their self-hardening tools, and they found that the steel would then do a great deal more work, and at higher speeds.

We steel men had gone around for the last twenty years or so telling people to use low heats on all their steel, and this shows how little the steelmakers themselves really knew. We did not know that the rules governing the use of straight carbon steels might be directly contrary to what these tungsten steels required; but such seems to be the case. When this fact became apparent we immediately asked ourselves: "What does this high heat do to the point of the steel? Does it burn something out, and, if so, what?" Carbon is, of course, the most combustible element in steel, and we reasoned that heating the point of this steel till it fused must burn some of the carbon out.

So starting in with that as a basis, we reasoned that if it was a good thing to burn the carbon out, why not leave it out in the first place?

Now, in speaking of these high heats that must be used on high-speed steels, do not forget that the fact remains that regular carbon tool steel must be heated at a low heat to harden. The grain of the steel always records the last heat used. If it looks like a piece of cast iron, it has been badly overheated, no matter if the blacksmith does tell you that he only had it at a cherry heat. Perhaps he was brought up on white cherries. The grain of the steel always tells the truth. If you have broken tools, first of all look at the grain shown in the steel. If it is coarse, just take the same piece and put it back into the fire and heat it at a low red, harden it, and then look at the grain. That will tell the story.

GRAIN TELLS THE TRUTH.

A piece of tool steel properly hardened must always show a much finer grain than the unhardened bar.

About two years ago, when speaking at the blacksmith's convention at Buffalo, I told them that there was one common fault in railroad blacksmith shops, in giving the tool fire to the oldest man in the shop.

In most cases he has worked iron all his life, and his eyes are in no condition to judge heats to a nicety. I suggested that they give the tool fire to the youngest man in the shop, and not necessarily a full-fledged blacksmith. Take some young fellow who is willing to learn and will do as he is told, and show him the effect of heat on steel by breaking the piece after hardening to show the grain.

I know of a young man who was a tool dresser in one of the western railroad shops some years ago, and used to heat every piece of steel he got hold of. The foreman took him in hand and got him so much interested that he became one of the most expert workers, and for several years he has occupied the position of instructor in one of our large universities. You will find the young man willing to learn, and he is quick to become interested, but it is hard to teach an old dog new tricks.

Half-Learned Trades.

About the only men who learn a trade any more are those who are sent to the penitentiary. The country is being imposed upon more and more every year by men who have not mastered the trade which they claim to understand. As soon as a young man can distinguish the difference between a handsaw and a jackplane he is a carpenter. If he can tell mortar from pancake batter he is a plasterer. If he can pick a paint brush out of a pile where half of the bunch are whisk brooms he hangs up his sign as a painter. If he can screw a lid on a fruit jar so it won't leak he is a plumber. Lawyers and doctors are obliged to pass examinations in their profession before they are permitted to engage in their work, but the public is imposed upon by men who "butt in" in a trade, a business or a profession which they do not understand and have not fitted themselves for.—[Mankato (Kan.) Advocate.

Copper Kills Germs.

"Copper is a marvelous preventive of disease. If we returned to the old copper drinking vessels of our forefathers, typhoid epidemics would disappear." The speaker, a filtration expert, took a copper cent from his pocket. "Examine this cent under the microscope," he said, "and you will find it altogether free from disease germs. Examine gold and silver coins, and you will find them one wriggling and contorting germ mass. Yet copper coins pass through dirtier hands than gold and silver ones. You'd think they'd be alive with micro-organisms. But no. Copper kills germs. Diphtheria and cholera cultures smeared on a copper cent die in less than two hours."—[Birmingham Weekly Post.

LILY CREAM
LEADER OF CREAMS

Lily Cream has earned that reputation.

It "stands to reason" that Lily Cream is the safest milk when you think of how many chances milk has of becoming infected with disease germs and impurities of all kinds on its way to your kitchen.

WHY Lily Cream has become so securely lodged in the hearts of thousands of housewives, is explained easily:

It is the pure California dairy milk, sterilized, freed of the water and sanitarily sealed in air-tight cans.

Lily Cream is always ready to use, and you may keep a goodly supply on your pantry shelves for emergencies—it will not spoil and will not become infected.

It is most delicious for all purposes, and more economical than ordinary, doubtful milk.

Start using Lily Cream today. For sale by all grocers.

microscope the smallest atom of matter the human eye can see. It is almost unimaginable how tiny that speck is as compared with the ball the child is playing with at your feet upon the floor. What a speck the child's plaything is compared with the immensity of a great balloon! The balloon is smaller than the dot under the microscope compared with the moon which accompanies our globe in its circuit around the sun. The moon is smaller than the child's plaything compared with the great sun around which our system moves through space. What a speck upon the sky the moon is compared with its own orbit around our world! But our sun, if placed with its center concentric with that of the earth, would reach far beyond the orbit of the moon. Now what a mere speck the blazing sun itself becomes as you compare it with the whole system of planets which trails with it through space.

Once more, if the human mind could conceive the vastness of that great sphere embraced by the whole glorious system of which our world forms a part, it would be but a pin-point pricked in limitless space as compared with the sphere of which the nearest fixed star would be the center, and that sphere again would become insignificant if compared with the vaster space lying around one of the furthest fixed stars. Yet that incomprehensible sphere cut out of the vast abyss of infinity would be small compared with the outlying sphere beyond it, embracing systems of stars so wonderfully remote from us that the most powerful telescope ever built by human ingenuity fails to bring within the reach of our observation anything more than a mere confused mass of light, streaking the abyss of infinity as the Milky Way appears to the naked eye. And yet this space thus brought within the bare sphere of human imagination aided by the most powerful mechanical appliances mankind has been able to devise, is as to the infinity lying beyond, infinitely less than the speck of matter under the microscope is to this sphere, at the boundary lines of which even human imagination falters and fails. The speck under the microscope is the center of boundless infinities that reach in every direction without end.

You see the ant trailing a morsel of food along its path—an exhibition of power. You see a man carry a sack of grain across the same field—an exhibition of vastly greater power. And you go on comparing small things to great until you watch the locomotive trailing a load of fifty freight cars up the steep, and your conception of power rises to higher and higher degrees. But what is all the power of man and all his mechanical devices compared with that by which our sun binds all his attendant worlds at his feet and trails them through the limitless deep of space?

Last of all, you see the child on the floor at your feet turn from playing with the ball to studying the forms of the letters in the alphabet in the picture book, the first step in the acquisition of knowledge. Later on, the child masters the multiplication table. Masters the multiplication table? No finite mind can master the multiplication table. The first section of it, where the multiplier is two, is capable of extension to an infinity as limitless as that of time or space or power. It is a long reach from the child with the alphabet and the picture book to the astronomer measuring distant planets as easily as a carpenter measures the length of a board, or weighing distant worlds as accurately as a grocer weighs a pound of sugar. It is a long way from the child learning to form its first inaccurate sentence to Shakespeare writing "Hamlet" or Milton singing "Paradise Lost." It seems almost infinitely far from the clerk balancing the books at the bank to Sir Isaac Newton sitting in the garden and from the fall of an apple working out the weight of the sun. Where does knowledge stop? There is a whole world of difference between the child with the alphabet or the multiplication table and the astronomer calculating an eclipse a century hence. Huxley's knowledge of biology would seem an infinite impossibility to the mind of the savage. It would be utterly incomprehensible to him. Edison's knowledge of electricity is far removed from the first rudimentary conception of this element of matter as known to Franklin a hundred years ago. Does the modern professor of chemistry know the ultimate facts of that science? Not a bit of it. Does Edison know the whole of electricity? He knows more than Franklin knew, but he is but one step in advance of Franklin toward grasping the ultimate, absolute and final knowledge of electricity.

And so from every point of view and from everything that the human mind touches we are in touch everywhere with the infinite, and the infinite is just as absolute a fact as the most finite thing touched by the mind or the physical being of man.

A CYCLE OF SONNETS.

XII. SUNKEN GOLD.

In dim green depths rot ingot-laden ships,
While gold doubloons that from the drowned hand fell
Lie nestled in the ocean flower's bell
With Love's gemmed rings once kissed by now dead lips.
And round some wrought-gold cup the seagrass whips,
And hides lost pearls, near pearls still in their shell,
Where seaweed forests fill each ocean dell,

And seek dim sunlight with their countless tips.
So lie the wasted gifts, the long-lost hopes,
Beneath the now hushed surface of myself,
In lonelier depths than where the diver gropes.
They lie deep, deep; but I at times behold
In doubtful glimpses, on some reefy shelf,
The gleam of irrecoverable gold.

E. LEE HAMILTON.

PRACTICAL ETHICS.

THE SIGNS OF THE TIMES.

NO truer words were ever spoken than those of the ancient philosopher who said that whereas the study of man was of chief importance to mankind, man invariably studied everything except himself, thus omitting the most important object of all knowledge. Again, the sage remark of Emerson is also pertinent here: "There is nothing of which man is more fond, and nothing which he is so careless of as life." The principal augury, therefore, of real progress today is that man's attention is finally drawn to himself in many significant ways, that is, to the repsonsible agent for most conditions accounted as good or bad in the world. In other words, the signs of the times point to the illuminating fact that man is at last coming to take a more liberal and intelligent survey of himself.

The scientific spirit of inquiry is upon us all, and laymen as well as professionals are occupied with speculations as to the outcome, in the not too distant future, of the possibilities and portents of this being known as man, the greater compound of human and divine.

How many inarticulate questions tremble on the faltering lips of adolescence! And how many profound queries flow spontaneously out of the unsullied mouths of children, little more than babes!

How then shall we who know life on its several planes of human, animal and divine, meet the inquiring mind, whether of infant or adult?

"Learn to do by doing" is the practical dictum of modern education. In most things this serves as an excellent rule, for no instruction can take the place of knowledge from experience. But likewise have some of our ancient forbears said, (and there are many who still say,) "if you would teach a lad how to swim, throw him overboard."

When, however, acting upon the same theory we regard the moral world as a great swimming school, whose motto is: "Learn to swim by dint of unaided effort, or sink." We must not be amazed at the frequency of disaster, for we cannot consistently make war on results derived from lines of procedure which we stoutly advocate. For centuries men, yes, boys, have been sent abroad, admonished by their elders to "scatter their wild oats," and this became the accepted tradition of the male sex. To be "wild" (dissolute) was their privilege, their special prerogative. Hence the consequence of "sowing the wind" in one era meant reaping the wirlwind" in another. What though a young man, especially if he could boast a "noble" pedigree, caused the shame and degradation of many an innocent and trusting maiden; he still walked the earth proudly for, like the King, "he was of the male persuasion and like His Majesty, could do no wrong."

What the world indulgently called "the escapades of youth" when the mischief related to the members of the "stronger sex," it fiercely denounced as irretrievable wrong on part of his female companion in guilt. He, the man, was not taught that the ruin which he wrought would seriously damage his fame, or that in sowing the seeds of misery in the lives of the victims of his unbridled sensuality, he would be morally and legally guilty of criminal action.

Hence the ease with which gravest moral breaches are still committed in our day and generation by the so-called "stronger sex" strikes a note of terror to all earnest souls whose measure of moral rectitude concerning the relation between the sexes, is deduced from a highly advanced ethical standard of human relationship.

The signs of the times are notably directed to "human" as the place of emphasis. The time is come when men and women must meet as human as well as sexual beings. Their nature and rights, mental, moral and spiritual, must above all be respected, and "class legislation" or social custom which upholds a double moral standard be abolished.

Moreover, we must have the good sense and the moral fortitude to face the facts of life, dealing with them as occasion demands. For the sins of commission by both men and women of the present are after all in large part due to the sins of omission of parents, educators and moulders of public opinion in the past. Nothing is of greater value to man than life—for he himself is life and life is in him to be propagated. There is no greater need today, unless we stupidly and indifferently close our eyes to the signs of the times—than the closest possible union between education and life. Which means doffing the worn-out mantle of prudery and false modesty by both teachers and parents and teaching truth, revealing in a tactful and fitting manner the great facts of physical and moral life, thus affording young men and women a pure and scientific knowledge of physiological functions which man has in common with his lesser brethren, but which unlike the untrained brute, he is given in addition, transcendent moral, mental and spiritual powers for the subjugation of those instincts which, given unlicensed reign, by undermining the quality of manhood and womanhood to which we aspire, destroy the value of most of the advances we have made toward a higher type of civilization, and of which otherwise we might be justly proud.

Morocco in 1907. By Frank G. Carpenter.

COVETED COUNTRY.

BIRDSEYE VIEW OF THE EMPIRE THE POWERS WANT.

From Our Own Correspondent.

TANGIER (Morocco.)—Stand with me at this, the chief gate of Morocco, and take a birdseye view of the country. We are on the Atlantic Coast, at the northwestern corner of the African continent and only fifteen miles from Europe. The Strait of Gibraltar begins just east of here, and the Pillars of Hercules are almost in view. I can see the hills of Spain over the way, and I know that the seat of the world's civilization is not far beyond.

This country is on the very edge of Europe. It is fat with natural resources, and the great powers would like to gobble it up. France, Germany and England covet it, and it is only the jealousy of each which keeps off the others. On my way here I called at Algeciras, Spain, where the conference of the powers was held, and I find in Tangier the representatives of all the nations which formed a part of it. Our own American Minister is now at Fez to have an audience with the Sultan and to officially welcome Morocco into our family of nations. He went there with a large caravan, guarded by soldiers sent by the Sultan, the Moorish government paying all bills.

But what kind of a creature is this our new international sister?

In the first place, she is coy. She would rather be let alone, and her bosom is raging over her international adoption. Nevertheless, the powers want her and her trade; for she is rich and her country is one of the best parts of this continent. It extends from this point down the Atlantic coast for a distance as great as from New York to Pittsburgh, and eastward for several hundred miles along the Mediterranean from Gibraltar to Algeria. It is bigger than any country in Europe, excepting Russia, and bigger than all New England, added to the combined areas of New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia.

Morocco is a part of what was once called "Little Africa," the great section at the northwestern end of that continent which embraces Morocco, Algeria and Tunisia, reaching from west to east as far as from New York to Omaha, and everywhere wider than from Philadelphia to Boston. This land was named by the Arabs of the past the Western Island. It is bounded on two sides by the waters of the Atlantic and the Mediterranean; and on the others by that sea of sand, the Desert of Sahara. Of this Algeria and Tunisia belong to the French and are rapidly changing under the new civilization. The people are prosperous and the exports increasing. Morocco is an independent empire, and is still in the throes of the dark ages.

A Country Going to Waste.

How backward Morocco is we shall never realize until the foreign powers step in and begin to develop it. The soil is rich and deep, and a large part of it will raise the same crops as California. The foothills of the Atlas Mountains might be the chief fruit garden of Europe, and there are great plains in the south, which will raise the best of wheat, barley and corn. Even the mountainous parts, and they are many, are covered with pastures and the people now rear thousands of sheep, cattle and goats.

Spain gets most of her meat from Morocco, and as I look out of my window I can see them unloading boatloads of beeves which will be carried across to Gibraltar. The cattle are taken out of the boats in a curious way. The water is so shallow that lighters cannot come to the shore and the beasts have to wade. There are no landing arrangements, and each animal is pried out by a long beam which is thrust under its belly, while it is held fast by two sailors head and tail and stretched taut. At just the right moment four other Moors standing outside the boat in the water press down on the opposite end of the beam, raising the steer into the air and letting it slide down into the sea. It goes in with a splash, comes up gasping and is led out to the shore by a rope tied to its horns.

The sheep here are as fine as any in Spain, and this might be one of the great wool-producing countries of the world. I am told that the land is rich in minerals and that it has long been furnishing minerals in great quantities. Morocco has, however, never been prospected and no one knows what it contains.

Think of a country six times as big as Ohio which has not one road fit for a wagon or any wheeled vehicle to say nothing of railroads or other means of communication. Let it have not one thrashing machine, reaper or mover, and no farming implements but those which scratch the soil; let it have no markets worthy of mention in our sense of the word; and let its people be robbed and oppressed by their officials, so that there is almost no incentive to labor, and you have some idea of the conditions in Morocco.

Among the White Africans.

You can know nothing, however, about the situation until you consider the people. These Moors are not like our negroes, whose ancestors came from below here across the Sahara in the lands bordering the Gulf of Guinea. Those people are black as your boots, and as barbarous as any tribes on the face of the earth. They are low in intelligence and are terribly debased. The Moors have brains which will compare with our own. They are Mohammedans who believe in Allah and the prophet. They are white and they wear clothes. Some of them are as well dressed as any Christian gentleman, and their clothes cost more than ours. They have gowns of the finest wool, undergarments of beautiful cloth, sashes of silk, and shoes of fine yellow leather. Their hands are soft and their faces often handsome. There are many red-haired and red-bearded men among them. Their features sparkle with intelligence and they have most of the characteristics of the Caucasian race. About the only black Africans here are those who have been brought across the desert from the Soudan to be sold as slaves. There are, however, many mulattoes, the offspring of these negroes and the Moors.

The Berbers.

The population of Morocco all told is about 10,000,000. A census has never been taken, and by some the number is estimated much higher. The majority of the people are Berbers or Kabyles, and after them come the Arabs and Jews.

The Berbers are one of the most independent races on earth. Some people suppose them to have emigrated from Southern Europe ages ago. It is known that they were here in the days of the Phoenicians; and they fought again and again with the Carthaginians and Romans. They have been frequently conquered in battle, but it is claimed that they have never been really subdued. They are somewhat like the Swiss in that they have villages in the mountains, and it would be almost impossible to reach them in time of war. Most of the mountain tribes today are of this old Berber race, and the same is true of the Tuaregs or the Sahara brigands.

These Berber people have a language of their own, and they once had their own religion. Today they are about all Mohammedans and they resent the foreign invasion. They do not like to pay taxes, and not long ago when one of the Sultan's officials demanded the tenth of the crop of a certain tribe, the chief replied:

"If the Sultan wants taxes let him come himself for them. We will mold them into silver bullets and deposit them in his person." That tax has not yet been collected. There are about 5,000,000 of these Berbers in Morocco.

Arabs and Jews.

As to the Arabs, these came in with the Mohammedan invasion, many centuries ago, and they have mixed more or less with the Berbers. There are 3,000,000 or 4,000,000 of them. Some are nomadic Bedouins, living in Woman and Matrimony.

THE FEMALE ROLE BEFORE AND AFTER WEDDING.

By Helen Rowland,

Author of "The Digressions of Polly," "Honeymoon Conversations,"

"I DO believe," said Kitty with a sigh of delight, as the curtain went down at the end of the first act, "that I'd rather be the soubrette than the star. All the best-looking men in the play make love to her," she added pensively.

"But she doesn't get half the applause," I objected, placing my chair as near Kitty's and as far away from her mother as possible, "nor any of the flowers."

"She gets most of the fun!" declared Kitty promptly, "without any of the hard work or the nervous strain or the responsibility."

"There," I exclaimed, laying down my opera glass and regarding Kitty with respectful awe, "is wisdom from the mouth of a babe! If only more women would regard the dramatic situation in that light——"

"The—what?" interrupted Kitty wonderingly.

"The comedy of love," I explained, "and the tragedy of matrimony."

"Oh!" said Kitty comprehendingly. "But there isn't any soubrette in a tragedy," she added doubtfully.

"If there were more soubrettes and fewer leading ladies," I protested sadly, "matrimony wouldn't be such a tragedy. If fewer wives demanded applause and flowers and the center of the stage——"

"And all the long speeches," gurgled Kitty with a glance at her mother.

"And most of the limelight," I added.

"And of the profits," suggested Kitty.

"The last act," I finished emphatically, "wouldn't so often be a divorce-court scene."

"But somebody's got to be the star," objected Kitty thoughtfully.

"And that," I declared with solemn conviction, "should be the person who does all the hard work and takes most of the responsibilities and handles the box-office receipts."

Kitty turned from her surreptitious contemplation of the mirror at the back of the box to stare at me.

"I do believe you mean—THE MAN!" she exclaimed incredulously.

"I do believe I do," I agreed, lifting my opera glass indifferently and turning it on the woman in the box across the way.

There was a moment of complete and oppressive silence while Kitty fanned herself with indignant vigor. Then, with a snap of the fan——

"I wonder," she said very thoughtfully, "if ALL men feel that way."

"All men," I announced firmly, once more discarding my glass, "have a crude idea that, having to 'put up' for the production of matrimony and bought the necessary scenery and hired the house and chosen the cast and invested their fortunes in the experiment, they are going to be the general manager of the situation and to have the center of the domestic stage and to play the star part in their own homes."

Kitty giggled behind her fan.

I glanced at her coldly, but she was looking at her mother, who sat with her unconscious back toward us.

"I was only thinking," explained Kitty apologetically, "how disappointed most of them must be when the curtain goes up—after the wedding—and they find they are only—the angels!"

"The angels" I inquired, lifting my eyebrows.

"Yes," nodded Kitty. "Isn't the 'angel' the man who takes all the chances and pays all the expenses and is never seen nor heard except when the bills are due Most of mama's friends are married to—'angels,'" she added sweetly.

"Most society women are," I sighed tentatively.

"I'm so glad!" exclaimed Kitty.

"Glad!" I repeated, in shocked surprise. "Do you gloat over them"

"I'm so glad I found out," pursued Kitty, "before deciding to—to marry—anybody."

I turned and looked at Kitty penetratingly.

"Were you—deciding to marry anybody" I asked desperately.

"And," continued Kitty, without stopping to explain, though a pink flush mounted to her golden brown pompadour and challenged the blue forget-me-nots in her hair, "before I gave up the flowers and applause for a back seat in the gallery. It isn't fair," she went on, petulantly, "to deceive a girl by letting her make her entrance on the social stage in a blaze of lights and music and allowing her to think she's the leading lady all during the courtship and the engagement and——"

"The engagement," I broke in, "is only the curtain raiser. The star never takes the leading part in that."

"And then," proceeded Kitty undaunted, "when she has become accustomed to having all the best speeches and sitting in the limelight with a chorus of men singing her praises and the world applauding, to ask her to move back and act supernumerary while some man not half so clever nor wise nor charming turns the calcium light on himself and expects her to look in awe and rapture while he talks politics and growls at the dinner."

I leaned back in my chair with a hopeless sigh.

"Oh, well," I remarked indifferently, "if a girl prefers to go on all her life playing curtain raisers let her do it. But the average woman would rather be a supernumerary in the legitimate drama of love and matrimony than a star in the cheap vaudeville of flirtation. She gets a larger and more certain salary, and——"

"Harder work," interpolated Kitty, scornfully.

"And she is safer."

"And more useful."

"And more comfortable."

"And commonplace and uninteresting and meek, and easily imposed on," finished Kitty, dramatically. "And even then," she went on, with a spiteful snap of her ivory fan, "a man isn't satisfied unless he is married to a whole theatrical company, and she is willing to shift all the domestic scenery, and do the cooking, and make the beds, and set up a charming background for him, and then to come on and play chorus, and laugh at his jokes, and sing his praises, and applaud his entrances and exits, and keep the limelight on him whenever they are in company, and hand him bouquets and compliments, and keep his stage clothes in order during her spare moments and——"

"Sh!" I broke in, desperately. "The curtain is going up."

But I needn't have bothered. Kitty had stopped with parted lips and was staring at a young person with a very white shirt front and perfectly parted hair and a huge chrysanthemum in his coat lapel, who had just entered the box opposite.

"Quick!" she whispered, "Look at him! D-does he look as if he wanted a leading lady or—or a soubrette"

I leveled my glasses speculatively.

"He looks," I said, after a moment's thoughtful scrutiny, "as if nothing less than a whole chorus would satisfy——"

Kitty put her hand over my mouth.

"The curtain is going up!" she broke in hurriedly.

"After all," said Kitty, leaning back languidly when the curtain had dropped again, "the leading lady does have the best of the situation."

"Perhaps," I agreed doubtfully, "at the beginning of the play; but not in the end. I've seen lots of leading ladies who lived in hallrooms and paid their own board bills to their dying day, and who took themselves so seriously and were so busy trying to live up to their roles and to manage the situation that no man ever offered to manage it for them."

"Oh, well," retorted Kitty, "men admire independent women."

"But they don't marry them," I replied. "The average man steers shy of a girl who takes all of his best speeches out of his mouth and makes him sit back like part of the scenery, while she is doing her drawing-room act. He knows that marriage with her would mean a monologue, in which she would do all the talking, while he played the silent part of walking gentleman. What most men are looking for is a nice, merry little soubrette who will dance and sing her way through life and lighten the whole tragedy and lead her husband up to his greatest heights and play up to his cleverness. He may not be willing to share his limelight with her, but most any man would be willing to share everything else on earth with a girl like that."

"Do you think," said Kitty, laconically, indicating the white chrysanthemum in the opposite box with a nod of the head, "that I could play up to his cleverness?"

"His—WHAT?"

"That's just what I mean!" declared Kitty, triumphantly. "How many women get husbands who are fit to take the lead? How many women get husbands they are proud of and long to see shining in the limelight and making themselves heard above the orchestra?" And Kitty regarded the white chrysanthemum with a little shudder.

I gazed very thoughtfully at the box across the way for a moment and then I turned to Kitty and put my hand over hers beneath the ivory fan.

"My dear little girl," I said gently, "no woman has a right to sign a contract of marriage until she knows that the company she is going to cast her lot with is good, and that the man who is going to play the opposing role—is the RIGHT MAN. No woman has a right to go into matrimony at all who is cut out to be a star and wants the center of the stage all the time. She should go in for law or literature or the drama, or art or politics or woman's clubs. The only kind of a wife who gets and gives any happiness in marriage is the one who is willing to play second and who admires her husband so intensely that she can sit dumb whenever he speaks and loves him so much that the very sound of his voice is music in her ears."

"But," protested Kitty, gazing abstractedly at the box opposite, "couldn't husband and wife—be joint stars?"

"They might," I assented cheerfully, "but there is only one center of the stage and one climax to the play."

"I've decided," said Kitty, as I tucked her into her white fur cloak, at the close of the last act, "to be an old maid."

I shot a triumphant glance toward the white chrysanthemum, but it had disappeared from the box.

"Why, he's gone!" I exclaimed.

Kitty blushed and looked down to see if her skirts were straight.

"Oh, no," she said sweetly, "I guess he's coming."

But we did not meet him on our way out, and I thought Kitty looked rather nettled as I put her into the carriage. As we turned the corner, our lights flashed on a great yellow automobile standing at the stage entrance. A lady in a scarlet chiffon hat was just entering the tonneau, assisted by a young man in whose buttonhole reposed a huge chrysanthemum.

I glanced at Kitty. She was sitting up straight and glaring at the whole performance.

"Kitty," I said softly as we turned into a side street, "was that the young man you had nearly decided to——"

"I decided NOT to marry him, Mr. Curtis!" cried Kitty, sinking limply back into the carriage.

"I told you," I said thoughtfully, "that he looked as if nothing but a whole chorus would satisfy——"

"Curty," broke in Kitty, and I felt her hand steal into mine, "sometimes I think you are the cleverest man I know. I could almost play up to you—if—if——"

Oh, well! What's the use? I'm 32 and Kitty is only 20, and besides, starring as Kitty's husband would be a dreadful strain, to say nothing of the expense.

Exalted Above All.

NEW HEAD OF SMITHSONIAN SOON TO BE CHOSEN.

From a Special Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—At their annual meeting to be held, according to statute, on the fourth Monday of January, the regents of the Smithsonian Institution are expected to elect Secretary S. P. Langley's successor as secretary and directive head of that great scientific establishment.

The new secretary will be the ranking scientist of the realm. His exalted position will assure him greater prestige and influence than could the presidency of any university or of any scientific institution of the New World. Prof. Joseph Henry, while serving as the first secretary of the Smithsonian, declined the presidency of Princeton at double his salary. Prof. Langley's successor will be Uncle Sam's tutor and chief advisor on scientific matters, his guardian over the sacred treasures and works of science, which it were unsafe to intrust to the hands of men dominated by political motives. He will enjoy the privileges of the floor of the Senate, and like a cabinet officer, will be officially addressed as "Mr. Secretary." He will draw a salary of $7500 a year, if the regents elect to allow him the same compensation as drawn by Prof. Langley at the time of his death.

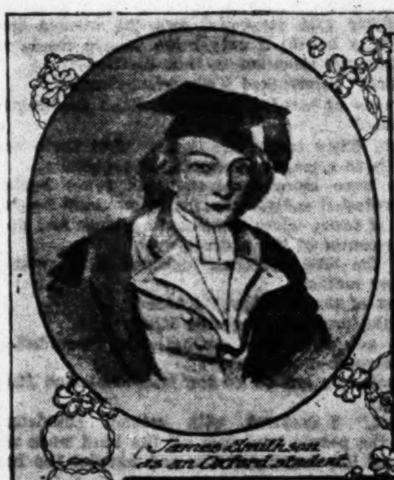
At state functions held at the White House or elsewhere he will, according to the established order of precedence, take rank immediately after the Justices of the Federal Court of Claims and before the brigadier-generals of the army.

A Veritable Potentate.

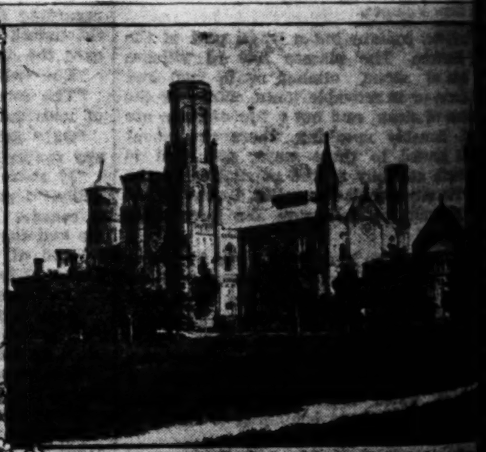
No other personage in the official life of the capital will enjoy a position more independent, unless it be the Chief Justice himself. Neither the President nor Congress will have the power to remove him, no clique or clan of politicians can disturb him, and he will not be beholden to Congress for his salary. He need bow his head to no earthly authority other than the "board of regents of the Smithsonian Institution," which elects him, and although this body has the power to remove him, his appointment is understood to be for life, as was that of each of his predecessors. He will not only be the secretary, but the principal executive officer of the board of regents, which consists of the Vice-President, Chief Justice, three Senators (appointed by the President of the Senate,) three Representatives (appointed by the Speaker) and two citizens of Washington, together with four distinguished citizens of separate States (appointed by joint resolution of Congress.)

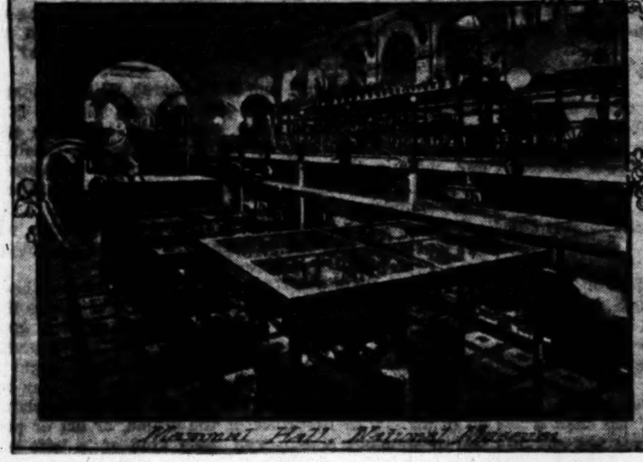
The meetings of the regents are presided over by the Chief Justice, designated as its "chancellor," and there is also an "executive committee" of the board consisting of three regents. The regents are supposed to receive the "advice and instruction" of a higher body, "the establishment," consisting of the President of the United States, Vice-President, Chief Justice, Cabinet and several honorary members. The "establishment" usd to meet at stated intervals, the President of the United States presiding, but has not been called together for thirty years, and as a factor in the affairs of the institution it has become obsolete. In spite of all of this formidable organization the secretary's administration of the institution is practically supreme. He is really the director of the institution, the title of "secretary" having been originally adopted because in Washington it designates the highest grades of executive responsibility below the President of the United States. The new secretary will make all appointments on the staff of the institution, will be responsible for its funds and the custodian of its property and treasures.

Although the guardian of many governmest interests and the administration officer over hundreds of government employés, he will be neither a government official nor will he receive a government salary. The Smithsonian Institution is a corporation endowed by a private fund administered by the government, whose acceptance of such a trust is the only instance of such an action in our history.

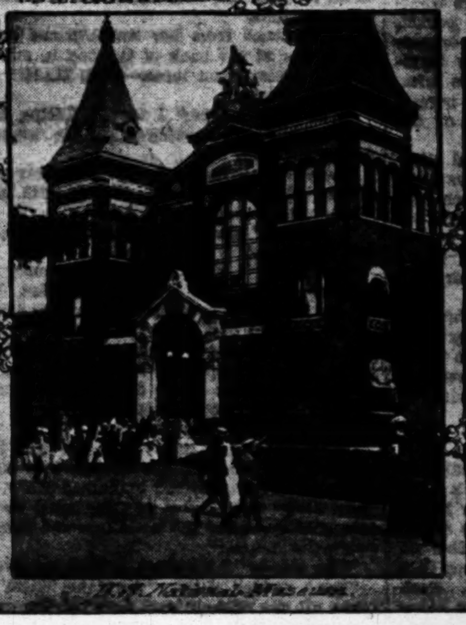


James Smithson as an Oxford student.





Mammal Hall, National Museum



U.S. National Museum

Government Bureaus Under Him.

But by virtue of his office the new secretary will be also the administration head of five government institutions, the National Museum, Bureau of American Ethnology, Bureau of International Exchanges, Ostrophysical Observatory and National Zoölogical Park.

The real function of this great mother-hen of science, the Smithsonian Institution proper, is understood by a srupisingly small proportion of the public. The majority of visitors to Washington depart with the impression that its chief work is the collection of natural history specimens, a misconception due to the fact that the many-towered Norman castle occupied by the offices of the secretary is, owing to the crowded condition of the present National Museum building, also used largely as a repositary for the overflow collections of the museum. When asked to define the functions of the Smithsonian, Prof. Henry once answered: "To assist men of science in making original researches, to publish them in a series of volumes and to give a copy of them to every first-class library on the face of the earth." The Smithsonian has not only made grants of money to many investigators throughout the world, but has supplied books, apparatus and laboratory accommodations to thousands. Its aid is not limited to Americans, but is just as accessible to the citizens of one nation as to those of another. This broad scope of its usefulness seems to be expressed in the will of James Smithson, who bequeathed his fortune "to found at Washington, under the name of the Smithsonian Institution, an establishment for the increase and diffusion of knowledge among men." The last two words have been interpreted to mean "among all mankind."

Pathos in Founder's Life.

In England there flourished during the seventeen hundreds a powerful lord, Hugh, first Duke of Northumberland. In 1740, when this peer had been Sir Hugh Smithson of Stanwick, he had married Elizabeth Seymour of the illustrious family of Percy. Twenty-six years later his dukedom was created for him by George III. Thirteen years after his marriage this lord had a liaison with Elizabeth, "heiress of the Hungerfords of Studley and niece to Charles, the proud Duke of Somerset." At the time of this liaison this former Miss Huntley was Mrs. Macie. The issue, in 1754, was an illegitimate son, James, who was given his mother's family name, Macie. His father provided a liberal allowance for his support and education, and entered him at Oxford, where he excelled in the study of chemistry, to which he devoted even his vacations. At his graduation, still under the name of James Lewis Macie, he received the degree of A. M., and the next year he became a fellow of the Royal Society.

This young man brooded over the circumstances of his birth, shunned society on their account and wandered restlessly over Europe, seeking seclusion and forgetfulness. While in London he lived in Bentick street, pursued his studies and investigations, and passed his leisure with authors, artists and scientists of note, but for long periods he circulated principally between Paris, Berlin, Florence and Genoa. During these trips he made frequent excursions for the collection of minerals, carrying into the field a portable laboratory. "He could draw a platinum wire as fine as a spider's web, and construct a galvanic battery in a thimble," according to a contemporary. His authority on mineralogy and chemistry was quoted by the leading and he was an intimate friend of adopted his father's name, and known as James Smithson. A new discovered after that time is called honor.

"The Sins of the Fathers."

So sensitive was he over his birth ried. He died in 1829 at Genoa, from home or kin, he was buried in of the English church, on the heights a solitary spot shadowed by cypress ing the gulf of Genoa. Prof. Langley made pilgrimages to the tomb and saw for. Three years ago it was decided mains to Washington, and Prof. Alex. of the regents of the Smithsonian, to the reinterment, at his own expense. tomb he found that the wooden coffin but that the skeleton was fairly and surrounding dust were carefully casket and inclosed in a coffin of strong in an American flag. PICTURESQUE SCENES TO WHICH IT LEADS IN SAN FERNANDO.

By a Special Contributor.

AN excursion from the city being planned, the question was debated: "Which way shall we go to reap the best rewards for our labor?" North, south, east or west, where is most to delight the eye; on which side of Los Angeles lies the most picturesque country?

South of town one road is very like another. The walking is good, for the surfaces are mostly oiled, but the prospect is monotonous. The mountains are behind; and in front there is nothing but the long perspective of the highway, and broad fields relieved by clumps of gum trees. Eastward the Sierra is always in sight, which is something gained, but there is the same lack of detail in the foreground. The southwest was voted pretty, but too suburban. What we wanted was something countrified, but not too far off; a walk where the mind could be stored with scenes that it would be a pleasure to revive by the flashlight of memory.

"What you seek is close at hand," said the man who knows the country like a letter carrier on a rural route. "Try the northwest. Take the Los Feliz road, which winds along the shady side of the San Fernando Valley."

In the Spanish name—the fortunate ones—there is a ring of good omen, suggestive of a cheerful walk. And the pedestrian who chooses this road is lucky, for a trail runs alongside and above it for a mile or more. Who would not, with Antolycus, "joy on the footpath way," when he can, safe from the dust and jostling of wagons and motor cars. The foot traveler feels that here he is on his own exclusive right of way. That is what the field path is in old countries, like England, where the right of passage along the ancient tracts through land subsequently inclosed is preserved by custom and upheld by law. There you can wander for miles through the heart of the country, by meadows, parks, and wheat fields, crossing the boundary hedges by means of wooden stiles. But in new lands such paths are few and far between.

Here, however, if you get off the street car at the eastern entrance to Elysian Park, you will find a path on the right hand, leading you down to the reservoir. The sight of this placid sheet of water embosomed in the hills, the rumble of the cascade that feeds it, are grateful to eye and ear in a thirsty land like ours. A few rods further on every stroller halts a while to watch the "continuous performance" of the pigeons. Down below is a shallow bend of the river; and in it are hundreds of pigeons, bathing and drinking. Hundreds more are fluttering to and fro, with a mighty clatter of wings, between the water and the pigeon cotes. The air is full of flying motes of white and of the crooning of the birds. The ranch, which is situated on the other side of the stream, is said to be the most largely populated of its kind in the country.

A few steps farther and the whole valley opens to the view. It is a finished picture, like a landscape composed by Turner or Claude. Here is no wide plain bounded by distant mountains, indefinite and vague; but a true vale of limited extent. The heights of Elysian Park and the blue distant hills of Griffith Park on one hand are balanced by the rugged rain-scored mountains that overhang Burbank, the heaping foothills, and the jagged parapets of the Sierras. Within this frame is inclosed a flat oval of cultivated land, dotted with homesteads, and watered by a winding stream that now hides its face in thickets of willow, again glitters to the sky in open reaches. Above the rounded mass of orchard and grove stand out the tall spires of poplars.

It is a picture that calls for oils, not water colors like the green rain-washed landscapes of northern countries. For the color is intense here, especially toward sunset, when deep velvety purples and glowing greens contrast with the lilac and amethyst hues of the eastern mountains.

Lying close under the south wall of the valley, the path is well shaded in the afternoon. In summer it is a favorite resort of saunterers, mostly in pairs, being very handy to the city. Unfortunately this charmingly situated footway is not in very good shape. It is subject to avalanches of mud and the cutting action of torrents from above. If it could be widened and preserved from erosion, without destroying its rustic character, it would make just such a "citizen's promenade" as one sees on the outskirts of some German cities. Its location and the fine prospect it commands make it very suitable for that purpose.

But a mile or so from the reservoir this rustic path comes to an abrupt end against a wire fence. We must now betake ourselves to the Los Feliz Road, which has been running parallel to the footway all this time, but at a lower level. If not quite as good walking, it is nearly so. For it is a narrow lane that hugs the shadowing hills, winding this way and that, elbowed out here by an irrigating ditch in which the willows mirror themselves, there by a steep bank planted thickly with slender eucalypts. It skirts little farms and Mexican rancherias; a picturesque medley of walnut grove and berry patch, pasture and peach orchard. There is nothing formal in the scene, save the Chinese vegetable gardens, ruled like the printed books, line after line, with tiny plants for lettering. Here are no cement curbs, no bungalows of the latest fashion, no huge sign boards advertising the best subdivision on the market. The character of the scene is not suburban, but genuinely rural.

And yet how close it is to the city. Take one of the side roads that come down through gaps in the hills, and in a short time you find yourself in Edendale. A little further on you can short-circuit your walk by returning over the Ivanhoe hills to Sunset Boulevard. The trolley line is close at hand. The Glendale cars run along their own right-of-way high up to the left; every now and then one hears a fluty whistle and the whirring noise of their passage.

But it is all too soon to think of turning back. The everchanging vista of the broad vale lures one farther. And here comes the river back again. It has been away flirting with the other side of the valley, and now returns just when it is needed to give life to the foreground of an exquisite picture. For right here the lines of the landscape compose themselves. The windings of the stream lead the eye across the meadows to a huddle of hills, that form a pedestal for the grand peaks of the Sierra, San Antonio and his brethren, all glittering in their diadems of snow.

About a mile beyond the railroad bridge there is a crossing of roads. Amid this embarrassment of pedestrian riches which way shall we take?

If pressed for time, out for an afternoon's stroll, take the turning to the left. It rises to a saddle between the Ivanhoe hills and the heights of Griffith Park. There a new view opens out over Hollywood to the ocean. Take the first road that turns down hill and you will strike the trolley line somewhere near the city limits.

Another way, as the cook-books have it, is to turn to the right hand and cross the river. That will take you past strawberry fields and a Japanese colony to the charming village of Tropico. The distance from the cross-roads is short, and there is so much here to please the eye, gardens, orchards and pretty home places, that you will be tempted to stroll on into adjoining Glendale. From this point Garvanza can be reached on foot in about two hours. It is a walk full of interest. The road ascends the dale to Verdugo, skirts the mountains, passes within sight of the colossal sandstone rock embossed with the figure of an eagle with outstretched wings, which gives its name to Eagle Rock, and then turns the tired pedestrian over to the trolley line either at the Church of the Angels or Garvanza.

But if you have the day before you, why not go straight on? That means into Griffith Park. As there is no formal gateway here, it is not easy to say just where the park begins; but the notice boards forbidding shooting, fixed to posts by the wayside, indicate when we are within the limits. The park indeed covers many thousand acres, most of which is rugged hill land.

But it includes a portion of valley, and this in the summer season is the most attractive. For the river flows here; and there are plenty of trees and shady nooks for picnic parties, with water close at hand for the family kettle. One has to live in a "land of little rain" to appreciate in full the value of running water. The Los Angeles River is only a small stream; as an adjunct to the city it is nothing to boast of; it is no Columbia. But without it this wild place would be a mere waste of sand and cactus, instead of a green wilderness of willow thickets and rough pasture, a maze of shallow cress-bordered rills and sleepy shaded back waters. And it is the only flowing stream within many miles of the city.

From the cross-roads it is not much more than a mile to the center of the park at the base of the hills. Here are some buildings and a grove of live oak trees. A trail leads back into the hills to a spring that bubbles out in a cool ferny nook, and to an isolated mass of rock, piled up and overhanging, like a pulpit in a church. To climb it by the back stairs is good exercise for the energetic.

But the great heights that overlook the scene are themselves accessible without any very laborious efforts. Looking up, their brush-covered sides appear striped with white lines. These, which are, I believe, gaps cut to prevent fire from spreading, make good climbing trails. One of them leads up to the ridge facing east, and thence it is easy to gain the highest point, which is called Mount Hollywood. On the way you will meet flowers in their season, especially Pentstemons. Last May I counted up to 200 of the blue and crimson kind, and there were more, all growing close together, a bed of bright color on the dark hillside.

From the mount there is a striking view of Los Angeles. The greater part of the city is hidden, but its southwestern progress is emphasized. In that direction houses are dotted all over the land, like lines of skirmishers thrown out before the main body of an army. Over the shoulders of the hills a trail leads down by which one can easily reach a point on the Hollywood trolley line, and so back to the city.

To make a round trip of your walk, returning home by a different route, is usually the best plan. But if time does not admit of this, there is nothing monotonous in retracing your steps over a road like Los Feliz.

Bugs for Table Use.

GOVERNMENT SCIENTISTS SUGGEST PROFIT IN GRASSHOPPERS.

By a Special Contributor.

"FRIED in butter, they are almost indistinguishable from shrimps!" It was an official of the government Bureau of Insects who made the remark, smacking his lips as he did so. He had eaten grasshoppers on several occasions, and knew how good they were.

"Pity it is," he said, "that people in this country cannot be taught to appreciate grasshoppers as a table delicacy. Every now and then local famines are caused by plagues of the insects, and it would be an immense advantage if the sufferers from such afflictions could learn how to utilize as food, at least temporarily, the doers of the mischief.

"Owing to the fact that grasshoppers deposit their eggs in little burrows in the ground, a few inches below the surface, the extending settlement of the West and the incidental plowing up of the soil have destroyed over wide areas the former breeding grounds of the insect. Consequently, in these days we no longer hear of the frightful plagues of 'hoppers which in earlier years fairly devastated extensive regions. In 1874, for example, the arrival of innumerable swarms did damage amounting to $50,000,000 in the lower Mississippi Valley, Missouri alone suffering to the extent of $15,000,000.

"Nevertheless, more or less localized plagues do occur every year, and frequent appeals are made to the Bureau of Insects by the farmers for help. The problem is beset by a good many difficulties, and it is a fact that nothing except fire will stop the march of an army of grasshoppers. They have even been known to cross wide rivers. The best method of checking their ravages is to plow the ground in which they have laid their eggs; but, incidentally, as I have suggested, it would be an excellent thing if they were captured in quantities and turned to account as food.

"The Bureau of Insects has made very thorough and quite elaborate experiments with grasshoppers as food, and has reached the conclusion that they afford a palatable and nutritious diet. They may be prepared in quite a number of ways, and all along the line from the chafing dish to the soup pot prove most satisfactory. Furthermore, when roasted in quantities and pressed, with the addition of some salt, into hard cakes, they will keep for an indefinite period.

"The proper way to prepare grasshopper soup (as ascertained by the government entomologists) is to boil the insects over a brisk fire, adding salt, pepper, and grated nutmeg; then to remove them from the liquid and pound them in a mortar, with bread fried brown, afterward returning them to the saucepan, and finally straining the mixture before serving it as a broth. I can state, as a result of personal trial, that the result equals crawfish bisque, which it closely resembles in flavor.

"Grasshopper curry is by no means to be sneezed at, and croquettes of the same material are exquisite. Truth to tell, the only occasion on which I have ever eaten 'hopper croquettes was at the table of the late C. V. Riley, at that time Entomologist in Chief of the government, who was an enthusiastic advocate of insects as food. He did not mention what they were, and nobody would have guessed the secret if it had not been for an accidental hind leg which was found in one of the croquettes. It was what might be termed the joke instructive—though I am not sure that everybody present relished it.

"Plain roast grasshoppers are very good indeed, though on the whole I rather prefer them fried in butter. There is a decided suggestion of the crawfish about them—if one happens to be familiar with the latter delicacy. I have heard that in South Africa the natives build fires in advance of flying swarms of these insects, thus causing them to fall to the ground by millions; whereupon they pound them between stones and mix the flour thus obtained with water to compose a kind of soup.

"The most interesting experiment with grasshoppers up to date, however, so far as known, has been made by Prof. William K. Kedzie of the Kansas Agricultural College, who obtained from a bushel of the insects by pressure about four quarts of liquid, which he subjected to analysis. By distillation he derived from it a pure and colorless solution of formic acid—which, by the way, is a valuable commercial product, worth 60 cents an ounce. It used to be obtained exclusively from red ants. Not only is it useful for medicinal purposes, but also, in the laboratory, for reducing the salts of gold, silver, and platinum. If grasshoppers are so rich in it, they might be turned to valuable account in this way.

"The use of grasshoppers as food is no new thing. No less an authority than Moses said to the Israelites of old: 'These ye may eat, the locust, the beetle and the grasshopper.' Nevertheless, the Jews of Morocco today regard the male grasshopper as unclean, and eat only the females (putting them up as a sort of preserves in pots,) because these have on their bodies certain markings resembling Hebrew characters, which are supposed to make them lawful food.

"But it would be a great mistake to suppose that grasshoppers are the only edible insects. Experiments made by the staff of the Bureau of Insects have shown that wasp grubs fried in the comb are excellent. When once this fact comes to be realized our farmers will be less disposed to regard wasp nests as th lessly destroyed by burning. It will b advantageous to drive out the insects combs as a table delicacy. After all, it

"Yes, suh; that's my name."

"What relation are you to the great Washington?"

"Indeed, suh, I don't exactly know, but Mr. Wilson who lives at Wakefield, has it all figured out, and he will tell you if you want to know."

Here was a kinsman of the Father of his Country, living on the ancestral lands, who had not paused long enough in the struggle of life to acquaint himself with the degree of kinship to the majestic American of the heroic age of the republic. And yet there are persons who say that Virginians talk pedigree even in their sleep.

Mr. Washington said: "The farm isn't looking very well just now. You can't get the hands to work. The wages are high, but the hands don't want to work." There was something in this speech very suggestive of the complaints which George Washington often made in his letters to Tobias Lear. Then George Washington changed the subject. He said: "Won't you come in and get warm and have some breakfast?" At the table was Mrs. George Washington, née Miss Wirt, a comely matron, who was much more insistent that the stranger should take some more coffee, more corn muffins, more home-made sausage and more country butter, than she was in giving out information about relationship to the fisherman. He served through the Civil War as a private in the Ninth Virginia Cavalry, and was a good soldier. He is an affable and kindly old man. The young girl in the right of the picture is his daughter, Miss Julia Washington. Another daughter is a nurse in the George Washington Hospital, Washington City. The young girl next to Julia Washington is Miss Bessie Hungerford, whose mother was Lena Washington, a daughter of Robert J. Washington of Campbellton, a few miles away.

A few hundred yards beyond the home of Lawrence Washington is Blenheim, a brick house built by William Augustine Washington in the eighteenth century. It is there that Mrs. Hungerford, formerly Lena Washington, lives. She and several members of her family are shown in the picture.

MILES OF DOGS.

Ours was not a rapid train, and yet when compared with those of the Spanish railways it could not be called slow. In fact it went as fast as a dog can run. I know this because I tried the experiment. The dogs in Turkish lands are the scavengers of both city and country. The country-bred dog is per se more fleet-footed than his city cousin. At one of the stations I fed a sleek-looking animal. As the train started he followed, and I kept on feeding. The dog kept on running. His eyes were upon my window. Never once did he look to the ground, save when I threw a morsel of chicken or a bone, and even then he did not slacken his speed. With a light movement his head would bend, there would be a snap, and if a bone or morsel was picked up, well and good; if not, he looked to me for further donations. Every one on the train became interested in the race. From every window Turks held tempting morsels to entice the cur. Mile after mile, and still our companion kept pace. The engineer drew his head out of the cab window and put on extra steam, and the dog an extra spurt. My friend, Dr. Higgins, who was quite familiar with the coyote of the West, was quite unwilling to give the palm for speed to this worthless cur of Moab. Ten miles farther on we reached the next station, and our dog was with us. Every one was delighted and I have seldom seen a more enthusiastic and promiscuous reception given to any human being. After that it was the sport of every one to tempt the dogs of each station to run races with the train. At one time we had a line of dogs stretching out for miles behind. I think perhaps it was the only real thing of interest that Mark Twain missed in his journey through the Holy Land. He should have gone east of the Jordan.—[Alexander Hume Ford, in Appleton's Magazine.

White and black alike know her as "Miss Fanny." Her breakfast gown was a dainty garment of white-dotted black lawn with white shoulder straps crossed. Others at table were Miss Elizabeth Wirt Washington, a quaint and reserved miss of 10 years, and Miss Frances Wirt Washington, 9 years old, a bustling little lady who had sat the breakfast table, and who sustained her part in the general conversation with considerable animation. She took hold of the camera and plate case which the stranger carried, and said naively: "Ain't this thing pretty heavy for you to tote?"

Then, at table was the baby. He had been christened a few days previously, and the name given him was George Lee Swanson Washington. "Swanson" was given him in honor of the Governor of Virginia.

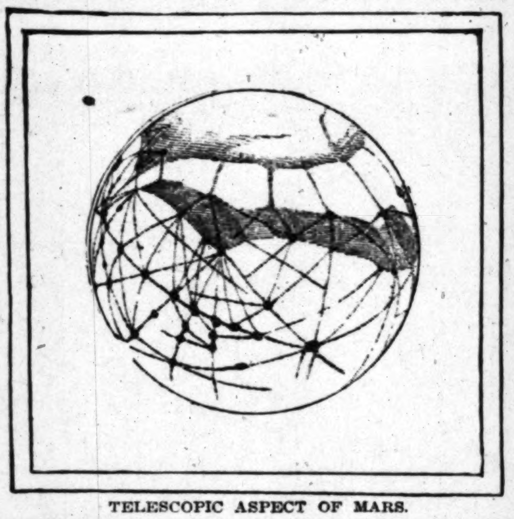
Mars and Its Mysteries.

COMING ASTRONOMICAL EVENT SUGGESTS THEIR CONSIDERATION.

By a Special Contributor.

THE most interesting and important astronomical event of the year 1907 will be the "favorable" opposition of the planet Mars. This will occur during the month of July, and for three months the ruddy planet will be the most conspicuous object in the evening skies. Its orbit lies next beyond that of the earth and is very eccentric, its solar distance varying from about 130,000,000 to 155,000,000 miles. The earth's orbit, though more nearly circular, varies in its distance from the sun to the extent of 3,000,000 miles, and will reach its farthest point in July. At present these two planets are shooting forward through space, moving along slightly converging lines, but with unequal velocities—the earth rushing to its goal at the unthinkable rate of nineteen miles per second, and Mars lagging in its journey at the more moderate speed of fifteen miles per second.

Owing to these unequal distances and velocities it takes Mars nearly twice as long—one year and ten and a half months—to complete a revolution as it does the earth. For this reason the earth overtakes and passes Mars about every two years. On every such occasion the earth is between the sun and Mars, or in other words Mars is on the opposite side of the earth from the sun, and is consequently said to be in "opposition." All these data involve nice astronomical calculations, but the two swift-flying planets are so true to their course, so unvarying in their movements, that their history can be traced back through a remote past, and their motions can be predicted for an indefinite future.



TELESCOPIC ASPECT OF MARS.

Now it so happens that about once in fifteen or seventeen years the perihelion or nearest point of Mars's orbit, coincides with the aphelion or farthest point of the earth's orbit, and then the two planets are only about 35,000,000 miles apart, while at other oppositions their distance apart ranges from 37,000,000 to 61,000,000 miles. And this is why the opposition which will occur next July, when the two heavenly bodies will be less than 36,000,000 miles apart, is designated a "favorable" opposition.

I said "only," but that is a relative term, and when used in an astronomical sense means actual distances so appalling that in the present instance if an imaginary railway train were moving from the earth to Mars at the rate of forty miles an hour, it would barely reach the orbit of that planet at its nearest approach in 100 years. Even if we use a giant telescope with an optical power of 1200, the distance will still be 30,000 miles, and the smallest visible object on the surface must be twenty-five miles across.

Yet even this admits of observing much interesting detail. If one were located at a viewpoint 30,000 miles from the earth, just one-eighth of our distance from the moon, he could trace the outlines of continents, seas and larger islands. He could distinguish the most striking features of the landscape, such as extensive plains of verdure changing in autumn to a yellowish brown. He would note the desert wastes of Sahara and Central Asia, and the dark forests of Congo and Brazil. He would contrast the snow-crowned Himalayas with the tropical luxuriance of India. The courses of the Mississippi and the Amazon would be marked by long and comparatively narrow belts of dark growths of vegetation.

"Painted Globe Hung in Space."

So, when a trained observer at the eye-piece of a powerful telescope brings the great planet Mars so near that it resembles a bright, painted globe hung in space, eighteen times larger than our moon as seen by unaided vision, we may be sure that every line and object upon it, however minute, faint and trivial it may seem to the unpracticed eye, will be given the most careful attention by the experienced astronomer, and an earnest effort will be made to correctly interpret its meaning.

This planet has been studied more minutely and under more favorable conditions than any other object in the heavens except the moon, and of all the retinue of planets which circle round the sun, Mars, more closely than any of its fellows, resembles the earth. In the first place all the others, except the little asteroids, are covered with a deep, dense, vapor-laden atmospheric envelope—so deep, so thick and heavy, that life, as it is manifested in its higher forms on the earth, could not exist on their surface.

But Mars has a transparent atmosphere, somewhat rarer than ours perhaps yet dense enough to hold large masses of vapor, and it exhibits all the phenomena of clouds, storms, rain, snow, sunshine, and shadowed landscapes.

But Mars also resembles the earth in its unmistakable surface markings. There you may behold land and sea, lake and island, deep inlets and rounded headlands; and also the snowy caps of its north and south poles. Nay, more, if you have keen eyesight and an instrument of high power you will see what appear to be artificial lines and strange geometrical figures, as if produced by engineering skill.

Wonderful System of Irrigation.

But these alterations of sea and land imply mountains and valleys, upland and meadow, singing brooks and winding streams, and can we doubt that bright-plumaged birds and graceful animals enliven those pleasant scenes? On the other hand, the rapidly melting snows of the Martian spring suggest torrential inundations, and the canal-like waterways force the conviction that a marvelous system of irrigation has been developed.

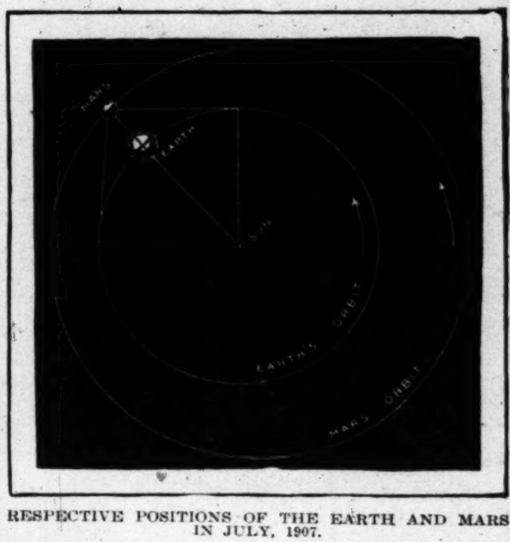
And so the conclusion reached by Schiaparelli, Perrotin, Flammarion, Percival Lowell, and other distinguished astronomers, has become almost irresistible—that the flaming red star, our brother planet Mars, is inhabited by intelligent beings.

Like the earth, Mars turns on its axis, and its day and night are a trifle (half an hour) longer than ours. Its axis, too, is inclined, like the earth's, to the plane of its orbit, so that each hemisphere, the northern and the southern, has alternate summer and winter seasons, like our own. But as, in revolving round the sun, Mars requires nearly two earth years to perform its journey, its seasons are correspondingly prolonged.

Perhaps the most striking analogy to our own planet is presented in its polar snowcaps. We actually see the polar snows spreading in winter and diminishing in the Martial summer. Precisely as the North American snowcap could be seen by a resident of the moon to extend southward in the winter to the latitude of the Ohio River, and then recede in summer to the shores of Hudson Bay, so the glittering snowcaps of Mars alternately grow and shrink in the Martian winter and summer seasons.

A Snowstorm on Mars.

When in 1890 Prof. Pickering on Mount Wilson took photographs of Mars at intervals of twenty-four hours, two of these photographs, taken on successive nights presented a remarkable series of changes. On the photographs taken the first evening the region about the south pole of the planet appeared shrouded in grayish haze, mottled with brighter spots. These taken twenty-four hours later showed the same area, about the size of the United States, as brilliantly white. One cannot doubt that the first series of photographs registered a snowstorm in progress, and that before the next was taken the weather had cleared, leaving a vast field of snow gleaming about the pole.



RESPECTIVE POSITIONS OF THE EARTH AND MARS IN JULY, 1907.

Much is hoped from observations of all kinds at the approaching opposition of Mars. Telescopes from every observatory in the world will be pointed to it. Its surface will be photographed with the most painstaking care. The little quick-moving satellites will be watched with absorbing interest. The spectroscope will be called into requisition to determine the constituents of its atmosphere, and the nature of the light reflected from its polar caps, from its land areas, and from those regions which were formerly regarded as seas.

Strange Surface Markings.

The question then arises, and is insistent in every thinking mind: Is Mars the abode of life, and if so, have its living forms been evolved into a high order of intelligent beings, such as we fancy ourselves to be? As we never can have positive evidence bearing upon this query, as we never can fathom the airless void and zero temperature of the interplanetary space which separates us from Mars, we can only answer that question by inference and conjecture.

As remarked before, Mars is the only planet which shows a kinship to the earth by its surface markings, all the others being concealed beneath thick, vapor-laden atmospheres. Mercury, so near the sun, is probably a scorched world, without any more life on it than there is on our attendant satellite, the moon. Venus is doubtless in the condition in which nomical world, and the next morning the name of Asaph Hall and his achievement was set forth in the dispatches of all the newspapers of Christendom.

Phobos Rises in the West.

Among the facts brought out was the amazingly rapid revolution of the inner satellite around its primary, its swift journey being accomplished in seven and a half hours—the shortest known period in the solar system. To the dweller on Mars it rises in the west, sweeps rapidly across the sky, threads its spectacular way through the starry field in about five hours, and sets in the east before the night is half over, and lo! before the first faint streaks of dawn appear, it is seen rising again above the western hills. This little satellite which Hall has named Phobos, is but twelve miles in diameter—one of the smallest of all known heavenly bodies—but as it is only 3700 miles from the surface of the planet, it displays all the phases of our own moon, and shines with one-sixtieth of its light.

The outer satellite, Deimos, is 12,500 miles distant, and though but nine miles in diameter, shines, to the Martian, with the light of a very bright star, and performs its larger journey in a little more than thirty hours. By means of these two satellites—their periods of revolution, and their distances from the center of Mars being known—the mass of their primary was accurately determined. That mass is about one-ninth that of the earth, while its volume is one-seventh, wherefore its density is four times that of water—that of the earth being five and a half times as much. Wherefore, also, a man weighing 160 pounds on the earth would weigh but sixty pounds on the surface of Mars.

Thus this flaming red lamp hanging in the summer sky, to the untutored mind merely a point of light brighter than its fellows, is transformed by science into a magnificent world, careering majestically through space, a companion planet of the earth, bearing along with the tremendous velocity of fifteen miles per second, its wonderful freight of continents and seas, and presumably of teeming life and bright intelligences.

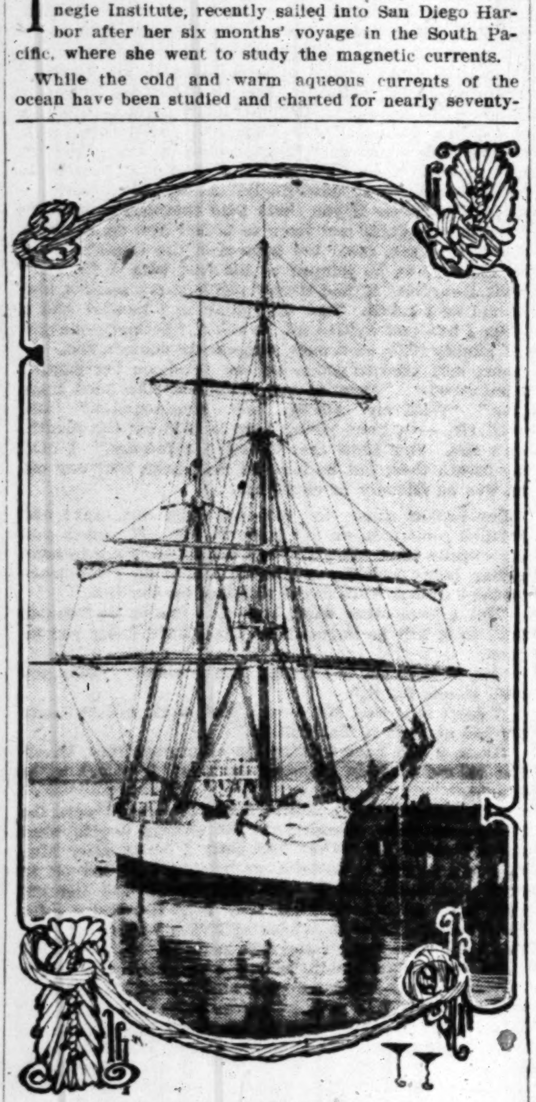
Magnetic Currents.

THE GOOD WORK BEING DONE BY THE BRIGANTINE GALILEE.

By a Special Contributor.

THE little brigantine Galilee, belonging to the Carnegie Institute, recently sailed into San Diego Harbor after her six months' voyage in the South Pacific, where she went to study the magnetic currents.

While the cold and warm aqueous currents of the ocean have been studied and charted for nearly seventy-five years, leaving but little to discover outside of the as yet only partially-known Arctic and Antarctic Oceans, on the other hand the magnetic currents that effect the ship's compass in many ways, often diverting the ship from her course, have yet to be more fully studied and charted if navigation is to be rendered safer, and at the same time quicker.



GRIGANTINE GALILEE.

One branch of the Carnegie Institution is wholly en-

Galilee, with her corps of scientific men, has the wide expanse of the Pacific to study and to chart.

For the better working out of this magnetic survey of the ocean, the Galilee is supplied with a tender for use in shallow waters. This tender is carried on the deck of the Galilee, and is launched whenever needed. This is the most unique boat of its kind afloat, for there is not a piece of iron in her—not even a tack. What little metal there is in her make-up is brass, which of course does not affect the compass. The Galilee herself has likewise hardly any iron about her. Her own work centers in deep-sea surveys.

There are several elements of magnetic force and influence that enter into the study of ocean magnetism, all of which exert a marked effect upon the mariner's compass, and sooner or later manage to put a ship out of her course. Of these, one is that which causes a variation of the needle from true north. To observe and rectify this, a delicate floating needle is used. The exact variation at any given spot in the ocean being accurately estimated by sighting on the sun. Another magnetic force that has to be reckoned with, is the one that causes the compass needle to dip, making an angle with the horizon, the extent of which is determined by means of a dip circle hanging in gimbals.

Just as the aqueous currents flow like so many mighty invisible rivers through the ocean depths, so these insidious magnetic streams have their regular courses, so to speak, flowing back and forth in regular channels all over the ocean's wide expanse, now along its surfaces, now at great depths, and so numerous and active as to prove, along with the ground currents, that this big earth of ours is a mighty magnet.

Many of the ocean magnetic streams have been known and charted for many years, but our own Pacific Coast waters, not to speak of the Pacific Ocean as a whole, have yet to be thoroughly surveyed and charted in order to render every possible aid to safer ocean navigation.

The recent voyage of the Galilee carried her along the lines of the steamship routes from San Francisco to the Philippines and other parts of the Orient. This part of the Pacific had been previously surveyed, but the Galilee's orders were to take more accurate and minute observations than had ever yet been made, for the greater security of our rapidly-developing trade with those portions of the world.

Not only will this new survey and new charting of magnetic currents render ocean navigation safer than heretofore, but it will make it quicker, for much time and money are now lost on long ocean voyages through the constant variations and dippings of the needle, to the mystifying of captain and helmsman, and the only too frequent wrecking of ships. Only last summer the Manchuria, a gigantic floating palace, fitted with every necessary appliance for scientific navigation, suddenly found herself on the reefs of one of the Hawaiian islands. As it was fine weather at the time, it is now believed that this accident was due to some uncharted and little-understood magnetic current, that deflected the ship's compass and pointed her onto the rocks. Other vessels have shared a like fate from similar magnetic disturbing forces.

It is to discover and chart these numerous and troublesome ocean magnetic forces, that the Galilee scours the seas. Every discovery and observation is carefully recorded, and at the end of each voyage a report is made to the Bureau of Terrestrial Magnetism of the Carnegie Institution at Washington. When all the magnetic data are put in shape for practical use at sea, the Carnegie Institution will issue new and up-to-date magnetic charts, to be placed in the hands of every ocean navigator and ship's captain.

Thus the trim little brigantine Galilee is probably doing far more for the benefit of humanity than one would at first realize, since she is engaged in the beneficent mission of saving human life.

GREATEST FOE TO PHYSICAL BEAUTY.

If I were asked what was the greatest foe to beauty in both man and woman, I would say, not errors in diet, not lack of exercise, not overwork, not corsets, not any one of these, but bad mental habits. If we observe closely the faces of the people we meet at random on the street, at the theater or in the great shops, we will observe that nearly all of them are characterized by the lined mouth, the drawn brows and other facial disfigurements which accompany bad mental states.

What do I mean by bad mental states? I mean anger, fear, worry, anxiety, irritability, regret, envy, jealousy, lack of trust in oneself and in the Great Good—all these are bad mental states; and all these destroy beauty, not only by interfering with the action of the vital organs, but by directly disfiguring the expression of the face.

Unless the beauty-seeking young woman is prepared to deliberately cultivate good nature, kindliness, calmness, cheerfulness even to hilarity—unless she is prepared to deliberately conquer all tendencies to the bad mental states above mentioned, there will be little or no results from her efforts to develop in herself that most divine gift of beauty.—[Dr. W. Men as I Have Met Them.

NOTES FROM A PUBLIC STENOGRAPHER'S NOTE BOOK.

By a Special Contributor.

MEN are really quite interesting studies; I suppose women would be, too, but as a public stenographer in a large western hotel, my opportunity to observe the men was greater.

I have often tried to classify them according to the line of business they have chosen, and find it possible to so classify them to a certain extent, although you meet with the usual exceptions.

At one time I had six or eight railroad presidents all under the same roof as my customers. They were really there, I think, to meet on a social footing that they might patch up some differences that had come up in a previous convention, but of course, the newspaper reporters felt confident it foreboded some big railroad scheme, and haunted them for interviews. I remember especially one of those presidents, who is now dead. He was a most successful man, deservedly so, and at the time I knew him, though he was supposed to be on a vacation, he never seemed to drop the lines entirely, but was cognizant of every need of his road. He knew how to consult and still be in authority; to advise and yet not usurp any one's place. Both those under him and his equals came to him with absolute faith in his opinions. He depicted to me what seemed to be necessary in a more or less marked degree to all successful railroad men—the power to grasp detail and grasp it quickly.

I met the opposite of this man in a make-believe president of a railroad still on paper, who thought it the thing for him to open up big railroad offices, and it was decidedly amusing to see the little fellow bustling around in order to keep up his own position, that befitting a railroad president, and to keep up the few miles of railroad under his control. His great pomposity and the arduous work of running magnificent offices was laughable to those who knew what were a real railroad president's duties.

From my experience with the banker, it always seems to me he withdraws a little too much from the rest of his fellows. To be sure he has to know men, but too often it is only the financial side of his fellow-men that he knows. Did you ever notice what a small circle is the banker's circle? Perhaps this is more noticeable with the bank employés, assistant cashiers, etc., but they all draw in to themselves more than any class I know. I have found some interesting exceptions, and they are successful ones, too.

I think at present of three men from entirely different sections of the country—for locality lends its touch very markedly to character. One New York man with varied other interests which might account for his unusual broadness, I grew well acquainted with in several months of nearly daily dictation, and to know was to admire him. His most marked characteristic was the executive ability at his command. In spite of the numerous interests which occupied his attention, his knowledge of detail, and power of clearly outlining the same to those under him, was almost perfect. Marvelous certainly! Showing a brain more broad and comprehensive than the most learned specialist could ever show.

He would sit at a desk, thousands of miles from the seat of action, and apparently be able to discern the cause of some disturbing element that the men in immediate charge had worked over for weeks, and I rarely knew him to fail in his remedy.

A southern banker, showed to me the possibilities in even a financier (for he was an eminent man,) to put family and friendship ties above and beyond money values, and though limited by illness to a short time each day which could be given to outside matters, this time was largely given to letters of aid and counsel to kin and friends, introducing me to the very heights of the Southerner's pride of family and family spirit.

One from the Buckeye State was successful largely through his popularity. His spirit of friendship was strong, and always pervaded his intercourse with people. He had the secret of being conservative, a man of business that could be thoroughly trusted with the most important matters, yet at the same time did not hold you off at arm's length, but by the aid of a powerful memory made you think your interests were his. He was an able politician, rarely attempting anything he could not carry out, but he built up his political standing upon a stratum of good fellowship, the real thing, always managing to in some way lift up those he came in contact with so they would feel he really was their friend. I never saw him in any way knocking any one down even for his own benefit, and he certainly proved how little things really not requiring much effort, only thought on his part, could make the path smoother for his fellow-man.

The merchants, or men representing the more strictly commercial side of life rarely appealed to me. They are inclined to drop into a life of "all work and no play," and every one knows that makes a dull boy out of Jack. One man who had establishments in all the larger cities of the East, interested me in the personal interest he took in the various employés of the company. It seemed to be his rule to make his men interested in their work and in the success of the company. He rewarded faithfulness and encouraged long years of service by promotion. He personally followed up the men, not leaving it entirely to the heads of departments, but made these heads feel that it was their own desire by consulting with them in such a way that his suggestions seemed to be theirs. He did not seem to care at all about the glory of the action pertaining to himself, it was simply that he wanted the results.

Another was quite the opposite, though he, too, was a successful man, certainly financially. But he evidently believed in holding each head of a department responsible for everything under them, and was as "hard as nails," writing short, terse letters, which were like telegrams for their briefness and also for the quantity of business contained in the few words. Both of these men were eminently successful, and their business ran like machinery, but in the one case the employés were humans who, through appeal to their personalities, were used to guide the machines, while with the other the employés were part of machines which if out of order were to be replaced immediately by a new cog.

Mining engineers and civil engineers seem a class to themselves perhaps because their work brings them so in touch with Mother Nature, as well as human nature, that though their work may be the one absorbing interest in life to them, they are rarely narrow, but instead broad, open-hearted in nature. Perhaps I have seen this most in connection with the mining engineer with whom I have been thrown in contact a good deal in my hotel life. To be a success, he must know men, not as the banker does in a financial way, but much more thoroughly. In making use of his knowledge of the treasures of the earth he comes in contact with all sorts and conditions of men, and tact is perhaps his greatest aid. He has to have a large fund of patience, both because of the trickiness of men and of the strata of the earth into which he is inquiring. He has to be hardy, as he is bound to be subject to much hardship, but without an exception, I think, of the many of this class I have met, there has always been apparent an "inner character" to the man, although he may be thoroughly wrapped up in his business and hardened to endure the same, you will find his love for the tender and little things of life is rather stronger than in the man dealing in the commercial duties of life. Even when they are telling some of their most adventuresome stories it will always creep in. The mining engineer should never be confounded with the promotor. Though some of them occasionally promote some mine, they do so in a different way from the usual type of man that is a promoter (at least the promoters I have been unfortunate enough to have met) inasmuch as the mining engineer's reputation is his stock in trade and too valuable to be lost, so trickery is rarely stooped to by any of them.

I have had some rather amusing experiences when it came to getting my paying. The majority of men are generous enough when it comes to paying a young lady stenographer, but occasionally one runs across the opposite. One fellow I had while at Hotel G. was worth about $3,000,000, and was of high standing in the political world of Washington, D. C., so felt he might generally lord it over all underlings to any extent he wished. The private secretary of the manager of the hotel had commiserated with me for having to tackle him at the beginning of my work and had warned me that young ladies holding my position previously had generally come away from his dictation crying, so I prepared myself, and the first morning got through with but little difficulty. The second time, however, Mr. —— had a large cigar in his mouth, and sat over in one corner quite removed from me, with his back turned, and it was next to impossible to hear what he had to say. I constantly had to ask him to repeat, which he did most unwillingly. At last, in despair, I said: "Mr. —— if you could turn this way or remove your cigar I would not have to bother you so much to repeat." If you could but have seen the thunder cloud on his face as he jumped to his feet with a "What!" Well, I survived it, and simply repeated my remark, and he did as I asked. Two days later as I handed him a letter I had just written off, he said: "Seems to me you get mighty little on a page, and charge enough, too. My young lady used to get twice as much on her pages." I answered: "Most of my customers like good margins." "Well, my young lady single-spaces." "Oh, well, Mr. ——, your young lady is paid by the month, isn't she. You know that makes a difference." I held my breath then, but he laughed, and from that day on, he was as friendly as could be.

One broker came to me hurriedly one night and dumped some coin on my desk, saying: "I know you are awfully busy, Miss C., but I simply have got to have a long letter written, and must have it so I can leave on the 8 o'clock train in the morning for the East."

"But I have other work here that has to be handled first, so it will be impossible. I can have it for you by noon."

"No, I have got to have it; here is all the money you wish to ask for it."

"I don't take tips, Mr. ——. The work will be ready for you at noon if that will do."

"Well, I will have to take the afternoon train, then," But he did look so surprised to think I wasn't to be bought.

One Catholic priest, who used to have me do work for him occasionally, always paid me exactly double what the bill called for. The first time, I called after him, thinking it was a mistake, as he had paid me off in rolls of nickels, and I had supposed he had thought they were dollar rolls when they were two-dollar rolls, but he said: "Miss C., whenever I give you money, you just take what you get and say nothing. You earn it."

Mr. ——, a millionaire of our town, drove up in his carriage to my office one day and signaled for me to come out, which I did, owing to his white hairs. He had a page of legal work in his hand, and asked me what my charges would be for re-writing the same, saying at the same time that he had so much trouble in getting good work that he had come to me, as he had heard I could turn out acceptable work. When I said 25 cents, however, he picked up his reins in horror and said: "Why, I get it done for 10 cents. You know I have lots of work to do, so it pays to take it cheap." I simply answered: "Well, it doesn't seem to pay you if that is a sample, but I can't do it for less," and he drove away in high displeasure.

One other, who was full of irascibility, was a red-headed "drummer." The news had spread quickly through the hotel that from the moment of getting into the bus at the station it had been one continual kick

The yellow sunshine falls on the leaves and you look up at the two great ridges which flank either side of this wall, and you remember "The Happy Valley."

You are told these ridges run to the Western end of the island, and by their protection afford an ideal climate. Hogsheads containing thousands of gallons of wine are in the winery and the men are busy extracting the juces from the freshly gathered grapes; besides the vineyard, 60,000 sheep are kept and the schooner of the company plies between the city of Santa Barbara and the island of Santa Cruz continuously.

This valley is probably one mile wide and about three miles long. Here the oaks grow to be 100 feet high and six to eight feet in diameter. The arroyos of the surrounding ridges are wild and arid and give no hint of the nature of the sweet vale which they so strangely protect between them. The temperature of the valley is said to be about the same by winter as summer. The rains are warm and there is never a touch of frost and no winds.

The jagged pinnacles of the Devil's Peak look down 2409 feet into this magic vale and armies of pines defile its approaches. About the Devil's feet fragments of millions of broken stones are heaped as tho' by the reckless blows of Titan's hammers in unrecorded days.

From the vineyard Ranch House a carriage road was constructed by the old Italian, leading to the extreme end of the island and past the Devil's feet. En route another ranch is passed where an old baking and workhouse stands with its quaint oven and adobe buildings and a bell still hanging upon the limb of a tree, waiting to give the call to dinner.

This Devil's Peak rises to the right hand of the Happy Valley; to the left the Ragged Mountain lifts its tattered head for 1337 feet, calling across a deep ravine to its old comrade, Center Mountain, which has borne the listening aspect thro' long ages, while in the arroyos trending toward the South Coast the gold of the poplar trees is shimmering in October days and falling one by one upon the blackened dust of the old Indian mounds, outshone only by the glitter of the broken abalone shells, which always makes you remember that the colors of the prism are to be seen only in the broken ray, never in the perfect shaft of light.

In the volcanic caves which stand like houses in the top of the Devil and were doubtless so used by the Indians in olden times, you yet come across their possessions in the tell-tale black earth, and even find pictographs in rude shapes and designs undecipherable; causing many thoughts and no conclusions. One idea seems to echo through the brain: Why did they choose to live so high (over 2000 feet) and carry their food of shell-fish so far, and all their water up from the valley? To be sure it is a glorious "Look Out," for these eerie heights reach westward and terminate abruptly over the sea at Diablo Point, running out one-half mile, while there is deep water close in under the bluffs.

This great Devil's Peak is to be seen over fifty miles at sea and it gradually decreases toward the northwest end, where it is 720 feet sheer. This point is terraced in two rows as though it had been successively thrown by the sea, while four or five miles from the end there are preciptitous bluffs over 200 feet high. The well-known sea-caves are to be found along these bold shores, the strangeness of whose beauty is nowhere surpassed, if equalled in the whole world. Scarfs of lichens in dull oriental colors drape their entrances and hang in careless glory on their damp walls, where the sea spray glitters; while "the edge of the wave runs white and thin" along the water floor, the ceiling is lost in the endless vaulting of riven rock and the eye cannot discover the real from the transparent. Lend to this the roar of the waves in the cave and the barking of seals, and the effect is sublime and awe-inspiring.

Forney's Cave (the southwest anchorage) is situated in under the south shore of this western extremity of Santa Cruz. The high ridge is one mile to the north. It is also one mile east of Fraser Point, which stretches into Santa Cruz Channel.

This channel lies between the southwest face of the island and the southeast face of Santa Rosa Island. It is five to six miles wide and eight miles long, and there are no outlying dangers off either shore, while the water is cold under the islands. The current is from southwest, and in summer weather the prevailing winds carry a heavy constant swell here.

The Anacape Passage is at the eastern end of Santa Cruz Island, and has really no length, but is four miles wide, as the nearest points of these two islands are four miles apart and are very sharp. The depth of the water ranges from 25 to 40 fathoms, and there is no kelp in the channel. The general current is to the southward, but may vary through prevailing northwest winds, of course.

It will thus be seen that Santa Cruz is remarkably free from outlying dangers. Indeed there is no island so free; only for Gull Island, a rock on its south coast 150 feet high and stretching for a quarter of a mile, there would be none, and this is three-quarters of a mile out from shore.

Many botanical specimens have been taken from this island and, after careful study by experienced botanists, declared different from all known species. The pines notably are akin to the famous Monterey pine, but entirely insular and endemic, having two leaves only in the fascicles.

As on all the islands, the birds of Santa Cruz vary from the usual Californian orders. Santa Cruz is particularly distinguished from the other islands in having three species of foxes: one as large as a small dog. The sort most usually seen on these islands is silvery gray, tawny-breasted, and no larger than a large house cat.

It must be added that both Santa Cruz and Santa Rosa Islands are to be set down as having wild boars and skunks—two animals with which the other islands are not troubled. The boars (introduced) are said to be vicious and their trails are many and deep; a bonus of 25 cents per capita is given and there are men who, from time to time, go from the mainland for the business of hunting the wild boars of these two islands, while the workmen on Sundays sometimes take their rest in the same pursuit.

White Angora goats are to be seen on the wildest crags of Santa Cruz Island, and are as fine to behold as though they had been placed there, as were those of the Catalina, by the fathers hundreds of years ago.

Catalina's coast line is estimated at 46 miles, while that of Santa Cruz is sixty miles. Santa Cruz is twenty-one miles long, and Catalina is but eighteen miles; neither island has the glory of the spit nor the golden dune, as have other islands, but they have the same sort of natural beauty, and as they are nineteen and twenty-one miles distant from their nearest mainland points, they are better known than the other islands and more often sought by those who "cross the seas to find happiness," the only requisite being that you are to "leave yourself behind!" CHILE PEPPERS.

ONE OF THE MOST PROFITABLE OF SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA'S MINOR CROPS.

By a Special Contributor.

A visit to the great pepper fields in the "vegetable county"—Orange—impresses one with the extent to which this industry has grown in Southern California. It is amazing to note the enormous quantities of this hot little vegetable that are now annually produced for the Coast supply. No longer can it be said that the Mexicans are greatest pepper consumers, though such may be the case with their favorite variety, the chile. The bell peppers, or bull nose, cannot be raised in sufficient numbers to supply the heavy demands, consequently the price remains most of the time at 20 cents per pound, often rising as high as 40 cents; never falling lower than 2 cents.

The planting and harvesting of peppers is both simple and inexpensive. Eternal vigilance is the price of a successful crop. The most desirable variety of recent introduction is the large French bell pepper, both on account of its enormous size and its sweet, mild and tender flesh, as well as the prolific yield of the plants. Such seed cannot be procured under $5 or $6 per pound, but in the end is the cheapest, because bringing far higher prices than common and smaller varieties. Single specimens often attain the immense size of fifteen inches in diameter. Last season this French seed sold for $11 per pound.

Vegetable men plant the seeds early in May for the winter crop. The seeds are tied up in little muslin bags, soaked in tepid water until sprouted, which requires about twenty-four hours, then planted in boxes of rich loam pulverized and sifted. In the soil of the planting boxes even rows are marked, into which the seeds are placed thickly on the surface and lightly covered with sprinkling of the fine soil. When the weather becomes sufficiently warm, the tiny plants are transplanted into thoroughly worked and fertilized soil in rows about two feet apart each way. The seeds planted in May will be ready for transplanting in July and will begin to bear by October. This large French variety will, if untouched by frost, continue to bear all through the winter, each plant producing from a pound to a pound and a half of peppers in a season. The smaller varieties do not require so much room and may be set out in rows eighteen inches apart and ten inches in the row. When the plants are six inches high, the earth should be hoed well up about them and the weeds kept out. In a frostless climate a continuous crop may be insured by planting every six months.

The pungent Mexican chile peppers are cultivated in the same manner and are picked both green and ripe, also the cayenne peppers that produce the red-hot seasoning of the cayenne pepper of commerce, and the delicious "pimiento-olive" combination. The bell peppers are invariably gathered green. On account of their great size they are much sought after for "mangoes" and for use in salads.

The drying of red chiles is no small task. Many amateurs have attempted to cure them when freshly cut and strung, by simply festooning the long coral strings up behind the kitchen range. Outwardly such treatment is all right; the peppers soon assume a dried appearance very much like the ones procured from the Mexican grocer, but upon opening them they are found to be full of a thick, smoky mold, and entirely unfit for use. The drying process should be accomplished in the sunshine. Even then, the peppers must be carefully watched and not permitted to become damp.

The localities most favorable for growing peppers are the foothill regions above the frosts. The plants require thorough irrigation and a great deal of care and labor, but repay all this outlay with remarkable returns. At Anaheim, where peppers are extensively cultivated, the small sizes of the chiles are ground into a powder and sold for about 12 cents per pound. This so-called "twentieth century flavor" is unsurpassed for making Mexican dishes and for adding a relish to meats, sauces, stews and soups. The original manner among the Mexicans of preparing chile sauce with the hands is such a trying one that American cooks welcome the powdered peppers as a very good substitute.

It is difficult to give exact figures of profit in returns. The character of the soil, the care bestowed upon it, the manner of picking, the facilities for transportation and the constantly changing conditions of the market, all render returns variable. Under favorable conditions each acre set to 20,000 plants should yield ten tons of peppers, which pays $400 per acre when sold at the lowest figure, 2 cents per pound.

Pests are numerous and troublesome to the young plants, especially about the time the pods are making their appearance. Between an army of cutworms and innumerable little birds, one extensive grower in Orange county lost his entire crop this season. The birds picked off the tender peppers and the cutworms finished by destroying the plants. Another grower was more fortunate. He owned one acre of chiles which he sold green at 8 to 20 cents per pound for different pickings, the full ten tons bringing him from $1600 to $4000 per acre.

THE SWEAR-OFFS.

"I am going to take my vacation next week," said the bartender, as he tried to dry the bar with a wet cloth.

"Strange time for a vacation," remarked a skate salesman.

"Nit; It's the best time. It's the best time in the year," said the bartender. "Drink mixers and tobacconists and club attendants are in no demand at all the first two weeks of January. It's the swear-offs.

"Men swear off drinking and smoking and club visiting the first of the year, and they keep the pledge for ten days. So, naturally, it's in these ten days that most bartenders and cigar-store clerks and club servants take their vacation."

"I'll take mine then, too," said a clerk in a cigar store

"then who will be left behind questions?"

"Who, indeed?" echoed Mr. Bland, "you will leave them helpless without a leader."

Mildred gave it up. She saw that it would not do to be too anxious to go out with him without a chaperon.

Out in the hall, Teddy Bland began to think hard, as instructed. The first thing he thought about was whether it would be possible to find the nursery without making unduly impertinent inquiries of the servants. If Willie would only give a hint as to the direction by crying out again——"

Little Willie seemed ready to oblige. Most distinctly it was a sob—but the nursery must be very near—or it was a most penetrating sob.

He stole on tiptoe to the door of the room known as the library, because all the other customary names for rooms had been used up, and otherwise it would have been nameless.

In the darkness there was something white. It was too large to be little Willie, but it sobbed again.

Softly he stepped in, shut the door and turned on the electric light. Winifred raised a red and tearful face in alarm, gave a little shriek, and looked round for the door. Then she blew her nose and went casually to a book shelf.

"I beg your pardon," he said, "I have been sent out here to think."

"Oh!" she said. "You mean—some game."

"Yes; was Willie afraid of the dark?"

"He—he usually is."

"And are you always ordered off after dinner to soothe him?"

"I—I wasn't ordered off. I like going."

Facing the book shelf, she was doing her best to clear up the tears, and wondering how red her face was.

"Do you think," he went on, "that I wasn't as angry as you were?"

She gave up the attempt to hide the truth, and looked at him with unconcealed gratitude.

. . . .

Twenty minutes had passed, and Mr. Bland was still thinking.

"Mr. Bland, are you going to take all night?"

"Sorry," cried a distant voice from the darkness of the library. "Just coming. Much more difficult than I thought."

"Do hurry up!"

And in a minute he sauntered into the room. He was followed immediately by Winifred.

Mildred seemed surprised.

"Are the children asleep already?" she asked, haughtily.

Winifred showed no resentment. "Quite," she said, "they never were awake."

"I happened to find your cousin," said Mr. Bland, "and she helped me to think of something. She knows more about the game than I do."

"Oh," said Mildred, with some show of interest.

Mr. Bland and Winifred took their seats.

"Well, begin asking."

"You begin, Miss Wareman," cried they all. "Show us how to do it."

Mildred had been strangely backward, but she obeyed and showed them how.

"Is it animal?"

Mr. Bland and Winifred looked at each other in doubt before deciding. "No."

"Is it vegetable?" "No."

"Is it mineral?" "No."

"But it must be something."

"Is it concrete?"

Again a doubt, but the answer was "No!"

"Is it abstract?"

"Well, I'm not clever, but I suppose so," said Mr. Bland.

"Has it any relation to anything animal?"

Winifred blushed. They both nodded. They supposed so.

"Has it any relation to human beings?"

"Oh, yes! certainly!"

"In this house?" "Yes."

"In this room?" "Yes!"

"How clever!" they gasped, all of them.

"Has it got legs?" said Mr. Mervin, the young clerk, excitedly. Their silence chilled him.

"Whose mother-in-law is it?" said Capt. Winton.

"Improper question," said Mr. Bland with scorn.

"Mine or Mervin's?" asked the captain.

"Both. Go on, Miss Wareman."

"Yes, go on, dear," said Mrs. Wareman, "you were getting near to it."

Mildred went on. "Is it related to one person in this room?"

"Not only one person."

"To two persons?" "Yes."

"Both masculine?" "No."

"Both feminine?" "No."

"Obviously one gentleman and one lady," said the captain.

"Hush!" said they all.

"Are they married?" said the captain.

For a fraction of a second Mr. Bland and Winifred looked at each other. "No."

Mildred caught Winifred's eye. Winifred was blushing a fiery red. Mildred became unusually white.

"Oh, we shall never find this out!" said Mildred. "Let's try another game."

There was a chorus of dissent.

"This is getting interesting," said the captain. "You said they were not married."

"Yes; not married."

"Going to be married?" said Mr. Mervin, who could not be repressed.

There was a pause. Mr. Bland looked round with a cheerful smile. "Certainly."

Intense excitement. "Somebody going to be married. Oh, who is it? Who is it?"

Everybody looked at everybody else; but Winifred's eyes were on the ground. Mildred yearned to go outside and scream. But it wouldn't have done. Too many people in the house.

"I see how to get at it," cried Mr. Mervin. "Were the two people in this room fifteen minutes ago?"

"No!"

"Aha!" Mr. Mervin lay back in triumph. Mrs. Wareman wore a dangerous smile, but he was blind. "I have it," he said, "the engagement between Mr. Bland and——"

"Winifred," said Mrs. Wareman, with a gasp.

Everybody was so happy and so pleased and so interested, and congratulations and good wishes and healths flowed as a great stream flows to the ocean.

Three only were silent. The hearts of Mrs. Wareman and Mildred were for the present too full for words. The thoughts came later.

"The gratitude of the poor," said Mrs. Gravier to herself as she found her carriage, "is a wonderful thing to contemplate.

SECRETARY SHAW'S PHILOSOPHY.

Leslie M. Shaw, Secretary of the Treasury, is quoted in The World Today, for January, by F. G. Moorhead, as follows:

"When I first began teaching school they gave me the toughest school in the neighborhood. Some of the boys were bigger than I was, and they boasted of having made life miserable for all my predecessors. They began with me the very first day; when I called on one of the big boys to spell bucket, he spelled 'p-a-i-l' and giggled. This started the rest of the room giggling, too. I saw I'd have my hands full in a minute. I had to do something. I waited for the giggling to stop, then I caught that boy's eyes and we began staring at each other. I don't know how long we kept it up, but I know the whole room was watching us in silence. I didn't say a word, until, pretty soon, the boy blinked and dropped his gaze on the floor. 'Now, then,' I remarked, 'you spell bucket.' But there was still some fight in him and he tried to raise his eyes to me. He got them as high as the top of my desk and there they stuck. 'Spell bucket,' said I, more sternly. He made one more attempt, but his eyes slid down to the top of my desk. 'Bucket,' I shouted in my deepest voice. 'B-u-c-k-e-t,' he said, meekly, and went on looking at the top of my desk. I didn't have any more trouble with that school."

"But what did the top of the desk have to do with it?" the Secretary was asked.

"H'm, well, you see, I had a three-quarter-inch hickory stick there to help my eyes out," he replied, chuckling, and it was not until he had had his laugh out that he added:

"But the experience taught me to use my eyes, no matter what I'm doing or whom I'm talking to. You can win out better that way."

ON THE SITE OF THE WHITE CITY.

I recently had the pleasure of visiting some people who had been lovers in those old days, but are parents now, and who this year took their children to the site of the former "White City," where there is still much to attract and charm. There are the dainty Japanese cottages, the lagoons once traversed by the mysterious Venetian gondolas, the greensward and golf links and Imperial Jackson Park, which have replaced the great buildings and avenues of the wonderful "White City." Every leaf and shrub of that park; every foot of the inviting open space—with no near-by signs, "Keep off the Grass"—typifies the true spirit of democracy. When passing through, I was much impressed with the gigantic old willows near the massive German Building, which is in good repair, still caring for the needs of the inner man, for the Germans know well how to provide appetizing edibles, and the building still stands as in the marvelous days of that "dream of the years," when the lake front was a microcosm of this mighty world. Passing over the bridges, we looked upon the caravels of Columbus, as they swung at their tideless anchorage; the Santa Maria and her smaller consorts, Pinta and Nina, are still kept in good condition, below and aloft, as in the days when Spain, with all courtesy and kindness, sent these boats thousands of miles across the broad Atlantic and to the inland seas of that New America which, less than seven years later, was to sweep her fleets from the seven seas and her colonial dominancy from the world.—[Joe Mitchell Chapple, in National Magazine.

VERMONT'S QUARRIES.

Out of the massive marble hills of Vermont has been wrought, by labor and skill, a part of the nation's wealth. Some years ago, it was a common statement that as much money had been lost in the marble business as had been made in it, but this is no longer the case; for, although the testing and developing of a quarry is a heavy expense, the business is now on a stable basis. Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been sunk in efforts to obtain a marble quarry, and the chief expense is still labor. A quarry differs from a gold mine in that, however good the product may be, it merely offers an opportunity to produce stone on a paying basis, and on a relatively small margin of profit. In some quarries a royalty of 5 cents per cubic foot is paid to the owner of the land for the merchantable marble that is taken away.—[National Magazine.

THE JOKE LITERARY.

The first author snickered.

"Isn't it strange," he said, "about your works? They are only to be met with in your library."

The second author bit his lip.

"But in your works," he retorted, "one meets with nothing but your library."

This type of joke is accounted good at the Franklin Inn and other literary clubs.

Business in the Philippines. By Hamilton Wright.

CHANCES FOR ENTERPRISE.

RAILROAD DEVELOPMENT ENCOURAGING TO CAPITAL.

From a Special Correspondent.

MANILA, November, 1906.—I have received a number of letters asking what profits can be made in various lines in the Philippines. This is a hard question. It all depends on the management of the concern whatever the business engaged in. The results attained by up-to-date organizations, with modern management, thorough equipment, and a sufficiency of working capital can in no wise be compared with the success or failure of some Filipino concerns, operating with obsolete methods with scarcely any system or management worthy of the name, and with all possible earnings not only mortgaged in advance, but supporting an enormous interest. In the latter category with very few exceptions belong all the native industrial concerns in the Philippines. As a rule the only successful Filipino concerns are those in which management is of slight importance.

Fertile country to be traversed by railway – in Luzon

Filipino Lenders.

Practically all of the Filipino capitalists—and there are a great number of very wealthy men—are interested in non-industrial undertakings. Their money is loaned out at enormous and frequently usurious rates of interest on Philippine farms, so that the worse the management of the farm the greater is the rate of interest exacted by the Filipino capitalist when the farmer gets into hard straits. Filipino capital is invested in landed enterprises, mortgages, tenements. It is proverbially timid; will do nothing to develop the country, and exacts the greatest tributes when the position of the people is most desperate. It may be of interest that Aguinaldo, the former Philippine leader, has become a wealthy landlord and is pursuing the squeeze method. Besides farms, he owns several blocks of tenement houses in Manila. On the other hand, all the successful industrial concerns, in which organization and enterprise play an important part, are managed by Spaniards, Germans, Chinese (mainly limited to mercantile pursuits) and Americans. These are the undertakings that are building up the country, and are themselves enormously prosperous. There is not a well-organized and intelligently-directed industrial concern in the Philippines today that has not prospered almost beyond the dream of its promoters.

Prosperous Concerns.

Take Castle Bros., Wolf & Sons, Manila, for instance. This firm does a business which, I am informed by an interested party, nets over $500,000 gold annually. It was started up a few years ago, and as a mere agency for a firm of exporters in America. It became so important that it dissolved its immediate connection with the parent firm and now owns warehouses, means of transportation, ranches and other equipment worth probably in the neighborhood of a couple of millions. One cigar tobacco factory started six or seven years ago to manufacture cigars and cigarettes in an old shed. Today it is paying big dividends on a capitalization, which considering its assets, is very large. The General Tobacco Company, which, though following rather old-fashioned Spanish methods, has always been under an excellent and far-reaching system of administration since its establishment in 1882, was started with practically nothing but the outworn garment of the Spanish tobacco monopoly, is today paying tremendous dividends on a capitalization of $15,000,000 gold. Many other successful concerns might be mentioned. On the other hand, take the Island of Negros, for instance, where a large portion of the extensive landholders are engaged in sugar raising. You will find very few of the native planters who are making good money. Why? Simply because they are forty years behind the times, and lack management and system in the conduct of their plantations.

Profits Go to Lenders.

The soil is producing $5,000,000 worth of sugar a year, and the land is tilled as though in the stone age at that. Yet the profits all go to the money-lender, for the poor native owner has neither the equipment nor the cash to carry him from one season to another. So he is always borrowing money on his crop, paying at least two dollars for every one that is advanced to him. This loan is not only secured by his future crop; when borrowing the money he is compelled to make a contingent additional mortgage on his land in case his crop should fail. Of course the money-lender never takes the land; he would rather keep squeezing the farmer. It is impossible for the thoughtless planter to evade paying his debt since this is made payable in the crop, and not in cash. In borrowing, the planter will agree to deliver a "picul" of sugar for every $2, say, that is loaned him. At delivery the sugar is worth all the way from $4 to $6 a picul. Any law providing a legal rate of interest could be evaded by this means. Thus, the native planter gives from one-half to two-thirds of the gross value of his crop to the money-lender. Even if through unusual circumstances he has been enabled to acquire money, his improvidence usually brings him under the domination of the Shylocks. He is apt to be seized with an irrational impulse, and, forgetful of the future, will squander all his hard-earned savings on a cock fight, a horse race, a trip to Manila, or what not.

This system—of borrowing on future crops, payable in the crop—which is carried on to a great extent throughout the Philippines, explains in part why one hears so many conflicting reports in regard to the opportunities in the Philippines. Political leaders have taken advantage of the situation. Those opposed to free trade cite the tremendous success under existing conditions of the comparatively few well-managed concerns. Why, they ask, should free trade be granted when the investment of capital is bringing such unusual returns. Those in favor of a free market point to the usually desperate condition of the poor Filipino farmers who constitute more than 90 per cent. of the population. It is impossible, they say, for the poor Filipino to lift himself with his boot straps. He has not the money to buy modern machinery, and consequently it is difficult for him to compete with the farmers in Java who make use of the most modern methods. The crop-borr

The young man who does not dissipate or drink liquor, who is of cheery disposition and is able to stand the separation from home, friends, and accustomed associations, which is really the greatest hardship the Philippines now present, and whose physical temperament is not averse to the tropics, can, if endowed with a moderate degree of capital and patience, doubtless make more money in agriculture in the Philippines than he can in tropical agriculture in any other part of the world. The commercial representative and American manufacturer have a field here such as exists in no other Spanish-American or oriental country. The capitalist who will go into hardwood lumber, sugar, hemp, or tobacco, or who will build manufactories to supply the home demand, to say nothing of manufacturing for export has an opportunity that exists not elsewhere in the tropics. For the building of pioneer plants and electric transportation lines the Philippines are unsurpassed. In short the Philippines where floats the Stars and Stripes, now presents more favorable opportunities for the development of trade, for the investment of capital and for the engagement of enterprise, say the men who are investing many millions there, than do the countries of South America, Japan or China. The Americans who have already come to the Philippines are everywhere teaching the natives how to work and bringing the people of the Philippines to a better method of living.

One Man's Experience.

Recently I talked with George C. Sellner, publisher of the Manila Times and heavily interested in many other enterprises, regarding the future of the Philippines. Mr. Sellner was without capital when he came from Omaha to the islands in the period preceding civil administration. Today he is worth probably $250,000 entirely through his own efforts. "I believe the next ten years will probably witness greater industrial changes throughout the islands as a whole than have occurred in the entire three centuries of Spanish occupation," said Mr. Sellner. "Although the Philippines have but lately emerged from war and the famine and pestilence that were incident to war, yet most business men believe that a remarkable era of prosperity will speedily come when the railroads are completed. Large enterprises here are already thriving. The reason for this assured prosperity," continued Mr. Sellner, "is the fact that Uncle Sam is backing the Philippines. That's the best reason I can give, and I have noticed that the man who bets against the ability of Uncle Sam to make prosperity and to open new and fertile regions to boundless prosperity always gets left."

London Detective Work.

HOW SCOTLAND YARD FINDS MISSING PEOPLE.

From London Mail.

AWAY along the Embankment, close to the Houses of Parliament, is a big, business-like, red-brick building, the headquarters of those whose business it is to solve mysteries.

Scotland Yard is the home of thrilling occupations, and has many tasks undreamed-of by those who regard it merely as the directing office of the army of blue-coated London constables; and among those tasks is that of probing the mystery of lost persons—a mystery touched often by romance, often by tragedy, and occasionally surrounded by a black obscurity into which no human ingenuity can pierce. It is part of the work of Scotland Yard to endeavor to extract from the bewildering human continent of London those individuals who have suddenly walked off the track of human knowledge, who in ordinary speech with friends and acquaintances in one hour have in the next, for no reason and without a word, disappeared.

Some of these mysteries never have been solved and never will be solved, but they are astonishingly few compared to those which Scotland Yard unravels every week. Only one case here and there is heard of, because the work is in the ordinary routine of the Yard, and the force has no eye for romance, rigidly restricting itself to practical thoughts and practical work.

Stretched over twenty square miles of London, with its population of a nation, are the nervous tentacles of Scotland Yard, ever alert for the work, responding in a moment to an impulse from that center of intelligence—the red-brick, business-like building, on the Embankment. Frequently throughout day and night the agents of Scotland Yard are scouring London in the search for missing persons. The great organization spread for miles works like a machine.

To give an idea of the work, it will be best to take an instance of what happens in an individual case.

A prosperous, middle-aged civil servant living at Clapham is amazed and alarmed to find that his son, a bank clerk, aged 24, does not return home one night after business. He is a well-behaved young fellow, and has never before stayed away all night. In the morning his father hurries to the branch of the bank in Kensington, where his son is employed, and finds that he left at about 5:30 on the night before in quite his usual manner, giving no indication that he was not going straight home. From the time he left the bank door he has not been seen. His accounts are in perfect order; he was a young man on the way to promotion.

The bewildered father takes a cab to the nearest police station, and relates his story to the inspector in charge. "Oh, I daresay he'll be found in a couple of days," says the cheery inspector. "We'll get on to it at once. What is his description?"

Thereupon the father gives a description of his son, running, perhaps, something like this: Height, 5 feet 8 inches; fair hair, slight fair mustache, gray eyes, slim build; wearing silk hat, morning coat, dark-striped trousers and glace kid lace boats. The inspector enters this in a book, together with some details as to the disappearance. He hands the book to a policeman clerk and turns to give another word of reassurance to the father. Within a minute the latter hears the "tick—tick—tick" of a telegraph instrument in the hands of the policeman clerk. The description he has given is being telegraphed to every police station in the London area, and is also being sent to Scotland Yard. Thus within a few minutes the police depots from one end of the metropolis to the other are on the qui vive for the slim, fair-haired young man.

But the process has only just begun. As soon as the father has left the police station the inspector calls out from another room two "special inquiry officers," who are expert searchers for missing persons, and who have a wonderful knowledge of their district, with its doubtful resorts, low-class clubs, boarding-houses of shady character, and other places where lost people drift. They hear the details and they go out on their quest, starting first with inquiries at the hospitals within their reach in order to make sure that no accident has befallen the young man.

By the time they are in the street, headquarters at Scotland Yard have the matter in hand. At intervals throughout the day the private printing presses at the Yard produce a printed sheet with the latest confidential information on police matters, and this sheet is distributed hot from the press to every police station in London, and as there are three or four issues every day only an hour two elapses between each edition. As a result, by midday the description of the young man has been printed and is being distributed broadcast to the police. Every expedient is used to get it around quickly, and in the case of some of the isolated stations mounted men convey it from place to place.

As soon as the Gazette is received at a station the officer in charge sees the description and takes action. Every hour or two batches of constables are paraded before him previous to going out on duty in the streets. To each of these batches he reads aloud the description of the missing man, and every constable goes out to his work with a picture of the fair-haired, slim young man in his mind. Within twenty-four hours every member of the force has heard of that fair-haired young man and is looking out for him.

But perhaps there has entered the mind of Scotland Yard the idea that crime lies at the root of the mystery, that the young man has been murdered. If that thought comes to Scotland Yard another part of the great machine is set to work. The criminal investigation department is invited to lend its aid, and a detective inspector, with a little band of clever subordinates, sets to work independently of all that is being done in other directions. The young man's employers, his relatives, his friends, his acquaintances—every person he has been known to speak to during the past week is exhaustively questioned, and people against whom there may be some kind of shadowy suspicion are unobtrusively watched without cessation by careless young racing men, omnibus conductors, or city clerks, all of whom are really Scotland Yard detectives. And while the newspapers know nothing, the police force of London is humming with the search for that fair-haired young man.

Perhaps after two days the Scotland Yard squadron gets a clew, and uniting with the local special inquiry officers tracks the fair-haired young man to a shady lodging-house in North Kensington, where, half starved, dazed with the effects of drugs, he has been locked in a cellar for forty-eight hours. He had been by some plausible means lured to the house in question and plied with drink by well-dressed scoundrels, who believed he carried keys belonging to the bank. Finding he had not what they required, they had temporarily locked him up, with what ultimate object can only be guessed.

There are hundreds of simple cases which are solved in a matter of hours. It will be safe to say that the chances are ten to one in favor of Scotland Yard finding the whereabouts of a missing person within a week.

FLUTE CORN THE LATEST EUPHEMISM.

A woman reports a new and clever name for a well-known and highly esteemed American dish:

An Englishman and his wife sat near me in a café on the avenue the day before yesterday. I knew they were English as soon as I saw his coat and her hair. Even if I had not seen these two unmistakably English things, I should have guessed their nationality from a name they gave to an American dish. The man was ordering luncheon.

"I don't see it on the bill of fare," he said to the waiter, "but bring me some flute corn if you have it."

"Flute corn?" repeated the waiter, in surprise.

"Yes," said the Englishman, "flute corn."

The waiter still hesitated.

"Why," went on the Englishman, "don't you have it? The sort of corn, you know, that one eats like playing the flute."

And as a delicate euphemism for corn on the cob I think "flute corn" can hardly be surpassed.—[Washington Post.

HOW BIRDS' NESTS ARE MADE ROUND.

The little, abandoned nest had fallen from the tree. The nature student lifted it from the frozen ground.

"How round it is," he said. "No cup rim could be rounder. Don't you wonder how the bird, with neither rule nor compass, can make her nest so round?

"Well, she does it easily. She builds the nest about her own breast, turning round and round in it, and its circular character comes spontaneously and inevitably.

"The circle is found everywhere in the buildings of the lower animals. The straight line, on the other hand, they can never achieve."

Plants for Arid Regions.

SIBERIA AND ASIA SEARCHED BY A UNITED STATES AGENT.

By a Special Contributor.

IN an interview with a Chicago Record-Herald correspondent, Secretary Wilson of the Agricultural Department, tells an interesting story of the researches of Prof. Niels E. Hansen's search for plants that will grow in the arid regions of this country.

"We have failed to make plants that need moisture grow in the dry regions," said Secretary Wilson, "and, if we conquer the desert; if we get the most there is out of the arid and semi-arid regions, we've got to find plants that will endure the severe winters; that will grow in dry ground and pay the farmers a profit. That's the problem before us.

"Up in the middle of Northern Asia, which is called 'The Roof of the World,' the people have been successfully cultivating many plants under similar conditions and in similar soil. So I sent Prof. Hansen of the University of South Dakota over to hunt for such as are suitable for our semi-arid belt and will rotate with durum wheat all the way from the 'Panhandle" to Alaska. He has been three times in Russia and twice in Siberia. His first trip was made in 1894 for study. The Department of Agriculture sent him over in 1897 on a plant-hunting expedition, and he brought back some very important samples. I sent him again this year and he has just returned with three kinds of alfalfa—two that will grow in dry soil with light rainfall and intense cold, and one that will grow in the woods. They are entirely new varieties, but have been grown on the cold, dry steppes of Northern Asia for centuries. They have a yellow flower, while our alfalfa has a blue flower. Prof. Hansen will take the seeds out to South Dakota, plant them and cultivate them so as to get the largest possible yield, and then we will distribute seed among the farmers of the arid belt to use as a complement to wheat, as a rotating crop, and we hope they will do the business and enable the people of the dry belt to make a crop every year.

"In addition to this hardy alfalfa," continued Secretary Wilson, "he brought back several new species of clover, with which the natives of Northern Siberia fatten their stock and make hay. It grows in the coldest regions in a short summer, with very little rainfall, and we hope that it will do as well on this side of the world under similar conditions.

"Congress has passed an alcohol law," continued the secretary, "in anticipation of the time when our people will have to go to the fields for light and power, and it was up to the Agricultural Department to provide them with the best plants in existence to make alcohol from. Prof. Hansen was on the lookout for such things also. He investigated the alcohol business in the countries he visited and brought home seventeen barrels of what are called 'alcohol potatoes,' which will grow in dry ground and turn out 500 or 600 bushels to the acre. They are full of alcohol, and are also very valuable for fattening stock, but they have a coarse fiber and are not delicate enough for table use. We expect to introduce those potatoes among the farmers of the United States, and make 500 gallons of alcohol an acre from them. The potatoes are now on their way from New York, and as soon as they arrive we propose to distribute them among the experiment stations throughout the United States to be planted next spring.

"Prof. Hansen brought back several other interesting and valuable plants," said the Secretary, "but these are the things I sent him for, and he brought them. Hansen is a man who does things. He is an intelligent, intrepid fellow, full of resources, and nothing stops him. When he sees anything of value he knows it, and when he goes after anything he gets it. Up at Tomsk, in Eastern Siberia, he was unable to find any clover seed, so he went out and bought a load of hay in the market and hired men to pick the seed out of it.

"Prof. Hansen was born in 1866 near the little town of Ribe, Denmark, where his grandfather held the same office for fifty-three years, and the King decorated him with the order of the 'Dannebrog', in recognition of his services. Hansen's father was an artist, who came over to this country with his family and settled in Des Moines in 1876. When he was a boy 15 years old Hansen got a place under Representative Hull, who was then Secretary of State for Iowa, and saved enough money to take him through the Agricultural College at Ames, where he graduated in 1887. He intended to be an editor, but, after hearing Prof. Budd lecture two or three times, he decided to be a horticulturist, and he has done more important original work in that line than any man out West except Burbank. He has been professor of horticulture in the South Dakota Agricultural School at Brookings for eleven years."

Prof. Hansen tells an interesting story of his experience. He says that during his first exploration, nine years ago, he followed the trail of Alexander the Great into the center of Asia and found that alfalfa had held up that part of the world from time immemorial, under conditions similar to those that exist in the semi-arid regions of the United States.

"Hence it was most important to us," he said, "and I wanted to get seed from as far North as possible. From Tashkent, the capital of Turkestan, I began an overland journey of 2000 miles, 1300 miles in wagon and 700 miles in a sleigh, following alfalfa to its northern limits. I got five car loads of seed, sent them home to the department, and they were distributed over the arid and semi-arid regions to help in dry-farming. I intended to continue the investigation, seeking for the hardy legumes of Central and Northern Asia, but the Japanese war came on and I had to return home. After the war I started out again this year, and went up into Lapland, and through Northern Sweden, tracing red clover to its northern limits and picking up some valuable short-season barleys. Then I went over into Finland and across Russia to Siberia, taking up the trail where I had dropped it on my previous visit.

"I found the northern limit of clover and alfalfa marked by an irregular line crossing Siberia east and west and varying from the 62nd to the 65th degree of latitude. As I went north I discovered that the blue flower alfalfa was replaced by a yellow flower alfalfa at a certain latitude. It is a pure native plant and the chief fodder for cattle in that region. I found several new species of clover as far north as the 50th degree of latitude, growing profitably on the cold, dry steppes, where the thermometer runs down to 40 degrees below zero. The seed is very scarce, but I brought home enough for a fair test.

"Nobody can say that it will succeed," said Prof. Hansen in reply to a question, "but we believe it is just the thing for the cold, dry regions of our northwestern wheat-growing region, and that it will prove a profitable crop to alternate with durum wheat. It will endure any degree of cold; it will flourish with the minimum rainfall of that region, and the soil of our northern wheat belt is very similar to that which it is accustomed to in its native country. We are going to extend the alfalfa belt as far north as we can, and we hope that these seeds will prove all that we expect of them. But there is no use in expecting too much. I would not risk my reputation on any positive predictions; I can only say that we confidently hope that we have found the right thing.

TELLING HOW BARNEY DOOLAN SERVED THE LATITAT.

By a Special Contributor.

ONE cold winter's night, away back in "Ould Ireland," a merry group of "the boys" sat drinking their beer and telling stories around the big turf fire in the kitchen of Larry Donlon's public house.

The wind was whistling through the poplars out in the haggard, and the rain went pit-a-pat against the windows that looked out on the Ballaghadereen road. It was a fearful night for any creature to be out; and many a time did the group at the fire exclaim, when the wind howled stronger than before, and the rain beat harder on the windows: "God help the poor this night!"

Just then a knock was heard at the door, and before any one could stir from his seat, the dripping latch was raised and a stranger entered the kitchen. Immediately, every one pulled his seat out from the fire and made room for the new comer at the open hearth.

"Glory be to God!" says Jimmy Kelleher. "It's a woeful night for any Christian to be out in."

"Begorra, yer right," said the stranger, "but what the divil can one do whin he has to?"

"It would be a nice business that would make me lave the fire tonight," says Kelleher.

"Me too," says Barney Doolan, who was cosily ensconsed in the warmest corner of the hearth.

"Well," said the stranger, "I am a process sarver, and I'm afther ould Jones the Jay Pay, fur th' last four weeks, and if I can't sarve a latitat an him before 12 o'clock tomorra, I'll lose me situashun as process sarver as shure as there's cotton in Cork."

"Have a dhrink, young fella, and furgit your process fur awhile," says Barney Doolan.

"Begorra, I wished I could," said the boy; "but me situashun is in imminint danger and I must be goin'."

"Don't be a fool!" says Doolan; "sit down and make yerself at home. If I couldn't sarve that process an ould Jones before 12 o'clock tomorra, I'd be ashamed to tell me naybors about it."

"Come!" says Kelleher. "Me Bould Barney, I'll bet you three fat turkeys that ye can't sarve it yerself between now and New Year's Day, and ye have three days to do it."

"To make it more intherestin', I'll bet I'll sarve it before 10 o'clock tomorra," says Barney.

"Done," says Kelleher, "and I'll stand th' dhrinks fur luck."

"Hurry up with the beer, ould man Donlon, fur I must be goin'," says Doolan.

Finishing his beer, Barney put the latitat in the inside pocket of his frieze coat. Buttoning the collar closer around his neck, he ran to the door, and closing it after him, he was soon out in the darkness of the night.

"Be me sowl," says Joe Flynn, "Kelleher, me boy, yer turkeys are in danger."

"No fear," says the latter. "Barney can't sarve that process between now and Tibb's Eve."

"Don't be too shure of that," says old man Donlon; "Barney is a cute gossoon, and ye never can tell what he is up to nixt."

In the meantime Barney Doolan was hitting the road at a good pace toward the castle of the Back of the Hill, where Lord Glengarry lived. "Aisy money," says Barney to himself, as he sidestepped a rut in the lane and picked his steps between the pools of water.

He soon reached the castle and headed for the coachman's quarters. When he knocked at the door of the harness room, his friend Tim Hinnessy, the coachman, let him in.

"What in the name of all that's good has ye out a night like this without an overcoat?" says Hinnessy.

"Begorra, me bhoy," says Barney, "whin ye were a coortin' boy yerself, it would be a purty bad night that would keep you in."

"Sit down at the fire and dry your duds," says the coachman.

"I thank you kindly," says Barney, "but I must be goin' agin. I have very important business to attend to in the mornin', but if you lind me much obliged to you."

"Begorra, I'll be glad to," says Hin are," says he, taking the livery coat fro wall and handing it to Doolan.

"You allow nothing for art, Mrs. Fenton," said Charley Humber.

"It's a shame to ignore the artistic temperament," Mrs. Delmege put in. "It's quite overmastering in some people."

"When women of society go in for posing as models to artists, it's a question of vanity pure and simple," insisted the owner of the fan. "The 'artistic temperament' has become a most convenient excuse for all sorts of things."

"A thing of beauty is a joy forever," said Mrs. Delmege, "and think of all the beauty time would efface if art did not preserve or crystallize it."

"I confess we could forgive art for failing to 'crystallize' a good many things it takes the unnecessary trouble to preserve." As Mrs. Fenton spoke she toyed superciliously with her fan. The other woman noted the performance and took her cue from it.

"My dear Mrs. Fenton, that fan of yours is a case in point. The Elizabethan charmer whose picture is painted on it would have faded for ever if the artist had not immortalized her for us. Because she has had no successors."

Mrs. Fenton almost flushed at this thrust. "I admit," she said, "that my ancestor had a legitimate excuse in posing for an artist. If as much could be urged for our society idlers one might regard their freaks more indulgently. But, as you say, the women of those days have had no successors."

Charley Humber took a hand.

"You forget, Mrs. Fenton, that there is a vast difference in models. Artists constantly complain, when engaged on some idealistic piece of work in which the female form divine is the principal motive, that they cannot catch the proper inspiration from mere professional models. Something is lacking. Even physical perfection won't fill the bill. But they say that if they can obtain a non-professional model with the true temperament they achieve magical results."

"Very interesting, I'm sure. Then this fad we're talking about is a praiseworthy effort on the part of certain society women to 'elevate' art? How self-sacrificing some of us can be in our own interests!"

"Slightly paradoxical, Mrs. Fenton," said Charley Humber. "But your sex is partial to paradox. Still, you've got it right, for, to be a bit paradoxical myself, I may tell you that a number of our society women have actually decided to work very hard in their leisure time in the interests of art."

"Posing as models?"

"Yes. And as Mrs. Delmege is too modest to sound her own praises, I must announce for her that she is one of the most earnest workers in the worthy cause. I'm seriously thinking of sounding her as a missionary to convert you."

"You'd better not," said Mrs. Fenton, rising in the middle of an aria to leave the box, on the pretext that she was due at a ball. "I might take it into my head to eat your missionary. Never trust savages who haven't the artistic temperament."

"No use going after her now," Mrs. Delmege observed some five minutes later, when she discovered that her rival had forgotten her fan.

"I'll leave it at the house tomorrow," said Charley Humber. And then he suggested supper at Delmonico's.

While he was placing Mrs. Delmege's opera cloak about her shoulders she, fondling the fan, murmured absently:

"La Traviata—'the lost one.'"

A week after the night at the opera this paragraph in "The Smart Swathe" was read with enjoyment by society:

"The blinds are drawn down in all the windows at Mrs. 'Fan' Fenton's, and among a certain group who were first in the secret the real reason for her sudden departure for Europe, with the intention of making a prolonged stay, occasioned some sardonic smiles.

"Mrs. Fenton, Mrs. Jack and Charley Humber occupied the Fenton box at the Metropolitan on the great 'Traviata' night last week. The subtle Charley undertook to promote trouble between the two women by starting a conversational controversy, and admirably succeeded. Mrs. Fenton left early in a caustic mood and Charley and Mrs. Jack were later seen supping at Del's. Many people there noticed that Mrs. Jack had the Fenton fan with her, and also that she and Charley were having a gay good time at their table. Now the murder is out. Mrs. Jack had confided to Charley—of course under the seal of solemn secrecy, which accounts for the facts becoming common property—that she, Mrs. Jack, used to supplement her income during her maiden days in London by posing for portraits and figures of Louis Quinze and all sorts of other grandes dames for a famous London firm of dealers in antiques. These portraits were used upon vases, fans, and various articles of rare bijouterie manufactured by the firm and sold to American exiles and others for enormous prices as mediaeval relics. They were all costly and beautiful objects, but none the less were they 'fakes.' The rest may be imagined. Nor does the 'mystery' of Mrs. Jack's wonderful likeness to the Elizabethan 'ancestor' need further unravelling. It has come out that the gayest moment during the gay supper at Del's was when Mrs. Jack put the final nail in her rival's coffin by showing Charley, hidden away in an unobstrusive corner near the handle, the name—as dealers, of course, not as manufacturers—of the London firm referred to. Next day she actually showed him irrefutable documentary data—her personal correspondence with the firm—as well as the original water color duplicate design of the fan, which, having rapturously admired, she surreptiously abstracted from the atelier at the time she posed for the miniature."

To Drain Zuider Zee.

IMMENSE PROPOSITION BEING CONSIDERED BY HOLLAND.

By a Special Contributor.

AFTER many years' discussion, the proposed drainage of the Zuider Zee appears likely of realization. The Hague correspondent of the Chicago News says that in the opening speech to the States-General, Queen Wilhelmina mentioned the plans of the present ministry for the draining and reclaiming of the Zuider Zee, either in part, or, if sufficient funds could be voted for it, as a whole. To most people this came as a great surprise, as it was not known that the government was seriously considering the problem, although it has been repeatedly cropping up in the press for the last fifty years or more. By most people it was considered such a herculean task and the sum of money to be expended was considered so extravagantly great that it was thought to be out of the question, at least for the present. Now, suddenly, the Queen's words have brought the remote possibility much closer. The present Minister of Waterways, Mr. Kraus, who is known as an eminent engineer, who has executed many difficult works both at home and abroad, and who was last year employed by the Chilean government to build the new harbor of Valparaiso, is certainly not the man to be daunted by the difficulties of a great work, and it may, with the fullest confidence be intrusted to his care.

As the ministerial project has not yet reached Parliament nothing is definitely known as to the plans, but in answer to a question put in Parliament the Minister has stated that most probably a beginning would be made by reclaiming a small portion at first, although he could say nothing for certain until the question had been more fully studied.

In connection with this reply an address has now been presented to the Minister by the Zuider Zee Society which has made the study of this problem its especial care for many years. This society strongly urges the whole work to be undertaken without delay as of the greatest national importance. It advises the state to acquire the necessary grounds on the island of Wieringen and build a strong dam across the narrows with great sluice works. The society places all the material gathered by it during many years at the ministerial disposition for the framing of the law and emphasizes the great advantages to be derived from such a large acquisition of territory. It is certain that this cannot be overestimated, and whatever the cost, which will be many millions, the return will be so much greater that within a comparatively short time the outlay will be covered. Besides this work will be provided for thousands of people during a period of many years.

In this way Holland can expand and provide room for its excess population. The grandeur of the scheme must appeal to the popular mind, and it is not to be doubted but that every one will far more readily vote a large sum of money for the peaceful acquisition of land at home than for conquests abroad.

The objection often made against the scheme is that the Zuider Zee fisher folk will thereby lose their means of making a living; but the fish industry has been diminishing from year to year, chiefly because of the ruthless use of a kind of fishing net that scrapes the sea bottom and so destroys all small fish and spawn. But apart from this the advantage of the few ought not to stand in the way of the good of the many, and there is no doubt but that the next generation will have accommodated itself to its new surroundings and become agricultural. After all, in the whole course of civilization, the agricultural stage, as a higher one, follows the hunting and fishing stage.

Looking at the map of Holland, it will be seen what a large province will be added by the draining of the whole of the Zuider Zee. If the suggestion of the Zuider Zee society is acted upon the sea would be closed on the north by an enormous dam from North Holland over the island of Wieringen and along the shallows and sand banks of the coast of Friesland. In the middle of this land a small lake would be left, in all probability where the ancient Lake Flavo used to be in Roman times. The canalization of the existing rivers which now flow into the Zuider Zee would no doubt necessitate a revolution in the whole drainage and defensive inundation system of the northern provinces. Of course, it cannot yet be said what course will be chosen, whether it wil be undertaken as a whole or whether the reclaiming will be proceeded with gradually.

The matter is of archaeological interest also, for who knows what find will be made on the bed of the present sea, which by recurring inundation from the tenth to the fifteenth centuries buried many flourishing townships, abbeys and castles beneath its waves.

MYSTERIOUS GLASS BALLS.

According to a foreign correspondent of the Geological Survey at Washington, among the most interesting features of the small island of Billiton, between Sumatra and Borneo, an island long famous for its rich tin mines, controlled by the Dutch government are the "glass balls of Billiton," found among the tin ore deposits.

These natural glass balls are round with grooved surfaces. Similar phenomena are occasionally found in Borneo and Java, as well as in Australia. The correspondent quoted thinks they cannot be artificial, and there are no volcanoes near enough to support the theory that they are volcanic bombs. Besides, it is claimed, the glassy rocks produced by the nearest volcanoes are quite different in their nature from the material of the balls. It is suspected that the mysterious objects were ejected ages ago from the volcanoes of the moon and afterward fell upon the earth.—London Press.

HOW KIND CIRCUMSTANCE HELPED TRUE LOVE.

By a Special Contributor.

MAY ALLYN stepped from the elevator with a bit of lace in her hand, and walked through the rotunda, looking to right and left among the massive pillars that were both emphasized and screened by the drooping palms. There were few persons in sight, a semi-invalid or two lounging about, an old gentleman reading a newspaper, and now and then a sightseer, with upturned face and curious eyes. Most of the guests were over on the beach, for it was the bathing hour; a few were up the lake, boating or fishing, and a few others out on the ocean pier or wandering among the many trails. May went nearly across the rotunda before she found the object of her search, a woman in a retired corner reading a novel.

"Here you are, mamma," she exclaimed rebukingly; "and reading that novel, as I might have expected! Don't you know the characters in it would stay exactly where you leave them if you should close the book for a few hours, and this glorious weather outside is something of the present. But see here," holding up the lace for inspection; "do you think this will do?"

"For what?"

"Oh, you know, mamma. I'm to be Betty, the maid, in the play we're getting up, and am to have the white badge of servitude on my head and wear a white apron and carry around a broom or something. I've told it all over before, only your head's in that book. Do, please, shut it up."

The older woman did so, with a sigh, and took the bit of fleecy lace between her fingers.

"No, it won't do at all, May," she decided instantly, a ripple of amusement breaking the dreamy quietness of her face. "It wouldn't be appropriate."

"But why, mamma?" with an air of disappointment. "It is so pretty."

"Yes, and costly. Child, child, child, don't you know the bit oflace is worth as much as Betty, the maid, could earn in ten years? You must have something cheap to be in character."

"I don't believe I have anything."

"No, I suppose not. You will have to try at one of the stores. You will need——" Mrs. Allyn's gaze went inquiringly about the rotunda until they found one of the hotel maids dusting a plant. She waited until she caught the girl's eye, then raised a finger.

"I beg your pardon, my dear," she said as the girl approached, "but my daughter here is to be in the church benefit, and will have to wear a costume something like yours. Would you mind my looking at your pretty lace cap a moment?"

The girl removed it with a pleasant look.

"This is exactly what you want, May," went on Mrs. Allyn, holding it up critically. "You——"

But May had snatched the little cap from the upraised fingers and placed it upon her own fluffy brown hair.

"Now let me have yor apron a minute, please," she cried merrily. "Thank you," as the girl complied and fastened the apron to her waist with deft fingers. "And now the dusting brush. There, mamma, how will this do?" with a flourish of the brush and a sweeping courtesy.

The girl laughed, and even Mrs. Allyn smiled indulgently as May danced away toward the middle of the rotunda, flirting the brush indiscriminately over jardinieres and palm leaves as she passed. Soon pillars and palms intervened, and concealed her from their view.

Count l'Ortegan and a young American sculptor were just entering the rotunda. They had known each other in Paris, and met again on the steamer, coming over, and now they had come south together, not because they had much in common, but because they were acquainted and all the people around were strangers.

May did not notice them until they stopped beside her with exclamations of astonishment and pleasure.

"Mademoiselle Allyn, ees it possible!" cried the Count rapturously. "Eet is in Paris that you vanish this three month, and we nevaire know to where. Some say to Ital-ee, and some that you fly back to heaven where they keep ze angels. But eet is heaven that you make anywhere. Now I know why the place here seem so beautiful—eet is the angel."

May laughed and gave him her hand. "Thank you, Count," she said. "I am glad to see you, also. You are sure to like it here—even without the angel. And you, too, Mr. Bethune," offering her hand to the sculptor. "Can you not make a pretty speech, like the Count?"

"I am afraid not," smiling down at her. "Only that I am very, very glad to find you here, Miss Allyn. Your presence will add much to—to our pleasure at Palm Beach."

"Why, really, that does very nicely."

She twirled the brush with a pretty, unconscious movement that caused the tips of its feathers to flick across one of the palm fronds near. The motion caught the Count's attention, and with wondering consternation his eyes went from it to her white apron and to the badge of servitude upon her head, and his sloping shoulders stiffened suddenly into protesting reserve.

"Pardonnez," he rebuked, "but eet is so hurry I am now. I will see—Monsieur Bethune will tell you we have not registered yet. I will do eet now."

May watched him hurry away with an odd look of inquiry in her eyes.

"What's the matter with the Count?" she asked innocently. "Has he forgotten something?"

Bethune laughed joyously. A moment before there had been both reserve and repression in his eyes, now they were suddenly eager, glowing, determined.

"The Count's an odd sort of stick," he answered, "and his visit here is confessedly in search of a rich American wife."

He raised his hand significantly toward his head; but for a moment she looked puzzled; then a quick, comprehending flush rose to her face.

"Oh, that," she said thoughtfully. "And you?"

Bethune laughed again. He could not help it.

"Can't you see, Miss Allyn?" he demanded. "I fancied it was sticking out all over me. Over yonder I was a poor devil of an artist, and you a rich heiress; and now—oh, May!"

There was the soft rustle of silk moving across the carpet. May raised her finger.

"Mamma is coming," she warned.

"I don't care," impetuously. "I've got to speak now. I can't wait another day. Where can I see you alone?"

She hesitated, then appeared to consider.

"The maids and nurses usually walk on the beach at about 3 o'clock," she said demurely. "I expect I shall be there."

At 4 o'clock two wheel chairs swept leisurely down the bicycle avenue and on past the breakers toward the beach. It was the hour for Mrs. Allyn's daily outing, and she preferred to take it in a wheel chair, and leisurely. The occupant o fthe other chair was Count 'Ortegan, and from the satisfaction in his face he had evidently discovered the mistake. As they turned toward the beach path, they saw two figures approaching them, only a few yards away.

"There's May, now," exclaimed Mrs. Allyn. "Suppose we wait a few minutes. She will be glad to see you, Count——"

The Count's face grew eager, and words of an elaborate apology began to form in his mind; but as the figures drew near, and he saw the expression on their faces as they looked at each other, the apology died away and a Parisian oath, muttered under his breath, took its place. He merely bowed politely, and then waited for Mrs. Allyn to give the signal to go on.

HOW TRUE LOVE FOUND ITS OWN AT PADDY'S MARKET.

By a Special Contributor.

"PADDY'S MARKET" springs into being every Saturday afternoon, lives a few strenuous crowded hours, and at midnight dies a natural death, its remains shortly afterward being carted away by white wings.

For Pat Clancy and Tom Dulaney Saturday night meant a glimpse of Mollie Mulcahey. Mollie was a shapely five-feet-four inches of strength and virtue. There were sunbeams in her heart and hair. Her direct eyes and indirect nose bespoke frankness and honesty. To see her smile was to become an optimist for the next twenty-four hours. This is worth traveling for. Pat and Tom were rivals for her smiles.

The young men were hucksters and partners. They raided the Washington or Gansevoort Markets in the early mornings, and, during the day traveled the streets with their horse and wagon, filling their pockets and developing their lungs.

The relict and daughter of Dennis Mulcahey, one-time famous huckster, ran a little grocery and notion store on West Fifty-seventh street, where they sold groceries on credit and got credit for the possession of kind hearts.

"Paddy's Market" was a one-night stand for all. It enabled the Mulcaheys to cultivate the things that are better than coronets. It provided the rivals with cardiac pains, which will be listed with their joys in years to come.

Pat Clancy was big, broad-shouldered, red-headed, and, in the main, good-humored. With the confidence of youth he believed that he could bring to his feet any man he punched or any woman he smiled upon. Such a belief sometimes leads to disaster; but more often to victory.

Tom Dulaney was small, dark and quiet—like a handy-billy, a banked pipe, or a box of safety matches.

"Gee! But she's a peach!" said Pat, the first time he saw Mollie. "Watch me win her."

He tried to catch her eye, conscious that he was a fine figure of a man as he stood at the end of his cart, with his right hand resting easily on the tailboard.

"Yep, I'll watch you," said Tom, dropping a sack of turnips on the resting fingers.

Pat wrenched himself free and jumped into the air, wringing the injured member

"What the——" he began and faltered when he discovered that he had caught Mollie's eye at last.

"O Lord!" he gasped, as he came out of his trance. "Did you see her give me the laugh? It was strawberries an' cream on a hot day, an' nothin' to pay."

He deposited the sack of turnips on the sidewalk with easy swing. "It was cheap at the price," he said. "Wonder if I kin make her do it again." But he got no more smiles from Mollie that day.

In the weeks that followed the three became friends. Once in a while Mollie allowed one of the young men to help her unload the wagon; but she did this as one who granted a favor, for she was as strong as an ox, and her young limbs knew no fatigue.

Pat fell in love with her every Saturday; but had other interests during the week. Tom thought of her all the time. He found out where she lived, made frequent occasion to buy cigars in the little store, got into the habit of chatting there when she was behind the counter, and was at last invited by Mrs. Mulcahey into her little back parlor. From that time he became known to Mrs. Mulcahey's intimates as A Maker of History.

"THE late Gen. Shafter," said a soldier, "had a contempt for military posers. They who flourished stumps and limps like medals got no sympathy from him.

"In San Francisco I once heard him ridicule these military posers. He said there was a general of volunteers who got his leg scratched by a caisson wheel in a retreat, and forever after nursed and glorified the trifling wound, growing lamer and lamer as the years passed, in order that his bravery might never be forgotten.

"One day a young man from the West, calling on the general's daughter, met the old warrior.

"'I see you're lame, sir,' said the young man.

"'Yes,' said the general, pompously 'I am lame.'

"'Slip on the ice?'

"'No, sir,' said the general, with a frown.

"'Not an automobile mix-up, I hope?'

"'No, sir; it was not an automobile mix-up.' The general spoke ferociously.

"'Sleigh overturn, sir?'

"The general rose. He set his lame leg tenderly on the floor. He hobbled to the door. Frowning back savagely from the threshold, he shouted:

MISS ELLEN BEACH YAW, the noted singer, one day in the mountains of Southern California saw two deer at which two sportsmen were taking aim. Miss Yaw gave a loud shout, and the deer, affrighter, made off, and thus their lives were saved by the kind-hearted young woman.

A friend of Miss Yaw's, a Cincinnatian, after recounting this incident, said the other day:

"Let me tell you another story about her. When she was a little girl she visited a lady who gave her the family photograph album to look at. She turned the leaves quickly, and in a few minutes closed the book.

"'Don't you like it, dear?' the lady asked.

Arnold Daly's Deaf Friend.

ARNOLD DALY, the brilliant actor, had been invited to tell a story at a theatrical banquet in New York.

"I always hate to tell a story," he began, "because my listeners may have heard it before. What boredom that is for them, what agony for me. It is like the case of a friend of mine. He is deaf, but tries to conceal his deafness. And one night at a dinner the host told a story at which everybody roared, and my deaf friend joined in and outroared the whole table, though in truth he hadn't heard a word. At the end of the laughter he held up his hand as a sign that he wanted to speak.

"'That story,' he began, 'reminds me of another one.' And then the poor fellow went on and told the very same yarn the host had repeated only a minute before.'"

No Need to Run

MRS. CLEWS-PARSONS, whose daring book on marriage has created so much excitement, said at a dinner in New York:

"They who are happily married are shocked at the idea of trial marriages, but they who are unhappily linked together, and are yet too proud and sensitive to get a divorce, must see much in my idea that is of value. How many marriages would be dissolved if the dissolution could be accomplished without shame! How many married people feel toward each other like a husband I heard of the other day.

"He said to his wife at breakfast, crustily:

"'I dreamed about you last night.'

"'What did you dream?' she asked.

"'I dreamed I caught a chap running away with you.'

"'And what did you say to him?' she inquired listlessly.

The Dead Fly.

BEFORE sailing for Egypt for the winter, James Hazen Hyde said at a farewell dinner in New York:

"The only drawback to a tropical winter is the flies. In the hot sun of a January day in Egypt, Morocco or Algeria the flies are an incredible pest. You see them in the corners of the eyes of native children, and men lie asleep in sunny places with flies crawling over their lips.

"The natives don't mind the flies. In fact, they like them. At a boorj, or native inn, in the Sahara, a traveler said to the waiter, pointing indignantly at his stew of barley and goat's flesh:

"'How comes this dead fly in my cous-cous?'

"'Monsieur,' replied the waiter, 'I cannot tell you. Perhaps the fly had not eaten for many days, and, throwing itself ravenously on the cous-cous, fed with too great heartiness, thereby contracting an inflammation of the stomach severe enough to cause death. The poor little thing can never have been strong. When I brought the cous-cous, it was dancing and humming merrily on the surface. Perhaps—this idea has just presented itself to me—it endeavored to swallow too large a piece of meat. The morsel stuck in its windpipe. A terrific coughing fit, inaudible to our gross ears, ensued. Alas! soon all was over.'

"The waiter wiped his eyes and said in a broken voice:

"'I can account in no other way for the poor creature's death.'"

An Unfriendly Bear.

DAVID KYLER, a farmer, went fox hunting with a shotgun recently. In the course of his search he encountered a bear, which, without waiting for the call of time, boxed Mr. Kyler on the ear, bit his arm, kicked him when he had him down, and otherwise gave evidence of an unfriendly disposition.

Mr. Kyler at the first opportunity fired two loads of shot into the bear's face and then, seizing a gnarled club, smote his adversary with such violence that the bear curled up and died.

At that juncture Game Warden Finnegan appeared. "Don't you know that this is the closed season for bears?" he asked of the victor.

"Yes; and it's the closed season for men, too, by heck," averred Mr. Kyler, panting from his recent exertion. "That bear ought to be locked up."—[Hollidaysburg (Pa.) dispatch to New York Times.

Cheerful Advice.

A NUMBER of railway men were once discussing the question of accident.

"The roads of Scotland," said one official, "used to have a bad name, indeed, in respect to accidents. No one thought of embarking on a railway journey unless he had provided himself with an accident policy of insurance.

The famous Dr. Norman MacLeod was once about to set off on a long journey through the Scotch country. Just as the train was pulling out the clergyman's servant put his head through the window and asked:

"'Ha's ye ta'en an insurance ticket, sir'

"'I have,' replied the doctor.

He Wins the Palm.

MANY stories have been told of mean men, such as he who used a wart for a collar button and he whose birthday gift to his son consisted in washing the windows so that the lad might watch the cars go by. This man, however, seems to have won the palm:

There was an extremely mean man in New Hampshire, who was the proprietor of a hotel. By his direction rules were posted in the hostelry forbidding almost every conceivable privilege to those not guests of the place. There was absolutely no chance for the casual loafer to get newspapers, pens, ink, stationery, etc. There were not even free seats in the office.

One day he chanced to observe a chronic loafer gazing at the old clock that hung on the wall. The next day a sign was placed over the clock. It read: "This clock is for the use of the guests of the hotel only."—[Success Magazine.

THE peculiar simplicity of the country darky in the South is illustrated by a story told by Representative John Sharp Williams.

The old darky's eyes widened in astonishment. "Will anudder stamp make it any lighter, boss?" he asked. —[Harper's Weekly.

The House Beautiful—Its Flower Garden and Grounds

ORNAMENTAL TREES.

SOME SUGGESTIONS AS TO THEIR PROPER ARRANGEMENT.

By Ernest Braunton.

THE beautifying of home grounds is at present occupying the attention of our residents and a great many newcomers, judging from the number of inquiries as to varieties to plant and methods of planting which are received by this department, mostly about suitable trees for this climate, and their proper disposition in the grounds.

Trees are properly planted about houses for shade, to accentuate the beauties of the building or to hide defects not otherwise removable. To secure these ends a map of the grounds should be made in advance and upon it should be noted the places to be screened from view, the views it is desired to preserve or emphasize and the location of all permanent fixtures, such as drives, walks and buildings. Then the nature of the soil should be carefully determined. Then the best varieties for the special purposes should be selected and the number wanted ordered from some reliable nurseryman. Too few trees are planted in front of the house in California, and the house is too near the street; we nearly live on the sidewalk.

Trees are living beings. Each variety has in the course of centuries become specially adapted for definite classes of soil and for a certain minimum and maximum of heat and moisture. To plant trees in unsuitable soil or climate is to insure failure, however much ceremony may be used in the planting. Many beautiful trees possess some peculiarity which render them unsuitable for particular purposes or locations. Thus trees bearing large thorns, poisonous or edible fruits are not suitable for street planting, in the street or in the city generally. The almost universal tendency in planting trees on lawns and in yards is to plant too close to the house and to plant too thickly, shutting out light and views from the windows. The proper plan is to plant the larger trees and shrubs along the borders, low shrubs midway and herbaceous flowering plants close to the house. Plant in irregular masses rather than in single specimens or straight lines.

Great care and considerable experience is required to plant trees so that they will live and thrive. It will be more satisfactory and in the end cheaper to hire such more done by an experienced gardener, who should, at the same time, be engaged to care for the trees for at least the first season and to replace any lost. In transplanting trees choose small rather than large specimens. Dig large holes at least one day before planting and fill the holes with water as soon as dug. Plant a little deeper than the trees stood in the nursery and firm the earth very thoroughly about the roots. Do not place manure or fertilizer in holes, and do not use water to firm the earth, but water thoroughly after all else is done. Keep the soil free from grass and weeds for a circle of two feet around the tree. There is no best tree for all purposes. Every street, lawn and lot must be treated separately and receive special study if the best possible result is to be obtained. The condition and nature of the soil; the size of the lot or width of street, and kind of buildings are all important considerations.

OUR FAVORITE PALM—PHOENIX CANARIENSIS.

Ornamental Fruit Trees.

Among those grown for ornamental purposes only, are: the Japanese, Siberian and purple apricot, the dwarf flowering almonds; the Japanese and rosebud cherries, our on California cherries, and these, by the way, are worthy of more than mere mention. Our mainland cherry (P. illifolium) makes a nice shrub, especially for a dry spot, but will not in any way bear comparison with its variety (integrifolium) from Catalina Island and known in the nursery trade as the Catalina cherry. This tree is a quiet compact grower with glossy, dark green, holly-like foliage and makes a very good evergreen tree for any purpose. They have been used for street trees with good effect, though doing much better near the coast than inland.

The double-flowering peaches, either red or white, are more popular here than any of their relatives, though their beauty is but transient, the flowers lasting but a fortnight or so. The purple plum known as P. Pissardi, but botanically P. cerasifera var atropurpurea, is also a favorite in California where the purple foliage is wanted, (not needed, as the color is never in harmony with anything else.) The Portuguese and English laurels also belong to this genus though not productive of edible fruit. The genus Pyrus, which contains the apple and pear, furnishes us with a host of ornamental trees and shrubs, and like the last genus (Prunus,) has varieties with variegated and many-formed leaves.

Dieffenbachias.

Dieffenbachias are more easily grown than almost any other class of pot or greenhouse plants, and there are few plants that can stand so much neglect and survive as they can. They are easily propagated by division and cuttings; good-sized plants can be obtained in comparatively small pots. Dieffenbachias are exceedingly useful for mixing with other plants in filling up fireplaces and for many other purposes. After having served their purpose for a time, and in the service lost their bottom leaves, all that is required is to cut the top off and put into sand, where they will root quickly. Leave the old root in the pot until it has sent up new shoots and take these off when about three inches long and root them in about the same way as the other does better in a warm house and near the to bring out the bright markings in varieties. When specimen plants are necessary to repot them whenever they are gross feeders, and when growing of water both in the soil and air for our fornia climate is somewhat dry for them.

major objects attainable by means At the Cobbet School in Massaten-foot strip next the street children have established some three hundred native shrubs, herbs, ferns, etc., that have been brought from the fields and woods. There the children and the passers-by see the wild plants bud forth, bloom and form their seeds, each in its season. Labels give them names ad values. The great wild park which is not far away, becomes more valuable to the city because of this living index to its undergrowth. The children are more careful of the rarer wild plants, having been taught to protect and value those at school. Native plants are being grown from seed. Some children have started little wild gardens in their home yards. The work is a most efficient aid to the nature study of this school. Near the street, also, is the geographical garden plot where such field crops and commercial plants are grown, as wheat, rye, oats, Indian corn, broom corn, Kaffir corn, alfalfa and other fodder crops, cotton, flax, hemp, tobacco, chicory, sugar beets and the like. They admirably supplement the school cabinet of geographical specimens and aid in giving meaning to the words of the text-book. In a number of ways the school garden contributes to the work of the schoolroom.

Conifers for Streets.

Conifers are unfitted for roadside planting except on avenues of unusual width, where twenty to thirty feet may be allowed for them, either along each side or through the center. Conifers are frequently used for street planting, but as language is not strong enough to condemn the impropriety of their use for this purpose no further attention is accorded them here. Public convenience demands the removal of all lower branches for a height of eight or ten feet of trees that align sidewalks or public highways. As the exquisite beauty of most conifers depends largely upon the integrity of their lower limbs, the impropriety of planting any tree subject to these requirements becomes apparent. The same may be said of all cone bearers and many others upon private premises. Trees of pyramidal growth should be allowed the whole of their natural support, whether planted on the street or elsewhere.

Decidous Street Trees.

A great deal of controversy has arisen in Southern California over the relative merits of evergreen or deciduous trees and the writer wishes to place himself squarely against the use of the latter in a semi-tropic clime such as ours, notwithstanding the fact that many meritorious and experienced writers have arrayed themselves on the other side of this question. The chief arguments in favor of deciduous trees are generally three in number, viz.: (1) They give us shade in summer, sunshine in winter; (2) all the litter they make is during but ninety days of each year, while evergreen trees are shedding at all times. (3) The beautiful development of the leaves in early spring, and their magnificent coloring when dying in autumn.

Drouth-Resistant Street Trees.

The Carob, or St. John's Bread, is a tree that is bound to be extensively used in the future. It is a very fast grower and its drouth-resisting qualities are of the first order. It has been tried under varying conditions and always found satisfactory. Grevillea robusta is a good tree for dry localities in the country, but for use in cities or towns it is too dirty. It should be pruned at least every other year for six or eight years, for the wood is quite brittle, and easily broken by the wind.

Practical Poultry Culture in the Southwest.

DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF STANDARD-BRED POULTRY AND THE PEOPLE WHO GROW IT.

LOS ANGELES COUNTY SHOW.

THE FINEST POULTRY EXHIBIT EVER SEEN IN THIS STATE.

By Henry W. Kruckeberg.

NOTE.—Short articles of a practical nature are cordially solicited from breeders and fanciers, relating their experiences with poultry, giving their successes as well as failures. The writer will be glad, in so far as lies in his power, to answer inquiries of public interest bearing on any phase of an enlightened poultry culture, such as feeding and management, disease and its prevention, market conditions, fancy points, etc. The co-operation of utility breeders and fanciers is cordially solicited, to the end that the best thought and practice in an enlightened poultry culture may find a healthy expression in these columns.

IN spite of much negative criticism and abuse coupled with a rainy week, the eighteenth annual poultry and pigeon show of the Los Angeles County Poultry Association was nevertheless, beyond all question, the finest exhibit of poultry and miscellaneous live stock ever "pulled off" in this State. We say this advisedly, for in number of entries (2047) it was the largest, in variety of classes and breeds benched the most extensive, and in quality the highest that has ever been attained by any similar feature west of Chicago. Indeed, there are those who have visited the Boston and Madison Square shows, who claim that in some of the classes it surpassed those two celebrated shows of the East. When to these high qualities is coupled the fact that it was one of the best arranged and best cooped exhibits that this town has ever seen; that the arrangement of exhibition as well as the special pullet pens, each of which accommodated ten pullets of a breed; the central location and the fine hall in which it was held; it requires no stretch of the imagination to readily perceive that the event was one long to be remembered for its quality.

At this writing it is not the intention to give a detailed description of the various individual specimens of high quality—that is a matter which we may refer to on various occasions in the future. We cannot, however, pass by so easily some of the more pronounced features and the large entries of particular breeds. The strong specimens were essentially in the American class. The Barred Rocks were a great showing, totaling something like 197, closely followed by the ever beautiful White Rock with a list to their credit of 137. The next strongest variety was the Buff Orpingtons, with a showing of 114, then the White Wyandotte with 110, then the Single-Comb White Leghorns with 514, the Rhode Island Reds 55, Buff Wyandottes 44, Black Minorcas 52, White-Faced Black Spanish 56, while the remaining breeds represented correspondingly large numbers.

No one division of the show commanded so wide attention as the large display of bantams, numbering in all something like one hundred and fifty individual specimens representing all varieties in the standard of perfection. Many of these were new to this public and elicited only words of praise from visitors. In view of this it goes without saying that the bantam fancy has gained a strong foothold in this country and that future shows will always be well represented with these miniature fowls.

The pigeons were also a grand showing, covering almost 500 individual specimens, and ranging from the ordinary squab varieties to the Maltese hens and parlor tumblers. We doubt if a finer show of pigeons has ever been collected under one roof within the confines of the State of California.

Beyond these three grand divisions in the fancy of web and feather the most striking features were a fine display of Japanese and Chinese pheasants, five varieties of turkeys, a pen of the native jungle fowl, Nubian African ostriches, pea fowl and other caged ornamental birds.

The association, breeders and fanciers of the Southwest are to be congratulated for the enterprise and energy displayed in making this exhibition. It only demonstrates that Los Angeles has long since shed her swaddling clothes, and is now a metropolis capable of supporting events with an energy and patronage the equal of Chicago, New York and Boston. The poultry show is a yearly fixture gaining in public estimation and patronage as the years go by. Its shareholders promise a much larger exhibition for 1908, and already the matter has been taken in hand by the board of directors, and will be pushed to still higher flights of glory and renown; whether old Jupiter Pluvius turns on the irrigation water from above, or old Sol shines, is a matter that does not interfere with this poultry show.

Fertility of Eggs.

The season is close at hand when the breeder of poultry is watching his breeding pen closely, anxious that everything be done which shall insure fertility of eggs. Eggs for hatching in January are most uncertain. No device has been made to test eggs fresh from the hen and determine the fertile ones. Days of applying mother heat constantly upon the eggs alone can show up the fertile ones. A constant supply of cut green bone and vegetable green is kept before the fowls, having most to do with putting the sexual organs in healthy state, in addition to the usual diet. The making up of breeding pens is a stupendous matter, and breeders differ in beliefs, hence it is a serious matter to the man who has not enough of his own getting, to know where to get fertile eggs for hatching. Plenty of fertile eggs are advertised in the poultry papers, but there is no way to tell a bargain by the literature of it, and one wants a just deal at least. Man's commercial sense has to be taken account of. Why would a man advertise a sitting of thirteen eggs for a dollar, and agree to make good the infertile ones. Certainly because he has no great need of eggs himself, and why hasn't he? Look it up. Probably he can make more money selling the eggs than by incubating them. Probably he prefers to sell eggs to breeding fowls in large numbers, and that preference may be due to shiftless management all around, and shiftless management in breeding pens means infertile eggs in January. The breeder having fertile eggs in January is a scientific breeder, and is not selling eggs as a business. He will sell, of course, if he has any that he does not want, and they will bring from three to five dollars a sitting. He marks every egg layed with the date, and will only make good infertile eggs brought to him in good condition, being able to tell his own mark and to see a clear egg.

Buying a sitting of eggs and hatching seven is how good. Is not it good enough? A novice sometime does not know a success, and will return with four infertile eggs to be replaced, because it was in the bargain. That is a poor bargain to make and he will learn as much, when he sells infertile ones. It is not sportsmanship or farseeing. A real fancier wants to know about every hatch, and if six or eight eggs should prove infertile will insist upon giving six or eight eggs more, feeling something is wrong in the pen. The commercial seller of eggs will have to be dunned.

The breeder who can sell eggs any time you call for them as if they were merely merchandise handled over a counter, needs investigating. His wares can be in great demand. Big plants fill big orders, and have few on hand, if they are good. A man may happen to have a sitting on hand. It is a judicious move to engage eggs at least a month ahead of time needed. It is the only way you can be sure of getting eggs of the older breeders. Those whose eggs prove fertile year after year are eagerly sought.

Manner of Awarding.

In a late number of The Northwest Poultry Journal Thomas Wilkinson is out in a three-column article on score-card judging. In the early days of modern poultry shows there were Pierce, Felch, Bicknel and Ward who awarded by card. They were regarded well up in the technique of service, studied their business, were acquainted with all the then leading breeds and their varieties by having bred most of them, were looked upon by the poultry guild as being men of dignity and poultry research and their work scarcely questioned. It is different now. Poultry judges are not panoplied by mastering a standard of perfection. They are become expert in the work by study of the book and bird in a degree, but most by nature and instinct. There are carpenters who are unable to stand off from a piece of work and say whether it be plumb or not. There are horsemen who cannot see the good points or defects in their own stud. There are cattlemen who can tell a primo steer from a second, who are unable to tell why they can do so. There are dairymen who can tell you what cow in a herd of a given breed is the heaviest producer without looking twice. There are hog raisers who can tell you within fifty pounds what a given individual of four pounds will weigh. There are poultry and dog fanciers who have bred their favorites for years and years and yet are unable to pass critical judgment upon them. This inexpertness is by lack of intuition for such service. No manufacturer can make a good iron or steel plow from hickory timber.

Whether by card or comparison the efficient poultry judge must have native talent for the work as well as study and experience. All bungling, juggling poultry and dog judging is more the result of natural inability than want of study and dishonesty, be the method what you will. The method at the show just closed in Los Angeles was by comparison, which is the most accurate, the most rapid, because the most satisfactory—provided the judge is "onto his job."

The Great Egg Producer.

This is the hen that all keepers of fowls are after. Do you know her name? Let us tell how you may find her. Take from three or four to a dozen poultry journals. Study the advertisements—the legitimate ones. Read carefully the "sneaks"—that is to say the advertisement that is interlarded with correspondence—"lareated" suggestions, for instance. Put your eye on the good-will write-ups. Make notes as you study and read. Now you have the key; the latest candidate for favor—a bird made up from half a dozen standards—is the greatest "layer of large well-shaped eggs in the world." This new one was originated back and therefore has an established history for behaving well. These new native daughters lay well because they have not become aristocratic and royal—the royalty that mixes with its own—inter-marries and degenerates. They have fresh blood carefully selected for business; hence their vigor, their constitutional powers of defense against adverse environment. No wonder they lay well and are hardy, great foragers, mature quickly and possess all the other virtues we do not just happen to think of as new. The White Rock was at one time the great egg machine. Then came the White Wyandotte, followed by the Buff Rock, the Buff Leghorn, the Buff Wyandotte, then the Orpington—the whole family. Just think of it, the White Rock laid an even twenty-eight eggs a month, and all the followers have one by one beat her, and each other's records. And during all this advancement where was the White Leghorn? Why, she was going on and off the nest all the time, son, with scarcely time to cackle between eggs.

A shallow hole, scooped in the ground, answers for a nest, and instead of seeking out some quiet corner, as any other decent fowl would do, the ostrich makes his in the most conspicuous place he can find, usually in the center of the paddock. And such eggs! They resemble a bald man's head, and are nearly as large. Each one weighs three and one-half pounds. No straw or other material is used in the nest, only the bare ground, but if the sun is unusually hot the ostrich drops a bit of sand on top of each egg. This, according to his intellectual method of reasoning, is ample protection. An egg is laid every alternate day. When from twelve to eighteen are laid the setting begins. The male bird sets at night, as any appreciative husband would do, so as to obtain his regular night's rest, leaving his wife to set during the day, and get what rest she can. At the end of forty days and forty nights the young chicks come out of their shell ark, and at the age of eight months they are put into paddocks, with other birds of various ages, and are now ready to be plucked.

Plucking is one of the advertised sights of the ostrich farms, and never fails to draw large crowds of tourists and gaily dressed people. The tourist, no doubt, is so used to being plucked himself that he likes to see how some other creature stands for it. The bird is enticed into a fence corner, a large white "stocking" is slipped over his head, and while two men hold him, the short feathers are pulled out and the large ones are clipped with scissors, the inch or so of quill remaining in the flesh being shed naturally later on. The largest and finest feathers come from the wings and tail of the bird. The Nubian ostriches from Northeast Africa, which are now becoming very rare, have the finest tails and wings. Each bird produces about $30 worth of feathers every nine months. The birds themselves are worth from $300 to $500 each. And the tourists that come to see them are quite as profitable as the plucking of the ostriches. As ostrich feather is worth all the way from $2 "up." If you are a married man you will know what this means. The average life of an ostrich is 50 to 70 years.

OILED ROADS.

A NEW PROCESS MAKES A SURFACE ALMOST EQUAL TO ASPHALT.

A piece of oiled road construction has been completed near Los Angeles, from the Soldiers' Home toward the ocean, north of Santa Monica, that has, in the judgment of many experienced road builders, a most important bearing on road development in California. It differs from ordinary street or road oiling in that it is a veritable construction of a street out of natural soil with the use of oil. The resultant product is in fact very like an asphalt—lies as smooth and will last nearly as long. While more expensive than careless "oil sprinkling"—which experience has determined is practically useless—it is nevertheless so inexpensive as to be practical for use in cities and upon the main country thoroughfares.

The street improved is a 130-foot boulevard, with car tracks along the center. The net width of the area worked, from curb to curb, is fifty-six feet. The total length is 18,000 feet, or a little over three miles.

The system used is about as follows: The street, which is a sandy loam, with some admixture of blue and red clay and slate and gravel, is graded and plowed six inches deep and pulverized with harrows. If it is very dry, a small amount of water is sprinkled on and mixed in so as to make it workable. Oil is then applied at the rate of one gallon to the square yard, and the cultivators mix it in to the depth of four inches. A second gallon of oil to the square yard is then applied and cultivated down to five inches. The oil is then turned under with a turning plow, four inches deep.

Now, up to this point the process does not materially differ from that in general use where careful work is done in the mixing of oil with soil in the making of a road. But the next step is a radical departure, and marks the beginning, it is contended, of a new era in road making.

The process next succeeding this in the common forms of road oiling is the rolling of the road, which crushes down a thin scum on the surface that later scales off and leaves the road full of chuck-holes. But with the new system the next process is one of tamping. A huge cylinder about eight feet long and five feet in diameter, weighing some 5000 pounds and furnished with rows of flat-headed teeth, is hauled back and forth over the street, slowly tamping the oiled earth up from the bottom to within two inches of the top. When the tamper first goes over the street, it sinks the teeth, which are about six inches long, clear to the end in the soft, oily earth, but each time a new layer of solid asphalt is plastered on the bottom, and the cylinder rises a little out of the mass until, when the tamping is finally completed, the mixture is so solid that the teeth no longer sink in.

There is a vast difference between merely crushing the surface of an oiled road with a roller and tamping five or six inches of oil and soil from the bottom up. That difference means years of wear.

At this stage of the proceedings the tamping is brought to within two inches of the top. The street is then regraded, and the two inches of loose soil is cultivated and given one gallon more of oil to the square yard. That is altogether three gallons to the square yard, all applied warm, so as to sprinkle freely. Again the cultivator, and then the tamper, this time worked until it reaches the surface. When the tamper is done, the surface is a little uneven from the marks of the teeth, and this is taken out by a roller weighing two tons to twelve inches of tire. A more perfect surface can be obtained by a slight sprinkling of gravel before the roller comes on.

The cost of this work is about 16 cents a square yard, or $1 a running foot, to a 56-foot street (between curbs.) The cost on the ordinary city street where no grading was needed, would amount to from 30 to 40 cents a running foot of frontage. In other words, if done under the Vrooman act, a street could be practically paved for about $15 or $20 to the lot —provided that curb, sidewalk and gutter were already in place.

The oil used is of 12.5 gravity, Baume, containing 69 per cent. of soft D-grade asphaltum, free from sediment and of gravel. The time required for the work is about twenty days to the mile.

INVALIDS FROM INDIA.

Southern California as a place of recuperation for rundown officers and attachés of the East India service and their families, is being made a subject of special investigation by a regular military representative of the British government.

Maj. Charles Sidenham Duer of the medical service of His Majesty's administration in India is in Los Angeles on a commission unusual for even this cosmopolitan region. With his wife, Maj. Duer has come all the way from Rangoon, India, to Los Angeles to be eyes and ears and mouth for his government in confirming the countless reports of the salubriousness and tonic effect of this climate, which have come to the attention of the War Department and of the Colonial Secretary.

Breaking down in the trying climate of India, scores, if not hundreds, of those in the service of the English government are compelled, each year, to seek more healthful climates for needed rest and recuperation. Convalescents from the hospitals must be sent, as soon as they can travel, entirely away from India to a complete change of scene and environment.

It is a long trip back to England, and even though the convalescent may enjoy there the advantages of his own home, the climate, especially in the winter season, is not what the doctors would wish to hasten the full recovery of their patients. For this reason Southern California has been suggested and is seriously considered. Through the regular service of the trans-Pacific liners, it is easily accessible to visitors from Indian ports and its climate has been proven, to the satisfaction of medical men the world over, to be as nearly perfect as that of any land upon which the sun shines.

SCHURZ'S FIRST MEETING WITH LINCOLN.

I must confess that I was somewhat startled by his appearance. There he stood, overtopping by several inches all those surrounding him. Although measuring something over six feet myself, I had, when standing quite near to him, to throw my head backward in order to look into his eyes. That swarthy face, with its strong features, its deep furrows, and its benignant, melancholy eyes, is now familiar to every American. It may be said that the whole civilized world knows and loves it. At that time it was clean-shaven and looked even more haggard and careworn than later, when it was framed in whiskers.

On his head he wore a somewhat battered "stovepipe hat." His neck emerged, long and sinewy, from a white collar turned down over a thin black necktie. His lank, ungainly body was clad in a rusty black frock coat with sleeves that should have been longer; but his arms appeared so long that the sleeves of a "store" coat could hardly have been expected to cover them all the way down to the wrists. His black trousers, too, permitted a very full view of his large feet. On his left arm he carried a gray woolen shawl, which evidently served him for an overcoat in chilly weather. His left hand held a cotton umbrella of the bulging kind, and also a black satchel that bore the marks of long and hard usage. His right he had kept free for handshaking, of which there was no end until everybody in the car seemed to be satisfied. I had seen, in Washington and in the West, several public men of rough appearance, but none whose looks seemed quite so uncouth, not to say grotesque, as Lincoln's.—[Carl Schurz, in McClure's.

BIG MONEY FOR BOOKS.

"I shall begin the New Year by starting a popular novel," said a young poet at the Franklin Inn.

He tugged angrily at his collar, where its frayed edge had made his neck red and sore.

"No more of this art for art's sake for me," he bitterly pursued. "Three dollars for a chant royal that it took me a month to write. Seventy-five cents for a pantoum that I worked eight days on. A measly V for a batch of fourteen sonnets, lyrics, villanelles, rondeaus, and triolets, the labor of seven weeks.

"Compare with that remuneration these figures:

"Mrs. Humphrey Ward got for 'Helbeck of Bannisdale'—the name's enough—$75,000. Barrie got for 'The Little Minister,' book and play, $250,000. Hall Caine got for the book and play of 'The Christian $150,000. Mrs. Grant was paid for her husband's autobiography $350,000. Nansen got $50,000 for his 'Farthest North.' Sir Walter Scott got $90,000 for his 'Life of Napoleon.' Ruskin, for 'Modern Painters,' got $50,000."

He tugged at his collar again.

"And they're all rotten, all but the Grant," he said.

"On the contrary; if I am correctly informed, his new charge is one of the old-fashioned, destitutional churches."—[Puck.

MONEY FROM NUTS.

The Los Nietros and Ranchito Walnut Growers' Association shipped almost 3,000,000 pounds of nuts during the season just closed, which brought to the 320 members of the concern the sum of $291,808.

Pathological Work.

IN another column will be found an article written by Prof. Ralph E. Smith, giving some account of the work proposed to be done at the Riverside citrus experiment station and at the Whittier pathological station. Both these institutions are under one management, and both should soon be heard from in the investigations they shall undertake. The Whittier institution will investigate vegetable diseases as well as those of fruits, and producers from all over the south should carry their troubles to the experts for examination. The Riverside people are already taking advantage of the clause in the law establishing these stations providing for the growers' taking the initiative in suggesting lines of investigation to be followed. A conference has been called to meet at Riverside on the 22nd, 23rd and 24th of January to determine the character of the investigations to be made and to help generally in starting the work of the experiment station.

Horticultural Ordinances.

A HORTICULTURAL officer from a northern county asks the question of the editor: "I would like to know if the Los Angeles county ordinance has ever been passed on by the courts." This refers no doubt to the famous ordinance No. 42, passed by the Supervisors in July, 1901, in which the importation of Florida plants and vines from north of the Tehachepi is prohibited. No one has so far questioned the legality of this measure, unless it were the Attorney-General of the State, whose recent opinion upon another ordinance seemed adverse to all legislation by the Supervisors of the State upon horticultural quarantine. Ordinance No. 42 was drawn by Deputy District Attorney Wilbur, now a Superior Judge, who was sure of its constitutionality, and said he had written it so carefully that he would not fear to defend it in any court of the State.

However, if the nurserymen doing business in the State refuse to obey these ordinances, or the enactments should be declared void, there is an unwritten law, that of publicity, which could be applied with force. The Los Angeles ordinance applies only to the bringing into the county of grapevines and cuttings from the quarantined counties. The northern nurserymen sell an immense lot of stuff in the south, and it is idle to think they would jeopardize the sale of stock that really counts, for the sake of disposing of a few grapevines. For one of these men to send down vines against the wishes of his customers would queer his trade throughout the south. Publicity of this class is not relished by the good nurserymen, and the tree planters should do no business with the other class under any circumstances.

Citrus Nursery Stock.

THE January queries are coming in rapidly this year. Intelligent questions are of great assistance in running a department of this kind. They not only acquaint the editor with the trend of thought among the fruit men, but they often bring out suggestions and sometimes information of value to others. For instance, one orchardist asks why he should pay the outrageous price of $1.00 per tree for orange stock. The answer is obvious. Because the trees are worth the price. The duty to himself of a proposed planter is something like this: Do not pay $1.00 per tree if it can be had from some other party for 75 cents. Fix the quality of the tree first and let it be prime. Have no other, even if you have to wait another year. You lose nothing by the delay. Then see the difference in trees that would all be called first class. It is a great difference sometimes. Take the best dollar tree offered, and get it for 75 cents if you can. "As the twig is bent the tree's inclined" should be read from the nursery, "as the tree is sent the orchard's defined."

As to the price of orange stock this season I am not the nurseryman's agent. In fact some of the nurserymen of the State think I am in league against them. But I tell the growers that the man who produces an orange tree of good body upon a three-year-old root true to name and of a perfect strain is a benefactor to the planter, and deserves pay for the tree in proportion to the skill, care and honesty he used in its production. He will not run the risk of holding it over another year by tacking on an exorbitant price this winter. Get the best, in the best and cheapest way, but remember that a few extra dollars in initial cost often produces hundreds in the equality of your grove, in its actual progress and its future worth.

Orange Markings.

A TULARE COUNTY orange grower sends the following statement concerning a peculiar appearance of his oranges the present season: "About 25 per cent. of the fruit is marked by a circle near the blossom end. It is usually a perfect zone or band of gray-colored rind, and does not become yellow with the other portion of the rind in ripening. The trouble seems to affect the quality of the fruit but little, yet it throws the oranges affected down one grade in merchantable quality. The trouble occurs in a uniform position, near the blossom end." It is caused by frost. The rusty band, so uniform in breadth and position is caused by the frost's lifting its cuticle and separating it from the fruit. Just about the time these oranges "set" a circle of water or moisture formed upon it, necessarily in the same position on each fruit on account of the presence of the floral covering. This band of moisture congeals, lifts or destroys the cuticle, and the damage is done. This appearance is very common in apples and pears. It does not in any case prevent the almost perfect development of the fruit, but the affected band can never assume the proper color. The Tulare incident presents an interesting study in plant pathology. I have never seen oranges affected in this way in this portion of the State, perhaps because the moisture conditions never make it possible, or the fact that we rarely if ever have any frost at orange-setting time. It is a "brand" of oranges that can easily be left out. It may not occur again for years in the northern orchard from which the specimens in hand are taken.

The Gum Tree Trade.

THOSE who expect to plant a forest of eucalyptus trees this spring should bestir themselves before the stock of "flats" is exhausted. One nurseryman told me a few days ago that a Tulare man came to his place recently and bought a carload of globulus seedlings. When he applied for railroad rates he decided that the charges were prohibitive, and the order was canceled. This relieved the local demand somewhat, but the stock has since been reduced to a few dozen boxes. I learn that one of my farmer friends is planting 100 acres of blue gum every year. He will be the "fuel king" of Southern California yet if the present famine keeps on till these saplings are ready to be turned into firewood. A company has been formed to plant a co-operative wood lot of a few hundred acres in Orange county to dispute the title of the Los Angeles county wood barons. But this is for the future. Let the present wood famine take care of all our earnings if it can.

A horticultural writer—friend of mine on the off side of Broadway—has received a request from a large eastern wagon factory to quote at once on twenty-five pieces of eucalyptus dimension stuff and ten pieces of dimension stuffs from five species of this family and from different ages of tree. The way wood is selling, even a Studebaker would hesitate in making a small order of eucalyptus stuff unless it were to be used for veneering. It is encouraging to the wood-lot man to know that blue gum is so high, and that no matter how high the tree may grow prices have soared in sympathy. I have seen a blue gum grow eighty-five feet high fifteen years from the seed. It is a strange paradox that this tree cut and corded is "higher" now than when towering to the skies and stealing nourishment from a neighbor's farm.

The Saint of the Sandwiches.

I HAVE just received the second report of the Board of Commissioners of Agriculture and Forestry, Territory of Hawaii. It is a most interesting document in itself, and then it contains much of the handiwork of our own Alexander Craw, who is now Superintendent of Entomology and Inspector for the Territory. The book is a fine typographical production of 240 pages and numerously illustrated. Mr. Craw's report upon the insect life of the islands together with that of his assistant forms a very instructive chapter and is written with lucidity and completeness. In one chapter Mr. Craw gives an account of his experience in playing Saint Patrick, with a full-page photograph of fourteen dead snakes measured and hung on a line to dry. The Hawaiian Islands are as free from serpents as the Emerald Isle, and when Mr. Craw discovered a box of live reptiles from California, he first called a friend to verify that he was seeing real snakes, and then became busy with the cyanide can. There were four rattlers, and the largest of the lot measured six feet in length. They looked like ship cables to the natives who had never seen a snake.

"I placed the box of snakes in one of our fumigating chambers," says Mr. Craw," and applied a charge of double density of hydrocyanic acid gas, and the snakes were still alive at the end of fifteen minutes, whereas, if they had been warmblooded animals they would have succumbed in a less number of seconds. They were again shut up and a quadruple charge of the deadly gas was administered and at the end of an hour and a half the fumigator was opened and several of the snakes still showed signs of life. We then immersed them in 95 per cent. alcohol, and that soon put an end to their venomous existence. A fitting death, as the same liquid—in a modified form—is considered an antidote to their deadly bite."

Mr. Craw seems as fearless as of old in doing his duty, having burned 2950 cases of Japanese and Chinese citrus fruits the two last months of the old year, besides numerous shipments of infected nursery stock from the Orient. He reports that the Postmaster-General of the United States has favorably considered the request of the postmaster of Honolulu allowing Mr. Craw access to plants sent by mail. This will be news to the horticultural authorities of California who met with nothing but discouragement when presenting a similar request to the authorities at Washington.

The Kuro Siwo.

"A FEW more rainy weeks like this, and the Owens River scheme will get a black eye." I heard this remark a few mornings since from a good friend of the big water proposition and a very intelligent man. But at this moment his intelligence was not working. The Southern California Experiment Station.

THE action of the last Legislature in establishing for Southern California a permanent headquarters for agricultural investigation in that portion of the State, was received with much satisfaction by the interested public. While nominally the experiment station at Berkeley is designed for all portions of the State alike, and in practice the officers of that institution have ever striven to distribute their efforts to the best advantage over the whole State, yet it has been recognized by all that the distance from headquarters is so great, and conditions and problems so different in the southern end of the State, that any investigation of a serious, extended and complex nature could be carried on only under the greatest disadvantage under these circumstances. The horticultural problems of Southern California are, largely, peculiarly those of no other section of the world. They cannot be met by simple demonstration or rehearsing of facts learned in other places, or by the advice of one who has learned his facts elsewhere, however great his experience. The greatest problems, the greatest obstacles of horticulture in Southern California today are those that can be successfully met only by local, intensive, closely-applied investigation of a permanently established nature.

The promoters of the Southern branch station attempted, conservatively and with wisdom, to provide for this need by establishing facilities in the southern part of the State which would allow the State experiment station at the University of California to develop and improve its activities in that section. They conceived the particular needs of their region to be, as a beginning, investigation in plant pathology, and in the various features of cultural practice such as affect the quality, quantity and commercial value of crops. In this their effort was well directed and their judgment good, since in these lines especially is thorough, competent and continuous investigation needed in Southern California.

Assembly Bill 552 of the last Legislature provided for the "Establishment and maintenance of a pathological laboratory for the investigation of tree and plant diseases and pests," "with the necessary grounds and buildings," and "equipped with the materials and appliances necessary," etc., etc. Also for a "branch agricultural experiment station" "for the purpose of carrying on experimental and investigational work in connection with the agricultural experiment work of the University of California in ascertaining the best methods of horticultural management; for the investigation of fertilization; for the investigation of irrigation; for improving the methods of handling fruit for market; for the introduction of new varieties of fruits and for such other investigations as may be deemed advisable to promote the horticultural interests of said district." A commission, consisting of the Governor of the State, the president of the University of California, and the professor of agricultural practice of the University of California was named to locate these institutions within the seven southern counties of the State. With the rivalry of various and numerous sections to become the home of these institutions, and a desire for a wise choice on the part of the commission, together with the difficulty of getting together such a commission in a distant part of the State, the final choice of location was necessarily somewhat slow, and the occurrence of the San Francisco disaster still further delayed progress. The matter was finally settled during the summer of 1906, after several visits to Southern California by the commission, both as a whole and individually. The members of the commission seemed agreed on the undesirability of founding two separate institutions under this act, and accordingly established a single one with simply a geographical division for the convenience of the work. An offer of land at Riverside was accepted for a citrus cultural branch, and one at Whittier for a pathological laboratory, the two forming organically in every respect a single institution, under one head, with facilities for work in two places where the investigations to be undertaken could be carried on most advantageously. At Riverside the commission could scarcely refuse or fail to see the advantage of the magnificent offer made to the State from that enterprising citrus center for founding an institution for permanent research into the cultural problems and conditions affecting citrus growth. For such a purpose the opportunities afforded there are ideal. On the other hand, it was recognized that for a study of the diseases and growth conditions of crops other than citrus and for the general consideration of the many soil products of Southern California, the work would necessarily be done mostly in the coastward regions where the culture of such products is chiefly located. It is very clear that investigations relating to walnuts, berries, vegetables, floral products, etc., must always have their seat in those portions of the territory where such crops are particularly at home, and must be provided with some sort of local headquarters for their accommodation for the best results. It therefore appears to have been the decision of the commission that such a condition must be met in as practical a manner as possible, and they accepted the offer of citizens of Whittier of a location for a pathological laboratory, to form in connection with the Riverside branch the Southern California Branch Experiment Station.

An account of the naturem, location, facilities, progress and plans of the two branches may be of interest. At Riverside the commission was offered a choice of a number of locations, and chose a tract of about 17½ acres situated just southwest of the center of the city, on the southeast slope of the base of Rubidoux Heights. By a subsequent arrangement the area was increased to about twenty acres, and several desirable buildings added to the equipment. This land adjoins and is partially surrounded by the Rubidoux Heights Tract, which includes the mountain itself and is being improved and beautified and a scenic drive being built to the summit, by the Huntington Park Association, an organization composed of prominent citizens of Riverside to whom the State is indebted for the experiment station land. The land is largely of most excellent citrus quality, but with a desirable variation, making possible experiments under a variety of conditions. Irrigation arrangements are at hand, and the location is desirable, accessible, well adapted and in every way unusually acceptable for its purpose.

The most important practical consideration in connection with this "citrus culture station," is, naturally, What is to be done with it? What will be its lines of work? It's objects, and its methods? This can be answered only briefly in this place. The object of the station will be to assist in the general improvement of the citrus industry in every possible way, with the hope of mainteaining an increasing production of better fruit. The keynote of success in this industry is quality. Quantity in itself has its limitations in bringing success, but there is no limit to the profitable production of quantity of quality. The production of high-grade fruit has many factors. Some of these are well understood and in general practice, others are partially so, and still others are yet to be demonstrated. The work of the citrus experiment station must necessarily be slow, patient, and barren of many striking, brilliant results. The public should appreciate this, and not become impatient so long as the work is prosecuted vigorously, intelligently, and with well-judged objects and competent methods. At present the ground has been prepared for planting, irrigation facilities installed, and all made ready for active work. Assistants are on the ground and the field is being carefuly looked over for a judicious beginning of work. Among the problems which most prominently suggest themselves are following: The use and effect of fertilizers and cover crops. The improvement of varieties by bud selection. The value and adaptability of the various kinds of root stock for the different citrus fruits in different sections and under various conditions. The study of citrus troubles and diseases. Nature of the soil as affecting citrus production and quality. These are some of the subjects which will receive early attention, but the suggestions of practical citrus growers and the condition of the industry will ever receive most careful attention. It must never be supposed that the work will be confined to the station grounds proper or to its immediate vicinity. This is an institution for the citrus industry of California; and will be managed as such. The station itself must be merely the headquarters of its work and influence. Such orchard, nursery, and seed bed plantings will be made during the coming season as seem wise and the work prosecuted vigorously in every direction.

At Whittier pathological work by the University of California was already going on before the location of the laboratory there. The department of plant pathology had located at that place two important investigations, that of the walnut blight, called forth by a bill introduced by Hon. P. A. Stanton of Los Angeles, which passed the last Legislature, and on the brown rot of lemons, fostered by the "Lemon Men's Club" of Southern California. This work was going on under facilities furnished by the Whittier Board of Trade, and was entirely distinct from the official laboratory location. For the latter an acre of land near the center of the city was offered as a donation to the State, on an excellent and valuable site, and arrangements also made for the use of land at the State Reform School for experimental purposes. Upon the acceptance of this offer plans were begun for a suitable laboratory building, which is about to be erected. The work of pathological investigation is well under way and established. The walnut blight investigation has been diligently prosecuted, and is still being continued. An experimental orchard of the various walnut varieties is being planted, spraying demonstrations and extended laboratory studies have been carried on, and arrangements have been made with one of the largest walnut growers in the south for quite extensive work on fertilization of walnut orchards, spraying demonstrations and other field practice. The lemonrot problem has been met with marked success, and considerable work is now going on concerning various phases of lemon culture and handling. Diseases of vegetables have received attention, and citrus pathological problems are geing gone into. The field is great for this work in Southern California.

The assistants employed at the two branches are working interchangeably, the entire work is under one direction, and it is now proposed to appoint an advisory board, composed of men prominent in Southern California horticulture, to assist in laying out and continuing the policy of the Southern California branch experiment station for the best interests of that portion of the State which it is intended to serve.

PROFITABLE PRODUCTS.

People who think Southern California depends upon tourists and citrus fruits for its income, had better sit up and take notice that over 5,000,000 pounds of butter, 750,000 pounds of cheese, 70,000 cases of eggs, 3150 carloads of vegetables and 30,000,000 barrels of oil are a few of the products of this land flowing with the milk and honey of everything that grows on the green earth.

Practical Preparations for Matrimony.

IT is somewhat encouraging to note that there is a tendency all over the world to hark back to a little more common sense in the mating of young people—in the choosing of life partners. Just so long as a young man and woman—sometimes little more than a boy and a girl—make up their minds to get spliced, simply because they have experienced for each other a little of the sexual feeling of healthy young folks, just so long will there continue to be plenty of work for the divorce courts.

The trouble is that a great majority of the young women who marry nowadays have but a faint conception of the duties of keeping house and raising children. Even if a woman is in a position to employ a cook, and a housemaid, and a nursery governess, she should herself understand what is necessary, or else she will be incompetent to give proper instructions to her subordinates.

The crying need for instruction in the care of infants is shown by the awful story of infant mortality, not only in this, but in all "civilized" countries—the massacre of the innocents. Listen to this, from an exchange:

"In one summer there were 52,837 infant's deaths in the large towns of England, the rate being 275 in 1000 for the same period.

"Germany has a record which is as astounding for that domestic country, where all young women are supposedly learned in the domestic arts. Two million children are born in one year, and yet as many as 400,000 die before one year old, making the rate for the German empire 200 to the thousand. In pretty Munich, where it would seem that conditions are favorable for public hygiene, the death rate has been as high as 419, an average of 324 in 1000.

"Our own country makes little better record, for in the District of Columbia the rate in 1900 was over 275, other States being a little lower, but still too high. In Massachusetts, eight cities averaged 186 to 304, and New York was about 159, almost all the New England States being higher

"From various British reports it is learned that improper feeding is the prime cause of the great mortality among infants under one year of age, and in a German record of investigation the statement is made that of the 4075 deaths of infants which occurred in Munich in the year 1903, 3395 were bottle fed, which would show conclusively that artificial feeding has its very serious side, largely because of the 'unclean' milk given."

Remember, that nearly all these deaths were preventable, and therefore unnecessary.

The editor recently suggested that it would be a good plan to require every young woman, before receiving a marriage certificate, to pass a simple examination on the care of infants. Such a provision would, undoubtedly, do much to lessen the fearful death rate of children, under five years of age. In France—the country where we are so often told "they do things better"—they have not gone quite so far as this, but the government does present each newly-wedded pair with a little book, containing blank spaces for future births, marriages and deaths, and six pages devoted to special instructions, prepared by the Academy of Medicine, on the care of young children. A good idea.

Again, a recent dispatch from Chicago announced that diplomas certifying that the recipients are qualified "to keep house for husbands," receiving $10 a week, were given to several young women at Chicago Commons. The graduates, all of whom are to be married soon, were members of a class in economical housekeeping and cooking. The economical graduates offered theses in the way of exhibits of breakfasts, luncheons and dinners that were attractive, had cost little and were palatable. Each display bore a card indicating its cost. A breakfast was shown that was prepared at an expense of 19 cents and would suffice for four persons. Dinners ranged somewhat more expensive, one consisting of meat, two vegetables, a salad and a pudding for four being rated at 40 cents.

In Pennsylvania is a "school for brides-elect," where, according to a recent newspaper report, there are 300 pupils. They are taught, among other things, superintending the week's wash, ironing, shirt-making, cooking, training servants, house cleaning, buying a trousseau, plain sewing, receiving guests, arranging furniture, marketing, and even how to make a cocktail, so as to keep the husband away from that wicked club.

Here is another recent dispatch, from Cleveland:

"Superintendent Elson and Assistant Superintendent Hicks have planned a technical high school, at which girls will be prepared to become good housewives. The instructions will be thorough and in charge of women who have been successful as wives and mothers. The pupils will be taught to sweep, to cook, to economize in household expenditures, to make their own clothes, to take care of babies and to nurse their husbands when they come home sick from the office. There will be real babies 'to practice on.'"

In England, also, this important question has begun to attract much attention. A recent letter from the British metropolis says:

"The idea of the founders of the scheme is that as soon as a man and woman become engaged they shall enroll in a training school, where the women can attend day classes six days a week and the man attend night classes three nights a week.

"The women will be taught sewing, cooking, hygiene, house cleaning and the bringing up of children. The lessons in motherhood are to be of the most thorough description. If the bishop's scheme has a successful conclusion, English girls after they become engaged and before they are married will know much more than the ordinary wife at present does.

"Engaged men in the Ripon schools are to be taught household economics and how to invest their money in their homes to the best advantage. They are to be given just enough instruction in the work of a house mistress to allow them to comprehend the difficult nature of their wives' work. They are also to be shown how to regulate their own personal accounts so as to be able to put in the bank a little money each week. How a man can keep in good health by doing little jobs about the house, such as gardening, will be taught, and the necessity for an occasional change of scene for their wives will be impressed on the men scholars.

"They will be instructed in the best way of educating their children.

"These are the chief subjects that appear in the Ripon curriculum at present, but if the scheme develops there will be post-graduate classes that can be attended by married couples."

These are practical methods of lessening the divorce evil, and will avail more than thousands of prosy pulpit harangues, or miles of leaded editorials. At the same time, it is particularly advisable for girls to take up the study of housework, just now, even if they don't expect to get married, as there seems to be something of a revolution against the employment of women in clerical positions.

Grape Juice.

ANOTHER sample of grape juice has been sent to the editor. This is known as El Verde, and is put up by Louise Cary Smith of Pomona. It has been on the market for a number of years. The juice is very clear and thoroughly sterilized. It obtained a gold medal at the Portland Exposition.

The demand for grape juice is steadily increasing. The great obstacle in the way of a further extension of the consumption lies in the fact that it is expensive, so that, whereas, a fair grade of claret may be purchased for 50 cents a gallon, grape juice costs 50 cents a bottle. The reason lies in the fact that much more care and labor is required in making a good quality of unfermented grape juice, that will keep, than there is in making an ordinary dry wine. It more nearly approaches to the labor involved in making a champagne.

The El Verde juice is put up in two varieties "Zinfandel" and "Muscatel." The latter is made from three varieties of grapes, two white varieties of a more acid flavor being added, to reduce the sweetness of the muscats.

As previously observed, those using grape juice should remember that, like milk, it is not a drink, but a food. It should therefore be sipped slowly, and chewed, as it were. Otherwise, it will certainly ferment in the stomach, and cause gastric disturbances. There is really no excuse for using a fruit juice, when the fruit itself is in the market. But there are times of year, and places, where such a pure fruit juice comes in very handy. The best way to take it is mixed with about two-thirds of carbonated water—not seltzer water, but distilled water in siphons. It may also be used as a sauce with dessert.

Gluttony.

THE following dispatch from Trenton, N. J., appeared in the papers, on the last day of the year:

"Former President Grover Cleveland, who has been seriously ill for a week at his home in Princeton, was unimproved today. His physician, Dr John N. Carnochan, however, entertains hopes for his patient's recovery within a week or so if no further unfavorable symptoms develop.

"Mr. Cleveland suffered from a severe form of indigestion, which attacked him last Saturday night a week ago, after a visit to New York, where he had been a member of a dinner party the previous night."

This item brings forth the following communication from Channing Severance:

"There is but one cause for this distressing complaint—overeating. Twice within a short time the world at large has been informed by the public press that the only living ex-President of the United States was afflicted with serious indigestion, and we are given the cause for it in the last attack. of the paper, a physician that the high typhoid fever rate is due not so much to drinking water, or milk, but to the use of vegetables irrigated with sewage, an evil which the health offi cehas fought, but has been unable to abolish, as the oBard of Public Works is responsible in leasing the sewage right to unresponsible parties. The board should immediately revoke such permits. Meantime, sensible people will refuse to eat—vegetables—especially salad plants—unless they are assured that such plants have not been irrigated with sewage. And, by the way, why is it that we cannot have septic tanks, and purify sewage, so that the water may be safely used, and not wasted?

Dr. Kress says further:

"It seems astonishing also that there should be twice as much alcoholism mortality here as in the registration area. We certainly as a city, do not consume twice as much alcohol as cities of like size, and I cannot account for the excessive rate."

There is nothing astonishing about this. It is due to the fact that one may not, with impunity, consume anything like so large an amount of alcohol in a mild climate, like California, as one may in colder regions without disastrous results. And in the same way, people cannot, as the editor has said, with impunity, take in nearly so much fuel here as in colder regions. This, again, is the cause of much sickness among new arrivals from less genial climes.

Sunshine for Bald Heads.

A DISPATCH from Chicago announces that the sun cure is sure to be the next great fad, recalling the "blue glass" and the Kniepp "dew bath" crazes. It is now gleefully announced by the faddists that hot sunshine has put hair on a bald head which had a twenty-year record of perfect baldness. The scalp blistered and peeled, and then came the growth of soft brown locks.

It may be modestly suggested that sunshine, like fresh air, is not an entirely new discovery. Sunshine is exceedingly important and beneficial, and every one should endeavor to have it fall on his skin daily. It should also be admitted freely into every room, every day. That is to say, unless you value your carpets and couch covers more than your health and that of those who are dear to you. In that case, you are a very foolish and shortsighted man, or woman.

On the other hand, don't overdo exposure to the sunshine, in a semi-tropical climate like that of Southern California—especially on bald heads. Above all, protect the thin skull of delicate infants from direct exposure to the rays of the sun.

Heredity

FOLLOWING is an extract from an article on the law of heredity, by Dr. Louis Elkind, in the North American Review. It will be noted that Elkind's views in regard to heredity and disease are in line with those expressed in these columns:

"Diseases, as such, whether inborn or acquired, are never transmitted. In the case of inborn affections, the predisposition to the malady—but not the malady itself—is transmitted from parent to offspring. But the practical-minded person is very apt to ask what difference there is between the transmissibility of predisposition and the transmissibility of the disease itself, should the latter eventually develop in the offspring. The importance of this question can be shown without difficulty. In the case of tuberculosis, which until recently was generally regarded as an inherited disease, the latest scientific investigations have proved beyond doubt that it is not the germ itself that is inherited but the predisposition to the disease. The importance of this discovery must be obvious, for, when there is predisposition only, there is the possibility of every care being taken to avoid all the injurious elements which might favor or give rise to the development of the disease. The children, therefore, of consumptive parents have thus a very good chance of remaining free from any ill effects. Tubereulosis is so widely spread and terrible a scourge as to suggest that it must in itself be hereditary, and it is, therefore, a long step in the right direction to learn that this is not actually the case, for it helps greatly to a better understanding of the means taken to suppress it.

"Acquired external defects or multilations of any kind are, as a rule, not transmitted.

"As regards acquired patholical disarrangements of internal organs, there is some probability—judging at least from the results which have recently been obtained from certain experiments and operations on the nervous system—of their being transmitted from parent to offspring, but under special circumstances, that is to say, if these internal lesions have caused the parent great suffering and called for much endurance."

To the above it might be added by the doctor that it is as absurd to claim there is nothing in heredity as it is to assert that diseases are directly inherited from ancestors. If the first statement were true, there would be no such thing as family likenesses, while, if the second statement were true, the human race would have been wiped off the earth thousands of years ago.

A striking and interesting sidelight on the law of heredity is furnished by a fact to which an English writer calls attention, namely, that no migratory birds cross deep, even narrow seas. This is explained by the fact that, thousands or hundreds of thousands of years ago, these shallow seas were dry land, and that the birds of today still retain the habit of flying over those localities that their remote ancestors once traversed.

A Forced Fast.

ALL the country was recently talking about the remarkable adventure of a miner who was imprisoned in a living tomb, in Kern county, for sixteen days. It is considered wonderful that he survived. Had he died it would not have been for lack of food. He was without food for only a few days, when he was supplied with milk through a pipe. One account says two gallons a day, but that must surely be an error, for it is more than twice as much as would be necessary to maintain health and strength in a big man, doing hard physical labor.

Men and women have fasted, with benefit to themselves, for forty or fifty days, and even longer periods. When people die of starvation it is the worry that kills, not the lack of food—such, for instance, as the worry of shipwrecked sailors, and of men imprisoned in a mine. In the latter case foul air may add to the damage done.

The imprisoned miner referred to, Lindsey B. Hicks, showed remarkable grit. It is interesting to note, according to one report, that he has Indian blood in his veins which may account in some measure for the stamina he displayed.

A "Sweet Morsel.

WHEN Hicks—the miner who was imprisoned for sixteen days without food, except some milk, in a shaft in Kern county—was reached by his rescuers, one of the first things passed to him was a plug of tobacco. With the first chew he said he had never tasted a sweeter morsel in his life.

Think of a man referring to the bitter weed as "a sweet morsel." The craving for nicotine is one of the strongest appetites in man, when it is once acquired. It is the first and last thing called for by wounded soldiers, lying in trenches, and suffering the tortures of the damned. As a rule, however, after absence from food for two weeks—or taking only such bland food as milk—the appetite for tobacco ceases or greatly diminishes.

Bee Stings for Rhumatism.

MESSRS. PARKE, DAVIES & CO., wholesale drug manufacturers of Detroit, write to The Times as follows:

"Our attention has been directed to a circular respecting the 'Bee Sting Remedy' for rheumatism, which one Dr. Hammond is circulating in California. In it he says: 'I procured 100,000 bee stings and sent them to Parke, Davis & Co., Detroit, Mich., had them put up in tablet form and have tested them in hundreds of cases without a single failure.' The doctor is not warranted in making any statement of this kind. We write you because we observe that upon the back of the circular he quotes from your paper, without date, as follows:

" 'Dr. John Hammond of this city has just destroyed forty hives of bees, pulling out their stingers, sending them to an eastern chemist to be put up in tablet form. This is the discovery of Prof. Loeb, and has proved a perfect cure for all kinds of rheumatism, gout, neuralgia and other pains. We believe Dr. Hammond is the first doctor in California to procure this remedy.'

"Kindly advise us what you know of the doctor. It is, of course, possible that the paragraph he quotes as being clipped from your paper was never published in it."

The Times is not responsible for the stories told by fakers, though their very absurdity may occasionally make them worth printing. The idea of taking bee stings internally for rheumatism is folly. No preparation will cure rheumatism so long as you continue to absorb—or manufacture—uric acid.

Bee stings may perhaps temporarily relieve rheumatism, just like any other counter-irritant, but cure it—never.

Tainted Flesh.

THE Los Angeles Board of Health has recommended to the Council the passage of an ordinance penalizing the sale of meat that does not bear the stamp of government or municipal inspection. For years Health Officer Powers has been seeking to secure such legislation. It is said that some of the tales of horror his inspectors unfold would make good advertising matter for a vegetarian restaurant.

Well, if people exercise less care in feeding themselves than in feeding their hogs, they deserve little sympathy when they suffer. It is the children who are to be pitied.

Diet and Climate.

IT is not surprising that many eastern people, who come to Southern California in winter get sick soon after their arrival. They bring their cold weather appetites with them, and keep up New England fare, until nature rebukes them and they have to go to bed. This is about as sensible as it would be for a man, on the Fourth of July, to light a big fire and sit in front of it attired in a fur overcoat.

A sensible man will adapt his food to the climate, just as he does his clothing, avoiding as much as possible heat-producing foods in warm weather. A man may eat pork twice a day, for many years, in Minnesota or New England and survive, but he can't in Southern California.

Appendicitis.

A LOS ANGELES physician, young in years, but credited with much surgical ability, was recently granted a fee of $2000, by a Los Angeles judge, to be paid from the estate of a woman upon whom the physician operated for appendicitis, in September last. It was a "beautiful operation," a "successful operation." Unfortunately, however, on the following day the woman died. While not going quite so far as they do in China, where, when a wealthy and influential patient dies, they sometimes cut off the head of the doctor, and place it among the assets of the deceased, it would certainly, as the editor has previously observed, be an excellent idea if we could introduce the Chinese custom of paying doctors to keep people well, not to keep them sick. In that case, we should not hear of so many cases of the prevailing medical fad appendicitis.

During the trial of the above mentioned case, physicians testified that $2500 was not an excessive fee for cutting out this little appendage of the human body. No wonder they do all they can to keep the appendicitis superstition alive, although the operation so frequently results in death. The practice is kept alive for the immense revenue it brings, and this in spite of the fact that eminent physicians and surgeons have of late spoken out emphatically against the practice. One of them recently said: "No human care or skill can eliminate the fearful risk of such interference with the natural limiting barriers of this disease."

We shall never know how many people have been sacrificed on the altar of appendicitis surgery, for the doctors have a convenient way of claiming that, if a patient recovers, they have cured him, whereas, if he dies, he would have died anyhow—it was an "act of God." This we do know, however, that in a great number of cases, where an operation has been performed for appendicitis, it was found that the disease was not there.

The appendix is not, as a majority of the doctors claim, a superfluous portion of the human body. There are no superfluous portions of the human body. The object of the appendix is believed to be to lubricate the bowel, with a substance which it secretes. It is the general testimony that though a seeming return to health and great improvement are often noticed after any operation—probably owing to the enforced rest and careful diet—the patient is usually never good for much afterward, and rarely lives ten years; precious juices have been wasted and the organs that supply them destroyed.

A leading physician of the Pacific Coast has said:

"It is nonsense to contend that the appendix is the cause of the abscesses, for they can be found in any part of the intestines after its removal. That operation is positively illogical. It only complicates the case and greatly increases the risk of life and recovery."

When Sir Thomas Lipton last arrived in New York, just before the yacht race, he was taken down with the dreaded scourge. A consultation was arranged, in which a distinguished surgeon made a most extraordinary proposition:

"He must not lose that race! There is no time to operate—we must cure him without operating."

A warm concoction of equal parts of milk and molasses, three pints in quantity, injected by means of a syringe and long flexible rubber tube. The treatment comes from Sir Andrew Clark, one of the leading London surgeons, who is foolish enough to give it away, and says that in nine cases out of ten it will obviate the need of operation.

Sir Thomas was on deck all right. "There was no time to operate, so they let him get well."

This treatment is much better than an operation, but it is not so effective as the simple treatment frequently advocated in this department, namely, frequent injections of tepid water into the bowels, hot cloths on the abdomen, frequently changed, and a tablespoonful of olive oil every half hour, until there is improvement. To make it palatable, the oil may be well mixed with a little tomato juice, or lemon juice. Oil may also, with advantage, be added to the water injected. There should be absolute abstinence from food, the only thing taken, besides the oil, being a little soft water, with lemon juice, sufficient to quench thirst.

As Sir Andrew Clark has said, such a treatment as this will cure in nine cases out of ten. He might have said in nineteen cases out of twenty, whereas, on the other hand, the mortality from operations is exceedingly large. Yet, the doctors insist on this profitable operation, and will doubtless continue to do so, until people absolutely refuse to submit to the butchery.
